AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

The auction opened this week with liberal receipts in all departments and our local and out of town buyers all present. There were more young cattle and dairy cows in the offering than for several weeks. Hogs counted slightly higher than last week with a few less veals and slaughter cows on sale. Hogs weighing from 175 to 220, $5.15 to $5.35 which was from 5 to 15c above competitive markets. Fat sows $4.05 down. Stags, $3.50 down. Our heavy slaughter hogs and fat sows are selling well above general market prices. There were a few less veals on sale this week and the quality was noticeably lower. The best in the offering sold from $11.00 to $11.70. Thin, light calves are in good demand at strong prices. Butcher steers and heifers of common quality, $7.00 to $7.40. Fat cows, $4.25 to $4.65. These prices were paid for common quality slaughter cows.

NEWVILLE

South Africa is threatened with a serions locust plague.

The Walter family moved last week from the Seely farm to the Freeburn farm.

James Ricket is still in the Auburn hospital and very ill, although improvement is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weaner have recently moved from Hickvsille to their farm north of Newville.

Rev. Givens was numbered with the sick last week and was unable to attend the mid-year session of the conference at Warsaw.

The evangelistic meeting at Mt. Pleasant begun Sunday evening. Mr. Harry Hendershot is assisting with the music. All are cordially invited.

Allen Haller, Jr., had a painful accident Sunday afternoon. He fell on a willow snag and the sharp wood pierced his cheek. Medical attention was necessary and two stitches were required to close the wound.

The Rural Free Chautauqua Comcittee has booked Rev. Edna B. Hughes, of Columbus, Ohio, for the last Sunday of the session of 1940, the date being August 18. Mrs. Hughes is an outstanding evangelist, a pleasing personality and is certain to have a fruitful ministry in our community. Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Richer, who have been at the head of the music for many years are to hold that position again this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shaffer spent Saturday in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baker were entertained at the Allen Haller home Sunday.

A large number from here attended the roller skating party at Sherwood, Friady evening.

An election of officers for Evergreen and Riverview Cemeteries will be held at the U. B. Church at 2 P. M., March 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Myers, of Garrett, and Mr. and Mrs. Ora Inhofe from Butler, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Wyatt.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Wyatt accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Manford Smith and daughter, Lucille, to Fort Wayne, Thursday, where Lucille underwent an operation, at the St. Joseph Hospital.

You Can Get More Money Raising QUALITY CHICKS!

THE POULTRYMAN who wisely purchases our quality baby chicks will find that he has, indeed, purchased wisely. These chicks are from the best egg strains in each variety, and each year we add new blood from the best breeders to improve the vigor and egg ability in the selection of our breeding birds.

While we make high production of puality eggs absolutely essential, large size, standard pualities and vigor are also given careful attention in the selection of our breeding birds.

YOU WILL frequently find two hens side by side with absolutely the same feed and care, one of which may lay 200 or more eggs in the year and the other 50 eggs. What causes this difference in egg yield? It is simply that one came from prepotent, heavy laying ancestry and the other did not! Take most of the guess work out of poultry raising by investing wisely in our quality baby chicks from prepotent, heavy laying hens.

WE HAVE OVER 400 PEDIGREE WING BANDED COCKERELS HEADING FLOCKS THIS YEAR.

Mrs. Emily Brown, of Chicago, called Roger Park police early Sunday and told them there was a "gun battle" in her apartment building. Squads rushed to the scene found James Cairns, 30, throwing lighted firecrackers out of the window of his apartment. He explained calmly: "I guess if it's all right for the president to move up Thanksgiving, I can celebrate the Fourth of July in March."

The farm sale of Jack Sechler, held last Friday, was reported by everyone as one of the best sales in this community this season. He was well pleased and so was Auctioneer McNamara. The sale was well advertised by using 1300 sale cards and The News mailed out 1100 for Mr. Sechler. Sheep sold at $13.25 head; sows $25.00; cattle averaged $60 and the machinery sold equally well. Mr. Sechler will not move from his farm but will engage in the carpenter trade this season.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Adams, of Laporte, Ind., were guests in the George B. Wilson home over Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wyatt, and Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell, of Auburn were Friday callers, and Sunday callers were Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, Mrs. Elnora Blue and Mrs. Lela Northrup, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rosenbury, of Fort Wayne. Mr. Wilson is confined to his bed. Monday guests were B. E. Widney and from Auburn were Mrs. Minnie Kagey, Rev. Fred Wright of the Nazarene Church and Earl Wyatt and wife. Mrs. Wyatt assisted Mrs. Wilson with her house work.

C. W. Creasy, a jeweler residing in Auburn, announced Thursday that he will seek the Democratic nomination for clerk of the circuit court at the May primary. Mr. Creasy was born and reared on a farm in Tippecanoe county, Ind. He was graduated from Tippecanoe county schools in 1896 and took up the study of watchmaking and horology. He came to Auburn in 1908 and entered the employ of Ed. W. Hicks. After fourteen years with Mr. Hicks, Mr. Creasy embarked upon business for himself in 1922 and has continued ever since. He has resided in DeKalb county continuously for thirty-two years and is a lifelong Democrat.

CULTURE CLUB

One of the most enjoyable events of the year occurred last Wednesday, March 6th when the Culture Club ladies were guests of the "Home Forum" program of WOWO, Ft. Wanye. Mrs. Anna Bachtel planned the event.

Mrs. Floy Smith, Miss Rosella Mendelsohn and Mrs. Melba Wyatt, honorary members, were also present.

Franklin Took appeared on the scene with his little Mike and interviewed Mrs. Ethel Wineland acting president and a charter member Mrs. Pluma Hamilton. They also went on a tour through the Studio, among the most interesting were the sound effect appliances, transcription ond teletype machines. In all it was a wonderful place, with the people that make up the many interesting programs.

Jane Weston then invited the club into her Westinghouse kitchen, giving away many nice prizes, and treating all to open face sandwiches and coffee and inviting each and everyone back whenever in the city.

ANGLERS MAKE RUSH FOR 1940 LICENSES

Prospects for warmer weather and a return to normal stream levels have resulted in increased sale of 1940 licenses.

Scores of Hoosiers, not interested in hunting or trapping, wait until the first touch of Spring to secure their licenses and try their luck. Many anglers prefer the Spring fishing to any other season, claiming that they find more sport than after the water in lakes and streams has been warmed.

Four different fishing licenses are issued in Indiana—the regular resident license, which also covers hunting and trapping during the calendar year, at a fee of $1.50; the special license for women residents, good for fishing only during the calendar year, at a fee of 50 cents; the regular nonresident fishing license, good for fishing only during the calendar year, a fee of $2.50; and the special nonresident license, good for fishing only for 14 consecutive days from date of issue, issued at a fee of $1.00. These are available at News office.

See those Easter greetings at News office.

The monthly meeting of the P. T. A. will be held next Tuesday evening, at the gym. All those interested are asked to attend.

OUR SAFETY TALK

The accident statistics for 1940 have recently been released.

Motor vehicle accident fatalities numbered about the same in 1939 as in 1938—approximately 32,600.

Home accident deaths went from 31,500 in 1938 to 32,000 in 1939, an increase of about 2%.

Approximately 8,800,000 persons received non-fatal injuries in accidents during 1939.

The year's economic loss due to accidents was about $3,300,000,000. This includes wages lost, medical expense, the overhead costs of insurance, and property damage in motor vehicle accidents and fires.

These are staggering totals, showing how important it is that all of us pay more attention to the accident prevention problem.

Signs of the times in a motor age—these highway markers tell the story of a two-year, 100,000-mile truck test run recently completed by Chevrolet. In Canada, Mexico and every state of the Union, the truck operated on all types of highways and under every conceivable weather hazard, setting a new world mark for sustained and certified automotive operation, under the sanction and official observation of the American Automobile Association. The unit carried a 4,590-pound "payload." An average of 15.1 miles per gallon of fuel was maintained throughout the 100,000 miles, at an average operating speed of 33.07 miles per hour. Oil mileage was correspondingly high—1,072 miles per quart.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE ORDERED FOR APRIL 8

The delinquent real estate tax sale announced by County Auditor Burley Ensley and County Treasurer Harvey Phelps to be held at the court house Monday, April 8, will be different than in previous years, as it is divided into three classifications.

In accordance with instructions received from the state board of tax commissioners, the items are listed under three headings as follows:

List No. 1—The following real estate being delinquent 15 months or more for property tax will be sold for such delinquency including Barrett law and drainage assessments, if any.

List No. 2—The following real estate having been offered for sale at the last two regular sales will be sold to the highest bidder if such bid includes the total amount of Barrett law and the drainage assessments, if any.

List No. 3—The following real estate having been offered for sale at two sales and the delinquent tax equals or exceeds the assessed value, will be sold to the highest bidder, if such bid includes the total amount of Barrett law and drainage assessments, if any, and a deed will be executed on the day of sale provided all taxes of the last fifteen months are paid.

The total number of descriptions is 777, as follows: List No. 1.: Auburn 23, Garrett 68, Auburn Junction 6, Altona 3, Corunna 3, Spencerville 4, Butler City 22, Waterloo 13, St. Joe 12, Ashley 6, Wilmington township 3, Stafford 4, Union 9, Auburn Union 12, Keyser 2, Keyser out of Garrett 2, Richland, Franklin, Smithfield and Grant townships 1 each, Butler township 6, Cedar 1, Butler Center 2, Jackson township 2, Spencer township 4. List No. 2: Auburn 106, Garrett 184, Altona 15, Corunna 2, Butler City 88, Waterloo 16, St. Joe 21, Ashley 21, Wilmington township 5, Union township 7, Auburn Juction 2, Auburn Union 32, Keyser township 7, Fairfield township 6, Smithfield, Butler and Concord townships 1 each, Jackson and Spencer townships 2 each, Newville township 5 and Vienna town 2. List No. 3: Garrett 31, Auburn 2.

THE AMERICAN LEGION TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

Legion Posts in all departments held birthday parties commemorating the Paris Caucus which was held in the Cirque De Paris, on March 15-16-17 1919.

Another Caucus was held in St. Louis on May 8-9-10, 1919 and on Nov. 11 1919 the first parade of the first National Convention marched down the streets of Minneapolis, Minn., to the tune of "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

At the present time Posts have been organized in the 48 states, District of Columbia, France, Italy, Canada, Mexico, and territories of Alaska, Hawaii, Panama, Philipine Islands, and Puerto Rico. Besides the foregoing departments outlying Posts may be found in Argentina, Belgium, China, Cuba, Denmark, Greece, Guam, Guatemala, Ireland, England, Scotland, and Sweden. With a total membership of 807,821.

Post 283 started it's birthday party with a potluck dinner at 12:30 Sunday the 17. After the tables were cleared, the Post and Auxiliary assembled and was called to order by the Auxiliary President Mrs. Lehr Wilder. After posting the colors by Legionaires Carper and Bassett and Auxilaires Williams and Hatch, an address of welcome was given by Commander Crothers. Distinguished guests introduced were: Carl Graham and wife of Ft. Wayne, district membership chairman, Dean Bechtol of Garrett and Mrs. Iva Reynolds district president of Garrett.

After interesting talks by the guests a piano and clarionet duet was given by the Crothers boys. Two children of Comrade William Harter enlivened the party with a saxophone solo "The End of a Perfect Day" and a reading "When Company Comes." Song sheets were distributed and the party enjoyed a community sing of old time songs.

Adjutant Elmer Dean gave a history of the Post which was organized in 1935 and presented Commander Crothers and Auxiliary President Wilder, with new gavels which really are a work of art, being hand made of walnut and having the Legion and Auxiliary emblems set in the head. Each was decorated with a beautiful green ribbon tied on the handle.

A Jug Band composed of several young ladies entertained with two numbers their instrumentation was rather sketchy but they put out some fine music.

After several announcements were given the colors were retired and the meeting dismissed.

The 4th District monthly meeting will be held here on the night of April 4th. and a large crowd is expected to be in town on that night.

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of March 6 showed the the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, 1939, to be:

Expenditures	$6,310,166,127.20
Receipts	$3,621,086,272.04
In the hole	$2,689,079,855.16

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,388, 931, 955, 68.

Your per capita share of that debt is $326.07.

EASTER-TIDE

There are no stories one-half so grand
As the one we know of the Holy-land;
And we love to tell it o'er again,
Of the Christ who died for the sins of men.
In Bethlehem, across the cea,
Far from the shores of Galilee,
In a little stable our Lord was born;
That was long ago, that Holy morn

On that wondrous night, in the hours of sleep,
Some shepherds were watching their flocks of sheep,
When, suddenly, in the silent night,
There appeared in the air a brilliant light;
'Twas an Angel of God; and He spake to them:
"Go, ye men, into Bethlehem;
Follow the guidance of that Star,
And you'll come to where Mary and the Christ-child are."

As soon as the people the news did hear,
They came to the village from far and near;
And they brought great gifts, so the story's told,
Some of silver, and some of gold.
And they all knelt down and began to pray,
And worship the Babe who before them lay;
And God was pleased, and the Angels smiled
When they saw the Love for the Holy Child.

Now, we'll skip a bit, the years have flown,
And Christ from a child to a man has grown.
With His Desciples, twelve of them.
'He has gone to the city of Jerusalem.
'Tis the time of the great Pass-over Feast;
The City is crowded with man and beast;
And a noise comes up from the happy throng,
A laugh, a shout, or a burst of song.

The Desciples, that evening, were filled with gloom
As they sat with their Lord in a private room;
For the time was near, as they all well knew,
When Christ with His Mission on earth was through.
But Jesus bade them to be of cheer.
"For though," He said," the time is near
When I must die for the sins of men,
I promise ye I shall come again."

Later that night, in Gethsemane,
The Desciples were gathered beneath a tree;
And Christ went alone, to pray for all,
For strength for the blow so soon to fall.
Then out from the City, in the night,
The Soldiers came, in a blaze of light;
And Judas led, to assure no miss,
And betrayed his Lord with a traitor's kiss.

We know how Jesus was led away
And taken to Pilate, at break of day;
We know how He was so rudely tried,
And delivered up to be crucified,
How Jesus upon the Cross was nailed
Between two thieves; how the light then failed,
A storm burst forth, the earth did rock,
As the place was stricken by an earth-quake!

Then Joseph took the Lord's body down
And before the door he placed a stone,
That the body of Christ would be left alone.
And God sent Angels to watch and care
For the Blessed Son who was buried there,
The Lord who died for the sins of men,
Who would lie three days and rise again.

'Two days later, at break of day,
Three weeping women made their way
From the town below to the Saviour's Tomb,
And peered within, in the silent gloom
And an Angel, sitting there, rose and said:
"Why seek ye the living amongst the dead.
Go tell the Desciples, as I tell ye,
Christ rose, and went into Galilee."

That was long ago, and the years have fled
Since the day when Christ rose from the dead;
When Jesus died for the sins of men,
Was crucified, buried, and rose again.
But though He's gone to His Home above,
We're all blest yet by our Saviour's love.
Let's join our praises, from far and wide,
And worship our Lord, this Easter-Tide.

ALLELUIA! CHRIST IS RISEN

The real joy of Easter is to hear the Master's voice calling us by name

Easter Day has been appropriated by the world for all sorts of pleasures and whims until its message and significance are often lost under the husk of finery and frolic. Yet, for the Christian, the Resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth remains the foundation of an abiding joy, the heart of his religion. "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain." Jesus' perfect life seemed a failure, His vicarious death, a farce, the empty tomb, a taunt, and further faith in Him, foolishness- until a forlorn disciple heard Him call her by name, " Mary. " His voice changed everything ; righteousness became reasonable, love became life, eternal life became an experience, and once again there is hope beyond the grave. This is the Joy of Easter. He who preached the glorious Sermon on the Mount is alive; He who urged His disciples not to fear them who kill the body is alive; He who humbled himself even unto the death of the Cross is alive; He who promised to be with us always is alive.

AUBURN JEWELER SEEKS NOMINATION FOR COUNTY CLERK

C. W. CREASY

C. W. Creasy, a jeweler residing at 109 west 3rd. St. in Auburn, announced Thursday that he will seek the Democratic nomination for clerk of the circuit court at the May primary.

Mr. Creasey was born and reared on a farm in Tippencanoe County, Ind. He was graduated from the Tippencanoe county schools in 1896 and took up the study of Watchmaking and Horology. He came to Auburn in 1908 and entered the employ of Ed. W. Hicks, who was engaged in the jewelry business. After fourteen years with Mr. Hicks, Mr. Creasy embarked upon the jewelry business for himself in 1922, and has continued ever since.

He has resided in DeKalb county continuously for thirty-two years and is a lifelong Democrat. 12t1.

Mrs. House died Thursday evening following an operation for appendicitis. She was buried on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. She leaves her husband and one daughter eleven years of age, and her mother at Ft. Wayne.

HOGG FOR GOVERNOR CARAVAN IS BOOSTING INDIANA

BATESVILLE, Ind., March 19.—David Hogg, of Fort Wayne, Republican gubernatorial aspirant, said tonight if he is elected Governor he will confiscate the funds of the Democrats' two per cent club and turn the money back to the people of Indiana.

"Before the little new deal in Indiana gets through this fall, there may not be anything left in their two per cent club, "Hogg said, "but if there is, I will do everything in my power as Governor to return their extorted money where it belongs. This racket is an insult to every Hoosier."

The "Boost Hoosier Products" caravan arrived here today on its third week of a stumping tour of the state. Mr. Hogg was accompanied by the Stevens Troubadours, a group of entertainers from Whitley county. He is touring every county in the state, except those where his opponents live. Other addresses will be made this week in Brookville, Cambridge City and Rising Sun. Hogg spoke in Aurora last night.

Mr. Hogg, four times Congressman, said: "The Republican party freed the American working man from the curse of slave labor; it saved the Union, and it gave Americans the highest standard of living known to mankind. Under the proper leadership, the Republican party can protect agriculture and labor from the demoralizing competition of peon and other ridiculously cheap labor of foreign nations. The products made by these unfortunates of other countries, earning from ten to forty cents a day, are being dumped into our state and nation at the rate of two billion dollars a year.

"Seven times free traders have taken away the safeguard to the American laborer and farmer. Seven times disaster followed. Each time the panic was cured by a protective tariff. Now the new deal is giving us free trade and calling it reciprocity. American jobs will never be stabilized until just protection is given us. Nor will this panic be ended until the tariff is restored. There is no other way to maintain our standard of living. The new deal cannot restore employment, It should not be a curse to own property in America.

"We must renew our belief in the dignity of manual labor. Henry Ford and Thomas Edison are examples of what can be accomplished through hard work. Even Jesus was a carpenter. Our children must be taught how to earn a living. But with the proper spirit of cooperation, the 200,000 Hoosier workmen dependent on the government for a livelihood can be put back to work in private enterprise. We must return to individual initiative to take the near half a million Hoosiers off of relief.

"Indiana is not helpless. It is just an oppressive government that is trying to destroy individual initiative."

It is reported that Harry Loucks will move into the Keener property east of town.

Claude Mason was appointed street commissioner Monday evening by the town board.

HOME BUREAU

The Concord township Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Hulda Reasoner Friday afternoon March 15. Meeting was called to order by Pres. Mrs. Shull. Opening song was led by Mary Krise.

At roll call 21 members and 3 visitors responded Miss Moore, Home demonstration agent explained 4-H club work. It was voted to sponsor a 4-H club and help pay an adult dealer.

Miss Moore gave a very interesting rug demonstration. The hostess with her committee served a delicious lunch of home made icecream, cup cakes, shamrock mints and coffee.

RUNNING YOUR FURNACE ON TWIGS AND FERNS

"Leaves, twigs, vines, bushes and grass had fallen into the pond for untold years and had become waterlogged and sunk. They formed a thick mat of partically decayed organic material. This was the beginning of peat—the first stage of coal formation. In the Borough of Queens, New York City Juniper Swamp is estimated to have 42,000,000 cubic feet of peat. The Everglades of Florida and the Dismal Swamp of Virginia contain peat also, and are really great coal deposits in the making.

"After the peat has been buried for a long time under subsequent deposits of sand and shale, it becomes compressed and most of the noncarbonic materials are lost, so that the carbon ratio is increased. As a result we get "brown" ocal or lignite; then, with more compression, bituminous or "soft" coal; and then anthracite. Sometimes anthracite may become graphite and, very rarely, bits of the graphite may be changed to diamonds. There you have the cycle."

Girl Scout might was observed by the L. L. C., at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser last Wednesday. Through a cleverly arranged playlet, the girls and their leader Mrs. Yeiser illustrated the purpose of the Girl Scout organization and some of the means of accomplishing the purposes. An interesting display of projects and scraps books had been arranged and Mrs. Yeiser read a short paper on how the sponsors and troup committee can be of service to the troups.

At the close of the meeting the Girl Scouts served a delicious luncheon which was featured by the Girl Scout cookie. By the sale of these cookies the troup hopes to earn the money for their national membership.

Mrs. Agnes Leighty was hostess at the previous meeting when Mrs. Leslie Wilbern reviewed the book Thrice a Stranger by Vera Brattain. Officers elected for the next club year are: Pres. , Mrs. Ines Hadsell; Vice-Pres., Cora Curie; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Wm. Staman; Treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Keeler; Critic, Mrs. Fred Leighty; Paliamentarian, Mrs. Allan Haller.

Clayton Chorpenning has been given the position as gravel inspector of DeKalb county, by the board of County Comissioners and he started work on Wednesday.

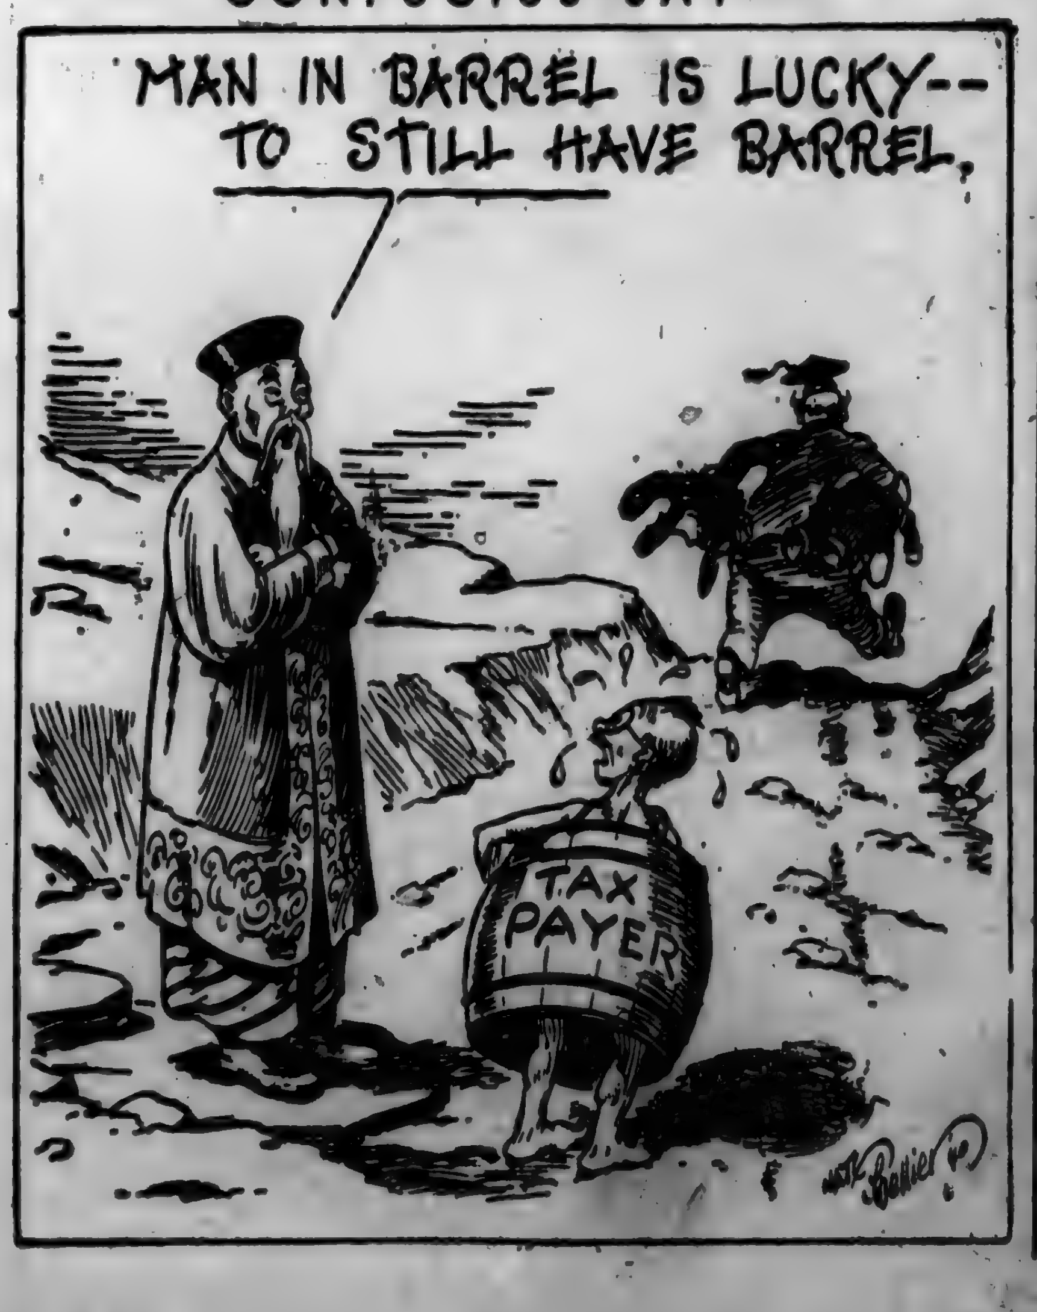
CONFUCIUS SAY—



MAN IN BARREL IS LUCKY-- TO STILL HAVE BARREL.
TAX PAYER

With leap year and election year coming in one, it is hard to decide which is the worst off, the office or the man.

All some folks can remember about a motor trip, is the number of detours.

Any nation that can put up such a fight as Finland, deserves to be free.

Spring is evidently comfortable sitting in the lap of winter, and this week she needed to put on her ear laps again.

We call taxes trouble, while a hungry flea bites where a dog can't reach it.

The fellow who used to believe the world owed him a living, has shifted the burden to the taxpayer.

Then national debt of the Philippine Islands amounts to $2 a head. We think that is really independence.

If we still remembered our youth we would stop and answer a child's many questions.

A new definition for alimony has been found. A St. Joe bachelor avers that alimony is what a man is required to pay in difference when he trades for a new model.

In Washington you continue to witness the spectacle of United States senators not only opposing honesty, bui making speeches against it, says Dave Boone. The way some of the boys fight that Hatch bill to curb corruption at the polls you'd think it was a convention of political racketeers instead of a session of the U. S. senate. You'd need a gas mask to live in the better moral climate some of 'em to want, he continues. But know all men, Hoosiers generally have long since hung their heads in shame because of Shay Minton, the very junior senator from Indiana. Now more than ever since his attempts to scuttle the Hatch Bill. And mind you, bitterest attacks have come from the normally-Democratic Washington Daily News, a Script-Howard newspaper, which asserted recently that "every time Mr. Minton opens his mouth against the Hatch proposal he loses a thousand non-partisan votes in Indiana, and he can be counted on to open it often enough to talk himself right back into private life." Referring to Minton as "the Indiana Two Per Cent Club's gift to teh nation," The News, in an editorial, stated that "Mr. Minton has reasons for not wanting this admendment to pass. He is up for re-election this year. And if the measure passes it will mean that Indiana's highway workers, its old-age pension agents and its employes in the division of unemployment compensation—all of whose salaries are paid in whole or in part by Federal funds—cannot be compelled to get out and hustle votes for Mr. Minton or coerced into giving two per cent of their salaries to the campaign war chest." The two per cent club business, the port-of-entry beer business et cetera, and last but not least the federal investigation into the tax returns of Democrats, including Paul V. McNutt, Frank McHale, Bowman Elder, Omer Jackson and Dick Heller has practically 'ruinated' Boob McNutt for President and bodes not much good for the Democratic party at the coming elections.—Bene Witness.

MAYBE YOUR BUSINESS NEXT

In discussing the order of the Department of Public Service of the State of Washington giving the technical representatives of government-sponsored utility districts, organized to compete with or take over private companies, "free and unobstructed access" to all the records of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company, the Chewelah, Washington, Independent says editorially: "This is ordering a business concern to give its most active competitor access to its records—and it's done in the name of government.

"Things like that give us a jolt. We are aroused out of our complacency and smug ideas of democracy with a realisation that rights of individuals and private business no longer exist. We have permitted the slimy hands of communism to creep about our throats and the wind is gradually being choked out of us. The action has been so insidious we have been caught napping.

"It matters not what type of private business isbeing attacked—if the principal is wrong the deed is also wrong. Preservation of our liberties needs our constant vigilance...."

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Very little can be said about the Finnish peace settlement that is not obvious to everyone. The Allies were not prompt and effective in their support. Backing being uncertain, the Finns had to do the best they could: which was to take the half loaf, better at least than no bread. Although costly to the Russians, the conquest of Finland was attended with little risk. The same remark as to risk holds true respecting the German absorption of Czecho-Slovakia and the subjection of Poland.

A mass attack upon the French front might have resulted in German defeat. In any event, it would have afforded an opportunity for a display of Allied power, and would have strengthened Allied morale, without danger to themselves, Russia and Germany have succeeded in undermining the self respect not only of the Allies but as well of those whose participation does not extend beyond symathy and indirect aid. The prospect of having to come to a death grapple with Germany and Russia is not pleasant for France and England, but through it they can suffer nothing worse than is due to result from the subtle attrition that has been applied during the few months last past.

The view above expressed, that recent events have weakened the standing of the Allies, has no White House confirmation. Neither it nor diplomatic ramifications have been touched upon. The President, with some caution, falls back upon a statement which he made last December: "It is tragic to see the policy of force spreading, and to realise that wanton disregard for law is still on the march."

There was, however, direct and unfavorable reference to Russian bombing within Finnish boundaries, coupled with the observation that the "trend to force makes insecure the independent existence of small nations, in every continent, and jeopardizes the right of mankind to self-government." To say that the Finnish peace failed to receive the approval of the President and Department of State is putting it too mildly. The attitude was that of genuine indignation.

For ten days, the Senate has occupied itself with debate over the new Hatch bill, intended to limit political activity on the part of office holders. By a narrow margin, the Senate limited contributions for party purposes to $5,000, thereby putting added teeth into the measure, but reducing somewhat the chances that it will get by the House. The vote on many provisions was non-partisan. It is said that the President looks more kindly upon the new Hatch program than he did upon the old one. It must be admitted that legislating morality into life in general, is something of a task. Legislating it into political life is doubly so.

A special election is to be held April 0 in Nebraska, to select a candidate to fill out a House congressional term of less than a year's duration, a matter which seems to be of minor interest to the country at large. Those prominent in both political parties are said to look forward to it as a trial of New Deal popularity.

After the Nebraska votes are counted, one side is certain to protest that nothing of any consequence was established. It is part of the politician's job to keep the people politically minded, which perhaps is not such a bad thing after all. Anyhow, the average person enjoys political turmoil to some degree. A national election would be a drab affair if the electorate simply thought matters out with no outside aid, and slipped in the ticket amid a gloom and solemnity like that which attends the payment of taxes. Sophistication is the order of the hour, but what elderly man does not long now and then for the old days of barbecues and the nights of torchlight parades?

WE SHOULD BE ASHAMED

The majority of English and French condemn the U. S. for not entering into the war picture and doing something in the great struggle for "liberty." An English bishop makes caustic remarks about our standing aside and profiting on the misery of the other nations engaged in conflict. Perhaps there are some Americans who also feel we are not being loyal and true There is nothing that riles so as to hear someone who professes love of country and compassion for fellow man, cry for us to go to the assistance of these nations. Being neighborly is good, sacrificing our youth is bad. We are most sympathetic towards Great Britain and we are grieved nationally over the grave conditions she is facing, but we are not going to do any killing if we can help it.

The English bishop, in condemning us for our guilty consciences which would keep him from having a good night's rest, knows that his country is seizing our mails, holding our boats, disregarding our peace pacts, overlooking past war debts, does he not? We feel we have been most considerate of Great Britain and we aren't overlooking the fact that war is war and Great Britain is taking care of herself. But we are not conscience stricken about our stand and we are trying to do what is right and what is best for our own country. We are pretty busy with our knitting here in the U. S., bishop.

WE'RE COUNTRY

"Most of our country is in the country," spoke a voice on the radio. And so they look to the small town of the U. S. as a medium in buying and selling. A press bulletin gives us the idea of the demands of the small town buyer. We have a fairly accurate check of the number of cents of a country dollar that goes for food, clothing, autos, churches, recreation and tobacco. There is a survey of the gasoline comsumption, amount of insurance sold, number of movie houses and percentage of youngsters in school.

Our interest lies principally in the importance of the weekly newspaper and what it means to the small town reader. The printing of your St. Joe newspaper is of importance to you. Weather forecasts, foreign news, national affairs are necessary to make up news. But to home town folks nothing is as important as local names. A riot in Zanzibar can't compare to the news that Mrs. Jones is confined to her bed with flu, and she had charge of the church supper! The latest war news doesn't create the stir of the new baby at Mrs. Smith's house. The sinking of a boat is too bad but overlooked in the reading of the local basketball triumph.

You are the court of approval. You control the marketing situation of the country. "Most of the country is in the country," and we're country!

YOU CONTROL IT

There is action being taken by several women's organizations to clean up the morning programs on our radios. Numerous are the protests received by the major broadcasting companies regarding the sort of thing dished to the housewife each day. There are too many continued stories dealing with divorce, infidelity, murder, desertion. If you have ever spent one day listening to the series of tales from the radio you wonder how the programs are seperated and straightened out in the mind. There is such a sameness, complain many. Women's clubs ask for more educational programs where topics deal with problems of homemaking. They insist that the sort of thing we receive now is regarding and depressing. This may be too true, but is not world news depressing and are not world relationships degrading?

Be thankful you are listening to a radio free of government censorship. Be glad that if a program does not please you at all, you are free to turn it off. There are so many worthwhile broadcasts that reach you during the day, and check over your radio lists and see if this isn't true, that those of you whose tastes run to the educational and instructional, can always find radio enjoyment.

A NEW PAGE

We shout graft in politics and become discouraged about a democracy when politicians keep us overly supplied with unimportant reforms and over-indulgences. We tolerate so much of bamboozling and "guff" and then get filled up and decide to clean house. This reformation in politics has happened in many cities where once ruled graft. With a system of self-government such as ours, the hundreds like us in a united vote will find a way of sweeping out the house. A recent election proves that people may be slow in catching on and slower about doing something about it, but finally the worm turns and politics is forced to "dust behind the pictures."

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—As the farm vote goes, so goes the Nation.

This is emphatically the opinion of one Hoosier legislator, who is having more to do with shaping the forthcoming Republican campaign for the farm vote than any other member of Congress from Indiana.

He is Rep. George W. Gillie, one of the most active members of the Republican Committee for the Study of Agriculture, which is taking the lead in working out a farm program for presentation to Congress. It also is intended to become the basis for the farm plank in the Republican platform.

"In my opinion," says the Scoth-born Congressman, "the farm vote in the Midwestern Corn Belt is very likely to elect the next president of the United States.

"Unquestionably, as the Corn Belt states go, so the election will go this time. The Corn Belt is going to be the battleground in this campaign."

REPRESENTATIVEG GILLIE declares that in his opinion the work being done now by the Republican Farm Study Committee, under the direction of Chairman Clifford Hope of Kansas, will play a vital part in the campaign.

The big strategy of the G. O. P., Gillie asserts, will be to re-establish the historic tie-up which helped the Republican Party to so many victories.

This is the combination between small business, the majority of the middle class and the farmers.

Gillie relies on agricultural reaction against present farm prices, plus the response of the farmers to the program being worked out by the Republicans, to swing the farm vote in the crucial Corn Belt states back into the G. O. P.

"I will tell you what is going to keep the vote swinging Republican," Gillie says. "Farmers in my district sending their hogs to the Fort Wayne market are receiving an average of around $4.00 a hundred. Some are getting as little as $3.25 a hundred. No wonder the farm vote is swinging Republican this year."

THE STRATEGY of the G. O. P. is to drive a wedge deep between the South and the Corn Belt. The race may develop into a test of strength between two combinations: one consisting of the solid South, the border states and having great strength in the big cities of the North; the other brought about by a realignment of the middle class people and farmers of New England, Pennsylvania and the farm states.

Gillie believes that if President Roosevelt should run again, there will be a tremendous reaction against a third term among the rank and file of Americans who believe in democratic forms of government and strict limitation upon the power of the executive. This will be the issue of dicatorship, against which the currents of public opinion run strong in America, he says.

But he places great importance on the kind of a farm program the Republicans present, in view of the big part to be played by the farm states in the election outcome.

"The program finally worked out by this committee will be the one which the Republicans finally will try to put through Congress," Gillie says.

"It will be presented to the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia next June as the basis for a farm plank in the platform.

"The plans are definitely going forward. The committee and its sub-committees have gathered thousands of pages of testimony in their hearings.

"In these hearings over the country we have tried to bring the Republican Party to the farmers. We have asked the farmers themselves to help in drafting this program. We do not want to promise anything we cannot deliver. But we do want a plan that will bring farmers better prices and better returns."

THE COMMITTEE, which was named last year by Minority Leader Joe Martin, held a very successful hearing in Indianapolis last month. Approximately five hundred Hoosier farmers, and leaders of Indiana farm organizations, attended the sessions and aired their views on the farm problem to Chairman Hope and the seven members of the Indiana G. O. P. Delegation in Congress.

Court reporters took down every word of testimony, and the complete committee.

Congressman Gillie last week was named chairman of the Poultry and Eggs Division of the committee. Hearings of this group will be held in the near future, he announced. Assisting him in his study are Representatives Cliff-Clevenger of Ohio, Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, Henry O. Talle of Iowa, and Walter S. Jeffries of New Jersey.

In addition, the Fort Wayne Congressman is serving on special subcommittees studying the problems of livestocks and meats, sugar, and the foreign export and import trade.

The Cliffton Draggo stock truck was damaged to the extent of $90, last Wednesday afternoon as he was entering Ft. Wayne on Parnell Avenue with a load of stock. A car drove out from a side street, and because of the icey pavement, he was unable to stop and slid into the Draggoo truck, shoveing it to the curb and struck a tree. The truck was towed to St. Joe on Thursday where the repairs are being made at St. Joe Filling Station.

Wilbur Shroyer has been quite poorly of late, and Tuesday, Mr. Shroyer accompanied by Floyd Weikel, started for Ann Arbor, Mich. When they got to Hicksville they decided that Wilbur would not be able to make the trip on the bed fixed in the rear seat, so they called Kinsey Ambulance to come and finish the trip. Word Wednesday morning was that he stood the trip much better than anticipated and that Mrs. Shroyer will remain with her husband for some time. Wilbur has been poorly for several months.

Mrs. Barbara Marvis was the guest of honor at a surprise party Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis of 207 West Fifteenth street Auburn, the occasion being her birthday. A potluck dinner was enjoyed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mavis and sons, Gene and Donnie of Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bailey of St. Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Mavis and daughters, Joan and Jean, of south of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Mavis and daughter, Imogene, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis, Everett Mavis, Jr., and the guest of honor.

A judgment of $492.53 has been entered in the DeKalb circuit court in the suit of the City National bank of Auburn, against Herman L. Green et al and real estate mortgage was ordered foreclosed. The court also found that the county welfare department holds a valid lien against the property in the sum of $650. Proceeds of the sale are to be applied as follows: First, to the payment of court costs; second, to the payment of the bank's claim; third, to the county's lien ? and the balance is to be paid to the clerk of the court for the use of the party or parties entitled thereto.

Six thousand of Indiana's 66,000 WPA employees will be laid off next month in line with a quota imposed from Washington, D. C. State Administrator John K. Jennings expressed belief Tuesday the number would be no more than normally leave the rolls because of the "18-month rule" and for other reasons. This rule provides that persons on WPA 18 months must be dropped a month and be re-investigated.

Amid the cheers of more than 700 persons who jammed the north Jackson high school gymnasium Monday night, Lieut.-Gov. Henry F. Schricker, of Knox, announced that he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Mr. Schricker's announcement came in response to a resolution passed recently by county chairmen and vice-chairmen of the Democratic party in the Second Congressional district, urging him to become a candidate. The resolution was presented to the Lieutenant-Governor by Edwin A. Wilken, Starke county chairman.

SHINING AND BRIGHT:

To clean silver place it in a pan of sour milk and let stand about half an hour. Wash and rinse and the silver will shine as when new....If silver is washed and rinsed in boiling water right after using, it will retain its brightness longer....To polish tin ware, rub it with an onion and it will shine....To brighten aluminum, copper and brass, rub lemon juice on the surface and wash afterwards in warm water.

HORSE SENSE

Contour furrows in hilly pastures have been found to save water and help to prevent as well as control erosion.

Why is it that some people complain about the glaring headlights of oncoming automobiles and yet ignore the glaring lights they face regularly in their homes?

Tree plantings will help control soil losses in muck lands, say Purdue University foresters. Use green willow cuttings as suggested in various Purdue bulletins.

It is more pleasant to work over a forge fire in March to sharpen cultivator shovels than in June.

Careless or ill-adviesd use of vaccination materials may spread rather than prevent disease in livestock.

Manure is an excellent source of plant food, containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. But, unless it is handled carefully, leaching or firing of the manure will result in serious loss of these important fertilizing elements.

Remember: Good, clean, live seed is the first step toward a good, clean crop.

BE HUMANE

We have written often about the hit-skip driver and many are the laws that cover, with strict penalties attached. But these laws are usually to cover the accidents to humans. There are many instances when a dog, horse or cow is struck on the highway and very seldom does a car stop to inquire into the accident. There should be some rule to protect the dumb animals whereby the motorist would halt and render aid if aid would not come too late. The average driver who would hit an animal and run would be inconsiderate in the case of a human. We might not have a law in DeKalb county to cover this practice but we should try to discourage it.

BAGS WILL HELP:

To prevent belts from twisting through the laundry in the washing machine, place them (and other small articles) in an old sugar bag. Tie shut so the articles will stay together during the washing....When starch becomes lumpy, pour it in an old sugar cloth bag and squeeze the starch through. The lumps remain in the bag and the bag is easily washed afterwards.

COFFEE HINTS:

Never buy more than a two week's supply of coffee at one time. Never add new coffee in the container with the old. Keep its flavor by carefully covering it tightly after use. Use at least a heaping tablespoonful of coffee to each measuring cup of water. Serve it as soon as made, if possible, keeping it hot always. Do not reheat coffee. Make it fresh each time.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1940 NUMBER 13

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mrs. Frederick M. Thornton, formerly of St. Joe, Ind., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Geraldine Alice Thornton, to Mr. John Clay Hoskins, only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Hollis Hoskins, of Front Royal, Va.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Thornton attended Temple School for Secretaries and is now an employe of the Railroad Retirement Board. Mr. Hoskins attended Benjamin Franklin University and is employed by a local food company.—Wash. Star March 10, 1940.

PERSONAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT TO BE REDUCED

DeKalb county will sustain a substantial loss in the total assessment of personal property this year, County Assessor Chas. E. Miser predicted Monday after surveying reports from the local assessors.

The annual canvass of property owners was started March 1 and the figures compiled to date show that serious reductions are being made in the appraisement of cattle, sheep and hogs on account of the lower market prices this year. A 16 per cent gain in the total of personal property values a year ago may be entirely wiped out this year.

A year ago the average appraisement of cattle was $28; now it is $22. Sheep are reduced from $7 to $6 a head, sows from $24 to $14 and other hogs from $10 to $4. Other averages are about the same as in 1939, as follows: Automobiles $152; farm implements $153; household goods $117; horses $72; mules $74; cows $46; poultry $5 a dozen and tractors $205 each.

Reports of averages received from Steuben, Whitley, Noble and Allen counties indicate that DeKalb county is in line.

Real estate owners who want their property reassessed this year still have this week to file their applications. A few such petitions have been submitted.

APRIL 6 WILL BE LAST DAY FOR CANDIDATES TO FILE

Copies of the election laws and 1940 political calendar received Monday by County Clerk Carl Walter call attention to the following dates:

April 6, last day candidates for county legislative, congressional or judicial offices, for delegate or for precinct committeemen may file.

April 6, last day a candidate may withdraw name from the ballot.

April 6, first day a voter may apply for an absent voter's primary ballot.

April 8, last day for a voter to register before the primary, or transfer his registration.

April 8, last day for health officers of the county and city to deliver to the county clerk lists of the registered voters who have died or for whom burial permits have been issued.

CHICKEN SUPPER

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of March 6 showed the the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, 1939, to be:

Expenditures ..	$6,310,166,127.20
Receipts	$3,621,086,272.04
In the hole	$2,689,079,855.16

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,388, 931, 965. 63.

Your per capita share of that debt is $326.07.

APPOINTMENTS ON TWO COUNTY BOARDS

Five members of the county tax adjustment board for this year and two members of the board of review were reappointed Friday.

As tax adjusters Judge Endicott named Stanley O. Devitt of Wilmington township, H. M. Van Lear of Garrett, and John Zimmerman of Auburn. Mayor Lodle Potter of Auburn, acting as the head of the largest town in the county, reappointed Councilman R. Wayne Smith to serve on the board.

The board meets in September to consider the budgets and rates of the various taxing units of the county. The board has authority to make reductions in levies. Its session usually lasts about a week.

Still to be appointed for the board are a representative of the county council and a representative of the county board of education. Last year Geo. A. Bishop of Auburn, represented the county council and Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, served for the board of education. Mr. Devitt was chairman and Mr. Zimmerman secretary.

Will Franks of Garrett, and Chas. A. Dohner of Troy township, will again serve on the board of review by virtue of Judge Endicott's order. Mr. Franks, a retired school teacher and farm owner, was named for his twenty-sixth consecutive year on the board. Mr. Dohner, a farmer, will be on the board for his eighteenth year.

The board will be in session during the month of June. It surveys the work of the township assessors and is authorized to make changes. The board also grants applications for mortgage exemptions. The county auditors, county treasurer and county assessor serve on the board by virtue of their offices.

WALKS INTO AUBURN HOME "BY MISTAKE"

After Howard H. Williams of St. Joe, walked into the Paul Beuchel residence three times early Saturday morning "by mistake," officers were called. Williams first appeared and walked into the living room of the home, 113 Madison street Auburn. After arousing the family, he returned to the house two more times.

When Officers Walter Pepple and Charles Waters of the city police arrived, the St. Joe man was placed under arrest for public intoxication. He told them that he thought he was in the home owned by a relative.

Arraigned Saturday morning in the court of Justice of the Peace Frank Langley, Williams pleaded guilty as charged. He could not pay his fine of $10 and costs and was placed in the Dekalb county jail.—Star.

This spring when the posters of the Ginnivan Dramatic company are posted and smoothed to the sides of buildings in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, it will be for the 70th year. For three score years and ten this group of actors have brought heart throbs and thrills to audiences in small towns, earning their title today of the "oldest tent repertoire company in America." The Ginnivans—Dad, Frank and Grace—may be partially claimed by DeKalb county, for, although their home is in Pleasant Lake, rehearsals and the opening performances are held at Ashley. This year, for the 31st consecutive year, they will open the season at Ashley on Monday, April 29.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Wedding days were recalled when Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Perry celebrated their Golden wedding anniversary March 24, at the home of Mrs. K. T. Buss Garrett, with a three course dinner attended by immediate family.

Gold and White dominated the color scheme, the center being a three layer wedding cake decorated with yellow roses. The placecards were golden wedding bells, and the favors were gold nut cups. Yellow roses and jonquils were prevalent throughout the home. Mr. and Mrs. Perry were remembered by numerous gifts and cards received from many friends and loved ones.

Guests who attended the dinner were the son, Mr. Paul Perry of St. Joe, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Herrick, of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Buss, of Garrett; Mrs. Herrick and Mrs. Buss being daughters; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Herrick, Lawrence and Clayton Herrick, Pauline, Elaine, and Eulalee Buss, grandchildren: Miss Evelyn Kaufman, Miss Hellen Hickman of Ft. Wayne, and Mr. Wayne Storer of St. Joe, friends of the grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry were married March 22, 1890, in Newville township. Mrs. Perry was attired in blue with white accessories on her wedding day, as she was on her anniversary. Many of the guests who attended the wedding dinner are residents of DeKalb county. Mr. and Mrs. Perry have a multitude of friends in this community, having spent their married life here.

Mrs. John Beard, Mrs. Beulah Smawley, and daughter, Kay, of Waterloo were Easter afternoon guests of Mrs. Wm. Randall.

Joe Foltz and wife spent Easter in Ohio, guests of her parents. On their return they stopped at Defiance, and his brother Monnie accompanied them home for a few days.

The death of J. Perry Heitz, 69, a prominent Butler township farmer, took place Saturday morning at 5 o'clock at his home three miles south of Garrett on road 27. After an illness of nine days. He was born in Butler township, Aug. 29, 1870, and married to Oma Strause of Keyser township, December 12, 1906. She survives with two children, Miss Amber Heitz and Emory Heitz, and one brother Calvin W. Heitz of East Gilead, Mich. The funeral was held from Butler Center Methodist church, conducted by Rev. A. L. Wooten, Tuesday afternoon and burial at Cedar Chapel.

TREE BANDING IS ADVISED IN CANKER WORM FIGHT

If trees are to be banded for the control of spring cankerworms, the work must be done at once, according to G. E. Lehker, extension entomologist of Purdue University. He says that already a few of the parent insects may be emerging from the ground to lay their eggs but that there is still time to band the trees and at least reduce the ravages of the insects.

Cankerworms are the "looping caterpillars" or so-called "measuring worm" that for several years have defoliated large areas of elm and other trees throughout northeastern Indiana. They appear in vast numbers during the first half of May, feed for a period of four or five weeks and disappear as suddenly as they come.

Lehker points out that banding the trunks of trees with a sticky material is effective against spring cankerworms because the parent females are wingless and as they emerge from the soil they must crawl up the tree trunks in order to lay their eggs. Banding materials are made and sold especially for this purpose and should be used according to directions.

One species, the fall cankerworm, laid its eggs last fall and of course banding at this time will have no effect on this worm. However, much of the damage is expected to be caused by the spring variety, against which the immediate banding of the trees is suggested.

If the females succeed in gaining access to the trees, it will be necessary to kill the young worms by spraying the trees with arsenate of lead at the rate of 3 pounds per 100 gallons of water Lehker adds that spraying is very effective but it is necessary to start as soon as the young worms appear as they may defoliate the trees very rapidly.

Mr. Smith is an ideal father. His son wants a bicycle. The financial condition of the Smith family is none too good, but, Mr. Smith economizes smokes nickle cigars, walks to work and, when son's birthday arrives, presents him with a shinny new bike and sends him out to enjoy the newly acquired vehicle. Mr. Smith sits back with pleasure and a bit of pride. He has made his son happy; he has done his duty as a father.

But has he? What about instructing his child in the proper way to operate a bike? What about teaching this youngster the traffic rules which apply to bicycles as well as automobiles What about warning him not to be a show off rider?

The way this boy rides his bicycle is very likely the manner in which he will operate his car when a grown man. It is the parents duty to caution their children to think and act safely. Safety habits instilled in the mind of a child will be lasting.

ROBERT WEAVER FILES FOR COUNTY CLERK NOMINATION

Robert H. Weaver of 726 North Jackson street, Auburn, filed a declaration of candidacy in the office of County Clerk Carl Walter in Auburn. Mr. Weaver is asking for the republican nomination of clerk of the Dekalb circuit court, subject to the will of the voters at the primary election to be held on May 7.

ROBERT H. WEAVER

Mr. Weaver was born and reared in Auburn. He is a graduate of the McIntosh high school and has had office experience with a number of Auburn business houses. He is a son of the late John H. Weaver, who served as a rural mail carrier from the Auburn post office for a period of 26 years.

FOUR ANNIVERSARIES CELEBRATED AT ONE PARTY

Master Jack Norman Hart celebrated his second birthday Sunday at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart.

After sampling his own birthday cake and pronouncing it "good" he cut and served it to the other guests.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Poper, Miss Virginia Poper and Arlo Douglas of Ft. Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hart, who were celebrating their tenth wedding anniversary and the former's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart celebrating their thirty-seventh anniversary. In honor of these events and Easter, a beautiful dinner was served, with two large birthday cakes and Easter bunnies and eggs, very much in evidence.

Needless to say a good time was enjoyed by all.

SUDDEN DEATH OF FORMER ST. JOE RESIDENT

Mrs Adolph Fry, 73, of Auburn passed away suddenly Wednesday morning after an illness of 4 to 5 weeks with the Flu. On Tuesday she set up some for the first and was seemingly much better, but a heart attack came on Wednesday morning and she passed away. Mr. and Mrs. Fry lived in St. Joe for a few years, when he was working for the Standard Oil Co.

The funeral will be held from the Methodist church at Auburn, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

TOWSEND MEETING

The St. Joe Townsend Club will assemble at the Town Hall Thursday evening, April 4, at 7:30 promptly. If you are interested in this recovery plan try and come as information of importance is being received daily, you can know if you come.

"THE LADIES AID"

I wonder who started, The Ladies Aid and why they named it so.
For it seems, to me, if the facts were told, the aid is the most of the show,

They buy the carpet, for the church, the chairs and tables too,
They buy the stove and pots and pans and keep them bright and new.

If the parsonage needs new paper or linoleum for the floor.
The Ladies Aid is on the job, to do a little more.
They pay the balance on the coal they polish up the floor,
And if they do not come across, some one, sure gets sore.

They pay large sums, for frescoeing they polish up the pews,
They buy the fine Communion set and always pay their dues,
They buy the sacraficial wine, the bread, they furnish too,
They decorate the pulpit and I think that's fine, don't you?

They pay the Preacher's salary, or a part of it, I know,
And in all the church deficiencies, the church aid has to know,
They come across, quite handsomly, at every beck and call,
And I think, sometimes, their bank account, is getting rather small.

They never quarrel they never fight they never disagree,
And this is a situation, you do not often see.
The Ladies Aid is wonderful, we hope it will always abide,
For the church is financially lost, if the Aid does not stand by its side.

The Ladies Aid, dear Ladies Aid, we are here giving thanks to thee,
For all the aid, you have given the church and all that is yet to be.

BE MANNERLY

The age of chivalry has not passed, for when a few of our colleges add emphasis to courses in good manners for men, it goes without saying that all is not lost in the field of etiquette. This return to manners is sponsored by colleges and universities throughout the country. The modern version does not deal so much with hat doffing and bowing as with motor manners, dating conduct, smoking, shaving successfully in any St. Joe home. No intelligent man would neglect to follow them if he wishes to be socially correct. We prefer the college training in manners to attention to gold-fish swallowing!

Tornadoes, hurricane warning, storm signals, flooded areas, seem to accompany the lady called Spring. The U. S. Weather Bureau is kept busy prognosticating and citizens are worried whether weather and control will work hand in hand. Many sections of this large land are visited with floods during winter thaws, and inundated homes bring sorrow to folks affected and general dismay to the public. Those of us in DeKalb County who are fortunate to escape these catastrophes can still sympathize with the districts visited by spring's entourage of tornado, flood and cyclone.

REBUILDING

Florida was hard hit by the severe cold and the many growers of this state are attempting a come-back through a vigorous replanting campaign. Many agencies have stepped forward to lend assistance in the rebuilding of the citrus fruit market that has been struck a nasty blow. The vegetable market, especially the bean crop, has suffered from the killing frost. The St. Joe housewife will discover the amount of damage done. There is always the business of mending, patching, cleaning and rebuilding, after a disaster and the growers of Florida are already busy. They have given time and energy to bring to the markets of the country the fruits and vegetables that decorate the American board. May the sun shine brightly upon them as they go about their rehabilitation program.

GOOD FARMING

Wealth in the ground and a farm that can prosper is the dream and becomes the reality to many a man who understands good soil, climate and management. It is not necessary to have relief and subsidies to produce good crops and attain a hearty harvest. Agriculture is not increased in value through government agencies, it only increases the income. The richness of the soil, the fertility of the crop, the resourcefulness of the grower are the fundamentals for prospering farms. A lasting prosperity can be erected on the acres of land that are blessed by nature and nurtured by God and man. Well to bear in mind, "Plant to prosper."

PLANS AFOOT

Housewives of St. Joe are beginning to make plans for a period of housecleaning and kitchens in the towns will enter into being the cog of a family clean-up campaign. Hopes for new paint and prayers for new gadgets are flitting through many a head. The pictures of 1940 kitchens leave the women a bit envious. But most of today's work-rooms outshine the models of years back when poor lighting, poor ventilation, wooden floors and table-tops to be scrubbed, lamps to be cleaned, coal or wood stoves to be fired, all made housekeeping real labor. With paint cans and family saws busy, many of our kitchens of today resemble yesterday's parlors!

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

When Polonius said of Hamlet that, being a prince, he might walk with longer tether than common men were want to do, he did not have a United States Minister to Canada in mind, but if a short halter is the badge of a common man, Mr. Cromwell belongs in that group. In a speech at Toronto, the diplomatic representative made remarks which justify the board statement that they were anti-German and pro-Ally. A rebuke from Secretary of State Hull, for violating general instructions, followed. The head is with Mr. Hull, but the heart is with a Senator who maintained in substance that Minister Cromwell simply had repeated what everybody else was saying, and why make a misdoing out of it?

The shake-up in the French cabinet was the result of three desires in the public mind: a smaller and more speedily working body, one that would include statesmen of all political creeds, and more pep at the front. The ultimate probable fulfillment of the last mentioned seems to be all that was accomplished, and perhaps that is enough, for the time being at least.

The positive step taken by France quickened the pulses of those in England who think that the ministry of that land is a little too "tolerant." English comment ranged from a demand for a whoesale house cleaning to the view that what the French did was their own affair and no concern of Britain: yet there seems to be a widespread call for activity of a kind which will throw fear into the soul of the enemy and increase the sympathetic respect of those who have not taken sides.

Having quieted the Finns, so far as active warfare is concerned, Russia is reported to be putting on the screws. Finland is not to enter the North European alliance, and the boundary heretofore suggested is to be shoved further into Finnish territory. Dropping the screw, but still keeping to mechanics for a figure speech, Russia up to this time seemingly has given but a few light taps to the wedge. The full swing blows are to come later, as everyone has suspected from the first.

The anti-third term movement was strengthened in one sense, but weakened as a working unit, by the definite entrance of Mr. Farley into the field. His quoted words leave no room for doubt as to his intentions: "To clear up and misunderstanding, let me say that my name will be presented to the Democratic National Convention, and that's that." A middle ground party maintain that Mr. Farley's candidacy will do no more than give him a good chance for the second place. Opposing candidates and out and out third termers speak well of Mr. Farley, but the friends of Mr. Roosevelt, though mildly astonished in some instances, see no warning of a political split, or more than a disire on the part of the Post Master General to clear the horizon as soon as possible.

On the Republican side, Messrs. Dewey and Vanderberg continue to be most talked about. The Michigan Senator says that the Presidential decision this year is too desperately important to be pursued in the interest of any personal aspiration, a view which Mr. Dewey shares. Hope springs eternal in the breasts of both parties. According to the Democrats, they have five available candidates, any one of whom can be elected. Republican confidence is reflected in the advice: "Don't allow this Administration to discourage you too much, because it is only going to be here eight more months."

Odds and ends. A Pennsylvania, Student who took the Bible literally, cut off his own hand. The President of a Washington University reports that the deliberations of a national conference on theoretical physics are too deep for a mere college president. A vessel into the port of Baltimore. A New Jersey man who suspected his coal dealer, confirmed his suspicions by weighing a ton of coal, a shovelful at a time, on a pair of household scales.

MORTUARY

SPITLER

Edward, son of Oscar and Mary Spitler was born at Spencerville, Indiana on January 1, 1869 and departed this life at the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne, Indiana on March 22, 1940 at the age of 71 years 2 months and 21 days.

On March 21, 1929, he was united in marriage to Della Smith, who preceded him in death on August 17th 1929.

He was a member of the Masonic Lodge at Spencerville and spent his entire life on the farm on which he was born.

He is survived by two brothers, Milton of Spencerville and Lorenzo of Branch, Mich., and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Oberholtzer of Harlan and Mrs. Clara Keesler of Branch, Mich.

Funeral services were held at the residence, 2 P. M. sunday, March 24, with burial at White City. Rev Frank Stevenson officiating. Local Masonic Lodge held ceremony rites at home, and at grave.

STRONG

William Leslie Strong, son of Marietta E. Robinson and Ephriam B. Strong, was born November 11, 1849, on the Andrews farm, near Newville ville, Ind., and died March 22, 1940, at his farm home in the same neighborhood at the age of 90 years 4 months and 11 days. He outlived one sister, Ida Harrod, two brothers, Henry and Lisbon, his wife Ella Scoville, whom he married April 14, 1889, and one son George, who died February 16, 1937. He leaves one son Hugh, who has lived with his father, one daughter Mary Schondelmayer, of Centerville, 10 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

He confessed his faith in Christ and was baptized June 24, 1936, uniting with the Church of Christ at Newville. With the exception of 17 years spent in Edgerton, Ohio, he has lived practically his whole life in this community. He was remarkably blessed in the normal use of his powers of mind and body excepting a partial loss of hearing. He kept well informed on current events and continued to attend Bible School and church services excepting when hindered by occasional illness. His last attendance at church was one week ago, March 17.

"There is a reaper whose name is Death,
He reaps the bearded grain
at a breath
And the flowers that grow between."

At the close of his long and useful life he was like a ripened sheaf ready to be garnered into the eternal harvest of his Lord, respected and loved by all who knew him.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Newville Christian church with burial following in Evergreen cemetery at Newville.

STUCKEY

Fannie Schlatter Stuckey, daughter of Benedick and Fannie Lugbill Schlatter, was born October 15, 1856, in Cedar Creek Township. The Lord called her home March 13, 1940, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Miller. Age 83 years, 5 months, 28 days. In her youth she accepted Christ as her personal Savior and united with the Mennonite church of which so was a faithful member until her departure. She was a faithful and devoted Mother and will be greatly missed by her immediate family and friends.

In the spring of 1880 she was united in marriage to Joe Stuckey and to this union were born 4 children, Emma, Frank, Libbie, and Joe. Libbie went to her eternal home in Sept. 1884. Her husband Joe Stuckey passed away 1886. August 4, 1888 she was again united in marriage to Christian Stuckey and to this union four children were born, Rose, Anna, Noah, and William. Noah died in infancy. Nearly 8 years ago September 17, 1932 her husband, Christian went home to be with the Lord.

She leaves to mourn her sudden departure, Mrs. Emma Miller, Mrs. Rosa Beck, Mrs. Anna Stuckey, Frank, Joe and William Stuckey 24 grandchildren, 9 great-grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends. She will also be missed by the congregation because of her faithful attendance.

The services were held in the Leo Mennonite church on Saturday afternoon, March 16, in charge of Jesse Short of Archbold, Ohio and J. S. Neuhouser of Grabill, Ind. Interment in the Schlatter cemetery, northwest of Leo, in charge of Roscoe Walter.

Relatives of Mrs. Stuckey from a distance were: Sam Stuckey and wife, Pettersville, Ohio; Emanuel Stuckey, Mr. and Mrs. Grieser Archbold, Ohio; Peter Stuckey and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Stuckey, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stuckey, Aaron Stuckey, Dan Short, Ferner Klinger, Mrs. John Stuckey, Stryker, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stuckey, Rev. MONKEY BUSINESS

On a lovely little island in a sunny southern sea,
Lived a chattering tribe of monkeys; they were happy as could be.
They lived on nuts and foliage and each one had his share;
There was always enough to go around and often some to spare.
While some of them were satisfied there were some who seemed to feel
That if they had a leader they would get a better deal.
So they had a big election and they did the thing up grand;
They chose a great big monkey, the smartest of the band.
He made a great acceptance speech. He said, "MY FRIENDS" I guess
You have named the proper monkey to straighten out the mess."
He said, "If we would prosper how plainly I can see
We must take half the cocoanuts and throw them in the sea.
"And then a little later, when the peanuts start to grow,
We will have to work together and dig up every other row."
So they dug up half the peanuts, they worked for days and days,
For he had promised them a profit for the ones they didn't raise.
But later in the season, in the leader's first report,
They found the crop of cocoanuts was very, very short.
Now the little baby monkeys, with their hair as soft as silk,
Depend upon the cocoanut for their supply of milk.
And before the common monkeys knew what it was all about,
The smart ones cornered all the food and they were left without.
Now the stronger ones are hungry and and the weaker ones are dead,
And the scheme to help the country is sadly in the red.
Of course it's monkey business; we shouldn't make a fuss,
But what if some big ape should try a stunt like that on us?

Members of the Townsend club in St. Joe, have received the following information from Dr. Townsend, pension advocate, on his proposal: "I should like to make it clear for once and for all that we have never, since the first few months, sought a flat pension of $200, or any other set amount. We have been asking for a two percent tax on the gross business of the country and our bill proposes to pay an equal share of the tax revenue thus derived to all cititens past 60, who will retire. We believe that pensions today would amount to something over $60 a month, and that, as business expanded, these pensions would increase.

The old oaken bucket and pump as well...

you need an ELECTRIC WATER SYSTEM

FOR centuries, women on farms had to bend their backs as they pumped water from wells whose fame was sung by poets sitting at ease. Today, the modern farmer's wife sings the praises of an ELECtric Water System which assures running water at the turn of a tap. It is estimated that 150 gallons a day may be used in the bathroom alone by the farm family. Then there are the kitchen and laundry needs. Each cow needs 25 gallons of water a day and horses should have 15 gallons of water a day, each. 100 chickens consume 2½ gallons a day. Irrigation and fire-fighting are two of the other vitally important needs for ELECtrically pumped water.

37 TONS of water a year must be pumped and carried to the kitchen alone for the average family.

ANNUAL WILDLIFE STAMP SALE IN CHARGE OF CLUBS

The 1940 series of Wildlife Poster Stamps was placed on sale in St. Joe, and can be seen in the News office window announced by Willard Hurni, President of the St. Joe Conservation Club.

This attractive series of colored poster stamps can be secured up to and including Saturday, March 30. Stamps will be withdrawn from sale after that date. Local conservation club members are especially interested in the sale of stamps, Mr. Hurni pointed out, as the club will receive 40 per cent of the stamp sale revenue to finance its local conservation program and activities.

Twenty-four different designs and key stamps are offered this year, made up in sheets of 100 stamps and to be sold at $1 a sheet or one cent for each separate stamp. The 24 stamps dramatizing conservation and wildlife restoration include ten game, song and insectivorous birds, five animals, four fish, three wildflowers and two trees; and are reproduced in color from paintings by nationally known artists.

Sale of the Wildlife Poster Stamps in Indiana this year is again sponsored by the organized conservation clubs under the supervision of the State Conservation Advisory Committee. In 1939 Indiana ranked third among the states in the number of stamps sold, only New York and Michigan selling more stamps than the Hoosier clubs.

The People's Column!

ANOTHER MONKEY STORY

Ft. Wayne, Ind. 3-30-40

Mr. F. B. Leighty
St. Joe, Ind.

Dear Friend:

In looking over the News for this week I was somewhat amused by your piece in regard to the Monkey, but of course your being a Republican, you only told half the story. I read a dream that a party was supposed to have several years ago along the same line, which might be enlightening to yourself and readers. "And I saw several monkeys with clubs in their hands, and they strutted about the forest which was filled with other monkeys gathering cocoanuts, and they beat these other monkeys when they caught them eating any of the nuts they gathered. And there was one pompous monkey, who came and inspected the pile of nuts they gathered, of whom the monkeys with clubs seemed to be in mortal fear, for they crawled up to him like whipped dogs, though either of the club monkeys could have thrashed the life out of him, monkey fashion, and the nut monkeys maintained silence during the pompous monkey's presence and gathered nuts faster and handled them with greater care.

At night the nut gathering monkeys went away and they were given one-tenth of the nuts they had gathered, and a new set of monkeys with clubs releived the ones on duty, they were to guard the nuts from the nut gathering monkeys. And there came another troups of monkeys, and they gathered up the nuts and took them to the tree of the pompous monkey. And I noticed that the monkeys with clubs took with them about three times as many nuts as the nut-gathering monkeys had given them. But what puzzled me most, was why the nut gathering monkeys, who out numbered the ones with clubs ten to one, should be in such mortal fear of them, and why the monkeys with clubs were so abject, before the one pompous monkey, who didn't even have a club to protect himself. All these things seemed so rediculous, and I thought the monkeys had a new game to amuse themselves instead of the one of mimicry. So I went to the tree where the nut gathering monkeys were, and I found them bare and the little ones crying for something to eat and the old ones dividing the scanty nuts among them, and not taking enough themselves. Then I hunted the tree of the pompous monkey. It was a glorious tree loaded with nuts, and all about were piles and piles of nuts, and around were also many lesser but pretty trees, in which I noticed the monkeys who carried the clubs, and they also had plenty of nuts but no great surplus. And I began to think here is eveidence that man decended from the monkey, for man does just this way in every land under the sun.

He gathers the wealth of the world, it is guarded by foremen, Police, Army and Navy, to see that he gets only the smallest share, that he can live on, and he garners the result of his toil and genius into the bin of the few idlers and heaps up wealth for them to squander and lavished on their servants and soldiers, and starves amid the plenty he has created, shivers amid the palaces he has erected, and goes ragged amid the beautiful he has fashioned.

This is not a dream; it is a literal fact as to man, but fiction as to the monkeys, for any one knows that monkeys have too much sense to gather nuts for another monkey to munch. yes, we are civilised, man is a great animal the apex of wisdom he shoots his brother workers because they will not take a less share of the nuts they have gathered for their share. This dream always comes to me when I read of a strike, and I wonder when the civilised will have the intelligence of the tribes of the trees of the tropics.

SALE OF SOME SPECIES OF FISH BANNED BY LAW

Sale of certain species of fish is prohibited in Indiana regardless of where the fish are taken, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, explained today in answering an inquiry from a dealer. The inquiry, one of several received in the last few days, resulted from the marketing of white bass taken from some of the Great Lakes, principally Lake Erie.

The Indiana laws prohibit the sale or purchase of small or large mouth bass, Kentucky bass, silver or yellow bass; white or striped bass; red-eared sunfish, crappies or rock bass regardless of whether taken in this state or brought into Indiana from some other state. As defined by the law, the term "sale" includes serving any of these species of fish by any restaurant, hotel, boarding house or eating house keeper, except when served to the person who took the fish legally in Indiana, during the open esason.

Facts About Registration

With the primary election of 1940 falling on May 7, it is none too early to call attention to the registration of voters, for each election year thousands of citizens lose their right to vote through their neglect to register.

A legally qualified voter of any precinct is a person 21 years of age, or who will be 21 years of age on the day of the next general election, who is a citizen of the United States and who is, on the day of the primary election a bona fide resident of such precinct and who is duly registered as provided by law.

To be eligible to vote at the coming primary on May 7, all voters must be registered. This includes first voters, that is, those persons who will be 21 years of age on the day of the next general election in November, 1940.

Registration of voters continues up to and including the 29th day preceding the primary election, or this year, until April 8, after which no registration will be accepted until after the primary, and persons failing to register by that time cannot vote in the primary election.

The Clerk of the circuit court is the ex-officio registration officer. The Clerks of cities and towns are the deputy ex-officio registration officers. The Clerk of the Circuit Court is empowered to name as many deputy registration officers as he deems necessary and with one of the officials, all voters must register.

Any voter who has previously registered, thus placing his name on the registration books of his ward or precinct, need not register again, if he has not moved out of his ward or percinct to some other location out of his county.

If the voter has moved from the ward or precinct in which he previously registered to a new location in his county, he must apply to the proper registration officer for a transfer of his registration from his former registration place to his new location and the official will have his name properly transfered to the new location.

If he moves out of his county, he will have to register in the county to which he has moved.

Any voter whose name does not now appear on the registration books will have to register if he desires to vote in the coming primary.

Registered voters who have changed their names through marriage or divorce will have to verify their identity to the election board before they can vote in the primary.

It is not only a duty, but a great privilege for American citizens to choose, by their own votes, the candidates for their party's ticket in the fall election; and since one of the legal requirements for exercising this great privilege is registration, all good citizens will register on or before April 8, if not now registered, so that they may be qualified to express their preferences at the polls on Primary Election Day, May 7.

RIVIVAL SERVICES AT CONCORD

Evangelistic Services are now in progress at the Concord Methodist church. The Pastor, L. E. Clayton, is bringing the messages each evening at 7:30 o'clock. This series of meetings is scheduled for two weeks, March 25 to April 7. No services on Saturday nights. The public is invited to attend.

DOG TAX REVENUE LESS THAN CLAIMS FOR DAMAGE

The annual distribution of dog tax money just made by County Auditor Burley Ensley involves only $281.43, as compared with $1,261 a year ago. The distribution will aid some of the trustees in meeting claims for sheep killed by dogs but a deficit of $680.84 remains. The deficit last year was $261.

The law provides that a trustee shall pay sheep claims from his dog tax receipts if he has an adequate amount. If he has a ballance, he may reserve $100 and remit the rest to the auditor, who turns the money over to the trustees who have claims exceeding in amount their receipts. Not having sufficient to meet all claims, the auditor made a pro rata distribution to the trustees. They will pay the balance of their pending claims from dog tax collections this spring and from the annual surplus dog fund distribution by the state in July.

The cost to the county of ravages by dogs showed an increase of 30 per cent in 1939 over the previous year. A theory advanced is that this is due to the increase in the number of police dogs in the towns and cities. These dogs, it is said, will travel five or six miles into the country at night to make raids on flocks of sheep. Farmers can protect their flocks with shepherd dogs of their own, or by penning the sheep up at night. Some farmers, it is said do not have good dogs. It is stated that many farmers do not raise sheep because of the danger from dogs.

Dead Sheep Appraised

After sheep are killed two farmers of the neighborhood are called in to appraise them and the owner then files a claim with the trustee.

The reports by the trustees show that they paid during the year 1938, $2,818 in sheep claims and owed $1,146 at the close of the year, or a total liability of $3,964. Last year the disbursements were $4,219 and the deficit was $962, making a total loss of $5,171.

The reports by townships follow:

Butler, receipts $325.30, disbursements $311.20, balance $14.10.

Concord, receipts 376.14, disbursements $322, balance $54.14.

Fairfield, receipts $260, disbursements $135.60, remitted to auditor $24.40, balance $100.

Franklin, receipts $143.22, disbursements same.

Grant, receipts $268.13, disbursements $268, balance 13 cents.

Jackson, receipts $478.00, disbursements same.

Keyser, receipts $657, disbursements $518, to auditor, $39, balance $100.

Newville, receipts $244.77, disbursements $192.25, balance $52.52.

Richland, receipts $569.64, disbursebursements $569.50, balance 14 cents.

Smithfield, receipts $272, disbursements $218.20, balance, $53.80.

Spencer, receipts $225.69, disbursements $197.90, balance $27.79.

Stafford, receipts $81.76, disbursements same.

Troy, receipts $260.86, disbursements same.

Union, receipts $447.48, disbursements $319, to auditor $49.13, balance $100.

Wilmington, receipts $477.48, disbursements $208.58, to auditor $168.90, balance $100.

Unpaid claims are as follows: Butler township $24, Franklin $368.78, Grant $179.75, Jackson $67.15, Richland, $152.50, Stafford $92.24 and Troy $77.85.

TAXPAYERS SHOULD KNOW MORE ABOUT PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Taxpayers know that schools are costing a lot of money these days, but they don't know why and they don't know what they're getting for their money, W. H. Pillsbury, superintendent of schools at Schenectady, N. Y., said last week in a talk at St. Louis.

Educators are to blame, he bluntly told fellow schoolmen at the 70th convention of the American Association of School Administrators at the municipal auditorium. Pillsbury declared that the school and the public for the past two decades have gradually been drawing apart because educators have been "so occupied with improvement of procedures that we have lost sight of the fact that progress is safe only as it carries with it public understanding and support."

He recommended a "well-conceived program of public relations" and urged educators to convince the public that the schools should be generally supported.

MORTUARY

WILMOT

Arthur Wilmot, son of George and Lucia (Palmer) Wilmot, was born at Mantua, Ohio, October 5, 1854, and died at the home of his son Lee, near Garrett, Indiana, March 27, 1940. He was 85 years, 5 months and 22 days old.

Arthur was the last of a family of 9 children to answer the final summons. Six of these grew to manhood and were especially useful as citizens in their generation.

Arthur was especially strong for the heavy tasks of his time. The family being large for the home work, he early sought employment elsewhere. Many of the first country buildings were rude structures, and had to be rebuilt, removed to better locations, or displaced by new and better buildings. The land had to be drained in order to its better production. Arthur responded fully to the call of this rugged employment.

With the exception of a few short periods—one in Ohio, one in Michigan and one in the west—his entire life centered around St. Joe and Coburntown. Here he grew to manhood. Here he united in marriage with Ellen Josephine Allen, and here their children grew to adult life and engaged in the worthy pursuits of the community. In the family born to them are: Mrs. Anna Bachtel, of St. Joe; Lee Wilmot, near Garrett; Ora Wilmot, near Columbia City, and Fay Wilmot, of Ft. Wayne. There are also seven grandchildren and five great grand grandchildren.

Mrs. Wilmot died May 25, 1925, and since her death Arthur has lived among children. He was never idle. He was a good neighbor, always willing and ready to help where help was needed.

Funeral services were conducted from the Kinsey Funeral Home, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. N. Scholes officiating. Interment was made in Aton cemetery.

MAPLE SUGAR TIME

And so the sap is dripping? What delight in the sniffing as the boiling sap in the big black pots brings to us the maple syrup that appeals to the taste of all us! Vermont, New Sork and Ohio lead in the production of this confection and we have a corner on this trade in our America. It comes to us from the early Indians and the running of the sap is the occasion for a fete day in many localities. Many a city dweller knows nothing of the method used in collecting the sap that drips from the trees but to George Beams it recalls a crackling wood fire that licks around a boiling syrup from which comes an odor like nothing else. A lot of sap it takes to make a pound of sugar or a cake of candy. What a pity that we haven't all had a chance to taste maple taffy that has been poured on the snow to cool.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Concerning the attitude of mind as "economy," the House has been more inclined than the Senate to tighten the purse strings. The free givers in the lower body, nevertheless, had their way when the report of the Appropriations Committee was modified for the CCC, an activity of great popularity. A reversal of the House action is not expected. The increase will make it possible to continue the fifteen hundred camps already in operation.

Japan is disturbed over the fact that the United States is thinking of strengthening its naval force in the Philippines, and says that the "question" is thus and so. One is inclined to wonder what "question" may properly be raised. After all, the islands are substantially United States territory. Hitler and Stalin have attempted to popularize the notion that national defense by countries other than those over which they rule, gives ground for protest or question. There is no international census taker whose inquiries have to be answered. It should be possible for a nation, as well as an individual, to maintain self respect in the face of the process which is commonly known as sticking in an oar.

A Nazi publication in Berlin comes forward with the argument that the shedding of blood in war is a good thing because it perpetuates a bold manhood and all the virtues that make men admirable to women. A Gallup poll among the widows and orphans might yield interesting figures. It is to be suspected that such a group would be more interested in a peace-loving husband and daddy plowing the back lot, than in a more militant one in the burying ground.

Regarding possible candidates for the Presidential nominations, the arrival of favorite sons is offset now and then by indications that here and there is someone who has no ambition to arrive. On the Democratic side, Senator Clark of Missouri is outspoken. In the Republican camp, Mr. Landon will head the Kansas delegation, a circumstance which is interpreted to mean that his name is not to go on the ticket. Taken as one man's view, Rep. Tinkham of Massachusetts thinks that Mr. Dewey is not the right man, alleging that he is a supporter of the Administration's foreign policy; whereas the friends of Mr. Dewey feel that he is the only person who can throw an effective scare into his political enemies, and make the scare good. So far, no Democratic possibility is being opposed on the ground that he has leanings toward the other side. Those who would see Mr. Garner in the White House call for an open-minded convention. Failure to mention other names is no indication that the men they identify are losing ground.

Britain and France lately have entered into a new agreement by the terms of which they are more strongly united to a community of action in all spheres for the reconstruction, with the aid of other nations, of an international order which will assure peace in Europe, and a decent regard for law. Neither of the contracting parties will negotiate peace or an armistice without the consent of the other. It is certain that the outcome of the Finnish war was a jolt for the Allies, and it is true that each of them has to deal with a party that is lukewarm to the notion of seeing the war through at any cost; yet it appears that both England and France have come through what may be regarded as the disappointments of the past, with a fortified mind respecting the future.

By the narrow margin of 44 to 41, the Senate defeated the Pittman amendment requiring ratification of reciprocal trade agreements. It was a victory for Secretary of State Hull and the Administration hard fought, it is true, and no landslide or walkover, but a victory none the less.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—As the filing deadline for the Indiana primaries approaches, it is apparent that every Hoosier member of Congress will be a candidate for re-nomination on May 7.

While a few of the Indiana Congressmen have delayed filing their declarations of the seven Republicans and five Democrats will be in the hands of the Secretary of State before closing time Saturday.

Most observers are of the opinion that all will win places on the November ballot without much difficulty. Political organizations in each of Indiana's Congressional districts will throw their support to incumbent Congressmen.

This, however, has not discouraged independent opposition in several of the districts—including the First, Second, and Eight.

* * *

THE MOST SERIOUS opposition to a Republican incumbent, strangely enough, has developed in the district represented by Rep. Charles A. Halleck, Indiana's leading Republican member of the House.

Halleck will be opposed in the primary by Fred Landis Jr., son of the Congressman whom Halleck succeeded in 1934. Landis comes from a family which has been prominent in Second District politics for generations, and his name alone will carry considerable weight with the voters.

But Halleck's supporters are not worried. They are counting heavily on his personal popularity, plus strong organization support, to give him a comfortable majority in the Primary.

Thus Willis remains as the odds-on favorite to win the Senate nomination without serious opposition.

This reporter recently talked with a political observer who had just returned to Washington from an extended tour of Indiana, checking up on sentiment among local Republican leaders.

"The Governor race," he reported, "is pretty much of a toss-up, with Hillis and Jenner struggling to keep a slight lead over the field.

"But the Senate nomination is in the bag for Willis. Nearly everyone I talked to had the same comment to make: "Willis has earned the nomination. He should have been elected in 1938. He's the strongest candidate we have."

* * *

REP. GEORGE W. GILLIE, popular Fourth District Congressman, threw his hat in the ring today. The Scoth-born former Allen County Sheriff, who was elected in '38 by the largest majority of any candidate in the State, filed his declaration of candidacy at Indianapolis with a brief announcement that he would seek renomination next month.

Gillie's declaration was accompanied by nearly 400 petitions, bearing more than 10,000 signatures gathered by his supporters in every precinct in the district. The petitions, weighing several pounds, if laid end to end would have covered more than a city block. It is believed to be one of the longest petitions ever circulated on behalf of a Hoosier Congressional candidate.

Gillie won the Republican nomination two years ago over Fred Greene by a vote of approximately 20,000 to 4,000. In the November election he defeated former Congressman James I. Farley by 21,000 votes, carrying every county in the district including Wells and Adams, one-time Democratic strongholds.

* * *

CONGRESSMAN William T. Schulte, Gary Democrat, faces the most unusual opposition in the Indiana primaries. A mother of 11 children has announced that she will seek the First District nomination against him.

Asked to comment on the candidacy of his feminine opponent, Schulte said: "I think she should stay home and take care of her children. It would be dangerous to neglect them."

Schulte, a member of the District of Columbia Committee, recently called Washington policemen sissies for not employing "strong arm" methods on criminals.

Next day police picked up a Government employee from Schulte's district as a robber suspect, mussed him up considerably.

The arrest didn't disturb Schulte, however.

"I checked up on the boy," he said. "He's a Republican."

ST. JOE SICK FOLKS

Josephus Shilling is reported as improved over his condition last week.

Wilson Beeber, of east of town is confined to his bed and is in a serious condition, being unconscious a portion of the time.

Laney Gee is reported as poorly for the past couple weeks with heart attacks. We hope that as soon as the weather clears, all of the sick folks will be able to be about.

Mrs. Malinda Shilling, who has been ill for the past few weeks is confined to her bed. Reports have it that she is unable to see. Her son Howard and wife are taking care of her.

The condition of Mrs. Cora Price continues about the same. Mrs. Clara Hart is the day nurse and a Miss Price of Fort Wayne, is the night nurse. We hope that the condition of Mrs. Price will improve as every care possible is being given.

The Kinsey ambulance brought Wilbur Shroyer home Wednesday afternoon, from the Ann Arbor hospital, where he had been taken two weeks ago. He is considered very serious and possibly beyond their help. Merritt Sechler took Mrs. Shroyer to Ann Arbor on Tuesday afternoon after receiving a message.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"Pulling The Curtain," a hilarious novelty by Tom Taggart, is the title of the St. Joe, Senior Class Play to be presented in the St. Joe Auditorium on April 12th.

This play tells what happened when Leffie Jewel Hunderstine, decided to produce her own play—a delicate English drama. Act one includes the reading and the casting. Act two, is the dress rehearsal—six months later. Act three, is the final performance. Much of the novelty of this play lies in the fact that, like "The Spider," most of the action occurs in the alles and amidst the audience. The cast is as follows:

Leffie Jewel Hunderstine	Joanna Franks
Mrs. Carrie Catwaller	DeEtta Culbertson
Mr. Herman Sprecher	Ralph Lanum
Mr. Lucas Luxow	Jack Chorpenning
Miss Lena Wells	Helen Goodwin
Erie Drizzell	Maxine Woodcox
Fonzy Donahue	Burl Rude
Hobert Hanley	Wayne Fetters
Betty Hanley	Betty Kees
Nora McClellan	Iris Jackson
Johnny McClellan	Jackie Bowser
Leon Hunderstine	Lavon Brunson
James Killian	Russell Richards
Aunt Edna Dinwiddie	June Swanders
Ruby Lee Rakestraw	Marcia Wade

INDIANA MUST CALL A HALT ON NEW TAXES

A call to taxpayers, to protect their own interests, was made by Harry Miesse, executive secretary of the Indiana Taxpayers Association.

"It is about time that taxpayers began thinking of themselves," Mr. Miesse said. "Every few days they hear that some group with a private ax to grind is getting ready to quiz candidates for the state legislature. These groups are pledging themselves to support only those candidates who agree to do their bidding. Many of the proposals now being hatched mean the expenditure of public money-and increase in the cost of government. If these increases are ordered, the general property taxpayers will have to foot the bill. They can forestall heavier burdens if they also will take an interest in the selection of legislative candidates and put those who seek office on record in favor of governmental economy."

"Official records show a continual increase in public expenditures," Mr. Miesse explained. "When new taxes were proposed, the excuse given was that the base of taxation should be broadened and some relief provided for the property taxpayers. Property taxes did go down for a time but they have started back up again and unless this trend is stopped the total tax bill promises to be as enormous as it was in the days when something drastic had to be attempted.

"Last year the property taxes alone amounted to about $100,321,494. This year that total will be increased to $105,313,277. Meanwhile, from new sources, the state collected over $21,000,000 last year in gross income taxes, $1,615,995 in taxes on the intangibles of banks and trust companies, $263,657 in building and loan intangible taxes, $1,252,216 in taxes on general intangibles and $6,800,353 in excise taxes on intoxicants. These items alone amounted to over $31,000,000 in new taxes paid by the people of Indiana, but the property tax load becomes steadily heavier. To these taxes we might add $23,085,292 paid by motorists for gasoline fees. The automobile is a prolific source of revenue. Auto license collections amounted to $8,393,778 last year. Drivers paid $604,026 for permits to operate their cars. Other income included $249,879 for certificates of title, $268,432 for auto transfers and $568,710 in weight taxes from the owners of trucks. These items total $33,170,112, without counting close to $6,000,000 collected from car owners by the federal government on a basis of one cent for each gallon of gasoline purchased.

"Add the property tax of over $105,000,000 to the new taxes and the collections from motorists--all of whom also pay other taxes--and we get a total of virtually $170,000,000. Remember we are not talking about other imposts. Federal taxes amounted to $113,515,117. These items mentioned are collected within the state and still there are many persons preparing to ask the next session of the general assembly for things that will force expenses still higher.

"Consider these figures; consider the tendency to ask for more and more; think of the taxes you are paying now and then see if you do not agree with me that persons elected to the next legislature should be pledged to economy. We've got to call a halt or face tax rates higher than the people can pay."

TIME TO FILE GROSS INCOME TAX RETURNS

Gross income tax returns covering income received during the first quarter of 1940-January, February, and March--are due April 1 to April 15, Gilbert K. Hewit, director of the Gross Income Tax Division, announced today, with a reminder that prompt payment of the tax is a good way to save money.

Gross income tax return forms and information and assistance in filling the forms have been available in the one hundred and fifty auto license branches throughout the State and at some two hundred and fifty additional distribution points. The distribution points are established to make the filing of returns as convenient as possible, and in this comunity blanks can be secured free by calling at the News office.

A ten per cent to fifty per cent "discount" is worth attending to. In effect that is what you save by paying on time. One sales tax state has uniquely advertized actual discounts for paying on time. Our "discounts' are reversed. --There are penalties for not paying when you should.

Quarterly returns must be filed by all those whose tax for the quarter exceeds $10. All taxpayers are entitled to an exemption of $250 per quarter; retail merchants are granted an exemption of $750 per quarter from receipts from selling at retail as defined under the Gross Income Tax Act. This exemption, however, is not in addition to the regular exemption.

TOWSEND MEETING

The St. Joe Townsend Club will assemble at the Town Hall Thursday evening, April 4, at 7:30 promptly. If you are interested in this recovery plan try and come as information of importance is being received daily, you can know if you come.

A
BEATS A HEN

For Brooding Chicks

The "power behind the throne" is ofttimes a strange thing . . . take the Electric "Mother" who broods chicks - - "She" is the Power House sitting there in the background . . .

ELECtric brooding is the efficient method. Chicks can obtain warmth when they need it without losing the benefit of cool, invigorating air while exercising and feeding. Pure Electric heat which has no fumes and no open flame to consume oxygen, produces sturdier, healthier chicks with greater resistance to disease.

I CAN'T HELP THINKING IT WAS MY FAULT

"We had a fire. And, of course, we had insurance. But I didn't know every policy states that a complete list of destroyed and damaged property must be supplied for settlement. I never made a list . . . and, of course, I couldn't remember after our fire. That cost us money!

"It was probably my fault for not making a list beforehand. I would have been ready. I won't make the same mistake again. I have one of those handy Inventory Booklets. It helps by listing things room by room, and suggesting items often forgotten. You can get one—and be ready. It didn't cost me a penny."

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

GOOD SEED ESSENTIAL FOR A GOOD CROP

The official Indiana seed tag lists 20 weeds as noxious. Only two of these weeds are native to Indiana, the rest came into the state by means of seed, hay, straw, etc. Experience has shown that once a weed is introduced to an area it is seldom entirely eradicated because some escape to waste places and continue to grow and produce seeds, states H. R. Kraybill, state seed commissioner of Purdue University.

Prevention of the spread of the more serious weeds is a problem with which all farmers must cope. Commerce in seeds is responsible for the most rapid spread of weeds and farmers are urged to use extreme care in the selection of their seeds for spring sowing.

Operation of the Indiana Seed Law, which requires that seed be labeled in a specified manner has done much to improve the quality of clover, and alfalfa seeds sold to Indiana farmers, according to the commissioner. Inspection reports issued by Kraybill's office indicate that the chances of getting seed as good as the label explains is much better than 20 to one in farm seeds of this class.

Many farmers who are particular about their clover seed and who will not consider sowing clover seed showing even an extremely low weed seed content are quite careless in the matter of seeding rye, oats, soybeans, wheat and seeds of this kind that have not been recleaned and tested. Oats purchased from a trucker peddler or a neighbor and used for seeding purposes without recleaning is a potential source of the spread of weeds. A slight saving in the purchase price of the oats may not pay the cost of eradicating the resulting weeds.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1940 NUMBER 15

COMPLETE LIST OF PRIMARY CANDIDATES

When the deadline for the filing of declarations of candidacy in the office of County Clerk Carl Walter arrived Saturday night, the republicans had aspirants registered for all offices, but no democrats were on record for joint state senator or prosecuting attorney. The county committee has until thirty days before the general election in November to fill the vacancies.

The democratic list on file for county office follows:

Congressman, Frank Corbett, Geo. Glass, and Carence Roy of Allen county, and T. P. Riddle of Steuben county.

Judge, Capt. W. D. Stump of Auburn.

State represenative, Edward K. Mayfield of Garrett, and Virgil Korff of north of Auburn.

County clerk, C. W. Creasy of Auburn, and Chas. L. Van Lear of Garrett.

County treasurer, Ford Ferguson of Auburn.

Sheriff, Oscar F. Fitch of Garrett, and Claud Talley and Harold Wise of Keyser township.

Coroner, Howard A. Hinklin of Garrett, and E. DuWayne Kinsey of St. Joe.

County surveyor, Clark F. Scholes of St. Joe.

Commissioner north, John Platt of Franklin township.

Commissioner southeast, Ford V. Jackson of Concord township.

Following is the republican list:

Congressman, Geo. W. Gillie, Fred Green and Norman Sweet, all of Allen county.

Judge, Wm. P. Endicott of Auburn.

Prosecuting attorney, Geo. E. Mounts of Garrett.

State senator, Harry M. Shull of Union township.

State representative, John R. Leighty of St. Joe, and Chas. T. Miser of Garrett.

County clerk, Eugene E. Browand, Walter E. Manon, Murray A. Steele and Robert H. Weaver, all of Auburn, and Oliver D. Opdcyke of Garrett.

County treasurer, Harvey Phelps of Butler.

Sheriff, Artus Coyle of Auburn.

Coroner, John R. Clark of Auburn, and Dr. R. A. Nason of Garrett.

County surveyor, Wayne T. Van Auken of Union township.

Commissioner north, Oscar Fulk of Smithfield township.

Commissioner southeast, Lloyd W. Yeiser of Concord township.

The incumbents who filed for renomination are Judge Endicott, Mr. Mounts, Mr. Phelps, Mr. Coyle, Mr. Clark, Mr. VanAuken, Mr. Yeiser and Mr. Gillie.

It is not necessary for judicial and legislative candidates to file with the county clerk, the law providing for their declarations and petitions to be filed with the secretary of state, who, in turn, certifies them to the county clerk.

Contests for Delegates

The democrats have two contests for delegates to the state convention. Keyser and Butler townships are entitled to four delegates, but have nine candidates, as follows: C. M. Bailey, Wallace Borts, Walter Diederich, Fred L. Feick, Dewey Hendrickson, James Rugman, Germaine McGurie, John Simon and Roy Whittington. Jackson and Union townships will elect four delegates from the following list of seven: Edward A. Baker, Chas. Davis, Ward Kruse, E. O. Little, Joseph Lumm, Dawson A. Quaintance and John L. Weaver. No-democrat filed for delegate from Concord and Spencer townships, which are entitled to one.

Five districts have contests for republican delegates. Earl Forrest and Vern L. Sparks are running in Fairfield and Smithfield townships, which are entitled to one. Grant and Richland townships, with two to elect, have Harry O. Barr, Perry Foote, E. E. Turner and D. A. Wing as candidates. Keyser township will elect two from this list of three: Frank Miller, Arthur T. Ober and Jay F. Olinger. Union township will choose five from a list of seven: Daniel Carbaugh, Harve B. Elson, Burley Ensley, Arthur E. Hardy, Reo Martin, Guy Myers and Lodie Potter, Chas. E. Adams, Otis S. Fisher, Orrin A. Huffman and Chas. O. Krise all seek the two places from Wilmington township.

The democrats have thirteen contests for precinct committeemen, including seven in Keyser township. The republicans have five such contests.

Saturday was the last day for candidates to withdraw their names. The legal notice of the primary will be published this week.

Monday was the last day for voters to registtr or transfer their registrations in order to vote at the primary.

The primary will be held May 7.

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of March 15 showed the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

Expenditures	$6,990,627,234.38
Receipts	$4,335,818,064.66
In the hole	$2,654,809,169.72

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,524,675,440.94.

Your per capita share of that debt is $327.11.

TWELFTH CURRENT REPORT IN ST. JOE BANK LIQUIDATION

The twelfth current report of Harold M. Kelley, special representative of the state department of financial institutions, of the liquidation of the St. Joe Valley bank has been filed in the DeKalb circuit court.

At the beginning of the period covered by the report, last July 1, cash on hand and due from banks amounted to $1,068.23. Receipts follow: Sale of remaining assets, $10,828.26; and cash from stock liability, $1,603.72. The total is $13,500.21.

Credit was asked for the following disbursements: Common claims dividend paid, 20 per cent, $12,431.98; expenses paid, $550.31; and cash included in sale of remaining assets, $517.92. The total is $13,500.21.

WILBUR SHROYER DIES AT AGE OF 42 YEARS

Wilbur, 42, son of Mr. Henry Shroyer, of 2 miles north of St. Joe, died Monday morning at 5:30 as result of cancer, after being confined to his bed for only a few weeks. The funeral was held at the country home, Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Frank Stevenson, pastor of the Lutheran church, with burial in Riverside cemetery, St. Joe. DuWayne Kinsey had charge of the burial.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Rep. George W. Gillie

Congressman George W. Gillie, of the Fourth Indiana District, announces that he will be a candidate for renomination in the Republican Primary on May 7.

Rep. George W. Gillie, member of Congress from the Fourth Indiana District, announces his candidacy for renomination on the Republican ticket in the Primary Election on May 7.

The announcement was made in Washington as he filed his formal declaration of candidacy by mail with the Secretary of State at Indianapolis. Accompanying his declaration were more than 400 petitions, bearing the signatures of approximately 12,000 qualified Republican voters in the eight counties of his Northeastern Indiana district.

This is believed to be the largest number of petitions ever filed by a Fourth District Congressional candidate.

Commenting on his candidacy, Congressman Gillie said that he did not intend to return to Indiana to conduct a campaign for the re-nomination. "I feel that I can better serve my constituents by remaining on the job in Washington," he declared.

He added that he was not certain that he would be able to return on election day, saying that it would depend on whether important legislation is under consideration at the time.

Congressman Gillie expressed his appreciation of the "many assurances of loyalty and support which have come to me from Republicans and Democrats alike," and said that he would do his "humble best" to warrant the continued confidence of his constituents.

"I wish particularly to thank the 1,000 persons who signed my petition of candidacy in DeKalb County," he added.

Congressman Gillie, serving his first term, has established himself as one of the best-known newer members of the House of Representatives. His towering height has made him a "marked man" in the legislative halls, and his genial personality and unassuming manner have earned him the respect and affection of veteran legislators in both parties.

As an active member of the House "farm bloc" he has played an influential part in forming the agricultural policies of the Republican minority in Congress.

Two months ago he presided over a fact-finding farm conference at Indianapolis, participated in by 500 Hoosier farmers and seven other members of Congress. Armed with a thick transcript of the testimony, he returned to Washington to assist the Special Agricultural Committee in drafting a report on the farm problem.

He is a member of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, and is the author of several bills, including a measure to discourage the publication of obscene literature, which passed the House in January.

Dr. Gillie was elected to Congress in 1938 in a landslide victory over former Congressman James I. Farley, New Deal Democrat, winning by a record margin of more than 20,000 votes.

His majority was larger than the Roosevelt majorities of 1932 and 1936, and he carried every county in the district for what is believed to be the first time in history. He won in DeKalb County by a vote of 7,251 to 5,210.

Before coming to Congress, Dr. Gillie served four terms as Sheriff of Allen County, his last term ending in 1936. He has made a habit of leading his ticket, and in the 1934 election was the only Republican to win office in Allen County.

Congressman Gillie was born in Scotland, coming to this country with his parents at the age of two. His boyhood was spent on a farm in Allen County.

He obtained his education in the Fort Wayne public schools, International Business College, Purdue University and Ohio State University, where he graduated in 1907 with a degree in veterinary medicine. At Ohio State he was captain of the track team and a member of the varsity football team.

Dr. Gillie began his career in the public service in 1908, when he was appointed meat and dairy inspector of Allen County. He has been active in Indiana politics since that time.

CULTURE CLUB CLOSES YEARS ACTIVITIES

The last meeting of the Culture club year was entertained at her home of Mrs. Ethel Wineland with a twelve o'clock three course luncheon. Committee in charge were the hostess, Mrs. Clara Sible, Mrs. Alice Reidenbach and Mrs. Lucile Lyon. After a very pleasant table conservation and thanking the committee in a unique way the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Pluma Hamilton and the business and election of officers for the coming year followed: Mrs. Lula Armstrong, Pres; Mrs. Neva Hursh, Vice-Pres; Mrs. Lucile Lyon, Sec; Mrs. Helen Schondelmyer, Assistant-Sec; Mrs. Ethel Wineland, Treas; Mrs. Sallie Gerig, Critic; Mrs. Troas Carpenter, Assistant-Critic; Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, Press Correspondant. There will be other appointments later.

Mrs. Lucile Lyon conducted two contests for Mrs. Dorothea Keesler of Auburn who could not be present. Mrs. Troas Carpenter and Mrs. Lula Armstrong received prizes. The mid-summer meeting will be entertained at Mrs. Lucile Lyon in July.

MRS. HENRY HAMM DIES AT COLDWATER

Graveside services for Mrs. Magdalene Hamm, 70, of Coldwater, Mich., a resident of Auburn for twenty years, were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Woodlawn cemetery, Auburn. Funeral services were held at Coldwater before bringing the body to Auburn for burial.

Mrs. Hamm died at 5:30 Thursday evening at her home in Coldwater from a heart ailment and dropsy. She was born in 1870 to James and Rebecca Baughman in Stark county, Ohio. She resided in DeKalb county for over thirty-five years, twenty years of which were spent in Auburn.

In 1894 she and Frank Hull were married and to them were born four children, all of whom survive, Stanley Hull of Ohio, Roger of Coldwater, Mrs. Hazel Hanna of Rollin, Mich., and Mrs. Ruth Wise of St. Joe. In 1926 Mrs. Hull and Henry Hamm of Garrett were married, and he also survives. There are eight grandchildren.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

A very pleasant birthday surprise was given to Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Howey at their home west of town Sunday, April 7. Mr. Howey's S. S. class came in a body and the surprise was complete. A splendid program was rendered.

Refreshments concisting of ice cream and cake, candy, popcorn and coffee were enjoyed by all. Those present were:

Ruth Butler and sons, Dale and Kinn, Mr. and Mrs. Everret Paschen and son Alfred, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Bowser, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miller, Rev. and Mrs. Clayton and sons, Dale and Johnnie, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Halleck, Helena Fairfield, Vera Reed, Fred Stemem, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Howey, and Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Howey.

The party left at a late hour wishing the Howeys many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Laurinda Cole and daughter Fairie and Mrs. Laura Baker of Garrett spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland.

The semoval of 242 bodies from five cemeteries in the Crab Orchard Lake bed began Monday at Carbondale, Ill. C. E. Hamilton, manager of the lake project, said relatives have until next Friday night to notify the lake officials that they want the bodies removed to private cemeteries. After the bodies have been removed the five cemeteries will become a part of the 7,000-acre lake bed.

THOMAS E. DEWEY

At least 15,000 Hoosiers are expected to hear Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential candidate, when he speaks in the Butler University Field house, located at 149th Street and Boulevard Place, Indianapolis on the night of April 15th. The meeting will commence promptly at 8 o'clock P. M.

The estimate was made on the basis of requests for reservations from over the state. Arrangements will be made to take care of everyone, and all Republicans of the state are invited.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Will Williams caught a 4¼lb. red horse Tuesday at the north of Bear Creek.

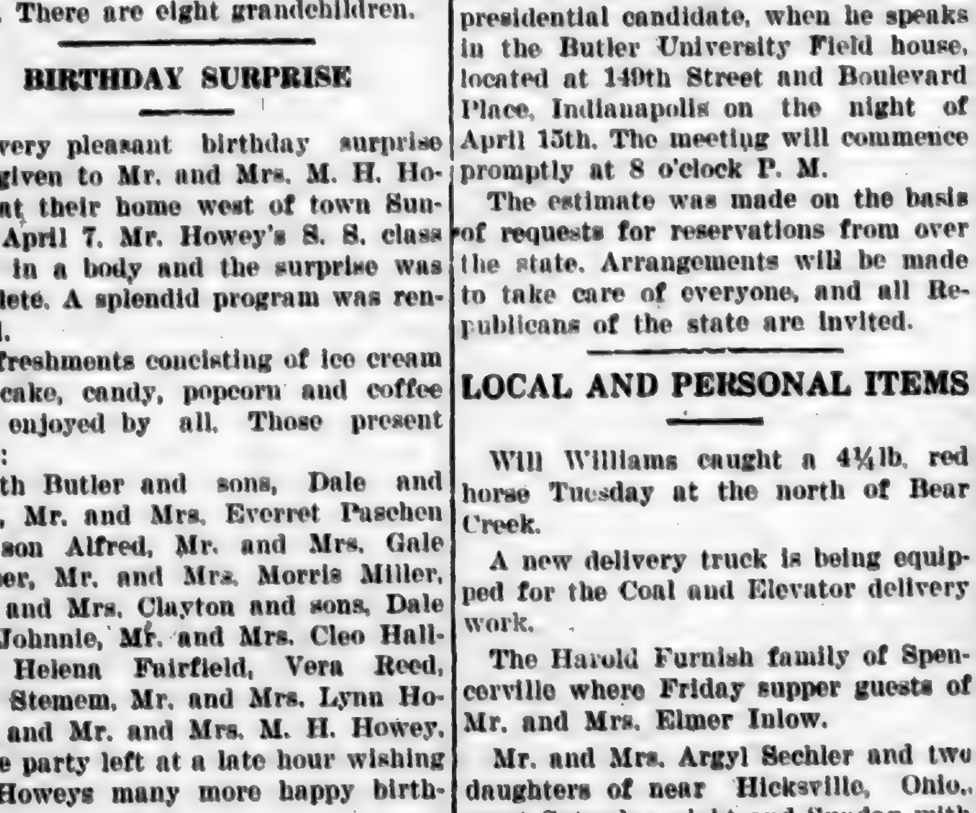
A new delivery truck is being equipped for the Coal and Elevator delivery work.

The Harold Furnish family of Spencerville where Friday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Inlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Argyl Sechler and two daughters of near Hicksville, Ohio., spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Elnora Blue and son.

Elsworth Morr and Miss Doris Doswell of Ft. Wayne spent Sunday at Anderson, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crick and family, also Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morr and son Larry Lee of Auburn visited Sunday in the Charles Morr home.

Mrs. King Chapman and daughter, Valerie, of Manilla, Phillipine Islands, spent Saturday evening with Mrs. Inez Chapman. Mrs. K. Chapman is at Hamilton with her parents, and will remain here until June, when her husband will join her for a vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Don Blair were supper guests.



David Hogg, Fort Wayne attorney and candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, is shown here laughing with his cousins during a recent visit to his old home in Crothersville. Mr. Hogg, third from left, tried to take his "Boost Hoosier Products" caravan over a back road to the house where he was born. The trip was abandoned, for the mud was too deep. David Lewis, right, and his sons, who live on a farm near Crothersville, pulled their cousin out of the mud, and brushed him off so he could make a good appearance before a large audience of "home folks." Mrs. Lewis and son, Joe, are shown at left. Two other sons are Albert, standing, and John.

Mr. Hogg worked his way through high school while a boy in Crothersville, worked in a canning factory, tried his hand at farming, and managed the postoffice for a year. He later returned to teach school, before graduating from the Indiana University law school and establishing a practice in Fort Wayne.

The Hogg caravan is touring the state and while in northern Indiana, stopped at St. Joe on Thursday afternoon and called at The News office, besides meeting some friends on the street. His coming was unannounced.

TO SHARE IN A QUARTER OF MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE

Garnett J. Clayton of Spencerville, is one of the heirs of the estate left by Dr. A. B. Jamison in New York City. Dr. Jamison died Nov. 15, 1938, leaving a total of $247,637. He had practiced medicine in New York for 53 years. Dr. Jamison made specific cash bequests in his will totaling $11,000 and authorized the remainder be divided among six relatives. Mr. Clayton, a nephew, will receive a sixth of the estate. Cecil D. and Alva B. Jamison and Arta J. Emerick, all of Hoagland and Clarence Jamison of Ossian, are other relatives to get a one-sixth portion. Dr. Jamison was graduated from the Fort Wayne College of Medicine in 1878.

BROOD SOW HAS A GREAT FAMILY RECORD

Lyman Bidlack of Newville township called at News office on business last week, and in the conservation remarked that his spotted Poland brood sow farrowed 18 pigs a few days ago and that he was able to save eleven of the litter. Upon making further inquiry as to the sow's past record he stated that this was her fifth litter and that she had farrowed a total of 75 pigs. The yearly record is as follows: 14-13-15-15-18, total 75. During this same period of years the sow raised 55, or an average of 11 pigs. But few farmers can boast of such a record as this, and while the sow has years, yet she is far more valuable for breeding, as her market value would be low because of her size and age. After all her record is partly due to the splendid care given her.

Although the war has reduced Congress to second place as a means for attracting attention, the chief legislative body of the nation is still alive and doing business at the old stand.

Speaking in round numbers, the House clipped a million dollars from the President's eight hundred million dollar appropriation for the army, and passed the bill along to the Senate. The House has under consideration, the White House estimate of practically a billion for the WPA during the fiscal year which begins July first. When the WPA matter went to the appropriate committee, nothing was said about the three months that will pass before the beginning of the new fiscal year, but backed by those who are regarded as extreme New Dealers, an appropriation of one hundred and fifty million to bridge the interim, has been requested.

Legislation to curb chain stores claims attention on Capitol Hill and is not without popular appeal, especially among those who are alive to the virtues of the old time corner grocery. Upon the other hand, the Department of Agriculture appears to be of the opinion that the chain store occupies an important place, especially as to cost of distribution, and that while specific evils should be corrected, general regulation of a destructive nature would be unwise.

The Dies Committee has stepped to the front again, this time with testimony that one of the organizations under review has it in mind to seize control of New York City first, and Washington later. A raid on Communist centers in Philadelphia also attracted notice. It has been urged against the Dies investigation that it has given too little attention to the mild or parlor type of un-American activities, but the average reader remains under the impression that the committee is proceeding honestly and with a commendable end in view.

France is said to be about to resort to the sharp medicine that is a cure for all diseases, Communism being branded as treason and being punished as such with death. Probably it would not be necessary to call on the electric chair for aid in this country. It is to be suspected that the spread of Communisic propaganda would come to an abrupt end, if a hundred of that persuasion were shipped bag and baggage out of the land of opression and deposited in Russia, where a thorough-going Communistic government really makes life worth living.

The Washington census takers report that they are being received with great kindness, and that their main difficulty is that they have to spend a good deal of time turning down offers of cocktails and lunches, and terminating friendly social chat. That may be only the census taker's charitable view point. Perhaps the takees feel that hospitality is the better part of valor, and share the feelings of the school children toward the teacher, in Goldsmith's Deserted Village poem: "Full well they laughed with counterfeited glee, At all his jokes, and many a joke had he."

Premier Renauld is reported as saying that England and France will conclude no "phoney" peace with Hitler. The use of the word "phoney" is an indication that the war is going forward. Should the Premier say that Hitler is a flat tire and ought to be locked up in the clink, we may be sure that genuine international cooperation is in sight. If a war does nothing else, it ties nations together by a common vocabulary. The American dough boys of World War days left a liberal sprinkling of useful words in Europe, and though the United States still is waiting for its cash, the verbal ledger has betn balanced by barrage, camouflage, kultur and many other terms with which the English language now can hardly dispense.

Mr. Hitler has turned in the massive doors of a government building in the general collection of metal for army purposes, He must at least be given credit for adopting a forceful way of showing his enemies the door.

Labor is awakening to the fact that laws which kill business also kill jobs. The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor recently made this declaration: "We urge that all Government actions that tend unnecessarily to discourage business expansion cease and that a positive effort be made to encourage greater industrial activity.. At this time there are not enough jobs in private industry to go around.... This is largely due, in our opinion, to the fact that lack of confidence has stunted business growth and expansion." Any policy, any law, or any political clique which fights and discourages private industry, fights and discourages employment. That's the case in a nutshell—and it's a good sign that labor is recognizing it.

The business annalists are pursuing a cautious course. Their forecasts are liberally qualified with "ifs," "ands," "buts" and "on the other hands." For the trend of business activity generally is quite different than was prophsied a few months back.

The spring slump was expected. What was not expected was its severity—worst in our recent history. On top of that, the expected signs of betterment have not appeared in particular force. War buying is an important bullish factor in only a limited number of industries. The result, according to Paul Mallon, that the guesses of even the government experts "run on the pessimistic side."

The Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production, which came close to the 130 mark during last winter's sharp upward movement, fell to around 104 in March. And the forecast is that it will drop to 100 and perhaps below by the time May ends. Then, the forecasts continue, a new upturn should set in, but few are willing now to gamble that it will be as strong, as steep or as long-lived as was forecast two or three months ago.

TIME RUSHES ON

There are pictures in our newspapers that were photographed 5 thousand miles away, the same day of publication. That ought to be considered a miracle. Miss Trixie may not think so, as she blows cigarette smoke through her pretty nose and voices a hope that television will not be mussy. Trixie is a trans-lux and rotogravure enthusiast, and a fan for the brilliant illustrated magazines. She says the pictures are better than those Old Masters at the public Gallery. That's because she likes everything modern and up-to-date.

The photographic film was applied as a recording medium for the X-Ray and was developed in the World War, and the device was enlarged and became a great boon to aerial photography, and then it broke into the printing business. So, the parentage and ancestry of these additions to the "arts preservative" were really War Babies.

Printing presses reproduce photographic copy from the plates and do it perfectly. "Hot news" owes a tremendous debt to the linotype, and to Hoe, who first dreamed about rotary presses.

But the great Brain-Breeders date back to early Virginia and Massachusetts where the first newspapers were printed and promptly and publicly denounced as "useless." Newspapers conquered prejudice against themselves and finally emerged from the obscurity of Colonial days, and then came Franklin and Washington handpresses.

NO MAN'S LAND

Congress is the "common council" for Washington and the District of Columbia. An income tax law that includes residents of the District, and Government employes who keep their residence in their own States, has been knocked into a cocked-hat by a court decision which holds that a non-resident officeholder cannot be taxed in two places at the same time.

Congress fumbles often in legislating for Washington, "no-man's-land" where nobody votes.

ECONOMY DRIVE BLOWS UP

At the beginning of the session the House of Representatives made a show of economy, in hugh slashes of appropriations for farmers, the Civilian Conservation Corps the National Youth Administration, and relief measures.

The President kept his peace--for once, and as a result the economy efforts all came back to Congress like the sheep wagging their tails behind them.

So, from now on you will be able to read in the daily reports all about extravagance and spending by the reformers who promise to raise the roof this Spring.

CLEAN-UP TIME

Spring time always gives one an urge to get-out of doors and dig-out the places where trash accumulates over the winter, and many home improvements can be made with just a little effort.

Then there are winter accumulations on the inside of the home and we recommend checking up on conditions in the cellar, by saying that any burnable material that is becoming charred by radiated heat from the smokepipe, should be moved to a safe area or else properly insulated. Furnaces and stoves should be checked for broken or rusted parts and should be thoroughly cleaned. Chimneys should be inspected for cracks, the soot cleaned out, and hot ashes put into a metal container.

Don't overlook attics, closets, and cellars; remove accumulations of paper, rubbish and any old broken furniture. Clean up the yard and burn papers and trash in an incinerator. If you leave paint rags, oily waste, or cleaning mops about, they may spontaneously ignite. Keep this dangerous material in a metal can with a tight cover.

Electric fuse boxes should be checked to make sure that the correct size fuse is used and that no burned-out fuses are bridged with a coin or pice of metal. All electrical work or extensions should be done by an expert electrician. Replace all worn or fraved cords on appliances.

Let's make Spring Clean-up worthwhile this year. Get a new, safe house for an old hazardous one!

WHO'LL BE NEXT PRESIDENT?

The world's most interesting and important political activity, President-making, now claims the attention of every citizen. Who will be nominated by either major party cannot yet be said, but almost every one has his opinions on the subject. Roosevelt and Dewey have the greatest popular following, Roosevelt and Taft the great political machine support.

Although the President has not yet announced his candidacy almost every one concedes that he can have the Democratic party nomination if he wants to go after it. And if he does the candidacies of Hull, Garner, Farley, Jackson and McNutt may fade and disappear. Whether or not the President will run again no one knows, and perhaps least of all the President himself. Only the gods running the European war are qualified to guess it. But Hatch law or not, and Farley dissatisfaction or not, he can nominate himself if he decides he wants the job. Whether or not he could be re-elected is another question, especially if the Republicans nominate Dewey.

Dewey's nomination is not assured, however, and will not be until the outcome of the primary contests is known; first Wisconsin, where Dewey was chosen for first place, next in Nebraska; with others following in different states. The two most important contests, however, are the ones in Wisconsin and Nebraska where Dewey and Vanderberg have fought it out. If Dewey wins both of these Vanderberg will fade out of the picture and Dewey will breeze into the nomination on the second ballot (paste that into your hat for future reference.) If Dewey loses one and wins in the other, Taft's chances will improve. If Dewey loses both contests the Republican nomination likely will be made in a smoke-filled Philadelphia hotel bedroom late next June.

The New Dealers prayer is "Anybody Lord but Dewey." That they are afraid of this David and his slingshot is attested by Secretary Ickes, the New Deal's tearerdowner. His best shafts are aimed at Dewey for "throwing his diaper into the ring" as he terms it. Such cracks by Ickes suggest to some that he's afraid of Dewey; to others that this is Ickes' way of boasting about the fact that he begat a son at 65. Any man who can do that is apt to be a bit scornful of a man of only 37. And being himself and feeling scornful, Harold Ickes opens his spleen ducts and erupts.

CANCER MONTH

April is designated as cancer control month and we are asked to give it our attention through these columns, so that our reading public will realize the importance of the subject. Despite the disease and the toll it reaps in precious lives, there is hope for the wise. Many who fear the fight and who hope for the fight to be victorious over cancer, heed the words of those who have made a study of the disease.

Medical science is using all of their weapons and yet these have not been absolutely successful in a control. But steps forward bring us closer to a possible cure. One of the latest attempts against the malignant cancer is an experiment of putting a patient to sleep in a bathtub of ice for five days. This "frozen sleep" has resulted in a "highly beneficial treatment" according to physicians. It may lead further into the mystery and help may come to those who suffer the heartbreaking news of "no cure." Let us heed medecine when it suggests that if a lump or sore on any part of the body fails to heal as it should, to consult a competent physician at once. Aid in the good fight.

GOODBYE, OLD FRIEND

There has been an ever-creasing murmur that the rural scarecrow is not a creature of purpose whose wavings and gesturings frightened the birds away. They prove that the scarecrow is useless but we are one of those in St. Joe who dislikes seeing the last of these figures fade. You have to look mighty hard to find one of these stick-figures these days waving over a farmer's crop. They tell us through biology that the bird is too smart for the scarecrow and that a piece of tin waving from a stick, a blare of sound electrically contrived or a firecraker shot off at intervals, would be as satisfactory. As we said goodbye to the cigar store Indian so we wave farewell to the scarecrow.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING

Many homes in St. Joe go into their annual spring housecleaning act at this time of each year. Few are the husbands who can depend upon a square meal or a cleared counterpane where life was once placid and the air undisturbed by whisking mops, brushes and brooms.

Speaking of the male angle of this business, did you ever stop to consider what would take place if men did the housecleaning? A man usually says, "If we ran our office like you run your home we would never have anything right." If this be true, he would be one for sensible moves and a real system during a seige of housecleaning—according to him. The husband, instead of trying to clean the best piece of over-stuffed would probably send it to a cleaners for a professional job. His wife would have bought a cleanser and a brush, done the job herself and saved the money, whether the finished work would have been as satisfactory or not. Comes te matter of cleaning wall-paper. Think of the crumbly paste cleaners that smear the floor, smear the walls, and act as an agent in contributing to an aching back and a twisted nerve. Father would figure it was cheaper to have a man come in and do the job right, in the first place! Broken fingernails, sore knees, weary body and fatigued minds make the idea of tippy stepladders, leaky pails, a nightmare that haunts our dreams. May the pleasant sensation of knowing how clean we are, linger as long as the sore muscles that accompany the deed.

FALSE WHISKERS

Rural electrification cooperatives in Wisconsin furnish a concrete example of the kind of competition that always faces private enterprise when it is forced to compete with a tax-subsidized, government-owned enterprise.

REA co-ops often electrify regions that the private utilities have been slow to serve for the simple reason that they could not afford to carry the overhead of unproductive lines. Thus the government co-ops appear to go ahead with a job that private enterprise has failed to do. But buried in the books of private electric companies, are figures that tell the other side of the story.

In Wisconsin, for example, the private companies pay a heavy property tax on every mile of rural electric line—in addition to many other taxes, Federal, state and local. But by a law (which the politicians enacted) the Federally financed co-ops pay only 3 per cent of gross revenue in lieu of all taxes, state and local. Thus if a private utility has a mile of line in the county assessed at $1,000, its tax is nearly $25, while an electric co-op with two minimum-bill customers on a mile of line, would pay only $2.50 annual tax.

REA plays Santa Claus while the taxpayers foot the bill. Someday they will find that his wiskers are false.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.— The battle royal between the three leading candidates for the Republican presidental nomination—Dewey, Taft and Vandenberg—for the support of Indiana's delegates to the National Convention, will get under way in earnest in a few days.

District Attorney Dewey will be the first of the Big Three to invade the Hoosier State. The young racket buster, whose candidacy has been given a tremendous boost in the early primaries, will make his bow to the Indiana public next Monday evening at a giant rally in Indianapolis.

Next invader will be comely Mrs. Martha Taft, Senator Taft's politically astute mate, who will bid for Hoosier support for her candidate-husband at a Republican meeting in Fort Wayne on April 19.

Senator Vandenberg, in line with his announced policy to avoid active campaigning, will not enter Indiana—but his friends will be busy in his behalf.

Here's how the candidates stack up in Indiana, with the convention 10 short weeks away:

DEWEY:— The 38-year-old New Yorker probably would win by a large margin in a direct primary test in Indiana. No one can deny the strength of his appeal to the voters, so convincingly displayed in Wisconsin, Nebraska and Illinois.

But Mr. Dewey will not have the advantage of a direct primary show down in Indiana. So his aim will be to exert as much popular pressure as possible on Hoosier convention delegates and hope that, if a bandwagon movement develops in his favor, the Indiana group will hop aboard.

Dewey has had an organization in Indiana for some time whose work has been mostly under cover. You'll hear more from them as the convention draws nearer.

TAFT:— Rumor has it that Taft, coming as he does from a neighboring state, is fairly strong with the politicians in Indiana—the gentlemen who will be delegates to the convention, or whose friends will be delegates.

The Ohio Senator claims to have some first choice support in Indiana, an doubtedly will have strong second-choice support. If Dewey and Vandenberg kill each other off in the convention, Taft will have first claim on the vice presidency. It is believed unlikely that Vandenberg would accept second place on a ticket headed by Dewey, but Taft might.

VANDENBERG:— The Michigan Senator has an indirect claim on Indiana support, for Mrs. Vandenberg is a native Hoosier, hailing from Fort Wayne. This is a good talking point, and you'll probably hear a great deal about how nice it would be to have a First Lady from Indiana.

Vandenberg lost favor with some Indiana Republicans, principally the supporters of Ray Willis, when he came out for Senator Van Nuys in the threatened "purge" of 1938. It is believed, however, that this incident has been largely smoothed over.

On the other hand, Vandenberg gained strength among Hoosier isolationists during the neutrality debate last Fall. Isolationist sentiment is believed to be strong in Indiana.

Many Hoosier politicians believe a Vandenberg-Dewey ticket would be unbeatable—with the accent on Dewey.

SIDELIGHTS:— As predicted in this space last week, all incumbent Congressmen from Indiana are candidates for re-nomination. The primary spotlight will be centered on the Halleck-Landis contest for the GOP nomination in the Second District. Halleck is a strong favorite to repeat, but some of his friends are worried for fear the intra-party struggle will carry over into the November election. Indiana Republicans will undoubtedly send an uninstructed delegation to the Philadelphia Convention. The Democratic delegation, of course, will be instructed for Paul V. McNutt. But if Mr. Roosevelt actually tries for a third term, what will the bewildered Hoosiers do? Will they vote for Roosevelt, or stick by the sinking McNutt ship? The campaign of R. Earl Peters, Fort Wayne Democrat, for the gubernatorial nomination has gotten away to a fast start. The contest probably will settle down between Peters and Schricker, with the outcome depending on which way McNutt throws his support. The odds are that it won't be to Peters, although McNutt has proclaimed a hands off policy. Fueds like the Peters-McNutt fued don't die over night.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Certified Seed Potatoes Necessary To Control The New Potato Diseases

Bacterial ring rot, a new disease of potatoes, has appeared in about 37 states. It kills the plants in the field and what is more serious, it rots the potatoes in storage. This is not a stringy rot but a crumbly rot having about the consistency of a boiled potato.

The rot starts in the sap tube ring at the stem end and spreads through the tissue about a quarter of an inch beneath the surface of the tuber. In severely affected potatoes the rot may show on the surface as cracking or reddish brown discolorations. Such tubers will be almost completely rotted internally. Sometimes the potatoes are only slightly rotted and may easily escape detection.

The disease is spread by planting infected tubers. A few diseased potatoes in the seed stock may spread the disease generally over seed on the knife when the potatoes are cut into seed pieces. Treatment of the potatoes is of no value in controlling this bacterial disease and the selection of disease-free tubers has also been found to be practically imposible to do. The best way to prevent introducing this disease is to use certified seed potatoes.

So far as is known, bacterial ring rot of potatoes does not occur in Indiana. This is one very good reason why Indiana potato growers should use certified seed in sacks bearing the official tag of the state in which the potatoes were grown. Do not be misled by tags bearing such labels as "U. S. No. 1," Selected," etc. Certified potatoes are inspected several times in the field and after harvest by the certifying agents. If any of this bacterial ring rot is present, the potatoes are not certified.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

A very liberal offering of hogs in this weeks auction were taken readily at the following prices: 180 to 220 $4.70 to $4.90. Extreme heavies and light Yorkers, $4.30 down. Fat sows, $3.75 to $4.00. Boars $1.40 to $2.30. The top of the veal market was, $10.00 paid by Floyd Landel, of Waldron, Mich., the next lower grade $9.25 to $9.75. There seems to be an over supply of thin light calves. Buyers say their coolers are full and to look out for lower prices. Some good light calf buyers are off the market. Select calves are in good demand. Breeding ewes $7.00 to $8.00 per head. Heifers $5.00 to $6.15. Fat cows $5.00 to $5.75. Cutters $4.25 to $4.80. Canners and low Cutters $4.00 down to $3.00. Bulls $5, to $6.25.

FOR SAGGING.

All cane chair seats begin to show a sagging about this time of year. Shrink them back in place by turning the chair upside down and wash cane with warm water and mild soap suds. Rinse well and then soak well with warm water. Dry. This process will shrink the cane and the seat will tighten again.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1940 NUMBER 16

The People's Column!

CONGRESS of the UNITED STATES
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

April 12, 1940

Mr. Fred B. Leighty,
News Printing Company,
St. Joe, Indiana
Dear Fred:

It was with genuine pleasure that I read your splendid letter of April 8, commenting favorably on the fact that I have signed the petition to discharge the new Townsend Bill from the Ways and Means Committee and force it to the floor for honest and open consideration.

The bill deserves to receive fair hearing. It is a much better measure than H. R. 6466 (which was hastily substituted for H. R. 2 last year)' and I believe it will receive much wider support than previous Townsend bills.

Many of the imperfections of H. R. 6466 have been eliminated in H. R. 8264 including the provision to tax the lowest-paid workers. The new measure is more moderate and more workable than any yet presented, and if it is not radically amended (as was H. R. 2 at the last minute a year ago) it should have an excellent chance of being enacted.

The story that "Fort Wayne interests" brought pressure on me to oppose H. R. 6466 is, of course, absurd. And anyone who knows me and my record in public life realizes this. I voted against H. R. 6466 because I felt that it was an imperfect bill that would do more harm than good to the pension movement. And this conviction has since been justified by the action of Dr. Townsend in discarding H. R. 6466 entirely and presenting a new and improved measure mith many of these imperfections eliminated.

I doubt that many Townsend supporters ever have read H. R. 6466. It was not the same bill that was originally presented to Congress—H. R. 2 —which we had been led to believe incorporated the aims of the Townsend movement. After long hearings were held in the House on H. R. 2, it was discarded completely at the last moment and H. R. 6466 was substituted in its place. I had expected to support H. R. 2, but I conld not support this completely different measure. And I doubt that you could have either, Fred, had you been in my place.

I had said in letters (including one to a gentleman in Butler) that I expected to support H. R. 2. But never did I promise, or indicate in any may, that I intended to vote for H. R. 6466. Many Townsend followers seem to have the inpression that I voted against H. R. 2. I did not. It never came up for a vote.

With kindest regards and best wishes to you and your good wife, I am,

Sincerely yours,
George Gillie

FIELD TRIAL PERMITS REQUIRED FOR MEETS

Permits issued without charge by the Division of Fish and Game must be obtained for the staging of field trial meets in Indiana, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, pointed out today. Information required includes the name of the sponsoring organization, the breed of dogs to participate and the place and date of the meet.

Since the first of the year fifty-four permits have been issued by the Division of Fish and Game, with thirty-three of the meets already staged. Of those to be held during coming weeks, fifteen are for coon dogs, four for bird dogs and one for beagles.

Frank Lyon has started the remodeling of his newly acquired farm residence on road one, 1½ mile south of Butler, known as the Gengnagle farm. John and Donald Hart are excavating for the basement and Orla Baker will do the carpenter work.

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of April 5 showed the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

Expenditures	$7,332,921,625.90
Receipts	$4,509,658,375.32
In the hole	$2,823,263,250.58

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,591,246,725.01.

Your per capita share of that debt is $327.62.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES ON INCREASE IN DeKALB

At Thanksgiving 3,000 letters containing Christmas Seals or Health Bonds were sent out to DeKalb County Indrustries, Clubs, Organizations and citizens urging them to buy as this sale is the only means the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Association have of financing their work.

With the Health Educational program carried on thru the year the public is learning what important work the fight against tuberculosis is and as the work increases the need for funds is greater.

Thru an agreement between the National Tuberculosis Association and the American Red Cross—the membership drive for the Red Cross begins Armistice Day and ends Thanksgiving Day when the Christmas Seal Sale begins, however early orders for Christmas Seals and Health Bonds to people who wish to use them on mail going out the last of November is permitted and the early orders committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. V. Hines whose committee consisted of Mrs. Harry McIntyer, Mrs. Vern Buchanan, Mrs. Miriam Tracy and Carl Walter reported splendid cooperation. The returns from Cities and Townships follows.

Auburn, Chairman, Mrs. A. V. Hines	$ 658.55
Garrett, Chairman, Miss Mary Jo Behler	$ 225.75
Butler, Chairman, Miss Kathleen Haviland	$ 111.14
Waterloo, Chairman, Mrs. Warren Hamilton	$ 72.44
Ashley & Smithfield Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Vern Sparks	$ 74.51
St. Joe & Concord Twp., Chairman, Mrs. F. Leighty	$ 44.18
Spencerville & Spencer Twp., Chairman, Mrs. E. Paschen	$ 32.27
Corunna & Richland Twp., Chairman, Mrs. A. Mason	$ 57.89
Butler Twp., Chairman, Mrs. John Noel	$ 26.60
Fairfield Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Dessie Bingler	$ 45.28
Franklin Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Roy Robbins	$ 30.07
Grant Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Wilbur Kimmell	$ 21.10
Jackson Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Ralph Bartles	$ 38.20
Keyser Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Perry Gump	$ 21.67
Newville Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Elsa Moore	$ 8.92
Stafford Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Wayland Mutzfeld	$ 23.65
Troy Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Bessie Bryant	$ 12.75
Union Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Lester Boger	$ 40.42
Wilmington Twp., Chairman, Mrs. Fanny Boger	$ 32.01
	$1,577.40

Included in the amount for Auburn is $26.25, donated by Moose Lodge from the benefit party given for the Association in December at their lodge room in Auburn.

The Officers of the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Association, wish to thank every one who purchased seals or bonds and every one who helped make the drive a success, such a successful drive was only possible thru the help of the city and twp., chairmen, the personal solicitors, the volunteers in the office and the newspapers for their splendid publicity.

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR ROAD EQUIPMENT IN DeKALB COUNTY

The county commissioners late Monday awarded a contract for a road grader to the Indiana Equipment Co. of Fort Wayne, and ordered a truck from Dunn Bros. of Waterloo.

The grader is equipment on a caterpillar tractor, Diesel, tandem drive. The weight of the machine is 15,000 pounds. The contract price is $3,995.

The truck ordered from Dunn Bros. is an International of two tons of capacity. Its delivered price is $1,672 and Dunn Bros. allowed $250 for an old truck traded in by the county.

Other bidders on the grader were J. D. Adams & Co. of Indianapolis, Landenberger & Hutchins of Fort Wayne, the Gallon Iron Works, Galion, Ohio., Huber Mfg. Co., Indianapolis, and Korte Bros. Inc. of Fort Wayne.

For the truck, the bidders besides Dunn Bros. were General Motors Corp., Fort Wayne, Culbertson Hardware Co. of Auburn, Maxton Motors, Butler, and Dailey Motor Sales, Auburn.

G. L. Haver has traded automobiles, getting a good looking used Chevrolet.

The Concord township Home Bureau will meet Friday afternoon, April 19, at the home of Mrs. Anna Rickett. Members are requested to bring their musical instruments.

Marshes at State Game Preserves Draw Many Water Fowls

Canada Geese at Jasper-Pulaski Game Preserve

Marsh areas created at the Jasper-Pulaski and Kankakee state game preserves in northwestern Indiana are attracting many species of migratory waterfowl and serve as a nesting ground for many of these birds, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, said today.

Approximately a thousand acres of the Jasper-Pulaski game preserve, located near Medaryville, and a similar area on the Kankakee game preserve, west of Knox, have been flooded by the Division of Fish and Game. Both areas were a part of the old Kankakee Marsh, once a paradise for all species of wildlife. The Jasper-Pulaski marsh was created by a series of levies while the Kankakee marsh is located between the Kankakee and Yellow Rivers.

During the winter and early spring months there have been thousands of ducks, Canada geese and other birds of the migratory species on the two marshes. Many of these birds will remain for the nesting season and some of them can be observed on the marshes all during the summer. A flock of sand hill cranes has been observed on the Jasper-Pulaski marsh during recent weeks.

The restoration of these two marsh areas as refuges for waterfowl has been supplemented by the construction of artificial lakes at state forests, game preserves and forests throughout Indiana. The attraction of these bodies of water for waterfowl has been increased by the planting of vegetation which supplies food for the different species.

Effectiveness of this program has been demonstrated by the increasing number of ducks and other birds observed on the marshes and lakes, an indication that some of the flights of former years are returning to this state. Another indication has been the reports by hunters of the improved sport which they have enjoyed in recent years.

Since the establishment of the marshes at Jasper-Pulaski and Kankakee game preserves, both areas have attracted thousands of conservationists interested in seeing the ducks and other waterfowl.

REV. C. A. BYRT TO CELEBRATE 30 YEARS AS MINISTER

The Rev. Charles A. Byrt, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist Church of Ft. Wayne will celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of his services in the ministry by preaching Sunday morning, April 21, 10:30 C. S. T., at the Spencerville Methodist Church where he first served as a patsor.

The Rev. Mr. Byrt will terminate 30 years in the ministry April 17, as it was on April 17, 1910, that he preached his first sermon at Spencerville after becoming pastor of the Spencerville Circuit on April 11. The Circuit at that time included Spencerville, Meese Chapel, Wesley Chapel and Grove Bethel.

He has served the following Methodist charges for the number of years listed: Spencerville, 2; Twelve Mile, 3; Amboy, 2; Boxley, 4; Roann, 3; Hobbs-Aroma, 1; Galveston, 4; Kokomo Trinity, 5; Gas City, 5; and St. Paul, 1.

All of the former members and friends of Mr. Byrt's congregations are invited to attend this Anniversary Service. Special music will be given during the worship hour after which a Pot Luck dinner will be served in the church basement. There will be a social hour following the dinner for fellowship, visiting, and reminiscences.

The committee on arrangements will be composed of Mrs. Audra Wade, Minnie Tyndall and John Koch.

COUNTY FEDERATED CLUBS PROGRAM

The County officers of the Federated Clubs of DeKalb County have provided an interesting program for the entire day of their Convention in Waterloo, April 24.

They take pleasnre in having as their guest Mrs. W. C. Allen, State Treasurer of the Federation. She will give one of her interesting book reviews. She is a past President of the Ft. Wayne Woman's Club, and now is chairman of entertainment of that organization. Her name will go before the State Convention of the Federated Clubs in May as a candidate for First Vice-President.

Mrs. Charles Clark of Auburn, is well equiped to present a good account of the Child Welfare work of which she is State Chairman.

Mrs. F. W. Longfellow is President of the Allen County Federated Clubs and will give a talk on Literature programs, to be used in the state which she sponsors, as State Chairman of Literature.

Mrs. R. Earl Petters has on her port-folio in the State work Moving Picture, she will show the influence of women in the presentation of good pictures and report on the work of the Convention of Photo Endorsers, which was recently held in Ft. Wayne. Good music will be a feature of the day's program.

Mrs. Harriet Wagner, will sing as will Mrs. Marciel Voss and Mrs. Doris Brooks. These musicians are all from Waterloo and a presentation of the Minerva and Progressive Literature Hostess Clubs, for the convention. Mrs. Buckley of Auburn will explain the Golden Jubilee year celebration of the general Federation and it is hoped that during the noon hour some of the broadcast from New York, featuring Mrs. Dunbar, General Federation President, may be heard.

The Executive Board of this county consisting of: Mrs. John R. Leighty, President; Mrs. Fred Knott, First Vice-President; Mrs. C. H. Garven, Second Vice-President; Mrs. Robert Robb, Third Vice-President; Mrs. Frank Curie, Secretary-Treasurer, as will the Hostess Clubs of Waterloo, extend a cordial invetitation to come and enjoy the day's program.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION U. B. CHURCH, SUNDAY

The ninety eight anniversary of the Newville U. B. church will be observed Sunday, April 21. This will be the 26th. anniversary of the dedication of the present building which occured on April 19, 1914, in charge of Bishop H. N. Fout of Indianapolis. Dr. J. E. Grimes, now of Tampa Florida was the Conference Superintendent and O. P. Givens pastor.

This year also marks the 26th. anniversary of the founding of the Newville Rural free Chautaqua, an institution that has attracted wide attention and brought many distinguished characters of church and state to the Newville community.

The Sunday School will convene at 9:30; the regular church service will be held at 10:30, conducted by the pastor, O. P. Givens. A fellowship cooperative dinner will be served in the church basement at noon. The afternoon program will be of a miscellaneous charcter. We are expecting that brief messages from Bishop Fout, Dr. Grimes and Dr. B. H. Cain the present Conference Superintendent. will be read. A historical statement of the church will be presented. The U. B pastors residing in Butler, D. H. Pellett and E. J. Schueler will participate in the afternoon service. The reception committee will be looking for you. Please cooperate with them.

O. P. Givens, Pastor.

ROAD MARKINGS FOR SAFETY, INFORMATION

Signs and other marking along the state highway system are for the information and the safety of motorists, T. A. Dicus, chairman of the State Highway Commission, pointed out today.

Three types of standard markings are used: information signs which list mileage, designate county lines, cities and points of interest, and directions; safety signs which warn motorists of curves, grades, narrow bridges, and intersections; and markings on the pavement to designate no-passing zones, proper traffic lanes and to warn of railroad grade crossings ahead.

Placing of any sign or marking on the state highway system is a result of careful study and the recommendation of traffic engineers.

COUNTY TO OFFER FARMS TO HIGHEST BIDDER

Eight county-owned farms will be offered for sale by the DeKalb county commissioners May 18, at 10 a. m., according to a legal notice being given by County Auditor Burley Ensley.

The board had the farms appraised by Ira A. Williams of Union township, S. S. Wyatt of Concord township, and Melvin Swarts of Grant township, The list, including the acreage and the appraisements follows:

Christlieb farm in Richland township, 80 acres, $1,200.

Rogoza farm in Newville township. 54 acres, $1,080.

Wade farm in Spencer township, 90 acres, $2,250.

Richey farm in Wilmington township, 32 acres, $1,250.

Keesler farm in Newville township, 83.77 acres, $1,255.

Dibling farm in Smithfield township, 60 acres, $1,200.

Likes farm in Concord township, 76 acres, $1,560.

Franks farm in Union township, 40 acres, $700.

The farms will be offered separately and acceptable bids must be for not less than the full appraised value. Terms are as follows: One-third cash and the balance in installments payable in not to exceed five years. The interest rate will be 5 percent.

The county owns one other farm. This is the Marks farm in Concord township, 55½ acres, which is not being offered at this time.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The outstanding social event of the school year took place last Saturday, when the members of the Junior class honored the members of the Senior class at a banquet in the Egyptian Room at the Hotel Keenan, in Fort Wayne.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the place cards and programs. Bowls of pink and rose carnations and white tapers formed the table decorations.

Ruth Keesler welcomed the guests and Marcia Wade gave the response. After a musical number by Sylvia Washler and Betty Young, Jack Goodwin read the Senior class prophecy. The Last Will and Testament of the Senior class was read by Helen Goodwin.

At the close of the banquet the guests were invited to the Paramount Theater where they enjoyed Deanna Durbins newest picture, "It's a Date."

Besides members of the Senior class other invited guests were the members of the faculty and their wives, Mr. Sam Mumaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stallman.

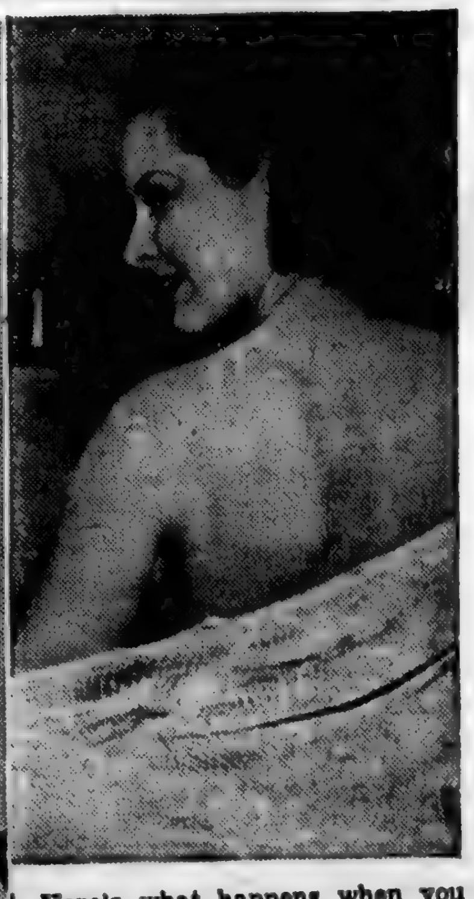
Saturday Night Scene?

There's even a right and a wrong way to dry your back, American Institute of Laundering textile experts say! Pretty Harriet de Busman shows (above) that a back can be dried without stretching a bath-towel all out of shape, then yanking it back and forth across the back.



Here's what happens when you dry your back the wrong way. The towel pulls apart because the threads are broken by over-stretching, especially if the towel has been nicked slightly when used to dry razor blades. The American Institute of Laundering objects to the blame being put upon commercial laundries when such damage, due to the owner's carelessness, occurs.

Education, when Indian tribes refuse to use the swastika because of its relationship to Nazism.

No great amount of sagacity is required in reaching the conclusion that the invasion of Norway and Denmark was by no means a spur of the moment move, like a first fight precipitated by spitefully chosen language regarding the ancestry of one of the fighters. But if factual confirmation is required, it may be noted that the Allies have been aware, since about the first of the year, that something was brewing. In the harbors of the Baltic Sea, and in the navigable rivers of Germany, vessels small and great were assembled and being refitted for use as transports.

Though what was going on was known with a considerable degree of accuracy, the time, place and nature of the proposed activity remained a deep secret, and the Nazi organization must be given credit for ability to keep its mouth shut. Neither the British nor the French could presage what was coming. Not withstanding the inquiry trip of Sumner Welles, news of the attack struck the American State Department, the President and Congress with the shock that is said to go with a thousand of brick. Mr. Welles should be delivered from adverse criticism, since few are so simple as to suppose that Mr. Hitler was going to take him into confidence.

There has been much comment on the precarious position of Holland and Belgium. Denmark has failed to receive a corresponding amount of Europe which was peculiarly on the hot spot. The least powerful of the countries in the region, closest to Germany in point of nautical miles, carrying on commerce with England under an ante-war pact with the Fatherland, Denmark had every reason for apprehension. Events have demonstrated that there were good grounds for her fears. Denmark cannot be blamed for failing to put up a fight. Her chances of success would have been about equal to those of Massachusetts against the rest of the Union: and the fate of those who had stood out against Germany in the recent past were ever before her.

Although in the fall of 1939, Norway increased expenditures for military purposes from 10% to 50% of the entire government outgo, and although the Norwegians have retired to the hills as a suitable place from which to make forays, the power of Norway to hold her own unaided is small. The reported landing of English marines, and the recapture of some of the towns under German occupation, will have, in addition to their material aspects, the psychological benefit of giving rise, in the minds of small nations, to the conclusion that all is not lost unless they accede to German demands.

The jubilation of Germans because they have "beaten the Allies to it" in Norway does not take into consideration the fact that whatever has been gained will have to be held, if Norway is to have any consequence as an area from which attacks can be made conveniently upon England. If Germany can effect a substantial occupation of Norway, and should England conclude that her welfare demands that the Germans be ejected, the Norseland may see the first real test of military strength.

Should it be possible for Germany to distribute her ships of war along the Norwegian coast, with convenient ports for replenishment and repair, a naval conflict may ensue, of a magnitude greater than anything that the World War had to record.

The heretofore successful attempts of Mr. Hitler to avoid a large scale open water set-to with the Allies have been commended, even by the prejudiced, as arising out of sound prudence and the best of judgement. That he should have laid plans to match his sea power with that of Britain in wholesale combat, is set down by experts as the nonumental blunder of his career; but it must be remarked with some regret that up to this time the Fuerer has sustained the impression that he is a man who knows pretty well what he is doing.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Foster W. Riddick, editor of the Columbia City Commercial-Mail and a most popular and talented member of the Fourth Estate, has graciously consented to serve as guest columnist for this week's Gilt Off the Dome.

Foster needs no introduction—at least to Indiana newspapermen. For his leadership in Hoosier press activities has won him the respect and affection of his editorial colleagues in every section of the State.

Foster comes from a family in which editing is a tradition. His brother Paul is editor of the LaGrange Standard. Both have been in the newspaper business for years, both are said to have printer's ink in their veins.

Like the Willis brothers, of Angola and Waterloo, the Riddick's have contributed importantly to the development of Northeastern Indiana, have helped to keep the Fourth District on the newspaper map.

Your correspondent considers it a privilege to relinquish this space to Foster Riddick, who has chosen to discuss the Congressional candidacy of Rep. Georbe W. Gillie.

* * *

WHILE Congressman George W. Gillie stayed on the job in Washington his friends in all parts of the district prepared petitions for his re-nomination. A thousand voters of Whitley County signed Dr. Gillie's petition, and similarly large numbers of voters (14,000) did so in other counties of the district.

This is an indication of the high regard his constituents have for the genial and alert member of Congress who was elected from this district in 1938, carrying every county in the district. That is a record believed to have been accomplished for the first time for the northeastern part of the state during its various changes.

* * *

DR. GILLIE'S majority in the district was larger than Roosevelt received for President, either in 1932 or in 1936. Although he was born in Scotland, he has attained practically all of his manly size while in Indiana, as he has been in the state since he was two years old, living most of the time on a farm in Allen County.

His record in the House of Representatives has been one in which he has stayed on the job and studied the problems that confront the nation. His votes have not been cast for bills just because they seemed to be ballot-catching measures. He has voted at times in what might not be considered the "popular" way but he knows why he cast his vote "aye" or "nay" and is not ashamed to state his reasons for so doing.

* * *

AFTER HIS ELECTION and just before he left for Washington he was the guest of the Republican editors of the district, all of whom had believed in him and supported him in the election. He told them that they might not always agree with him in his decision as how to vote on particular measures, but if so wanted them to discuss the measure as frankly as if he were in perfect agreement.

That is the kind of a member of Congress that Indiana people like to see in the House—an individnal who studies the questions before that body and after consultation with others to secure their ideas, votes as he sincerely feels is in the public interest.

We predict that "Doc" Gillie will not only be re-elected next Fall, but that he will win by an even larger majority than he received in 1938.

OFF AGAIN!

Often enough an opening baseball game comes at a time when the flag flies in a cold wind. But Americans tap an impatient foot until the game starts and the annual parade of spikes marches up to bat. Senator, President, Mayor or Superintendent, hurls the 1st ball as tht team takes off on its schedule of games. The national cry of "Do Something" is not hurled at parliaments and deputies. Our national bleachers are not crowded with sections just out for excitement, but rather that they are interested in fair play and keen competition. How nice if the sportsmanship of the diamond could be conducted elsewhere. The first balls whizz through the air, first cries of "batter up," and the first bag of peanuts are crunchel under foot as we hail the new season.

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

It caused comment in these parts when folks heard that a national society for the protection of animals had pledged to secure seven thousand horses for fighting purposes over seas. It doesn't seem, to most of us, that war duty is a safe haven and refuge for a horse. Let any local World War veteran tell you of the horrified cries of wounded animals lying on fields of battle as their shell-torn bodies signified everything but safety! Are these horses pledged as a sacrifice for man. What is man being sacrificed for, you might better ask. Shipping horses for fighting wars is scarcely in keeping with thoughtfulness and love of dumb animals.

NOT ALWAYS OURS

The blooms of the flowering forsythia is beautiful evidence of spring and changing temperatures. As we speak of our lovely plants and extol their coloring and shapes, do we wonder if other generations back of us have enjoyed these same blooms Often some flowers were not found here until a thoughtful sould brought them home to us to enjoy. The forsythia which is almost as common as the violet was originally a plant of China, which country also was the source of the wisteria and the regal lily. Regals and fuchsias from South America, gladiolus from South Africa as well as the geranium. As we in the St. Joe River Valley welcome the flowers, revere also the names and hands that brought many to glorify our gardens.

FIRST, READ WELL

A recent warning came from an insurance company who advised its customers to read well before signing a policy. This caution is one that should apply to all contracts that we might sign and is a wise order to be considered. One of the most valuable instructions made on behalf of the public is the warning put out by the Better Business Bureaus: "Read Before You Sign."

The insurance company is asking you of St. Joe to consider well, these words. There have been many cases where a man would have been ahead financially if he had read before he signed. You should well understand every contract before you put your name to it. This does not mean that every contract is drawn up with the previous intent to defraud, cause trouble or bring law suits. It is meant to warn that there are cases where finely printed forms, handled by strangers, often conceal a "catch" that might be your undoing in the future. Law requires that a contract be legal, both signers of sound mind and both sides in good faith. After you sign it is too late to withdraw and is too late to read. Remember to follow through the last paragraph and be sure your eyes are in good condition during the reading.

In 1939 there were 220 Indiana conservation clubs operating 516 fish hatchery ponds. These ponds covered 813 acres and produced over eleven million game fish which were planted under the supervision of the Division of Fish and Game, in lakes and streams adjacent to the club hatcheries. The cooperating clubs are reimbured on the basis of the number, species and size of the fish which they produce.

A NATION OF PANHANDLERS

Are the people of this nation becoming plain, ordinary panhandlers—beggars from government? Individuals, towns, cities and states have their hands out for Federal alms.

By accepting these alms, they are gradually giving up individual, civic and states rights and building a Federal overlordship that will make them mere pawns of Government.

We like to talk about our democracy and pity the people of countries where liberty has been crushed, when we ourselves are giving up our freedom for a mess of Federal "handouts" that are mortgaging our future for generations to come.

Civic organizations have become beggars, great industries have become beggars, cities and states have become beggars at the public trough. Then after accepting public charity and injecting government into their local and personal affairs, they cry because government in business is being so rapidly extended that it is wiping out free enterprise.

Don't blame anybody but yourself when you feel the jaws of officialism close on you, if you have countenanced or accepted Federal alms for projects which would have been handled by courageous, intelligent and self-respecting citizens in the past.

This country hasn't changed fundamentally in spite of all the theoretical prattle to the contrary; opportunities are still countless for young and old.

What has changed is our backbone and our pride. We are becoming a nation of "sissies" who cry for help at the slightest provocation and want to be coddled as incompetents.

By our actions we are admitting that we are no longer capable of self government or private management of our own affairs. We are asking for political dictatorship and we will have no one but ourselves to blame if we get it.

Every time there is some tough nut to crack, we now beg for Federal funds to care for the problems or losses involved, which, in most cases, are due to our own laziness, greed or neglect. We want the Federal government to do our irrigating; we want the government to control our crops; we want the government to carry our insurance; we want the government to loan us money; we want the government to build our schools, bridges, parks, etc., and do everything that we as free men and women used to take pride in doing ourselves. And then we cry our eyes out about taxes and new laws, regulations and restrictions.

Anyone with a thimbleful of brains knows that when you borrow money, the lender gets in the driver's seat. When you become a beggar, the giver controls your actions. When you beg or borrow from the government, rather than the government existing for you.

This is the position of the people of the United States today. They have begged and borrowed themselves well on the road toward national bankruptcy and political dictatorship.

There can be no compromise with the totalitarian philosophy—you either accept it and become public wards, or you kick out the totalitarian philosophy and remain free.

If you think the end toward which we are racing is exaggerated, just look around your own community and see how much Federal charity it has accepted. Government can hand out no money which it does not take from the citizens. Money taken in taxes means that much less for the man or woman who has to sweat and earn and save and pay the taxes.

Don't kid yourself with the idea that the fundamental virtues of working and saving have changed for either government or individuals. You can't spend yourself prosperous.

Safetygrams
BY
FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Several times, in this column, I have asked certain questions pertaining to safe driving. Some of the editors have felt that this type of information is valuable and interesting.

The question today is: During any one hour period, when are automobile accidents most frequent?

There have been some wild guesses on this, but statistics show that the hour between 5 and 6 P. M. is the danger hour for accidents. This is due to several things. In a congested or metropolitan area, people on their way home from work, take unnecessary chances in hurrying through heavy traffic. On long trips, the average person becomes tired at dusk and, therefore, coming darkness together with fatigue, are responsible for many accidents.

Be careful all of the time, but be especially careful at this time of the day.

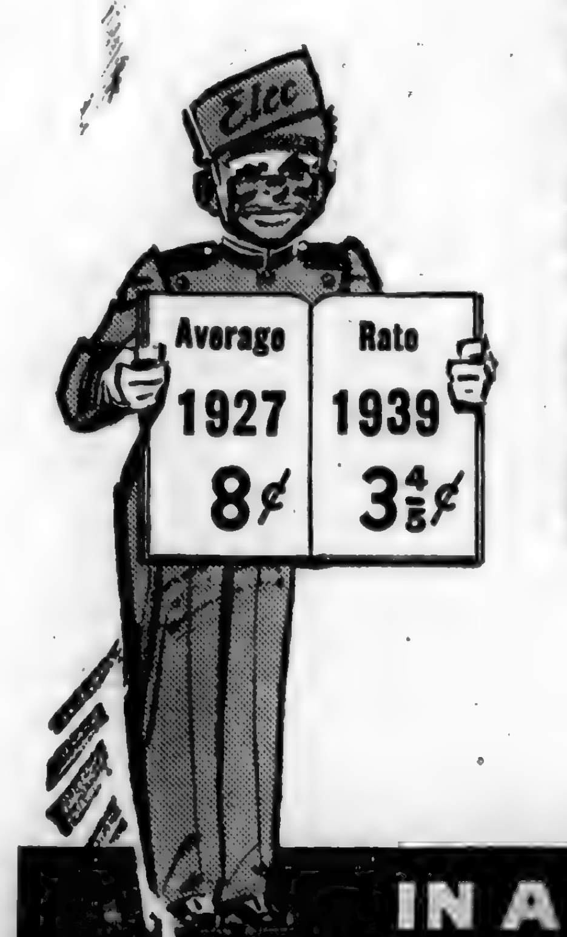
Cheer up, Uncle, you're only got ten hours to go!
FOR THE PRICE OF A SINGLE CIGARETTE

YOU MAY BUY ELECTRICITY EQUAL TO THE ENERGY USED IN PUSHING A WHEELBARROW FOR TEN HOURS

THE Farmer in the Dell doesn't look very happy about the whole thing. . . . So far as he is concerned, the barrow is the well-known "eight-ball" and he's behind it! The worst of it is, after he's spent ten whole hours at it, all that pushing, perspiring and panting only adds up to the price of one little cigarette's worth of Electric Energy at our low rates!

And if he "can take it," and ambitiously tries to compete with a whole kilowatt-hour of electricity—which equals 2,655,314 foot pounds of work—the gardener would have to push the barrow eight days of ten hours each!

This simple comparison is amusing but true. . . . The average residential customer on our lines may purchase Electric Energy equal to work that a slave driver would hesitate to impose on another human being, for less than the price of a smoke. By and large, ELECtricity IS Cheap!



INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

IN A DOZEN YEARS YOUR Electric COST IS CUT IN HALF

COMPENSATION PAYMENTS DROPPED DURING MARCH

Uemployment benefits paid by the Indiana Unemployment Compensation Division during March dropped 4 per cent below the previous month's total and 12 per cent under the amount paid in March last year, it was announced today.

Hoosier workers received $568,205 as recompense for total or partial unemplynent during March, compared with $1,005,251 in Febrnary, 1940, and $1,009,816 in March, 1939.

The average number of individuals drawing benefit checks each week in March was about 22,100, compared with 23,900 per week during February and 25,300 in March a year ago.

Out of the 25 field offices operated throughout the state by the Division, only three—Kokomo, La Porte and Anderson—paid greater total benefit amounts than in both the previous month March, 1939, while twelve offices were divided in their experience. Gary, East Chicago, Michigan City, South Bend, and Marion paid more benefits than in February but less than in March, 1939, while Lafayette, Logansport, Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Bloomington paid more benefits than in March, 1939, but less than in February.

Lester Kassing, manager of the Ft. Wayne field office, which serves the area covering Adams, Allen, DeKalb, Jay, LaGrange, Noble, Stenben, Wells, and Whitley Counties and Montpelier and vicinity in Blackford County reported that benefit claims paid in the territory during March totaled $73,597.00 against $82,140.00 in February and $107,449.00 during March, 1939.

Payments were made on an average of 1690 persons in the Fort Wayne area during last month; 2040 per week during February, and 2450 per week in March, 1939.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

"Why burn corn stalks when it is organic matter that we generally want to get into our soils " asks George Enfield, Purdue University extension agronomist, in answering the often asked question of what is lost by burning corn stalks.

"By plowing under corn stalks and other crop residues, we add organic matter to the soil, adding to its fertility and workability, explained the agronomist. When a plow will not cover completely corn stalks, it may be necessary in corn borer infested areas, to burn the stalks but unless these circumstances exist, this practice is not recommended, according to Enfield. Special plow attachments may now be obtained to insure a complete job of plowing, he added.

Purdue University experiments show corn stalks disked and plowed under are worth about twice as much as when burned. Similar results have been obtained at Illinois agricultural experiment station tests

The Wisconsin agricultural experiment station found that bluegrass burned in March when the soil was completely frozen yielded 52 per cent less the following summer than unburned areas, counting out dry old grass. When the pastures were burned in May the yield was 71 per cent less than from the unburned areas. Burning in both March and May decreased the weight of roots and rhizomes 34 per cent when dug to a depth of seven inches. Weeds were abundant on the burned areas. The conclusion was that, so far as the growth is concerned, burning has a very detrimental effect on bluegrass pastures.

Infectious diseases of livestock sometimes closely resemble poisoning, say Purdue University veterinarians. A careful postmortem examination may be necessary to tell the difference.

"WHAT... MATCHES AGAIN!"

Mice start fires by chewing matches

TRUE?... FALSE?...

HOW did you vote? To test this popular belief, several mice were half-starved and turned loose among a lot of matches. No action! The hungry rodents would have nothing to do with them. This supposed fire cause can be crossed off the list.

One of the things on which 200 capital stock* fire insurance companies, members of The National Board of Fire Underwriters, are constantly at work is the study of fire causes. Reports of thousands of fires throughout the country are daily received and studied. As a result, life and property everywhere have been made safer.

When you buy capital stock company fire insurance for factory or home, you share in this fire-prevention work—and get sound protection for yourself.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1940 NUMBER 17

The People's Column!

Editor Note: Because of the demand for copies of news containing the letter from Congressman Geo. W. Gillie, in which he makes statements concerning the Townsend Recovery Plan, we are compelled to reproduce the letter this week.

CONGRESS of the UNITED STATES
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

April 12, 1940

Mr. Fred B. Leighty,
News Printing Company,
St. Joe, Indiana
Dear Fred:

It was with genuine pleasure that I read your splendid letter of April 8, commenting favorably on the fact that I have signed the petition to discharge the new Townsend Bill from the Ways and Means Committee and force it to the floor for honest and open consideration.

The bill deserves to receive fair hearing. It is a much better measure than H. R. 6466 (which was hastily substituted for H. R. 2 last year)' and I believe it will receive much wider support than previous Townsend bills.

Many of the imperfections of H. R. 6466 have been eliminated in H. R. 8264 including the provision to tax the lowest-paid workers. The new measure is more moderate and more workable than any yet presented, and if it is not radically amended (as was H. R. 2 at the last minute a year ago) it should have an excellent chance of being enacted.

The story that "Fort Wayne interests" brought pressure on me to oppose H. R. 6466 is, of course, absurd. And anyone who knows me and my record in public life realizes this. I voted against H. R. 6466 because I felt that it was an imperfect bill that would do more harm than good to the pension movement. And this conviction has since been justified by the action of Dr. Townsend in discarding H. R. 6466 entirely and presenting a new and improved measure mith many of these imperfections eliminated.

I doubt that many Townsend supporters ever have read H. R. 6466. It was not the same bill that was originally presented to Congress—H. R. 2—which we had been led to believe incorporated the aims of the Townsend movement. After long hearings were held in the House on H. R. 2, it was discarded completely at the last moment and H. R. 6466 was substituted in its place. I had expected to support H. R. 2, but I could not support this completely different measure. And I doubt that you could have either, Fred, had you been in my place.

I had said in letters (including one to a gentleman in Butler) that I expected to support H. R. 2. But never did I promise, or indicate in any may, that I intended to vote for H. R. 6466. Many Townsend followers seem to have the inpression that I voted against H. R. 2. I did not. It never came up for a vote.

With kindest regards and best wishes to you and your good wife, I am,

Sincerely yours,
George Gillie

"MOST IMPORTANT"

The Townsend Plan for old age pensions and national recovery of prosperity for everybody is now before Congress, to which it was introduced on February 1, under the title of "General Welfare Act," which is a legislative bill numbered H. R. 8264 in the House and S. 3255 in the Senate:" To provide for national recovery by raising revenue and retiring citizens past 60 years of age from gainful employment and provide for the general welfare of all the people of the United States, and for other purposes.

This bill creates an old-age pension fund by the levy of a 2 per cent gross income tax with exemptions of $250 per month of gross income to everyone.

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of April 11 showed the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

Expenditures	$7,484,687,523.72
Receipts	$4,559,730,833.58
In the hole	$2,924,956,701.14

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,890,909,075.60.

Your per capita share of that debt is $327.62.

The amount created by this tax is distributed to each eligible citizen past sixty in equal shares with the provision that it must be spent each month, thus creating the forced circulation of money constantly.

Government tax experts have already estimated that the initial pension to each eligible citizen past 60 will be about -50 per month and that this amount will be gradually increased as the buying power of this forced circulation of money expands in all channels of trade.

The General Welfare Act (Townsend Plan) is the most important legislative bill before Congress in this session BECAUSE it is the only concrete plan ever offered Congress for the solution of the major problems of this Nation in one legislative bill.

This bill, the General Welfare Act, is an excellent example of legislative writing. It has received the approval of the tax experts and competent attorneys. It is the result of safe, sane and conservative thinking and it is based upon solid financial ground.

This bill is non-partisan and should receive the support of everybody because in addition to providing for old age, it will impel the consatnt circulation of money in every county and community of this Nation and thus end this depression.

It is estimated that 193 members of the House will vote for this bill now. It requires only 218 to pass the House. The Administration leader in the Senate will support the bill.

This writer will answer any objection or question against the General Welfare Act if such objection is mailed to him

GEORGE B. WILSON,

APPEAR IN VAUDEVILLE AT COURT THEATRE

A number of acts appearing at the St. Joe Valley Jamboree recently in Spencerville, will appear in place of the usual vaudeville at the Court Theatre in Auburn. The Jamboree was sponsored by the Spencerville Conservation Club and P. T. A. in a joint effort to raise funds for the organizations. It was given on two nights at Spencerville and to a capacity audience. The Jamboree consisted of a number of unusual musical novelties and consists entirely of amateur talent gained from the local communities, only a few participants coming from a distance. At Spencerville they played to a well pleased audience many of whom expressing a desire to hear and see them again, will be glad of this opportunity of seeing them on the stage at Auburn this week end. This will represent the first real stage appearance for the majority of the cast and they are looking forward to it with a great deal of enthusiasm as is Mr. H. E. Hart the Theatre Manager. The Jamboree has Paul Dean as Master of Ceremonies.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The St. Joe, 4-H club met at the St. Joe School House, Tuesday, April 23, 1940. The club was organized, the officers selected, and a name selected. The work was outlined and every one is greatly enthused and eager to begin working. The next meeting will be held Friday, May 3, 1940 at the assembly room of the St. Joe, High School. The officers elected are as follows:

Junior Leaders, Evelyn George, Carroll Reed; Assistant Junior Leaders, Mary Ellen Rude, Dorothy Maurer; President, Jean Billows; Vice-President, Imalee Wade; Recreation Leader, Carroll Wade; Song Leader, Patricia Fluke; Secretary and Reporter, Carroll Reed; Adult Leader, Mrs. Allen Haller.

The name Get-Together 4-H Club was selected. So lets all get-together and make a go of the 4-H Club, we have a fine leader to help us. 23 members were present at the meeting, we would like to have more.

A COLD-VERDICT

(On Our Recent, Snowy "LITTLE WINTER")

Did I see the flash of a red-bird's wing?
Did I hear the harbinger blue-bird sing?
Or was it illusion—a mystical thing—
A trick of Old Winter to camouflage Spring.

He can't "camouflage," for Spring-time is here—
By calendar time, it seems like a year,
The old "hanger-on" can't grade as a peer,
In the rank of a Season that's already here.

Begone! with your wild winds and old, cold snow—
Snow's nice, but it's time for the blamed stuff to go.
It's time for the fish worms, a spade and a hoe—
Time for a garden—so ski up and GO.

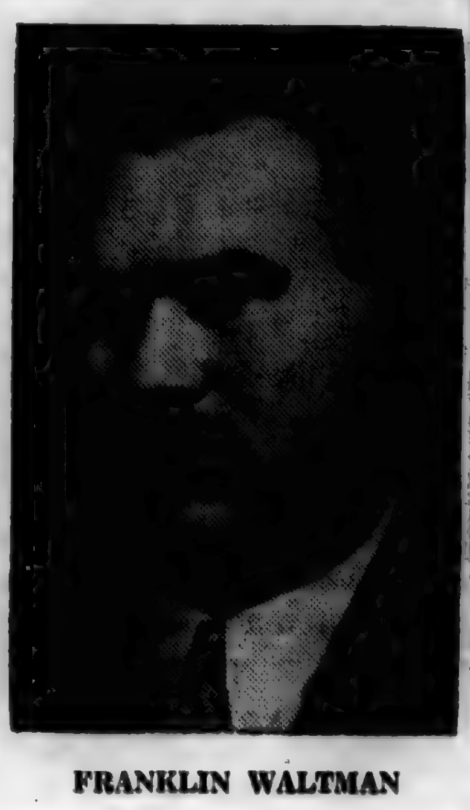
WALTMAN TO ADDRESS EDITORS MEETING FRIDAY

Franklyn Waltman, director of publicity for the Republicans National Committee will address the noon luncheon meeting of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association at the Claypool Hotel, Friday, April 26.

Not yet thirty-seven (37) years old, Mr. Waltman has had a wide and varied experience in political reporting and writing since he began his career on the Baltimore Sun, being assigned to the Sun's Washington bureau in 1928 since which time he has been located in the National Capital.



FRANKLIN WALTMAN

He was the recipient of the $1,000 Pugsley Journalistic Award in 1930 for the most noteworthy work by a Washington correspondent and won national attention for his devasting analysis of President Roosevelt's Supreme Court packing proposal.

Governor Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania will be the speaker at the evening dinner of the Association, reservations for which are being made in such numbers there is every indication the Riley Room of the Claypool Hotel will be taxed to capacity.

HOME BUREAU

The regular meeting of the Concord Home Bureau was held at the home of Mrs. Anna Rickett, April 19. The meeting was called to order by the president at 1:30. The song of the month Tenting Tonight was sung and a short history of the author of the song, Walter Kittredge was read.

The secretary's report was read and approved, 24 members responded to roll call on Garden Tips, one guest, Mrs. Bernard Sechler was present.

The club voted to allow the county demonstration agent $1.50 to help finance her demonstrations for the club. Minnie Ulm, the project leader gave an interesting lesson on basic dress, Clara Folts gave a reading and Huldah Reasoner a potato peeling contest, Myrtle Pugsley gave a reading with music, Millie Shull gave a geography lesson and found that they all knew their geography.

A state program for Mother's Day will be presented Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 3 o'clock, over radio station W. L. S. May 11. The program will be sponsored by Purdue University. Dr. Lillian Gilbreth will be the speaker. The Pulaski County Home economies chorus will sing. Robert Stanley, an agricultural student from Union County will sing a solo. Let us all remember the date, May 11.

The hostess with her committee served fruit salad, cake and coffee.

Mrs. Geo. McCann is in the Lutheran hospital at Wayne.

TURN CLOCKS AHEAD NEXT SATURDAY EVENING

St. Joe will go on Daylight Saving time Saturday night and continue until the last Saturday night in August. Local church services, along with all other gatherings will step up to fast time next Sunday morning.

Of course there will be those who refuse to adopt the new time, but they will have to observe it, should they decide to go to any other town around, on business.

Be congenial and follow suit next Saturday night.

TO BANQUET TONIGHT

An anticipated attendance of 75 men and boys are to attend the Father and Son banquet at the Lutheran church basement, Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock Following the banquet hour the program will be held in the sanctuary of the church. John Paul Price, Superintendent of the Butler school, will be the speaker.

SEVENTEEN-POUND FISH HATCHERY TO INCREASE PRODUCTION

Construction work will start within the next few days on the new Fawn Rivers state fish hatchery, located near Orland in Steuben county, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, announced today.

The Division of Fish and Game has acquired the 23-acre tract on which the Orland Conservation Club has been operating four club rearing ponds, and an additional tract of 20 acres across Road 327. Development work which will be carried on by the WPA under the supervision of the Division of Fish and Game will include the building of six additional rearing ponds, three display ponds and four ponds designed for experimental work in fish culture. A hatchery service building is also included in the plans.

The four ponds which have been operated by the Orland Conservation Club and will be in production this year, average three acres in size and in 1939 produced more than two million game fish for stocking neighboring lakes and streams. With the addition of six new rearing ponds, the Fawn River hatchery will have about 23 acres of water, making it the largest of the state hatcheries.

Water for the hatchery will come from Fawn River which is the outlet for Lake James and other lakes in that area. A dam will be built at the point where a grist mill was operated for many years, restoring the former mill pond. Picnic and parking areas will be added for use of visitors attracted to the hatchery.

With this new hatchery in operation, fish produced will be used to stock lakes and streams in Steuben, LaGrange, Elkhart and other nearby counties. Production of other state hatcheries—particularly those at Tri-Lakes and Wawasee—will then be available for more intensive stocking of waters in other parts of the state.

FOR SPRING

Coffee hits the fashion page. It is the color used for street and sport clothes and can be used in combination with many other colors....One of the most popular combinations is the one of red, white and blue. This can be carried out in skirt, blouse and jacket. A white dress is made attractive and new again by adding a girdle of the blue and red with a band of the same around a white hat.

Frank Stevenson says as a nation we have been minding our business pretty well, and much better than he expected.

MORTUARY

PRICE

Cora Dill Price, daughter of David and Anna Dill was born March 9, 1875, near Payne Ohio, and passed from this life after a prolonged illness, April 18, 1940, at her bridal home in Saint Joe, Indiana. At the age of 65 years, One month and nine days.

She attended the Payne Village school, united with the Mt. Olive M. E. Church near Payne, and on October 16, 1900, married Courtland R. Price who brought her to Saint Joe, to begin housekeeping in the present home.

In 1902 she transferred her church letter to the local Evangelical Lutheran Church. She was a member of the Eastern Star Lodge, of the Order of Pythian Sisters, and of the local Culture Club.

All who knew her suffering are thankful that she has been delivered from all pain, yet those near to her shall mourn over their loss, especially her husband and her immediate family. three brothers and two sisters: Monroe Dill, Pittsburgh, Pa; Ida Smalzried Bippus, Ind; Ester Kilpatrick, Fort Wayne, Ind; Samuel J. Dill, of Fort Wayne, Ind; Guy D. Dill, Pierceton Ind.

Following the service her body was taken to its final resting place in Hill crest Cemetery, Pierceton, Indiana.

"Lo, I have learned to murmur not.
Whate'er my earthly lot,
And I shall surely stand
There at my Lord's right hand;
Heaven is my Fatherland,
Heaven is my home."

The family wishes to thank all who have remembered their beloved during her illness, and all who have remembered them in their sorrow, for their words, deeds, and gifts of kindness.

McNABB

John Calburn McNabb, son of James and Catherine McNabb was born July 1, 1866, in Cedar Township, Allen County, Ind., and passed from this life April 17, 1940, at his home near Spencerville.

While yet a young man he learned commercial telegraphy but being unable to find employment in this field, he went to Garrett, Indiana, in 1891, to begin thirteen years of service as a painter for the B. & O. railroad.

On December 24, 1892, he was united in marriage to Margaret Spitler of near Spencerville. While living in Garrett, he joined the I. O. O. F. Lodge, but discontinued his membership after moving to the present homestead in 1904.

In 1907, he united with the Spencerville Lutheran church in which he remained a diligent worker until his death.

Music was his hobby. He played with several bands, taught Grabill band for many years, and was always happy whenever he could have an orchestra in the Sunday school, or in his home. Whatever he undertook was shouldered with the same determination with which he refused to bow to illness.

He leaves to mourn his absence, besides his wife, two sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Goldsmith and Mrs. Margaret Wilmer and one brother, Grover McNabb. Also five sons, Earl of Auburn, Glenn of Spencerville, Dale and Bernard of Dearborn, Mich., and Kenneth at home, and four daughters, Mrs. Izetta Chaney, Mrs. Thelma Oswalt, Mrs. Alwilda Walter, and Ethel at home. Also thirteen grandchildren and unnumbered neighbors and friends.

The Service was held in the Spencerville Lutheran church, Saturday, by Rev. Frank Stevenson, pastor. Funeral was made in the Leo cemetery Roscoe Walter, funeral director.

KLINE—PFLAUMER

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Lutherbein of Edgerton, O., delightfully entertained 12 guests at dinner Saturday evening, April 20. When the place cards were read they told the interesting story of the marriage of Maurice Kline and Violette Pflaumer on Nov. 26, 1938.

Mr. Kline is a Newville township farmer and the bride a teacher in the Spencerville school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pflaumer of south of St. Joe.

The young couple have the very best wishes of their large circle of friends in their respective communities.

Mother's Day cards are now being shown at News Office. See them now.

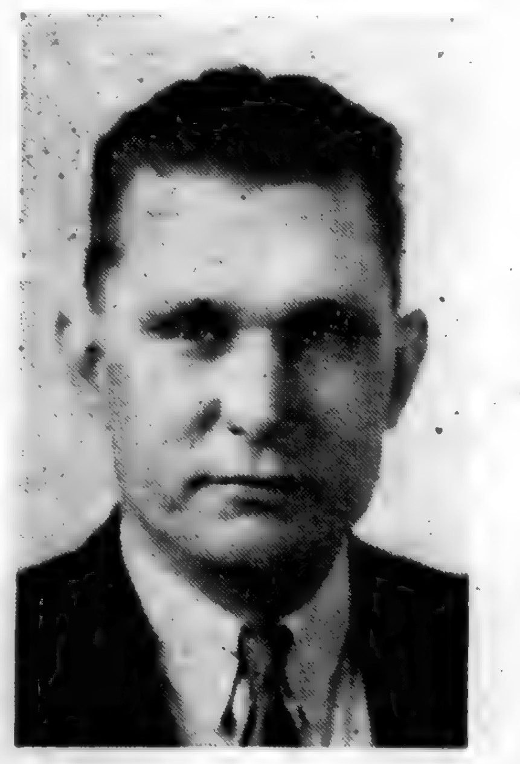
CLAUD TALLEY IS ASKING FOR NOMINATION OF SHERIFF

Born in Villa Grove, Ill., forty-three years ago, Claud A. Talley of Keyser township, who is a candidate for the democratic nomination for sheriff, spent his boyhood days on a farm. He came to Indiana in 1915 and was employed at the Butler basket factory and for the Butler Co., where he learned the moulder's trade. Later he worked at the Auburn foundry, which employment was interrupted by service for Uncle Sam in the World war. Afterward he worked for the Auburn Automobile Co.



CLAUD A. TALLEY

Mr. Talley and Miss Emma Bihr of Hicksville, were married Sept. 27, 1919, and they have three sons, George, 19, Clarence, 17, and Robert, 13. George was graduated from Garrett high school last year and Clarence is a member of the 1940 class. Robert will enter high school next fall.

HALL COW COMPLETES NEW OFFICIAL RECORD

A new record, exceeding the average of the Guernsey breed for her age and class has just been completed by a five and one-half year old cow Elm Row Reta 429488 of Garrett, Ind., tested and owned by F. A. Hall. Her official record supervised by Purdue University and announced by The American Guernsey Cattle Club is 9677.6 pounds of milk and 478.4 pounds of butter fat in class AAA.

Japan has a scarcity of American medicinals.

The President's allusion to Greenland, as lying in the Western Hemisphere, the admission of Lord Lothian, minister from Great Britain, that the Monroe Doctrine probably applies to the territory under discussion, and a demand on the floor of the House that the United States should establish a protectorate there, have given rise, first to speculation as to why this country should concern itself with jumping off places; and then to the study of long disused geographies.

A look at the map clears the understanding, and leads to the acquisition of useful and surprising information. A man living in northern Maine, should think of a straight line journey to Greenland as no more than a trip to Fargo, N. D., DesMoines, Iowa, St. Louis, Mo., Nashville, Tenn., or Savannah, Ga. Even Iceland would be a closer neighbor than Salt Lake City.

It seems that telling the world "where to get off" is no game of solitaire, to be played by Mr. Hitler alone. England's Minister of Economic Warfare reminds Italy that the British are plain spoken, and wish to know where they stand with that country. Mr. Hull is equally open with Japan, making it clear that the Dutch East Indies must not be taken over by Nippon or any other power, should Germany invade Holland. Speaking for themselves, the Dutch inform Japan that they will neither ask for nor accept protection from Japan or anyone else for the islands of the Indies. One cannot blame the Dutch. Considering the "protection" for the rights of minor countries that is being distributed in Europe at the present time, it is a happy people that is unprotected.

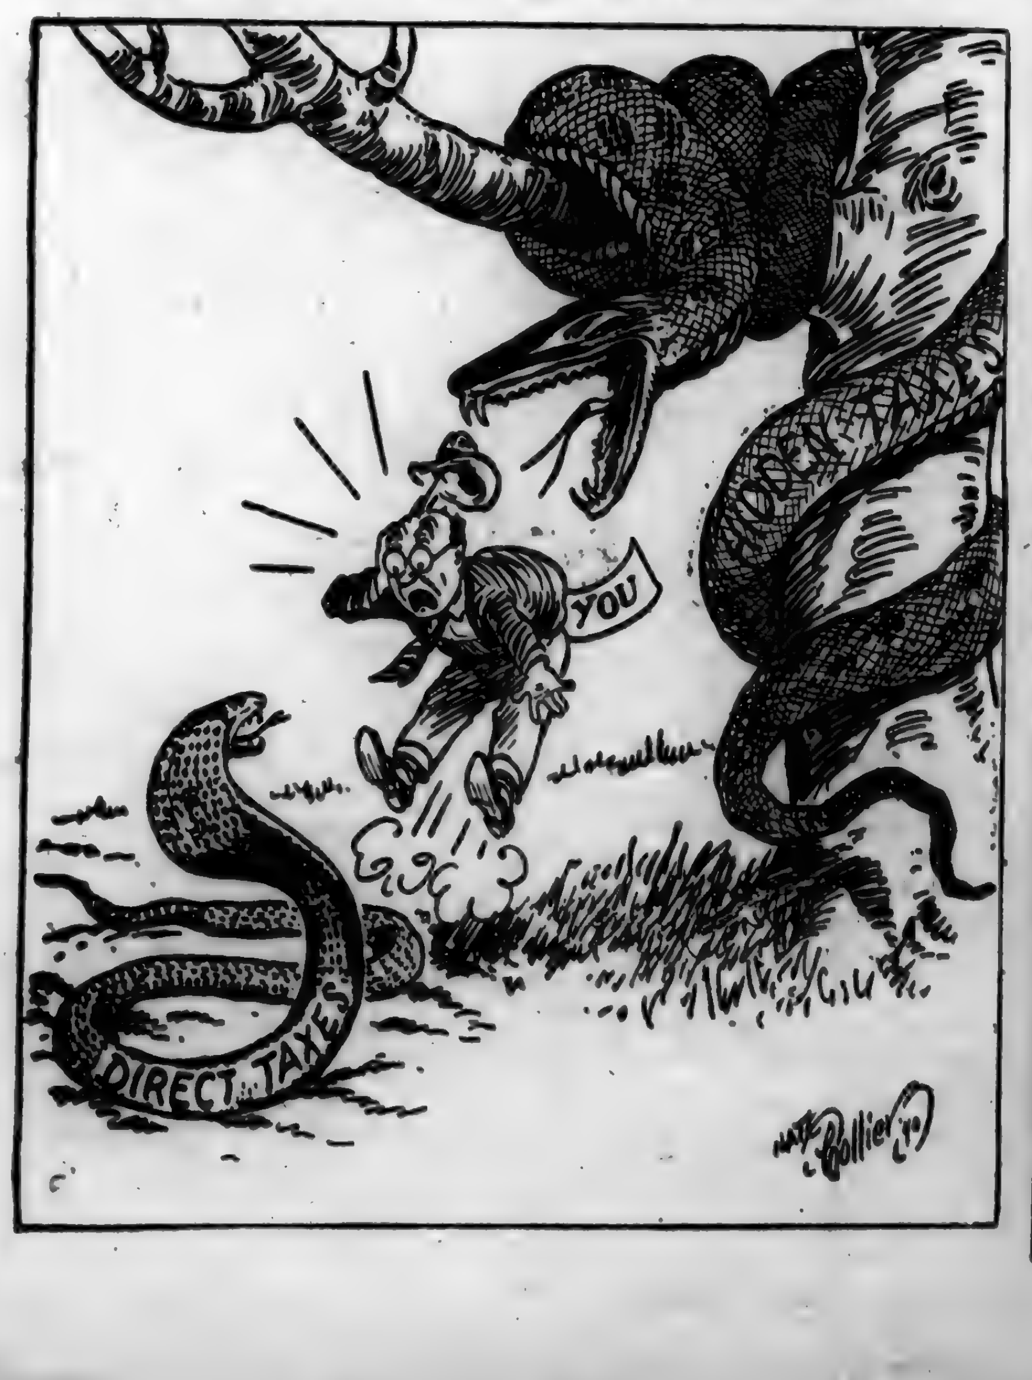
In coupling the name of Mr. Hull with that of Mr. Hitler, as plain speakers to the world, it should not be assumed that their views and aims are in any wise alike, but the straightforward demands of the one may have a good effect on the other, reminding him that firmness and tenacity of purpose are characteristics to be found elsewhere than in the Reich.

Prior to witnessing the opening Washington ball game side by side, Mr. Farley and the President lunched together at the White House. Rumor would have it that the third term matter was the chief topic of conversation. Still wilder speculation reports that the situation remains as it stood last summer, when the President is alleged to have told the Post Master General that he did not desire a third term, but would accept it if a crisis called for such a course. Silent at first, the President later said that candidates were not discussed at the conference. At its conclusion, Mr. Farley turned inquirers away with the remark that he had nothing to say. Very likely those inclined to be prophets, or thinking that they have large stores of trustworthy advance information regarding the third term issue, had better keep silent, like the wise James A.

As to Congress, the President's signature has been affixed to the trade agreement bill, by which he can negotiate trade pacts with foreign countries, without the consent of the Senate, and thus it becomes a part of the law of the land. The same important signature was refused for a bill which provided for the prompt deportation of aliens who admitted in writing that they had voluntarily engaged in espionage or sabbotage, or had violated narcotic laws. The ever present anti-lynching measure, sure to be a part of the business of each session, has passed the House and gone to an appropriate committee of the Senate.

The roof of the Capitol is more than three quarters of a century old. Architects say that it is none too sound. The legislators must be given credit for a good degree of courage. In the interest of economy, they have declined to lay out a half million for the necessary carpenter work. The purse strings were tightened, for the time being at least upon the plan of the navy to increase its tonnage 25 per cent. A raise of 11 per cent was considered sufficient.

BUT LOOK BEHIND YOU!



WHY NOT?

A farmer, graduate of an agricultural college, puts up a strong sort of barrel-shaped creation in the middle of a square field, runs a heavy wire from this to the steering gear of his tractor at the edge of the land that he wants plowed, disked, dragged and seeded to grain. The farmer starts his motor, throws in the clutch and climbs off. The tractor and implements go 'round and 'round in circles that become smaller and smaller and finally stops when its assigned task is completed.

There seems to be a sentiment of tradition against planting rows of corn in circles, but after all they laughed at a chap who tied sacks on corn stalks and wound up with hybrid corn. They probably chuckled over the reaper and howled over the first milking machine. We are not as startled at the idea of planting crops in circles as some news readers might be.

AN ANNIVERSARY

There is a nation-wide celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the first college of industry in the U. S. There are many years that have served to bring dentistry from an apprenticeship as in carpentry or blacksmithing, to a profession of great technical skill and high ethical standards. The first college was founded in Baltimore and there young men began the study that is today one of the main factors in public health. We are fortunate to have dental surgeons close to us and especially fortunate in securing the best type of work possible. As much as we dislike a toothache and as much as we loathe the sight of a dental chair, we respect the relief afforded by our dentists and appreciate the help and attention that their training brings us.

OUTSIDE TOO

Our home may be our castle but our hometown is our pride. While we are bending efforts to do the housecleaning it might me well to keep the neighborhood clean and tidy as well. The effort expended is worth the profits and the results are gained without a heavy taxation on our purses. We can do a lot of work around the yards and can always find enough rubbish to fill a basket or two. There are usually alleys filled with empty cans and bottles, old tires and ashes. Not a delight to the civic eye. This appeal is for our citizens to clean-up and fix-up their premises. Remove rubbish, provide slightly containers for waste, straighten up from the attic to the basement. There are not any citizens but will aid in the move to "Clean-Up St. Joe."

HOME TRAINING

Whenever this desk receives new statistics upon the problem of crime in this country, it also receives words in regard to the laxity of parents in rearing their families. There is a universal complaint about how easy it is for youths to acquire guns, a groan from most about the methods used in obtaining bail, the very short sentences, quick paroles and pardons in cases where severe punishment might be conducive in taming a wild, headstrong lad. Often when we read of various crimes we do not consider that this same thing might happen here in our own community.

When many parents consider the spanking as out-of-date and correction as something that happened in woodsheds of old, is when families are taking long chances in rearing their young and only hopeful that their type of correction will develop a character equal to overcome the tempations placed in their children's paths. A child that has a sound background of training is more apt to overthrow the evils than the child that is improperly and carlessly reared. Today's children spend so easily that they forget that the money was not as easily acquired. The old time habit of asking for a penny gives way to the call for a nickle or a dime. Guard this child well, he is riding for a fall.

Because the larger cities seem to be the hot-beds of crime does not mean that the small towns are free of mud. We need family instruction and guidance as well here. Let us make our living conditions in homes and around town safer for the rearing of our children.

'THE MAN WHO SOLD HOT DOGS'

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and he sold hot dogs. He was hard of hearing so he had no radio.

He had trouble with his eyes so he read no newspapers.

But he sold good hot dogs. He put signs up on the highway, telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried, "Buy a hot dog, Mister?" and people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He finally got his son home from college to help him.

But then something happened. His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio? Haven't you been reading the newspapers? There's a big depression on. The European situation is terrible. The domestic situation is worse. Everything's going to pot."

Whereupon the father thought. Well, my son's been to college, he reads the papers he listens to the radio, and he ought to know." So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his advertising signs, and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs. And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son," the father said to the boy. "We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Although the local assessors have until May 15, to file their reports, County Assessor Chas. E. Miser stated Monday that Eugene Webster, trustee of Stafford township, and Bryon Campbell, trustee of Troy township, have completed their work. It is expected the assessment of personal property in the county will show a reduction this year, chiefly due to lower market prices for hogs and cattle, but Stafford and Troy townships will be increased about 10 per cent. This condition is accounted for by the larger number of hogs and cattle and also an increase in the number of new automobiles.

Frank Leighty attended the funeral of Rev. C. E. Moorman, 81, at Fort Wayne, Sunday afternoon, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. F. Cramer. Burial was made at Auburn. He was born at Antwerp, and was a Christian Minister for more than 60 years, serving practically all the churches in this section of Indiana. He lived at Rome City for 14 years and became intimately acquainted with Frank Leighty, while he lived and worked there up until the past year. They were great fishing partners. Mrs. Moorman died Tuesday morning, following illness dating back to January. She will be buried Friday afternoon in Auburn cemetery, beside her late husband.

The body of Mrs. Mary M. Keller of near Butler, was placed in the mausoleum near Woodlawn cemetery in Auburn Tuesday afternoon following funeral services. Rites were held at the Johnson funeral home in Butler at 1:30 p. m., and at the Mt. Pleasant church near Butler at 2 p. m., Tuesday. Mrs. Keller died at 9 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ford Wilson of near Waterloo. Coronary thrombosis was the cause of death. Surviving are her husband, Lewis H. Keller, the daughter at whose home she died, eight grandchildren, three brothers, Frank, Jacob and Philip Gunsenhouser of Butler and one sister, Mrs. Jennie Keller of St. Joe. Rev. D. H. Pellett of Butler, was the officiating pastor.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Indicative of the confusion into which the Indiana Democratic organization has been plunged by the third term movement and the apparent failure of the McNutt campaign, was the launching the other day of a Minton-for-President drive.

Mention of the Junior Senator as a likely running mate for President Roosevelt next Fall was received cooly in all quarters. The newspapers ignored it. Democratic leaders did likewise. And Mr. Minton himself did not even grace it with a modest denial that he entertains any such ambition.

We only break the silence to comment on the "boom" because it may be a straw in the wind. It may signify that the much-touted Democratic harmony in Indiana is a mere fiction, and that Hoosier Democrats are beginning to shy away from the oblivion-bound McNutt bandwagon.

* * *

INSTIGATOR and leading light of the Minton-to-Succeed-Garner movement is the Portland Daily Sun, which describes itself as the "Official Democratic Organ of Jay County."

To launch the "boom," the Daily Sun dug up its heaviest type, its largest Minton photograph, plastered them both on Page One and declared editorially "For a 100 Per Cent New Deal Ticket—Roosevelt and Minton."

After quickly disposing of the McNutt candidacy with the remark that "it is all but a foregone conclusion that Mr. Roosevelt again will be the White House nominee," the Daily Sun states that "as the hunt for the ideal vice-presidential nominee is begun, eyes are turned toward a man who has qualified in every way for the post—our own Sherman (Shay) Minton."

* * *

THE INDIANA SENATOR, according to his Portland friend, should be given second place on the ticket because, unlike many fair weather Democrats," Mr. Minton stuck by the President even when he proposed legislation which was unpopular with the folks back home.

Not only does Mr. Minton have the President's devotion, the editorial continues, but he hails from a pivotal state which the Democrats want desperately to carry next Fall.

And to clinch its argument, the Daily Sun adds: "And when it comes to getting votes in Indiana, who could surpass Senator Minton?"

Friends of Raymond E. Willis believes they know the answer to that question.

* * *

ABOUT THE TIME the editorial appeared, Vice-President Candidate Minton was in Indianapolis, mending political fences in preparation for the coming campaign. Speaking at the spring meeting of the Democratic Editorial Association, he said:

"I came home to tell you I want to be in the fight in November."

At one point in his talk he commented on the results of a recent Gallup Poll, purporting to show that the Democrats still have a slight edge in Indiana. "And you all know that old man Gallup is not on the pay roll of the Two Per Cent Club," he declared.

Appearing on the same program with Minton was Congressman T. V. Smith, of Illinois, who criticized the Two Per Cent method of collecting campaign funds, asserting that it was offensive to the independent voters.

Senator Minton, in an interview following the meeting, is reported to have said that there is no basis to rumors that he might obtain an appointment to the Federal bench and thus avoid an election test in November.

* * *

SIDELIGHTS: Congressman George W. Gillie, of Fort Wayne, is making no effort to keep the wolf from his door. For the "Wolfs" hold no terror for him.

Walter E. Wolf, Noble County Republican, circulated a petition urging Gillie's re-election, and the first 11 signers were named "Wolf."

Mr. Wolf explained that they were all brothers, sisters and sisters-in-law. "And they'll all be voting for you May 7," he declared.

More than 14,000 Fourth District voters signed petitions for Gillie's re-election, but the Congressman has announced that first prize for the largest family on his petition goes to the wolfs of Noble County.

* * *

THIS AND THAT: Several Indiana Congressmen plan to attend both the Republican State Convention at Indianapolis in May and the National Convention at Philadelphia in June.. Congress is expected to adjourn between June 1 and 15, in ample time for the latter gathering.. Reports received here indicate that the Dewey rally in Indianapolis was one of the most enthusiastic ever held in Indiana.. Dewey's political stock is said to have risen sharply as a result of his visit, and it is now believed that he may obtain the support of many Hoosier convention delegates, despite claims by Senator Taft.

In addition to the presentation Sunday this printed copy will contain a list of the pasters of the church since 1842.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

A liberal supply of hogs sold at surprisingly high prices in this week's auction. We were glad to welcome a new order buyer to our organization this week. Mr. J. C. Vanderbur, who buys for Detroit. Hogs weighing 170 to 240—$5.60 to $5.70. Fat sows $4.40 down. Stags $3.25 to $3.50. Sows with pigs at heel as high as $31.00 per group. Veals made a select top of $12., with all good calves in a price range of $11.00 to $11.50, even several second line calves making this class. Common butcher steers $7.00 to $8.00. Fat cows $5.40 to $5.60. Cutters $4.00 to $4.80. Young pasture cattle at least $1.00 per head higher than last week.

HOUSECLEANING HINTS:

Keep legs of stepladder from slipping by binding tips with cloth held in place with rubber bands........Fix up the old wooden table top by cementing on its surface a piece of attractive patterned inlaid linoleum. Varnish the top and you will have an attractive new table for breakfasting........Slip a cotton bag over the broom to brush down the walls. Keep the bag clean for clean walls....To clean leather chairs sponge the surface with mild suds and a bit of borax in the water. When dry apply a thin coat of shellac which will not harm the leather and leaves a nice finish........To clean rugs, use corn-meal and ammonia. Take one pint of coarse meal and enough ammonia to moisten and rub it on the rug with a cloth. Let stand a short time and sweep off with a broom.

Mice start fires by chewing matches
TRUE?... FALSE?...

HOW did you vote? To test this popular belief, several mice were half-starved and turned loose among a lot of matches. No action! The hungry rodents would have nothing to do with them. This supposed fire cause can be crossed off the list.

One of the things on which 200 capital stock fire insurance companies, members of The National Board of Fire Underwriters, are constantly at work is the study of fire causes. Reports of thousands of fires throughout the country are daily received and studied. As a result, life and property everywhere have been made safer.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1940 NUMBER 18

GINNIVANS TO SHOW HERE ALL NEXT WEEK

Spring is actually here when the Ginnivan Dramatic Co. opens their 2nd week show in St. Joe Monday evening, May 6, marking their seventieth season on the road. The company has earned the title of the oldest tent repertoire company in America today. This title has been accorded them by the "Billboard" America's foremost theatrical publication.

The Ginnivans will play in St. Joe each evening during next week with a splendid list of plays that everyone will enjoy seeing and hearing. A troupe of 18 persons will accompany the Ginnivans this season. The following is a list of the plays for the season:

"Tamed and How", "Freckles," "Hill Billy Goes to Town", "Hard Boiled Detective", "End of a Perfect Day", "She Couldn't Marry Three", "Lena Rivers".

Vaudeville features will be given between each act. A brand new feature added this year for the first time is a novelty orchestra which will give a concert before the show each evening.

St. Joe folks are well acquainted with the Ginnivan shows and so with the opening of their seventieth season, the Ginnivans are looking forward with new enthusiasm to their summer's work of bringing entertainment to their public. Theirs is a grease paint saga which is continuing to make history in the theatrical world...A story of a dream of a young man with a wagon load of troupers on the Illinois prairie 70 years ago...A story of heartaches, and trials, and problems, and dark moments when they thought the show couldn't go on...It's life.

For the just time the show will be located on the play grounds near the Town Hall, within reach of everyone, and parking space in the business section of town can be used on both sides of the street and side streets, remembering to keep all alley and drive-way open.

VOTING PLACES FOR PRIMARY ELECTION

Voting places of special interest to The News readers today, have been designated as follows:

Concord township, Town Hall, St. Joe.

Jackson township, North Precinct—Magginis School House. South Precinct—Hopewell School House.

Newville township, Newville Center School House.

Spencer township, Town Hall, Spencerville.

Stafford township, Stafford Center School House.

FARM BUREAU MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Tri-Township Farm Bureau will be held Tuesday evening May 7, 8:30 E. S. T., at the St. Joe Gym.

Devotions—Rev. Stevenson, Spencerville, "Mothers Memories", Presented in remembrance of Mother's Day. Traveling South,—Mrs. Fred Hart, "America Leads the Way" by Boy Scouts. Address—Dr. Claude Hitt, of Hicksville, Ohio.

There is some important business to be taken care of and as this may be the last meeting until about September, everybody is invited and urged to be present. Ladies please bring sandwiches. Ira Hook, chairman; Howard Shilling, secretary.

Merritt Sechler and County Agent, C. E. Baker, accompanied by several gentlemen from Auburn attended a farm meeting, in Minneapolis, Minn., last week end. Mr. Sechler was delighted to meet Dio Dermott, a former resident of this community at the meeting.

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of April 18 showed the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

Expenditures .	$7,679,345,030.80
Receipts	$4,617,668,660.11
In the hole	$3,061,676,370.69

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,604,209,920.38.

Your per capita share of that debt is $327.73.

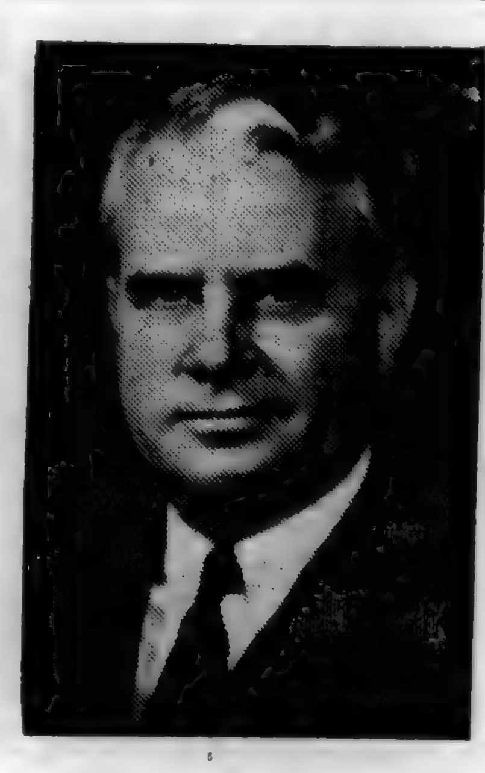
GOV. BRICKER IS KEYNOTER AT STATE CONVENTION

Republican State Chairman, Arch N. Bobbitt, today announced that Governor John W. Bricker of the neighboring State of Ohio, would deliver the keynote address at the Republican State Convention to be held in the Coliseum at the State Fairgrounds, Friday, May 24.

Governon Bricker is a colorful speaker with an appealing gift of oratory and his keynote speech is certain to be one of the highlights of the State Convention which will attract national attention.

He addressed the state wide meeting of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association in March of last year, and is by no means a stranger to Hoosier Republicans.

In 1932 and 1934 he was elected attorney general of Ohio in face of the Democratic landslide. In 1936, and again in 1938 he was nominated for Governor by the Republicans of Ohio without opposition being elected in 1938.



GOV. JOHN W. BRICKER
(of Ohio)

In the campaign of 1938 he was swept into office by a majority of 118,000 upon a platform calling for sweeping reform in state government and since taking the oath of office he has attracted national attention by his unswerving allegiance to his platform, discharging more than three thousand unnecessary state employes in the first few weeks of his administration. A balanced budget with no new taxes has been his goal, and he has been an unrelenting foe of the waste of taxpayers money by the New Deal.

He volunteered his service in the World War and when discharged he held the commission of a First Lieutenant.

Mr. Bobbitt says: "Governor Bricker is one of the outstanding Governors of the country and Indiana is particularly fortunate to have him as the keynoter for the Republican State Convention."

DIADEM BONE DIES AT HOME OF SON

Mrs. Diadem Bone, 82, died at the home of her son, William Keeler, Monday evening, after being confined to her bed for only a short time, but having been ailing for many months. The funeral will be held from the Kinsey Funeral home in St. Joe. Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. D. S. T.

Rev. Frank Stevenson will be the pastor in charge.

ST. JOE WOMAN TAKES OWN LIFE FRIDAY A. M.

Entire Community shocked to hear of the death of well known Farm Lady--Ill health and despondency, attributing factor which lead to the Poisoning of self.

Mrs. Stella Maxwell, 44, wife of Roy Maxwell, a teacher in the St. Joe schools, committed suicide early Friday morning by taking 10 grains of strychnine, Coroner John R. Clark of Auburn, who was called to make an investigation, said that she took the five-grain tablets at about 3:30 o'clock and died at 4:30 at her home one and one-half miles north of Coburntown, on state road 101, just north of the Cheesetown school house, on the old Wm. Maxwell farm homestead.

Mrs. Maxwell left a note on a bureau upstairs which indicated that she had been contemplating taking her life for some time. The note was in the form of an obituary, and in writing of her own death, she wrote, "She passed away April 14, 1940."

She had been very nervous lately and for no reason at all had feared that the family would commit her to the state hospital at Richmond. Her husband, who had kept the strychnine in the house, some time ago took it to the barn and hid it. However, Mrs. Maxwell learned the hiding place.

Mr. Maxwell told Coroner Clark that he did not hear his wife arise Friday morning, but she came upstairs at 3:30, after she had taken the poison, and said, "Do you know what time it is?" He looked at the clock and she then remarked that she would tell him something if he promised not to worry. She told him then that she had taken the poison.

She was born December 3, 1895, in Ohio and had resided in DeKalb county about fifteen years. She was a member of the Coburn's Corner church and of the auxiliary of the St. Joe American Legion post and had been actively engaged in its activities along with her husband, who is a World War Veteran.

Survivors are the husband; two children, Patricia and James, both at home; her mother, Mrs. Barbara Dages of Portsmouth, O., and a brother, Raymond Dages of Pennsville, N. J.

Friends were able to call until Saturday noon at the Kinsey funeral home to view the body and after that time at the residence.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock (DST) at the Coburn's Corner church, two mile east and one mile south of St. Joe. Rev. J. N. Scholes officiated and burial in the Alton cemetery, two miles east of St. Joe, and only a few rods from the home.

MAXWELL

Stella Margaret (Dages) Maxwell, daughter of Walter and Barbara (Schmidt) Dages, was born in Portsmouth, Ohio, December 3, 1895, and departed this life on April 26, 1940, at the age of forty-four years, four months, and twenty-three days.

She was united in marriage with Roy Maxwell, June 16, 1920. They first met on May 30, 1918, while Roy was in military service, and stationed at Camp Sherman. One son, James, and one daughter, Patricia, were born to this union, both of them are living at home with their father. Surviving also is her mother, of Portsmouth, Ohio, and one brother, Raymond Dages, of Pennsville, New Jersey.

Mrs. Maxwell was received into the Second Presbyterian Church, at Portsmouth, Ohio, when she was thirteen years old, and quite recently she united with the Christian Church, at Coburn's Corners, where the entire family united in a common faith.

Mrs. Maxwell fulfilled her obligations as wife and mother faithfully, until recent ill health rendered her unequal to the task.

The funeral service was conducted from the Coburn's Corners Church, Sunday afternoon at 2:00 oclock by Rev. J. N. Scholes, with burial in Alton cemetery.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE;

Meat and Macoroni Salad: 3 C diced meat, 2 C cooked macaroni, ½ C diced celery, ½ C diced sweet pickles, salt and pepper, salad dressing, lettuce, stuffed olives. Dice meat into ¼ to ½ inch cubes. Drain macaroni and wash with cold water. Combine meat, macaroni, diced celery and sweet pickles. Season with salt and peper and moisten with salad dressing. Serve on lettuce and garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to take this means of expressing our thanks and deepest gratitude to all who assisted and comforted us during our recent sorrow.

James and Patricia

NEWS PREDICTS GILLIE TO RECEIVE BIG VOTE

Congressman George Gillie, candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket, is expected to receive a sizeable vote of confidence from DeKalb County voters in the Primary election next Tuesday.

The tall, amiable Fourth District Congressman has established a sound and enviable legislative record during his first term in the House of Representatives, and it is believed that this will be reflected in his DeKalb County vote.

Independent and scrupusly honest, Congressman Gillie has voted with his party a majority of the time, but has not hesitated to break with his colleagues when he conscientiously differed with them, or when he felt that the interests of his constituents could better be served by so doing.

As a result, he has won the respect and esteem of members of Congress in both parties, and has been in a position actively and effectively to promote legislation of benefit to his District.

Congressman Gillie received 2,346 votes in the DeKalb County Primary two years ago, obtaining the nomination by a comfortable majority. In the Fall he went on to further demonstrate his popularity by carrying every county in the district and winning election by the largest margin ever registered for a Congressional candidate.

Congressman Gillie wisely decided to remain in Washington during the current Primary campaign, explaining that he believed he could "better serve his constituents by staying on the job."

This decision may cost him some immediate votes, but it is believed that in the long run it will only serve to establish him more firmly in the regard of his constituents.

SOME BRIDGE

Last week the LaCrescenta Valley Herald, published by E. L. Sanders of Montrose, California, a former St. Joe boy, contains a short article about the construction of a new bridge, and because of its magnitude, compared with Indiana bridges, we are pleased to reproduce the article: "A 430-foot concrete bridge that will span Big Tujunga Canyon and provide the last link in a new short-cut to the desert via Angeles Crest highway is to be constructed by Los Angeles County. Bids for the span are to be opened May 7 and the project is expected to be started by the middle of June. The span will carry traffic 180 feet above the Canyon floor and lead into a 700-foot tunnel already completed.

O. F. Cooley, chief deputy county road commissioner, set the date for opening of bids last Friday and said the connecting span will shorten the route to the desert by approximately 25 miles. Angeles Crest highway starts nine miles above La Crescenta and winds through the mountains to a point near Big Bear Canyon."

FATHERS AND SONS BANQUET WELL ATTENDED

Fifty Fathers and Sons gathered last Thursday evening, April 25, for a man-pleasing, boy-enjoyed, Brotherhood-sponsored, Ladies Aid prepared meal in the Lutheran Church basement.

Following the banquet, the men and boys went upstairs for a program arranged by Ralph Sechler and Harvey Hull, featuring an address by J. P. Price, superintendent of the Butler, Indiana, schools, of freedom in speech, freedom in religious beliefs, freedom in public education, and freedom to be ourselves."

The pastor urged the "Banquet Fathers" to remember their "Banquet Sons" throughout the coming year so that it is not necessary to hunt them up about this time next year.

NEWVILLE 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Willing Workers 4-H Club of Newville twonship, met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sada Washler. The meeting was opened by the club singing two songs followed by roll call and secretary's report, then the business was taken care of and it was decided to have gladiolas for the club flower and "Not at the top, but Climbing" for the club motto. Work period followed and the girls were given instructions for their summer's work. After period games were played and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held May 14, at the same home. The organization meeting was held April 23, officers for this year are:

FARM RESIDENCE DESTROYED ON COUNTY LINE

Fire breaking out in the attic apparently from a defective chimney completely destroyed a two story frame house belonging to William Watson on the Allen-DeKalb County Line about four miles southwest of Spencerville last Thursday afternoon. The farm is tenanted by Mr. Leroy Reese, his brother John Reese and their families.

When the fire was first detected by the family an alarm was sent out to the neighbors as well as to nearby towns. The St. Joe Fire Department was called but because of the age of the house and dryness of the timbers the fire had almost consumed the house when firemen arrived.

The general alarm was given in Spencerville and a few helpers reached the fire along with the first of the neighbors. Several car loads of men who were working on the Conservation Fish Hatchery at Spencerville also rushed to the scene with their services.

A small part of the furniture upstairs was removed but the chimney was located near the stairway and fire first burned through to the second floor from the attic directly over the stairway thus making it impossible to use the stairs because of falling burning debris. The most of the furniture downstairs was removed by those who reached the fire first. One of the most inconvenient if not the greatest financial losses was the burning of the clothing which could not be removed from upstairs, especially the baby clothes.

The Reese's had lived on the property only a short time. Mr. Reese is employed on the W. P. A.

THREE SAINT JOE YOUNG PEOPLE ATTENDED CONFERENCE

Marcia Wade, Betty Drake, and Richard Freeburn accompanied Rev. Frank Stevenson and his wife to Springfield, Ohio, April 26 - 28, to attend the Third Lutheran Youth Conference sponsored by Wittenberg College and drawing about 100 delegates from Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia, representing a cross-section of the youth of the United Lutheran Church in America in these states.

These conferences are held every fifth year in an effort to broaden the vision, deepen the faith and stimulate the Christian life of the youth of the church.

The theme of the Conference this year was, "A Faith for Youth." Outstanding leaders of the U. L. C. A. addressed the group on the following subjects: "An Adventurous Faith" "An Awakening Faith", "An Inspiring Faith", "A Resourceful Faith", "A Witnessing Faith", and "A Victorious Faith."

Following the main addresses, the delegates were divided into several groups for supervised discussion of the place and importance of Christian Faith in present day confussion of thought and action, the need for Faith in social life, in business, in marriage, in education, in scientific, secular, and anti-Christian world, in missions, in the local work of the church-, and the importance of Bible Study for a growing faith.

All who were privileged to attend this week end conference returned to their homes and congregations with a reassurance that they are on the right track as followers of Christ but also conscious of a need for an ever growing and greater Faith, as His ambassadors in a troubled and uncertain world.

LADIES ATTEND BOOK REVIEW MONDAY EVENING

A large crowd of people gained inspiration and further understanding of the Bible from Kathyrn Turney Garten's interpretation, of the book "The Bible Designed to be Read as Living Literature," by Ernest Sutherland Bates. She appeared in Auburn under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Club, on Monday evening. Those attending from this community were: Mrs. B. O. Shook, Mrs. Louis Washler, Miss Eva Swartz and Mrs. C. R. Baumgartner, of Spencerville; Mrs. Stanley Means, Mrs. Glenn Cole, Mrs. Frank Curie and Mrs. F. B. Leighty.

PREPARATIONS FOR PRIMARY ELECTION

Total of 8,700 Ballots for Republicans and 7,800 for Democrats in DeKalb County — Few Absent Voter Applications

Preparations are practically complete for the primary election to be held in DeKalb county Tuesday, May 7, when the republican and democratic parties will select their candidates for the general election in November.

By order of the county board of election commissioners, 8,700 ballots are being printed for the republicans and 7,800 for the democrats the number being based on the vote cast in the election of 1938. The official democratic ballots are canary colored and the republican ballots are white. The official democratic sample ballots are green and the republican ballots are goldenrod.

Comparatively few applications are being received for absent voters' ballots. Only voters who will be away from home on primary day are entitled to these ballots.

The number of candidates for democratic nominations is 98 and republican, 94, a total of 192, as compared with 332 two years ago, when township and city officers were elected.

In accordance with the law, names of candidates will be rotated where the number of aspirants for an office is more than one, except for precinct committeemen.

The precinct election board members are appointed by the county board upon recommendation of the party organizations. The inspectors this year will be republicans and they will be notified to visit the office of County Clerk Carl Walter Saturday, May 4, to get their supplies. Precinct election board members receive $3 a day each and twenty-four hours constitutes a day. However, an inspector is allowed an additional day's pay for the trip to get the supplies. If the inspector is a township trustee he receives no extra compensation for his services on the election board.

Read The News completely for information as to who certain candidates are, as we present them to our readers this week in a Special Primary Edition. Complete returns will be given in next weeks issue, but will come to you later Wednesday evening.

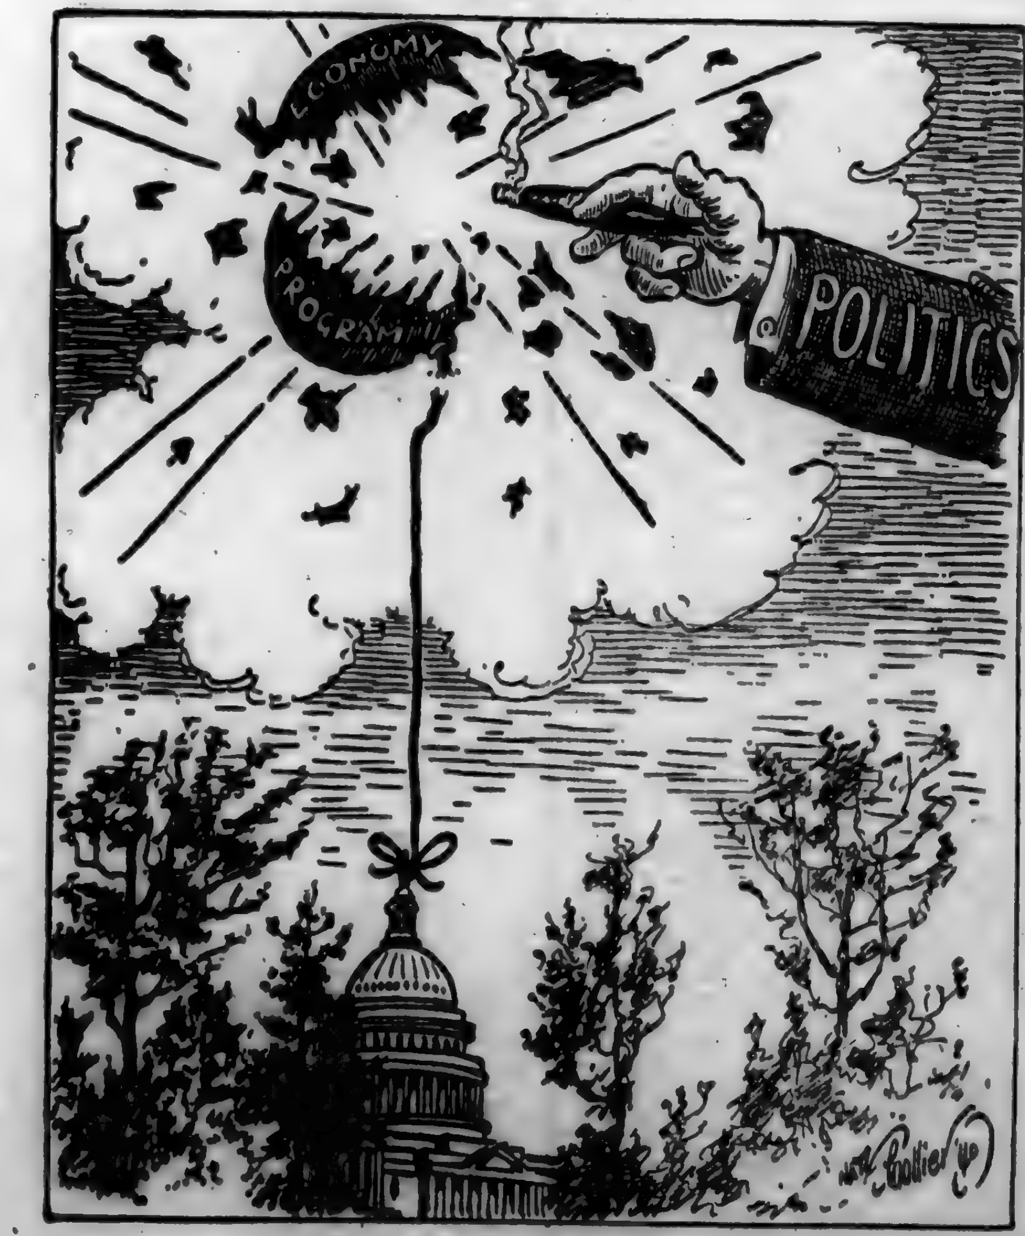
PLOP!!



A WORLD SURVEY IN REGARDS TO TELEPHONE

There are sixteen times as many people outside the United States as within it, yet this country has nearly one-half of the world's total of 41,090,347 telephones. Outside the United States, on the average, only every 100th person has a telephone, while within the United States there is about one telephone for every six people—15.4 telephones for every 100 of the population.

In the United States, the average per capita use of the telephone amounts to 223 calls per year; elsewhere in the world the average yearly per capita use is only about 16 calls. At the present time, more than 1,000 telephone calls are completed in this country per second, or more than 91,000,000 calls per day.

These data, and many similar figures, are included in a compilation entitled "Telephone and Telegraph Statistics of the World, Janurary 1, 1939," recently published by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

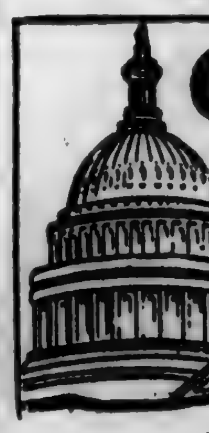
At the beginning of 1939, the latest date for which it has been possible to gather comprehensive authentic information, the number of telephones in the world (41,090,347) were connected for approximately one-half of these facilities, viz., 19,953,263 telephones and 92,850,000 miles of telephone wire.

About two-fifths of the world's telephones are operated by governmental agencies, while three-fifths are operated by private companies, the largest private system being in the United States. The total number of telephones in the five largest countries which are mainly served by privately owned and operated systems (namely, United States, Canada, Italy, Denmark and Argentina) corresponds to 11.38 telephones for each 100 of their combined population. This is four times the combined telephone development of 2.81 telephones per 100 population of the five largest countries (namely, Germany, Great Britain, France, Japan and Russia) whose telephone systems are operated by their respective governments.

No city in the world had as many telephones as New York City and no large city had a better telephone development than either Washington, D. C., or San Francisco. On January 1, 1939, New York City had 1,632,348 telephones, which exceeds the number of telephones in all of France and amounts, in fact, to more than three times the number of telephones in Asia where one-half of the world's population lives. Washington and San Francisco had, respectively, 40.14 and 38.53 telephones per 100 population.

Abroad, the availability of telephone facilities is particularly limited in less densely populated areas. Thus, only one-fourth of the French people live in cities with more than 50,000 population, but one-half of the telephones in France are in these cities, so smaller cities and rural areas averaged only 2.31 telephones per 100 population. In Germany, similarly, the telephone development of communities with less than 50,000 people amounted to only 3.00 telephones per 100 population and in Great Britain to only 4.73. In the United States, however, there were 11.22 telephones for every 100 people living in these smaller communities.

In brief, the telephone facilities at the disposal of the American public are far more extensive than those found abroad, reaching a far greater proportion of the population in each community, whether large or small.



GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Primary elections are tricky political barometers, subject to such unpredictable influences as the weather, campaign spending, local issues, organization activity and the position of the stars. Wise observers recognize this fact and refrain from attempting to read too much into the results of the Spring voting.

Republicans are currently pointing with pride to the outcome of the Primary in Pennsylvania last week, where the GOP outvoted the Democrats 4 to 3.

And Democrats are still citing the Primary vote in Illinois as an indication that they will ride to victory with Roosevelt in November.

The cautious should remember, however, that in both states at least half of the registered voters stayed away from the polls. These are the voters—not under machine control, many of them independents—who can throw the election either way in the Fall.

FIVE DAYS FROM TODAY Indiana voters will go to the polls to register their preference for various aspirants in the Republican and Democratic primaries. Candidates will be selected by both parties for local and Congressional office. Delegates will be chosen who in turn will name candidates for state office and the Senate, and pick Indiana delegates to the national conventions.

When the smoke clears away the partisans, as in Pennsylvania and Illinois, will make all sorts of predictions based on the results of these elections. The vote will be scanned hopefully by both parties in the light of 1936 and 1938 results. The Congressional vote for the state will be totaled, compared with former totals, and cited as a sure barometer by one party or the other. Local results also will come in for their share of claims and counter-claims.

Those on the sidelines, however, are advised to accept all such predictions with several grains of salt.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION two years ago in the Fourth Indiana District provides a convincing case lesson for politicians inclined to base November predictions on May elections.

The Democrats outvoted the Republicans 3 to 2 in the Congressional balloting, despite the fact that there was no contest for the Democratic nomination. In one county (Adams) the Democrats led 6 to 1.

Democrats were jubilant. Optimistic claims were made. The November election, according to some Democratic observers, was in the bag.

But what happened? November rolled around and George W. Gillie, Republican candidate for Congress, competely turned the tables, carrying the eight counties of the District by a 3 to 2 majority—the largest in history. His victory was complete enough to leave no doubt as to the unreliability of ficle Primary figures.

What did it mean, asked the Democrats who had placed so much faith in the May results? Was there really that much of a change in sentiment in six short months? The answer, of course, is obvious to anyone who will take the trouble to look beneath the surface.

WHAT THE DEMOCRATS did not take into consideration was the fact that less than 40 per cent of the registered voters participated in the 1938 Primary election in the Fourth District. Few of these voters changed their parties in November.

But what about the 60 per cent who skipped the Primary and voted in the General Election. Herein lies the solution to the problem.

A little simple arithmetic will reveal that Approximately 70 per cent of these non-Primary voters supported the Republican ticket in November, only 30 per cent siding with the Democrats.

STRATEGISTS who have made a study of this controlling bloc of non-Primary voters estimate that it is divided about equally between the ardent Republicans, the died-in-the-wool Democrats, and the independents.

The ardent Republicans can be counted on to vote for any GOP candidate, probably supported Hoover in 1932 and Landon in 1936.

The died-in-the-wool Democrats will support any candidate of their party, no doubt voted for Al Smith in 1928.

Members of the third faction, loosely labeled "independents," are the most unpredictable—and most potent—group. Most of them voted for Hoover in 1928, switched to Roosevelt in 1932 and 36, switched to the Republican in 1938.

This on-the-fence bloc (roughly including six or eight million voters in the Nation, 20,000 in the Fourth District) witlds the balance of power in every election, will name the next President of the United States, the next Governor and Senator in Indiana, the next Congressman from the Fourth Indiana District.

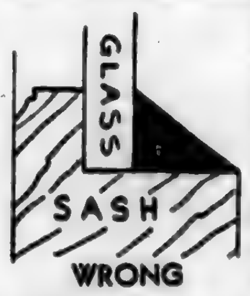
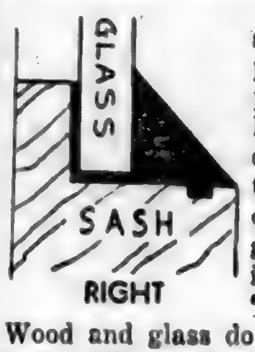
PUTTY FAILURE OFTEN DUE TO POOR APPLICATION

When you see the putty cracking away from your windows in big chunks, don't be too quick about blaming it on the putty. The chances are the putty failure is due to the way the putty is put on. Like so many other things there is a right and a wrong way to apply putty. The right way takes a little more time and material, which is the reason you do not find it on windows that are made to sell at a price.



WRONG

In one sketch, we show you the ordinary way that putty is applied to windows. This method is quick and cheap, but it is usually temporary because swelling of the wood from the inside causes the putty to crack off.



RIGHT

In the other sketch is shown the proper way to apply putty. It is known as "bedding." Notice here the layer of putty on all sides of the glass. It actually is resting in a "bed" of putty. Wood and glass do not come in contact with each other. Notice also the putty groove which anchors the putty.

NEWVILLE U. B. CHURCH 98th ANNIVERSARY

The Newville Church

By Mrs. Belle Miller.

The dear old church has been repaired
And made to look so grand and new,
Yet seems like parting from a friend
That's ever proved so kind and true.
Many who obeyed the gospel call—
Worshiping within those sacred walls,
Have passed away to the better land
With the task assigned to other hands.

The dear old church upon the hill
That slopes down to the river deep,
Where many a rivulet and hidden rill
Down the incline slyly creep;
And beside the church where the cedar trees
Wave their stately branches in the breeze,
Christian soldiers, their labor done,
Lie there sleeping, the victory won.

No organ in the olden time,
And no selected choir to sing;
The congregation sang the hymns sublime
And made the very rafters ring.
Patient souls rose to their feet
And quickly sought the mercy seat
To plead for pardon, "Can there be Mercy still reserved for me?"

May that dear old bell as sweetly ring
From the new tower as from the old,
And may convicted sinners turn
To seek redemption in the fold,
And may the light of gospel truth
E'er guide the aged and the youth,
Till all shall lay our burdens down
For palms of victory and the crown.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Both Capitol Hill and the White House seem to be moved just now by the spirit of economy and show signs of a relief that there may be a bottom even to the public purse. The River and Harbor Bill is the latest appropriation measure to be subjected to the pruning knife, having suffered a triming of 40 per cent, or approximately 90 million dollars. That the President had an eye on the bill is made evident by the fact that a veto was promised if two specified items were included in the appropriation. The Senate cut them out.

If the Senate showed a determination to be something of a tightwad about Rivers and Harbors, it laid aside that attitude of mind regarding the CCC, that agency being accorded 25 million more than was recommended. While the Rivers and Harbors enthusiasts may be inclined to mutter something about robbing Peter to pay Paul, the CCC is a popular activity and probably will not be permitted to wane until the time comes when conditions indicate that it can be laid aside entirely.

The House has been giving attention to the somewhat complicated Wages and Hours legislation. The discussion at times was bitter, and in some instances non-partisan, charges and counter-charges being flung about freely. Upon the one side it is said that small business is being wiped out everywhere, and that the farmer is undergoing a process of "liquidation." A uniform wage scale throughout the country is denounced in language that cannot be misunderstood. Upon the other hand it is maintained that although wages and hours regulation necessarily is in an experimental stage, the laws along that line have been administered with discretion, and that no substantial groups of employers have been subjected to injury.

Since the sounding line has not been able to strike bottom in the deep Third Term gulf, attention has turned more markedly toward the Democratic choice for second place. Senator Wheeler, of Montana, will have none of it, his gaze being fixed, it is said, upon larger things. Those who claim to have made a comprehensive survey allege that if Mr. Roosevelt 'does not choose,' the convention will lose little time in naming Mr. Hull, a conclusion not at all in agreement with the plans of the large family of favorite sons, and their friends.

Regarding the choice of a ticket, the Republican situation is considerably less complex than the Democratic. The Republicans do not have to hold off for a popular man, and a President at that, to speak his mind. It is an open race, in which anyone can sprint just as The Democratic firearm is cocked, but awaits a trigger pressure which only Mr. Roosevelt can give.

Letters to Herr Hitler, written by Fritz Thyssen, who was the financial angel of the Nazis government in its earlier days, have been published. They embody repeated warnings that the Fuerer is heading Germany for the rocks. The Nazis do not see it that way, and announce that the Norwegian campaign is but the beginning of a movement which will end when the English and French are pushed into the sea. The mere newspaper reader does not know what to think. Today German shipping is sent to the bottom, and all seems to be over saving the English and French shouting. Tomorrow Britain loses at several places and it appears that the allies are on the road that leads down and out.

World War No. 1 left a mistaken notion that such conflict is a short job. A similar mix-up that Europe had to endure long ago is called the Thirty Years War. As to the present trouble, the newspaper reader will do well to fall back on our friend Shakespeare for an appropriate phrase, and conclude that matters have not advanced beyond "the equal poise of this fell war."

IT'S POSSIBLE

One of the hardest things to observe at a time like this is "Love Thy Enemies." What man is there to forget oppression and defeat, overlook losses and dismiss agony by loving that one who caused it all One man did it but the human frailties of you and I make it a task too hard to undertake unless we perservere. Propaganda has helped our opinion of a Stalin and a Hitler to be most hateful, but their actions have been a foundation for our disapproval of their tactics and has made it especially hard to "love an enemy." We are very earthly here in St. Joe and it is difficult for us to be generous and more difficult to observe the commandment. But we must remember that such is possible.

WATERLOO ENTERTAINS COUNTY CLUB FEDERATION

Mrs. Fred Knott of Auburn Selected as New President for the Year

(Courtesy Waterloo Press)

Mrs. Fred W. Knott, of Auburn, was elected president, Mrs. C. H. Garver of Garrett, first vice president, Mrs. Frank Weathers, Auburn, second vice president, Mrs. Robert Raub, Auburn, third vice president, and Mrs. Orris Wise, also of Auburn, secretary and treasurer at the sixteenth annual convention of the DeKalb County Federation of Clubs held in the First United Brethren church in Waterloo Wednesday. The officers were recommended in the report of the nominating committee presented by Mrs. J. C. Sanders, chairman. Other members of the committee were were Mrs. E. L. Bower and Mrs. Forest Gerig.

A unanimous endorsement for Mrs. W. C. Allen of Fort Wayne, for first vice president of the State Federation, was made in the form of a Resolution as follows:

"The DeKalb County Federation of Women's Clubs heartily endorse Mrs. W. C. Allen of Fort Wayne, Federation of Clubs."

Before the convention closed late yesterday afternoon, resolutions were presented by Mrs. George F. Mountz, of Garrett, chairman of the committee. The resolutions are as follows:

Whereas the annual convention of the DeKalb County Federation of Clubs, now in session for the year 1940, affords Women's club members and delegates an opportunity to associate with each other and to exchange ideas for the betterment of their respective clubs and communities, for the betterment of the State of Indiana, and for the betterment of our Nation. We Club members know and appreciate that this program has been the result of the most careful planning of the officers and committees of the County Federation. We congratulate them on a most successful meeting.

It is Therefore Resolved: That all those in attendance at this convention, as representatives of the various women's clubs of this county express their most sincere thanks to the officers and committees of the County Federation. We also thank the local club members, the residents of Waterloo, the women of the United Brethren Church and anyone else responsible in any way for making this meeting such a success. We greatly appreciate the wonderful reception and the hospitality shown to us.

Be It Further Resolved: That this convention goes on record declaring that we believe in democracy and a constitutional form of government, that we appreciate the freedom and liberty that we, as citizens of the United States enjoy, and will as individuals, and as an organization, do everything in our power to keep and preserve our form of Government for the coming generations. That we stand opposed to any entanglements, economic, political, or by treaties, that will lead this nation into war with or against any foreign country. That we club members will use our influence against the spreading of all forms of war propaganda and will attempt, wherever possible, to instill patriotism of our form of government and ideals.

Be It Further Resolved: That we stand firm in favor of all safety projects for our highways, now being carried out throughout the State and will cooperate in every way possible with the officials of this County in making DeKalb County one of the safest in this State.

Be It Further Resolved: That we endorse and approve the beautification of the roads in this country. We favor the planting of bushes and trees, and the landscaping of the ground, along the roads and highways. We will aid in this project in every way possible and feasible for us to assist.

The registration began at 9 o'clock and was in charge of Mrs. Clarence Bowers of the P. L. C. and Mrs. Chas. Overmyer of the Minerva club. The registrations at noon reached nearly 100, with more coming for the the afternoon.

Mrs. John R. Leighty of St. Joe president of the county federation, presided at the convention which was opened at 9:30 by singing America the Beautiful, led by Mrs. John C. Brown of Auburn. The convention was started off with an inspiration and the repeating of the club collect under the leadership of Mrs. John P. Showalter, president of the Minerva club.

The club ladies are alert to the patriotic seal and as an opening number gave a salute to the flag, when Suzanne Luce and Mary Lu Bowman, two little misses from the public schools, gave a demonstration of the flag salute under the direction of Mrs. Frank Weathers, of Auburn, who is chairman of the Citizenship committee.

Mrs. Vern Bachtel, president of the P. L. C. gave the address of welcome, and she emphasized the cordial greetings of the two clubs in Waterloo and the citizens generally in welcoming such a group of women to Waterloo for the annual convention. Mrs. Bachtel said in part: "We feel that our clubs and our town are honored indeed by having this convention here. And we know that everyone of you will receive a message of encouragement that will help you to be better prepared to carry forward your work as club members, and will leave us inspired and encouraged to do better club work We hope you will be rewarded for the time and efforts you're giving in helping to make this convention a success, and we are sure you will receive many inspirations from the exchange of thoughts and experiences given during this meeting.

"Our welcome comes not only from the Waterloo clubs, but from the community as well. We hope that this day will be remembered as a red letter day in club meetings."

Mrs. Forest Gerig responded to the welcome and accepted the cordial greetings offered in behalf of the visiting club women.

Mrs. Gerig said: "For the very things that we as club women are trying to build here, in countries across the water are so relentlessly destroying. Their art, great churches and art museums, priceless art treasurers; their education, chiefly to fight; their homes, and we wonder if there is a complete family in any way of them. Conservation—there is no such thing as conservation of human life, and all their natural resources are used to destroy human life and all the finer things of life.

"May each one present be ever mindful that it is her duty to do her small part to help keep our country from these awful things and that we may keep on building."

A report was made on Club Extension work by Mrs. C. H. Garver, of Garrett, the second vice president, who is dean of Club Extension. While there has not been a large growth in number of clubs during the past year, the interest manifest in the clubs has been very encouraging.

Mrs. O. B. Rose, of Garrett, district president of the Federation, was introduced and she gave her message to the club women by outlining some of the work that has been carried on in the district during the past years. Mrs. Rose is also a past president of the County Federation and she has been active in club work of the county and district.

Mrs. Fred W. Knott, of Auburn, the first vice president, and dean of Departments, called for the Department chairmen reports, and the responses made were interesting and developed into some new ideas as to club work.

The following were the reports made:

American Citizenship by Mrs. Frank Weathers.

America Home by Mrs. Fred Zeigler.

Radio by Mrs. Fred Musser.

Conservation by Mrs. Kate Swartz.

Pre School Education by Mrs. W. C. Hamilton.

Public Safety by Mrs. Dan Kraemelmeier.

Co-operation for the Blind by Mrs. Chas. Overmyer.

Motion Pictures by Mrs. Cecil Young.

A treat was afforded the audience by a solo by Mrs. John C. Brown of Auburn. She sang "My Task."

Mrs. W. C. Allen of Fort Wayne, who is treasurer of the State Federation, was a guest of the convention. She was introduced by Mrs. Leighty, and was given a good hand by the club women who are interested in her name being presented to the coming state convention next month as a candidate for first vice president. Mrs. Allen spoke briefly on the achievements of club women and the work of the general federation of clubs. In the absence of the speaker of the Golden Jubilee, Mrs. Allen gave a short talk on Golden Jubilee that is being celebrated this year by the General Federation of Clubs, and she brought out some of the excellent accomplishments of the fifty years that the federated clubs have been organized.

Short talks were made by Mrs. Chas. R. Clarke of Auburn, state chairman of Child Welfare, and Mrs. E. W. Longfellow of Fort Wayne, state chairman of Literature.

A noon luncheon was served to the delegates by the ladies of the U. B. church in the church basement. Mrs. Fred B. Leighty of St. Joe, gave the invocation. During the noon hour Miss Virginia Bachtel, teacher of music in the Waterloo schools gave an organ recital on the pipe organ in the church auditorium, which continued until time for the opening, of the afternoon session when little Miss Marilyn Morr entertained the group by playing a clarinet solo in Eb, "Lieberstraum." She was accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Fern Morr. Mrs. Harriett Wagner sang a solo, entitled "The Hills of Home," and she was given a rousing cheer.

Another musical number for the afternoon was a vocal duet by Mrs. Marcille Voss and Mrs. Doris Brooks, who graciously appeared before the visiting club women.

Mrs. R. Earl Peters, of Fort Wayne, State chairman of Motion Pictures, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on Motion Pictures. She presented motion pictures from the viewpoint of entertainment value educational standpoint, and development. She said that the advancement of pictures in the public schools and colleges have been a great factor toward finding the best that can be produced, and she gave reasons for the higher type of pictures portray a true democracy, which is fundamental in our constitutional government. Mrs. Peters has made an exhaustive study of motion pictures and she gave some of the historical facts concerning the different screen productions, which have been of great value in the educational advancement and high ideals of the best things that our social life can enjoy.

The Book Review on "They Wanted to Live" by Cecil Roberts, presented by Mrs. Allen of Fort Wayne, was a real gem of literary art, Roberts is an English author, residing in London. She told the story of the young man who was a reporter, and started out to glean some of the historical facts of the European countries and people, and how he made his way among the Nazis and of the desire for power and agression that has been going on in the war stricken European countries. Mrs. Allen explained that she first saw the book while in Canada last year, where it has been in great demand. She read the book and studied the contents so as to give first hand the experiences of those who wanted to live.

People of Mexico are demanding American in preference to German goods.

EGGS AGAIN!

When boiling—Put salt in water before putting in eggs, and the shells will not break. When poaching—Add salt to water and eggs will remain whole. When frying—Add a bit of flour to fat and the eggs will not pop and scatter grease. When scrambling—Add 1 T of cream for each egg. This makes them light. To remove whites of eggs break a hole in small end of egg. After white is out cover the hole with waxed paper and the yolk will stay fresh. When cutting hard-boiled eggs—Dip knife in water and the egg yolk will remain whole.

NEWVILLE U. B. CHURCH 98th ANNIVERSARY

Rev. O. P. Givens Reads History Of United Brethren Church.

(Butler Record-Herald)

The 98th anniversary of the Newville United Brethren church was observed Sunday, April 21, 1940, with appropriate services, both morning and afternoon. One hundred and fifty-five were present for the Sunday School and an offering of $8.00 was received. Following the Sunday Schoo, the pastor the Rev. O. P. Givens, gave an address on thesubject, "Our Heritage and Our Obligations" using the scripture in II Tim. 1:5,8. At the close of the morning service a bountiful community fellowship dinner and social hour was enjoyed.

The afternoon service was of a miscellaneous character participated in by a number of guests. Rev. A. W. York, pastor of the Waterloo U. B. church offered prayer and Rev. D. H. Pellett of the Butler U. B. church read a message of greeting from Dr. B. H. Cain of Warsaw, Conference Supt., and the pastor read the history of the church. Friends from Butler, Waterloo, Hicksville, Auburn, St. Joe, Fort Wayne and other communities. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rice and son Rex of Roanoke, former paritioners of the pastor, were present.

History of the Church

Following is the history of the church, as related in the afternoon service by the pastor, the Rev. O. P. Givens:

"Today we observe the 98th anniversary of the organization of the Neville United Brethren church and the 26th anniversary of the dedication of the remodeled building.

"The church was organized by Bishop Henry Kumler Jr., in 1842 in the home of Solomon Woodcox, located about two miles west of the promising new town of Vienna (now Newville). The exact location being at the northeast corner of the crossroad north of the Hoisington Bridge. The church was composed of eleven charter members, nine of whom are the following: Mr. and Mrs. Solomon DeLong, Hannah Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Corneilus Woodcox, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Woodcox, Mr. M. Soper and Mrs. Ellis. The last of this group of sturdy pioneers was Mrs. Mariah Landis DeLong who died March 28, 1912, at the age of 90 years.

"At about the time the church was organized in the Woodcox home a frame schoo building was erected on what is now the south end of the parsonage lot, between the road and the cemetery, and shortly thereafter the church services were transferred to the school building. This building was used by the United Brethren people until 1855 and for a part of this time by the people of the Christian church.

"In 1855, during the pastorate of Rev. J. Fink, the church building was erected. The building was originally very close to the road, for it has been moved back on two occasions, the first in 1880 and again in 1914. This building 30x44 was the first church edifice in the community. The fact that the frame work of that structure is in the main part of the auditorium of the present building is evidence that the pioneers built well. The dedication service was conducted by Bishop Kumler who organized the church 13 years before.

"About 1880 the building was moved back from the road and placed on a brick foundation. Truss beams were installed and the ceiling supporting posts removed. Only five years later, in 1885, during the pastorate of Rev. R. T. Martin, extensive improements, costing about $500 were made. This remodeling consisted of vestibule, tower and bell, slate roof, new windows and the old time green window shutters. The church as thus remodeled appears in the small picture in the frame with the brief historical statement, found in the church.

"From this date 29 years lapse before improvement enterprise is launched; however several efforts had been made over a period of about ten years but without success. The present pastor, O. P. Givens came to the charge late in September, 1912, when the harvest was ripe. Immediately the importance of a building enterprise came to the front. The Ladies Aid Society, some years before had started a building fund which had grown to about $400. Mrs. Solomon DeLong, a short time before her death, had left a bank deposit of $100 for that purpose.

"Plans were developed and sufficient cash and good subscriptions were secured to justify launching the enterprise. About the first of March, 1913, the Board of Trustees, composed of Geo. F. DeLong, Pres.; John Washler, Sec.; J. S. Cain, Treas; S. S. Wyatt, A. W. Platter, M. E. Leighty and O. P. Givens enterd into a contract with John Deardoff, carpenter and builder of Hicksville, Ohio.

"The last service in the old building that had served the community for 59 years, was held on Easter Sunday, March 23, 1913. On Monday morning a group of men of the community began operation by letting the bell down and removed the tower. The building was soon razed, turned quarter way around and the north end made to face the east, and moved back from the road about 50 feet. Large evergreen trees that had recently been cut from the cemetery were borrowed from E. E. Traxler and placed under the corners of the building for supports while the basement was being excavated. During this time several services were held in the Newville school building, and later in the summer on the church yard under the trees. The basement, having been completed, was used for Sunday School and church services during the winter of 1913 and 1914.

"The dedication was held on Sunday, April 19, 1914 conducted by Bishop H. H. Fout of Indianapolis. Five hundred people were served a bountiful free dinner that day, and at the close of the afternoon service the building was formally dedicated. The entire amount needed to cover all costs having been secured, the total expenditure being $5,230. Rev. J. E. Grimes, the Conference Superintendent, who now resides in Tampa, preached in the evening. The choir, under the expert direction of C. A. Woodcox rendered excellent service at all three sessions.

"There are always prophets of gloom who say, 'It cannot be done.' They said, "The old church will never be rebuilt.' When they saw that prediction had failed they said 'It will never be paid for.' But that too was an error, for on the second anniversary of the dedication in April, 1916, the last dollar of obligation was cancelled.

"This sketch would be incomplete without mention of the Rural Free Chautauqua which had its beginning here in 1914, being directly related to the building of the church.

"The present generation of this community owes a debt of gratitude to the heroic souls who made possible the pleasant surroundings and possibilities that we today enjoy. We are under obligation to God to keep the torch of Christianity burning brightly that the coming generation may see the way and be able to walk therein.

"The following poem written by Mrs. Belle Miller of Newville and published in the Dedication Day Booklet in 1914 expresses our appreciation of the past and hope for the future:

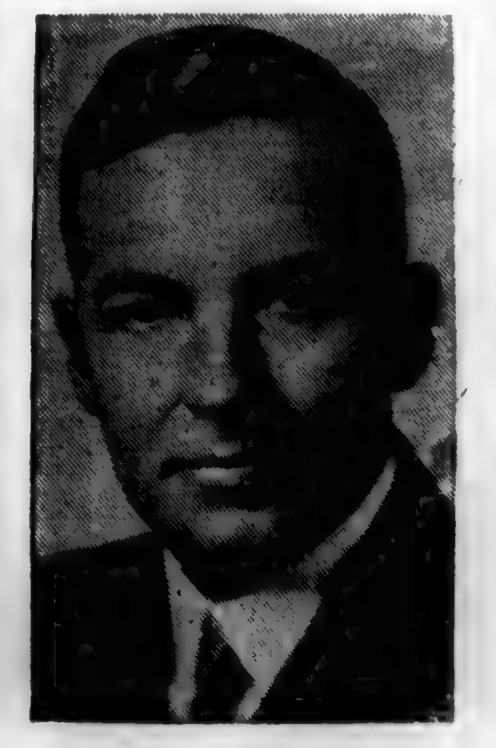
HOGG PAYS TRIBUTE TO PRESS OF STATE & NATION

David Hogg, Fort Wayne attorney and candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, paid tribute to the press of the state and nation here this evening, in an address before the Rotary Club.

"Since the Indiana Republican Editorial Association convenes in Indianapolis Friday evening for its sixty-second annual meeting, I think it fitting and proper that all of us reflect for a moment on the debt of gratitude every American owes the newspapers and newspapermen of our country," Mr. Hogg said.



HON. DAVID HOGG

"There have been many attempts throughout the years to 'gag' the press of our nation, in spite of the Bill of Rights. Many times members of the press have been persecuted. But never in our nation's history has public opinion permitted any individual or group to shackle our newspapers; to keep them from printing the truth, as they saw it; to restrain them from expressing their editorial opinions.

"The unfettered press of our state and nation is our best safeguard against the fate which has befallen so many other nations. Today, to the best of my knowledge, the press of our country is alone in enjoying the right to print what it pleases; to praise or condemn as it sees fit.

"Too often we take the newspapers of our state and nation for granted; too many times we hear it said that an important news story is only 'newspaper talk,' when the facts in question have been fully presented.

"From my wide acquaintance with newspapermen in Indiana and in other parts of the country, which I value highly, I know they are glad to go on through the years as the unsung heroes; as public-spirited citizens, usually wroking anonymously, to preserve the inviolable rights of a nation's people. It is the press of our country, more than anything else, which makes this country's only dictator the 130,000,000 people who live within its borders."

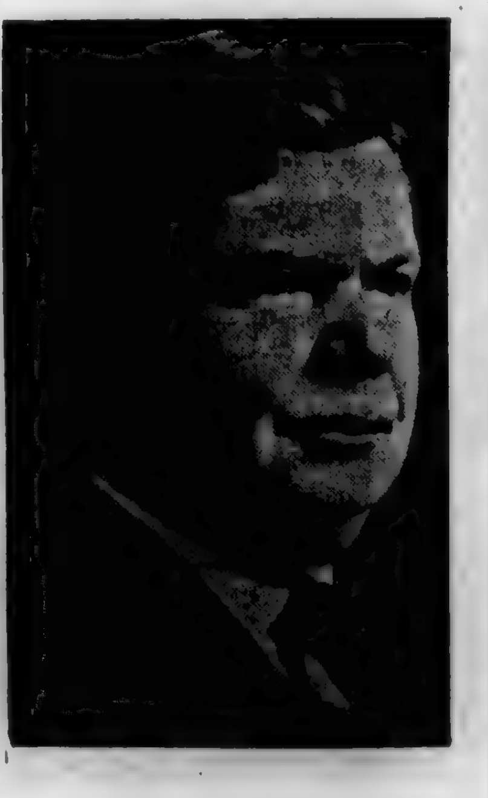
WILLIS EXPLAINS FALICY OF RECIPROCAL TRADE PLAN

"Foremost in the Republican part's constructive program for econmic recovery will be the saving of American markets for the products of American farms and factories," Raymond E. Willis, Republican candidate for United States Senator, told the Vanderburgh County Republican Club at Evansville last Thursday evening. "Replacement of the New Deal free trade policy by adequate tariff protection will inevitably reduce our unemployment," he said.

"The Republican party has advocated reciprocity in foriegn trade since the days of James G. Blaine, and a reciprocal trade plank was in the G. O. P. platform as early as 1892.

"The reciprocity advocated by the Republican party has been on the basis of trading goods of which we have a surplus and don't need for foreign goods which we need and don't have. The trade treaties drawn by Secretary of State Hull are not in any sence reciprocal, but are wholly low tariff or free trade schedules. Under these treaties, we slash tariffs in exchange for a few supposed benefits which another nation grants us, and then through the 'most favored nation' clause we give every other nation in the world, except Germany, the benefit of the same tariff slashes, regardless of our need for their goods.

"Under these treaties, the products of our farmers and workmen are left exposed to the underselling competition of a flood of foreign goods produced by cheap peasant labor. The Hull treaties have not been responsible for 71 percent of our increased imports of goods which compete directly with our own. Thus our unemployment remains at the high level of 10 million, while foreign unemployment has decreased since the trade treaty program began in 1934. The disaster can only deepen when millions of foreign soldiers return to jobs after the war to make still more goods to flood the American market.



RAYMOND E. WILLIS

"As a candidate in 1932, Mr. Roosevelt promised in Baltimore, 'I know of no excessively high tariff rates on farm products. I do not intend that such duties shall be lowered.' But he did lower 166 strictly farm tariffs as much as 50 percent. Our farm exports in the last five years decreased 36 percent. Imports of only 13 competitive commodities in the first 10 months last year displayed over 15 million acres of American farm land.

"Since 1934 over 1,000 rates on 42 percent of our dutiable import's have been slashed an average of 39 percent. As a result, imports of goods we make here at home have increased 25 percent, while imports we don't have and really need have declined seven percent.

"You in Evansville know the coal industry can't stand many more shocks. Yet those tariff slashes permitted Venezuela to send us 58 million barrels of oil in 1939 and 84 million more barrels this year. These imports alone will keep 21,000 American coal miners out of a job until 1948. And this does not take into account other similar imports such as 400,000 tons of coal that may be imported from Russia each year absolutely duty free.

"Under these treaties, employment in Indiana's quarrying and nonmetallic mining industries has declined 23 percent in the last year. Our American market has been flooded with Belgian cement. Evansville surely wants a chance to do something about that.

"And what about pottery? Sixty percent of the cost of pottery is labor cost. American potters get an average of 75c an hour, Japanese potters 4c. Yet in the British trade agreement we cut the pottery duty from 50 to 30 perecnt. The misnamed 'most favored nation' clause gave Japan immediate right to the same low duty which she was quick to claim. For every $3 piece of Japanese pottery sold in this country, Indiana clay miners and other pottery workers lose at least $1.80 in wages.

"The truth is the United States government has no business importing anything to compete with our own farm goods which the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation is buying with your tax money to sell simultaneously to other nations at a second loss.

"Futhermore, the trade agreement act is unconstitutional; for the right to fix tariffs clearly rests with Congress, and all treaties negotiated by the President must meet Senate approval. Yet the act sneers at both requirements, and even forbids every single one of us to test it in a single American court.

"But the New Deal sits self-importantly by and mutters, 'We can't expect to sell abroad unless we buy abroad.' Of course we can't. But neither can we buy abroad, or at home either, unless we safeguard the purchasing power of Americans at home; and we can't do that by allowing floods of foreign imports to plow under our fields and close our factories.

"Ten million men in this country, including capable youths just out of college are crying aloud for work. Every foreign boat that docks in our ports loaded with goods which those men could make or grow is saying to them, 'I'm sorry, fellows but you'll have to walk the streets a few months longer. Your government is giving us your jobs.'

"When one of America's '60 families' owns 500,000 shares in a corporation, securing free entry of Newfoundland fish and then contributes $21,500 to the Democratic campaign fund to keep the tariff down and put eastern fishermen out of work, we have heard enough.

"But when we learn that other financial interests make $40,000,000 a year by Roosevelt-Hull tariff-slashing, while consumers don't save a cent and Indiana sugar growers are restricted, then we have heard too much.

"Much is said also about the present Hull free trade program as a means of 'softening the mind of the world toward peace.' It is strange that these same declared peace lovers should point with pride to our increased exports when they are so largely made up of war supplies. Is this the way to world peace?

"It is not the lack of trade, but the mad scramble for trade, which leads to war. Yet our misnamed reciprocal trade treaties have caused other nations to intensify their rivalry for world markets by signing 1,426 agreements among themselves which exclude us.

"When we are told that the solution to our economic problems lies in foreign trade, let us remember that 94 percent of all we ever produce is for our own home market. Let's never again gamble the 94 percent, which furnishes us our exports. Such a policy is more absurd than the dog in Aesop's fable which lost the real bone it carried in its mouth when it snapped at its mere image in the water."

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

DRAINAGE LENGTHENS GROWING SEASON

In nearly every county in Indiana the length of the growing season is a factor in the success of crops. This fact is generally recognized by all farmers. Dave Harker, extension drainage specialist of Purdue University, pointed out recently to a group of Indiana farmers and drainage engineers that one of the greatest benefits of farm drainage is the added time allowed the farmer in the spring by season of an adequate system for the disposal of excess water in the soil after spring rains.

This spring thus far, Harker said, has been most favorable for early plowing could not be undertaken at this early date, even though there has been less than normal precipitation throughout the winter. He further stated that even where plowing has been completed on undrained land, rains in the next few weeks may delay planting, or where planting is accomplished, may result in a low percentage of seed germination.

It is the common experience, Harker said, that a well drained farm can be wroked as much as two to three weeks earlier and with less inconvenience and more certain results. So often wet spots and ponds in a field delay operations in that entire field, thus shortening the growing season for the field and resulting in short production or a crop not fully matured.

There are shorter season types of corn it was conceded, but it was shown that in general the shorter season varieties of any crop are not the best varieties for yield and quality. It was suggested, too, that at a last resort the farmer without proper drainage may substitute soy-beans, for example, for corn. Said Harker in reply to this suggestion:

"When it comes to the place where the farmer has to grow soy-beans instead of corn as he originally intended he is no longer running the farm. The farm is then running him."

The specialist urged farmers planning drainage for this spring to get it done within the next few weeks in order that spring planting may not be delayed by tile installation.

Streamline the Harvest with the NEW 4-FOOT COMBINE
by INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER

Here's the sweetest little outfit that ever hummed through a harvest field—Harvester's brand-new 4-foot combine for power-drive operation behind a 1-plow tractor.

ONE MAN can harvest and thresh in surprisingly quick time with this fast-traveling 4-foot McCormick-Deering combine, stepping along at the rate of 8 to 15 acres a day. It has everything its big brothers in the Harvester line have, plus new features for work on small farms. And here's the best part—you can get it at a price that's easy on your pocketbook!

This outfit is a money-maker. It saves on equipment, twine, and threshing expense. It saves grain by doing the job in one operation — eliminating loss that comes with shocking, stacking, pitching, and hauling. It gets rid of extra help—saving food and work in the kitchen.

Come in and see this latest addition to Harvester's line of equipment for the small farm. And remember—it handles any threshable crop.

This 4-foot combine is equipped with grain tank or bagger. The grain tank is of the low type, quickly unloaded by power without operating any other part of the machine. The bagger equipment includes a wide, roomy platform with seat, and 2-way bagging spout. Pickup attachment can also be obtained. Soybeans and all threshable crops can be handled efficiently by the No. 42, enabling you to thresh small grains and seed crops in season without the expense or bother of hiring a custom rig.

The boys class of the Lutheran Sunday School enjoyed a long hike up the St. Joe River Sunday afternoon, after a good appetite was developed they were turned loose on a good stack of hot dogs and other eats. Wm. Staman, Clifford Billow and Ralph Sechler looked after the eats and entertainment for the boys.

YEA, RHUBARB!

It seems odd to a man to see the tied-up stalks of rhubarb being sold across a store counter. A market has added the rhubarb along with its regular bunches of carrots and turnips and many a home dinning table is tempting the family with a deep dish of rhubarb pie. Many older News readers can tell you that in their early years one didn't buy rhubarb at the store but went out into the garden and there in a secluded spot grew the pie plant waiting to sacrifice itself for appetite. This vegetation was a forerunner of the real spring and the sight of it was mighty welcome to the eye. Cut it into small pieces and boil in syrup of sugar, making a pie filling that sniffed good and ate better, that is the red, red rhubarb, the very sour rhubarb, in its glorified state.

BEWARE, DOGS!

Most towns the size of St. Joe have ordinance dealing with the problem of noxious dogs. States have laws covering the leashing of all canines, at all times, regardless of temperment. There are some people who are so considerate of others that they do not need law a law to govern them to respect the rights and property of the dogless citizen who may also love dogs but who do not want him as a nuisance. Although a dog may be man's best friend he may also be the foundation for a good-sized neighborhood quarrel. Let us observe local regulations and recognize the need of keeping order and protecting our pets, too.

WORTH CONSIDERATION

Sell the advantage of the St. Joe Valley and the town of St. Joe to industry. With increasing taxation in metropolitan areas and lack of native labor industrial organizations are seeking new locations.

St. Joe affords excellent transportation facilities, without congestion, two railroads and a state highway unexcelled, agricultural land and unlimited electric power, available for any use.

Organize St. Joe Valley of Commerce to boost your natural resources. Instruct your young men in new ideas.

In other words sell your town don't let it die on your hands, sell the advantage of The St. Joe Valley.

—INTERESTED.

TO THE CITIZENS OF ST. JOE AND COMMUNITY

Since the passing out of the old G. A. R. the task of keeping alive the memory of our departed soldiers has naturally fallen upon the sholdiers of the Veterans of the Spanish American War and the American Legion.

The American Legionaires being the younger, more active and far more numerous, have taken this sacred duty upon themselves, and to the best of their ability, intend to make Memorial Day one of the outstanding National Holidays.

Your local American Legion Post in their last meeting went on record, to make this year the starter of a new order of observance of Memorial Day, if the citizens of St. Joe and the entire Community are agreeable.

I hereby submit our plans for this years observance of this Sacred Memorial Day, open to approval or disapproval, and we hope to have some helpful advice and critism.

As in years past, the Legionaires want to decorate all of the outlying cemeteries in the usual manner on Memorial Day, May 30th.

But on the Sunday previous to May 30th. we would like to have a twilight Community Memorial Service in the local K. of P. cemetery at sundown. This can be made a unique and very impressive service, and we honestly beleive that a greater interest can be aroused with a ceremony of this kind.

Our local ministers have been contacted and highly approve such a procedure and will give us their fullest support.

Persons from out of town who make an annual pilgrimage on Memorial Day to the graves of their relatives and friends can be notified of this change of procedure, and I am sure they can arrange to be here over the week end instead of Memorial Day, thereby having two days to visit friends instead of just the one.

Signed, John W. P. Crothers
Commander.
Walter Whitehurst Post No. 283

Foot Note:—

We are open to all suggestions to make this a greater and more Sacred Memorial Day.

Leave all such suggestions at News Office, or contact John Crothers.

MORTUARY

BONE

Rachel Diadema Bone daughter of David and Phoeba Monroe was born November 13, 1857, and passed from this life at the home of her son William Keeler, April 29, 1940, at the age of 82 years, 5 months and 16 days.

She was a faithful member of the Concord Methodist Church and was loyal to the last to her friends and her community.

In the last few days of her illness she was very desirous of having her son with her and the last four days and nights he was all most constantly at her bedside and with the other members of his family did all in their powrer to relieve her suffering.

She leaves to mourn her departure one son, four grandchildren and four great grandchildren, her husband and one son preceded her in death. The funeral was conducted Thursday afternoon from Kinsey Funeral Home with Rev. Frank Stevenson officiating, and burial in Riverside cemetery.

A large attendance of old friends and neighbors were present at the services.

CARD OF THANKS

We hereby express our deepest appreciation to our many friends for their sympathy and kindness, in the passing of our mother.

Wm. Keeler and family.

MRS. HAZEL TRIPP, COUNTY NURSE IS STRICKEN

Mrs. Hazel Dickson Tripp, of Garrett and Red Cross nurse for DeKalb county, died at midnight Saturday at the Robert Long hospital at Indianapolis, from a blood clot on the brain.

Mrs. Tripp, who was thirty-seven years of age, was a student at Indiana university and was found unconscious in her dormitory room Sunday, April 28. She was removed to the hospital at Indianapolis and her condition did not improve. However, when her brother, Mervin Dickson, and sisters, Mrs. Ralph Denyes and Miss Doris Dickson, ali of Garrett, called to see her Saturday she gave slight indication of recognising them. Mrs. Denyes was at her bedside when she expired.

The body was returned to Garrett and burial rites were held at the Methodist church, Tuesday afternoon. The body will be cremated at Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. Tripp was attending Indiana university at time of her illness, being given a leave of absence to take more traning as she had been awarded two fellowships in nursing. She had many friends in St. Joe and Spencerville.

AGRICULTURAL 4-H CLUBS TO ORGANIZE

Anyone interested in joining the 4-H club should be at the first organization meeting to be held at the Spencerville High School Building Tuesday evening May 14, at 8:00 o'clock D. S. T. or at the St. Joe Gym Thursday evening May 16, at 8:00 D. S. T. Come to the school that you plan to attend this fall. Those living in the neighboring townships around Concord and Spencer are to come to the meeting that is most convenient for them. Those that have already signed enrollment cards should attend this meeting. If you know of anyone that might be interested be sure to bring him along to the meeting. Remember the age limit, at least 10 years of age on July 1, 1940.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

There will be a meeting of Boy Scouts and boys interested in becoming members of the Scouts at the Gymnasium on Monday evening, May 13, at 7:30. Plans are being made for a busy schedule for the scouts for the summer.

On Saturday afternoon May 11, from 2:00 to 3:00 o'clock D. S. T. the Indiana State Home Economics Association will put on a Mother's Day program over W. L. S. All Home Bureau members listen in if you wish to hear a good program.

Bryon Woodcox had the misfortune of having his car stolen from the parking lot of the G. E. Co., last week, Ft. Wayne. This is the second car he has lost in this way in the last three years, no trace was ever found of his first car. Report comes today that the car was recovered on Sunday night. Good luck.

The total vote cast was higher than anticipated, being about 40 per cent of the number of voters in the county. The canvassing board completed its work at the office of County Clerk Carl Walter early Wednesday afternoon.

VOTE FOR DELEGATES IN DEKALB COUNTY

Republicans Decided Five Contests and Democrats Two at the Primary Election Polls on Tuesday

In the primary election held in DeKalb county Tuesday, the republicans decided five contests for delegates to the state convention and the democrats two.

Union township republicans chose the following five delegates: Harvey B. Elson, Burley Ensley, Reo Martin, Guy Myers and Lodie Potter. The vote follows: Elson, 843; Ensley, 883; Martin, 769; Myers, 793; Potter, 810; Daniel Carbaugh, 241; Arthur E. Hardy, 385.

Wilmington township republican delegates are Otis S. Fisher and Chas. O. Krise. They received 308 and 217 votes respectively, while 75 were cast for Chas. E. Adams and 56 for Orrin A. Huffman.

In Fairfield and Smithfield townships, Vern L. Sparks defeated Earl Forrest 143 to 56.

E. E. Turner and Perry Foote were elected in Grant and Richland townships by the republicans, with the following vote: Turner, 194; Foote, 160; Harry O. Barr, 139; D. A. Wing, 52.

Jay F. Olinger, with 358, and Frank Miller, with 267, were elected in Keyser township over Arthur T. Ober, with 121.

Keyser and Butler township democrats selected as delegates Clayton M. Bailey, Fred L. Feick, Dewey Hendrickson and James Rugman. The vote follows: Feick, 592; Bailey, 558; Hendrickson, 418; Rugman, 292; John Simon, 219; Walter Diederich, 217; Wallace Borts, 177; and Roy Whittington, 137.

The democrats successful in Jackson and Union townships and their votes follow: Edward A. Baker, 348; Chas. Davis, 314; Joseph Lumm, 309; and Dawson A. Quaintance, 307; as against 303 for John L. Weaver; 295 for E. O. Little, and 262 for Ward Kruse.

PENSION OPPONENTS WIN TWO DISTRICTS

Severest Blow Dealt to Townsend Advocates in Overwhelming Renomination of Cong. Charles Halleck

Indianapolis, May 8.—Opponents of the Townsend old age pension plan scored two solid victories in the primary election Tuesday in the second and fourth districts, had a chance for another win in the ninth and the results in the first and 11th districts were indecisive. The Townsend movement was the candidates in as many districts, while frowning on others whom it refused to oppose openly.

Severest blow was dealt to the Townsendites in the second district, where their intended victim, Congressman Charles Halleck, was overwhelmingly renominated against the pension plan opposition. In the fourth district the Townsendites took another rap when Congressman George Gillie swamped his opposition against the silence of the pension advocates.

The Townsend influence is still in doubt in the first district relative to Rep. William T. Schulte, in the ninth regarding Earl Wilson who has an uncomfortably narrow margin, and in the 11th where Marion county (part of Indianapolis in this district) hold the whip hand.

LONE BANDIT GETS $2,400 IN HOLDUP

Makes Escape in Taxicab after Bold Robbery of Wabash Valley Trust Company at Denver, Indiana

Peru, Ind., May 8.—A lone bandit, Gdescribed as about 28-years-old, held up the Wabash Valley Trust Co. at Denver, Ind., today and escaped with an estimated $2,400 in a taxi cab which he had hired.

Ray Slabaugh, a Peru cab driver, reported to police that the man had hired him to drive him to Denver under the pretense of doing "business" there.

At the point of a gun the bandit took the money and walked back to the cab, telling Slabaugh his transaction was completed and to return to Peru.

State police spread a net about the city but found no immediate trace of the man.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST HOLD STATE CONVENTION MAY 13-15

The 101st annual state convention of Churches of Christ in Indiana will meet May 13-15 at the Walnut Street Church of Christ, Portland, Ind.

Dr. P. H. Welshimer, minister of the First Christian church, Canton, Ohio, will be guest preacher. Mr. Welshimer graduated from Hiram college in 1897. He has been pastor of the Canton church for the past thirty-eight years. Under his leadership the congregation has grown to a resident membership of 5,770. Dr. Welshimer is also superintendent of the church school of the church, which has an enrollment of more than 6,800. The church property occupies the greater part of an entire block at Canton, and with equipment is valued at a half-million dollars.

Rev. Welshimer is the author of three books: "A Sunday School Vision," "Welshimer's Sermons" and "Concerning the Disciples." In 1938 he represented the international convention of the Disciples of Christ as fraternal delegate to the British Churches of Christ. He is a member of the board of directors of the pension fund of the Disciples of Christ.

Directors of music at the convention will be Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Brock, Indianapolis. Associate director will be Rev. Leon Weatherman, Fairfax Christian church, Indianapolis.

TIE VOTE TUESDAY IN ONE PRECINCT

DeKalb County Republicans Decided Five Contests and Democrats Twelve for Township Party Committeemen

With ninety precinct committeemen elected in DeKalb county Tuesday, the republicans decided five contests and the democrats twelve.

In another democratic election, Keyser No. 1, the candidates, Raymond Bock and Chas. F. Wesel, received 18 votes each.

The republican contests and the vote follow:

Jackson south: Arthur M. Friend, 36; Earl Stimman, 18.

Keyser No. 10: John Slifer, 11; Lester Smurr, 9.

Union No. 1: Clarence Fretz, 64; Harry Rainier, 41.

Union No. 6: Mabel Lyons, 125; Nevada Haynes, 59.

Union No. 8: L. Waite Widney, 80; Vernon Wiseman, 34.

Democratic:

Keyser No. 3: Ira Rodebaugh, 18; Kenneth P. Anderson, 9.

Keyser No. 4: Mrs. Perry Gump, 32; Virgil Wetoskey, 13.

Keyser No. 5: John Elmer Frownfelter, 94; Edward K. Mayfield, 66.

Keyser No. 6: Ethyl Grant, 89; Wallace Borts, 46; B. H. Eastes, 19.

Keyser No. 8: Stephen A. Johnson, 47; Francis E. Januseski, 25.

Keyser No. 10: Victor Walter, 25; John Simon, 17.

Newville township: Horace A. Meek, 24; Frederick Gengnagel, 20.

Spencer township: Kathryn Dean, 42; Otto E. Ginther, 13.

Union No. 1: J. Harpster Walter, 33; Ora W. Shambaugh, 16.

Union No. 3: Maude Roberts, 46; Clyde Phelps, 32.

Union No. 8: Floy Hilkey, 45; Earl O. Summers, 19.

Union No. 9: Thomas Souder, 27; Ward Kruse, 19.

The new committeemen will participate in their respective party conventions at the court house Saturday afternoon, when county chairmen and other officers are to be elected.

Both parties, according to present indications, will have contests for chairmen, Capt. H. C. Springer of Butler, incumbent republican, being opposed by Dr. E. O. Hall of Auburn; and Clayton M. Bailey of Garrett, incumbent democrat, being opposed by Earl D. Leas of Waterloo.

GILLIE GIVEN BIG VOTE IN DISTRICT

Fourth District Congressman Sweeps Republican Primary——Corbett is Choice of Democrats for Nomination

The republicans of the fourth district renominated George W. Gillie of Fort Wayne, for congess Tuesday by an impressive vote, while the democrats chose Frank E. Corbett, a Fort Wayne lawyer.

The votes cast for Dr. Gillie totalled, according to an unofficial report, 26,536, as against 1,991 for Fred W. Greene of Fort Wayne, and 1,877 for Norman Sweet, also of Fort Wayne.

Mr. Corbett received 9,819 votes, Clarence E. Roy of Allen county, 5,160, Geo. E. Glass of Fort Wayne, 4,269 and Thos. P. Riddle of Clear Lake, 3,952.

Dr. Gillie's margin was proportionate in all eight counties of the district. Mr. Corbett carried five counties, but lost LaGrange to Mr. Roy, Noble to Mr. Riddle and Wells to Mr. Glass.

The republican vote by counties follows:

Adams: Gillie, 1,330, Greene, 61, Sweet, 63. Plurality, 1,267.

Allen: Gillie, 12,945, Greene, 855, Sweet, 916. Plurality, 12,029.

DeKalb: Gillie, 2,706, Greene, 161, Sweet, 272. Plurality, 2,434.

LaGrange: Gillie, 1,665, Greene, 196, Sweet, 144. Plurality, 1,469.

Noble: Gillie, 2,629, Greene, 273, Sweet, 226. Plurality, 2,356.

Steuben: Gillie, 2,526, Greene, 93, Sweet, 140. Plurality, 2,386.

Wells: Gillie, 1,406, Greene, 219, Sweet, 41. Plurality, 1,187.

Whitley: Gillie, 1,329, Greene, 50. Sweet, 75. Plurality, 1,254.

The democratic vote:

Adams: Corbett 1,853, Glass, 563, Riddle, 578, Roy, 935. Corbett's plurality, 918.

Allen: Corbett, 4,646, Glass, 957, Riddle,, 1,218, Roy, 2,823. Corbett's plurality, 1,823.

DeKalb: Corbett, 845, Glass, 327, Riddle, 820, Roy, 406. Corbett's plurality, 25.

LaGrange: Corbett, 82, Glass, 19, Riddle, 50, Roy, 214. Roy's plurality, 132.

Noble: Corbett, 319, Glass, 237, Riddle, 381, Roy, 203. Riddle's plurality, 62.

The rubber industry is prepared to start fulltime production of synthetic rubber if the present war cuts off the supply of crude rubber coming from Malay. It is believed that on a large scale production synthetic rubber can be produced in this country at a cost little above the present price of plantation rubber.

Preliminary reports from the trout fishermen who braved unfavorable weather last week for the opening of the season indicate that they found plenty of sport. IN CONSIDERATION

A smart spank, a lusty cry, and a doctor puts into the hands of the new mother a child whose upbringing and responsibility is accepted as her personal blessing. From henceforth the love of a mother is poured out in bountiful doses upon a small one who is seemingly unaware of the love heaped at its kicking feet. Through the stages of crawling and romper age, from knee pants to long trousers, grows the child careless in its acceptance of an affection offered from the heart of the mother. Few children are duly appreciative of the benevolences that take place during juvenile years and too often when this small one grows to manhood's state there is not enough concern for the kindness bestowed from hands that gathered the crying newlyborn to a breast where stirred the prayer of thanksgiving. Too bad that the wisdom of years does not cause the man to realize the great amount of devotion that he has absorbed and taken for granted throughout his life. Sad it is that the realization often comes after the dark shadow crosses the path and removes that life whose tender hands proffered the love, sacrifices, care and loyalty. There comes to all of us at some desperate time, however mean we may be, an understanding of the worth of the mother and fortunate are those who can look back through the years and reflect on the past without too many regrets of duties left undone.

MOTHER'S DAY

Each year comes the celebration of Mother's Day, and daily we should build up a tribute to those living and dead. As we commemorate the occasion we recall instances when we faithfully promised ourselves that we would not do anything to knowingly hurt and distress this sweet life that bore us ours. When comes a shriek of hate, a demand for retaliation, a battlecry and when march of sons the world 'round, when echos cries of loss and fear from universal hearts, we should look to the happiness of our mothers and remember our old promises to do all possible to prevent an ache to a loved soul through an act that might cause her distress. The most fitting way to celebrate this Mother's Day is by paying her the greatest tribute possible. No greater monument could be erected to her memory, no stained glass window reflect a more glorious light, than a unified effort on the part of all of us to preserve peace and life for every mother's son. This indeed would be her most cherished gift.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Ten days ago there were many who thought that in undertaking a Norwegian campaign, Mr. Hitler had bitten off more than he could chew. The chewing is progressing with distressing success. Berlin reports that British troops are in "wild flight." Even Mr. Chamberlain admits a retiring movement along pratically the entire battle line. Nazi victories in the southern portion of Norway have opened landing places and created bases from which the work of conquest can be carried on conveniently.

The reasons for the English set-back are not hard to discover. The ports at which men may disembark, and where the supplies and munitions for a Norwegian expedition may be delivered, are few and far between. The damage wrought by German airplanes is openly confessed. So effective is the German air equipment that our own is acknowledged to be out of date by those competent to judge and inclined by training to rely upon it as a means of defense and offense.

Broadly considered, the seeming weakness of Britain arises out of the fact that the German and English points of view, regarding the chief end of man, long have been radically different. Having the ample resources of a far-spread empire, England has devoted most of her energy to the development of them through the arts of peace. While Germany has not been backward along industrial lines, the sting of defeat in the World War remained. The desire to recoup has prompted the construction of a dominating military organization. Then, too, dictators cannot afford to rest on their laurels. They must see to it that they are so outfitted that they are ready at all times to advance through the medium of force, since it is upon force that their tenure of place depends. England simply is confronted with the difficult task of winning at the other man's game.

It should be recalled, however, that a bad drubbing at the beginning of a war is not an omen as to what the end will be. The Union forces abandoned the field at Bull Run, and maintained top speed, in some instances, until the Long Bridge leading to Washington was crossed. Yet in the end, valor being equal, resources turned the scale. With Confederate ports blockaded, and with supplies and men converging from half a continent to make up for Federal losses, there could have been but one outcome.

King Solomon had a wide experience, and his judgment along a variety of lines is sound. He left on record the conclusion that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, since time and change happeneth to them all.

Time and chance may bring much to Mr. Hitler, in addition to the circumstance that, disregarding them, he may simply get an old fashioned man to man licking. In his process of spreading out, the Fuerer has taken over many lands in which the populations continue disaffected and hostile. Keeping them subjected eventually may draw needed soldiers from the front. Germany surely cannot gamble heavily on help from the Danes, the Poles or the Bohemians. Between Berlin and the fighting lines, there exist large groups needing no more than a reasonably certain chance of Allied aid, or the distant prospect of German defeat, to set them in active rebellion.

Although up to the time of this writing, Hitler has done pretty well in keeping communication open behind him, time and chance may cause him to be led too far afield. Going back to the War between the States, so good a strategist as General Lee favored a gradual retirement into the inaccessible south, that his opponents might be put to increasing difficulty in the way of transportation. Somewhere there must be a territorial boundary beyond which Hitler cannot safely go. A few victories early in the war may tempt him to cross it, to his sorrow and downfall.

TO AN IDEA

We in St. Joe should not need to be reminded that there are commodities we daily use that weren't always known to man and that some one labored long over an idea before it became a reality. Many inventions are patented by American citizens and we have taken them for granted without thought for the ingeniousness of a chap who toiled with a dream. We are very certain that setting aside a day in memory of them and their efforts, is proper. In early April a banquet was held in Washington a day in 1790 when George Washington signed the first patent law. Since that time Americans have been given the cotton gin, sewing machine, airplane, telephone, steamboat, electric light and telegraph. About two million patents have been issued from the patent office and of this list most inventions are usable. There have been hundreds of thousands of notable American inventors and each gives us something to remember him by. Wise indeed to patent each idea for the individual needed protection against infringements. He had worked years to complete his dream, perhaps. Despite the number of past inventions there goes on more and more of them to add to the list and creative youths who think there is nothing new left for them should realize that the patent office is still open and doing business.

BUY AMERICAN

There aren't many men in this community who can afford the imported English tweeds in tailored clothes even if they preferred English-made clothes. You don't find many local smokers who seek the English blended tobaccos when their American tobacco fields yield a quality weed. What Londoner can make a pipe better than an American manufacture and British lasts for footwear appears to have slipped down a number of notches in popularity. There were springs when folks sought English flower and garden seeds but most of them are satisfied with American plants today. Due to present conditions those who have pro-British tastes in the above must be content with what home markets have to offer. Some say our sheep do not give the quality wool of the Scoth hills but we have many sheep and many cattlemen beseech American to manufacture with native products. Tobacco fields need to be noticed for this is one of our surplus problems. Trade agreements and purchasing of foreign produce when we are yielding the same goods here at home is not reasonable, considerate, or judicious unless you are mighty hard to please.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

Active buying by out of town slaughter house buyers and very liberal receipts made this weeks auction outstanding. Mr. Westfall of Detroit appeared in person in our ring this week and gave Mr. Landel of Waldron, Mich. and Mr. Woebbeking, who buys for Swift & Co. a real battle for the hogs and veals. We have the assurance that these buyers will be on our market next week. Hogs 175 to 230 lbs. $6.00 to $640. Fat sows $4.75 to $4.95. Select Veals $11.80. Good and top calves $10.50 to $11.00. Low grade calves are also in good demand at satisfactory prices. Common butcher steers, $8.70 down. Fat cows $5.60 to $5.80. Anything fit for slaughter, $4.00 and up. Bulls, choice $7.70. Good heavy bulls $6.70.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The surprise action of the House Judiciary Committee in tabling and probably killing the second Hatch Clean Politics Bill represented a hollow victory for Senator Minton of Indiana, who led a vicious but unsuccessful fight in the Senate against the measure, which would curb unsavory practices of state political machines.

If friends of the bill in the House fail in their effort to force it out of Committee by the discharge petition route, Senator Minton may look forward happily to the active financial aid of an Indiana army of Federally-paid state employes in his campaign for re-election this year.

The Senator and his cohorts are rejoicing openly at this latest unexpected development, but many observers are wondering if his rejoicing isn't a bit premature.

Freedom to use the Federal Treasury as a campaign fund will have its obvious advantages but, they ask, will they not be more than offset by the loss of prestige Mr. Minton has suffered among independent voters for his leadership in the fight against the bill?

MR. MITON has become popularly identified with the unpopular opposition to the Hatch Bill, and if it is killed, as it probably will be, he will be largely blamed for it.

This will be a burden that he will have to carry in the coming campaign a burden that will be made none the less heavy by the cheerful tinkle of the coin of the realm in his campaign coffers. And his Republican opponent, whoever he may be, will not hesitate to make it a powerful issue.

It is a well-known fact that Raymond E. Willis, who seems slated to succeed Mr. Minton in the Senate, has followed the debate on the Hatch Bill with the utmost interest (and joy), and has gathered a great amount of damaging material with which to blast the Junior Senator.

With indications pointing to a close election in Indiana, support of the large and potent block of independent Hoosier voters will be desperately sought after by candidates of both parties.

The impetuous Mr. Minton, by his open antagonism towards the Hatch Bill, has placed in the hands of Mr. Willis an issue that has all the qualifications of a candidate's dream. If properly used, it will swing a large number of supporters to the banner of the Angola publisher.

REPUBLICAN Congressmen from Indiana have indicated that they will unanimously support the effort of Hatch Bill friends in the House to rescue the measure from death in the Judiciary Committee.

Congressman George W. Gillie, of the Fourth Indiana District, was one of the first to announce that he would sign the petition to override the commeittee's action.

In order to save the bill, it will be necessary for 218 members of the House to sign the discharge petition. This will be almost impossible in view of the avowed opposition of the Democratic leadership.

Whatever happens, the Indiana GOP Congressmen, by signing the petition, will have forced the issue and relieved themselves of any responsibilty for the failure of this desirable piece of legislation to become a law.

SIDELIGHTS: Reports received here from Indiana indicate that R. Earl Peters has the inside track in the Democratic gubernatorial race. State House leaders, it is said, are about ready to go along with the former State Chairman and FHA Administrator...The prediction also is being made that Ray Willis will receive the Republican Senatorial nomination on the first ballot...Cautious observers, however, hesitate to guess at the outcome of the nip-and-tuck GOP governor race...It's a sure bet that the convention delegates selected this Tuesday will be subjected to plenty of pressure from all quarters. By and large however, they will be controlled by county and district leaders...highlight of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce dinner here last week was an off-the-record debate between Senator Minton and Congressman Charles Halleck, with no holds barred, no punches pulled...An attractive visitor to the legislative halls this week was Miss Marjorie Weaver, Hollywood starlet and former Indiana University co-ed. Page service was completely disrupted in the House for several minutes when the page boys, spotting Miss Weaver in the gallery, swarmed about her for a close-up view and her autograph.

My... Mother— A Prayer

FOR the body you gave me, the bone and the sinew, the heart and the brain that are yours, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for the light in my eyes, the blood in my veins, for my speech, for my life, for my being. All that I am is from you who bore me.

For all the love that you gave me, unmeasured from the beginning, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for the hand that led me, the voice that directed me, the breast that nestled, the arm that shielded me, the lap that rested me. All that I am is by you, who nursed me.

For your smile in the morning and your kiss at night, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for the tears you shed over me, the songs you sung to me, the prayers that you said for me, for your vigils and ministerings. All that I am is by you, who reared me.

For the faith you had in me, the hope you had for me, for your trust and your pride, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for your praise and your chiding, for the justice you bred into me and the honor you made mine. All that I am you taught me.

For the sore travail that I caused you, for the visions and despairs, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me the peril I brought you to, the sobs and moans I wrung from you, and for the strength I took from you, mother, forgive me.

For the fears I gave you, for the alarms and the dreads, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me the joys I deprived you, the toils I made for you, for the hours, the days and the years I claimed from you, mother, forgive me.

For the times that I hurt you, the times I had no smile for you, the caresses I did not give you, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me for my angers and my revolts, for my deceits and evasions, for all the pangs and sorrows I brought to you, my mother, forgive me.

For your lessons I did not learn, for your wishes I did not heed, for the counsels I did not obey, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me my pride in my youth and my glory in my strength that forgot the holiness of your years and the veneration of your weakness, for my neglect, for my selfishness, for all the great debts of your love that I have not paid, mother, sweet mother, forgive me.

And may the peace and the joy that passeth all understanding be yours, my mother, forever and ever. Amen.

MOTORISTS TO OBSERVE YELLOW LINE MARKINGS

No-passing zones are marked on Indiana state highways with yellow paint and are strictly enforced for the safety of all motorists, T. A. Dicus, chairman of the State Highway Commission, said today.

Observance of the marking is simple: A YELLOW LINE ON YOUR SIDE OF THE CENTER MEANS THAT YOU MUST NOT OVERTAKE AND PASS A VEHICLE OR DRIVE TO THE LEFT SIDE OF THE ROADWAY UNTIL THE YELLOW LINE ON YOUR SIDE OF THE CENTER LINE HAS ENDED.

Sometimes there is a yellow line on both sides of the center line, which means that passing is prohibited from either direction.

Methods used by the State Highway Commisison to mark points where limited sight distance makes driving on the left side of the road hazardous, are illustrated above. At the left, picture No. 1 shows the marking on a hill on a two-lane state highway where vision is obscured by the hill. In the center, picture No. 2 illustrates the same marking applied at a curve where the change in direction makes it impossible for drivers to see approaching vehicles. At the right, picture No. 3 shows the double yellow line used on a four-lane highway to designate proper lanes for traffic moving in opposite directions. It is unlawful to cross the center line from either side in overtaking and passing at points where the double yellow line is used.

NO CROSSING CENTER LINE

Use of the yellow line marking is but one of the steps by which the Highway Commission seeks to make Indiana's state highway system "accident-proof" from an engineering standpoint. Other contributions to motoring safety include the use of reflectorized signs, wider shoulders and rights-of-way, improved traveling surfaces, bridges and culverts with wider roadways, designation of limited speed sections at points of possible hazard, elimination of dangerous curves and grades, and many others.

Like other engineering steps eliminating hazards from the highways, the yellow-line marking can only be as effective as the observance of the markings by the individual motorist, Mr. Dicus pointed out. Unless all motorists observe the marking for no-passing zones, accidents on curves and grades will continue with their toll of lives and injuries. Safety is largely a matter of individual responsibility, shared by all motorists.

SHAW TO SHOOT AT MEYER'S TRIPLE VICTORY IN RENEWAL OF INDIANAPOLIS '500' MAY 30

WILBUR SHAW
LOU MEYER

Wilbur Shaw (inset left) will be aiming for a third triumph at Indianapolis May 30th, the feat having been accomplished by only one driver, the great Lou Meyer (inset right). The thrilling speed classic, start of which is shown, offers obstacles, however, and Shaw must be great to duplicate Meyer's triple.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The defending champion of the "500" will be shooting May 30th at the "unbeatable" achievement of the three-time winner.

Wilbur Shaw, colorful Hoosier speedster, with victories in 1937 and 1939 in the Gasoline Derby on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, has vowed he will equal the triple triumph of the great Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, California.

Meyer's wins in 1928, 1933 and 1936 stamped him as an "immortal" in Speedway history. He holds this distinction alone. Previous to 1939, when Shaw repeated, Tommy Milton, the victor in 1921 and 1923, was the only driver outside of Meyer who had taken more than one winning checkered flag at Indianapolis.

Iron Man Lou retired from competition after last year's race, having turned in 5,249 competitive miles in "500" racing before hanging up his goggles. And in quitting Meyer drove one of his greatest races before his car wrecked after a spin with but a few laps to the finish line. He had been leading.

Shaw has taken from Meyer the honor of being the greatest money winner at Indianapolis, earning $71,300 in Speedway prizes alone.

Wilbur's fans, while acknowledging the exploit of Meyer in getting the checkered flag three times, are pulling for Shaw to land his "triple" rank along with the retired three-timer.

Thirty-two other fast drivers, however, will be whizzing around the two and a half mile speedway determined to be across the finish line ahead of Shaw.

Can Shaw repeat? That question will be answered May 30th before 150,000 cheering race enthusiasts.

Only 'Papa' Stuck to Petillo When All Turned Against Racer

THAT'S MY BOY KELLY

"My boy, Kelly, he's all right!" That's what his father, Luigi, said when it seemed that the 1935 champion's temperament was turning everyone against him.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Old Man Tribulation has finished his exacting education of Mr. Kelly Petillo and the doughty little Italian is about ready to ride to racing glory again.

The ex-truck driver who manhandled a bucking, powerful automobile to victory in the 500-mile race at Indianapolis in 1935, has roamed through the valley of despair ever since at the misguided direction of temperament, over-confidence and just plain cockiness. The five years have had a steadying influence and Petillo is climbing again toward the peak.

Swaggering about Gasoline Alley in a manner not generally acceptable to racing men; displaying unbridled wrath toward officials who attempted to enforce strict regulations; impatient with his garage mechanics who deserted him before his temperament, nevertheless when the stocky pilot took to the track none denied that he is as tough a skipper as ever "tooled" the four quarter turns of the famous Hoosier oval.

Kelly always has one staunch friend—whether the wind blows ill or well. That's his proud father, Luigi Petillo. He believes Kelly is the greatest race driver that ever pulled on a crash helmet. And it's rumored that Kelly thinks he is, too.

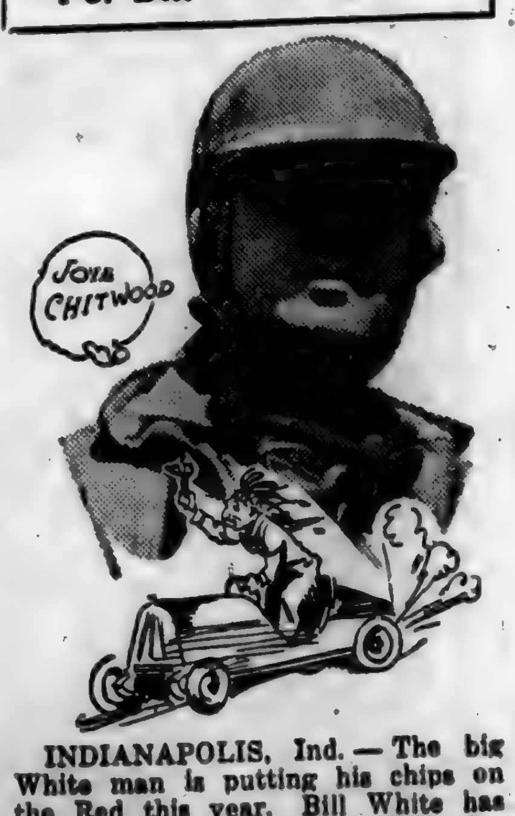
Indian Racer to Drive For Bill White in '500'



INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The big White man is putting his chips on the Red this year. Bill White has selected a Cherokee Indian to drive for him in the 500-mile race at Indianapolis May 30th.

Joie (Big Chief) Chitwood is the only Indian in big time competition. He's a rugged individual who starred as halfback on the Haskell University Indian football team in Kansas, and who flashed to attention shattering twenty records on dirt tracks last year.

This marks his first attempt to win glory at Indianapolis, and the chief is ready to whoop it up the minute they fire off the starting bomb.

OVER 350 GIRLS IN DeKALB COUNTY 4-H CLUB WORK

Many new 4-H girls' clubs have been organized this year, Miss Mary Lenore Moore, county home demonstration agent who is in charge of the activities of farm women and girls, reports. There are now over 350 girls enrolled in the county for 1940 project work.

A girl's club has been established this year in Garrett for the first time, with Mrs. Maurine Fitch and Mrs. Neva Symon as leaders. Several weeks ago Miss Moore held an enrollment and organization meeting in the Garrett High School and Friday conducted a similar meeting for girls of grade school age in that city with 60 in attendance. A total of 20 of the high school age group have signed up already and another meeting will be held during the week of May 6, to give another opportunity to high school girls to enroll.

Several years ago it was thought that 4-H club work was only for rural youth, but the program has been extended and broadened to include the town boys and girls as well. The purposes of 4-H club work are to develop leadership, business ability, sportsmanship, personality, citizenship, healthful habits, and social contacts.

4-H club work for boys and girls is a part of the national agricultural extension system which reaches every state in the United States, Porto Rico, and the territories of Alaska and Hawaii. It is being developed also in many foreign countries. This system was organized by the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the state colleges of agriculture and the county extension organizations under the provisions of the Smith-Lever act of 1914 and other acts of Congress and of state legislatures authorizing the establishment of agricultural extension work and making appropriations for it.

4-H clubs usually are organized and conducted under the immediate supervision of county extension agents cooperatively employed by the Department of Agriculture, the state colleges of agriculture, and county governments. Clergymen, teachers, and other professional men and women together with outstanding farmers and homemakers, play an important part as local leaders in the development of this work which reaches more than 1,000,000 young people each year.

The projects open to girls enrolled in DeKalb county clubs are clothing, canning, baking, food preparation, and room improvement. Any girl between the ages of 10 and 21 is eligible for membership. Only the cost of the materials she uses in the projects is paid by the members. Instruction sheets and record books are furnished free of charge by the State Department of Agriculture at Purdue University, through the extension office in Auburn.

The minimum number of meetings required is six. Awards are offered in projects and in leadership and a number of trip awards are also given each year.

Any member who has completed his or her work for the club year is entitled to attend club camp. However, the member must pay his way for this event, except those persons who earn the camp trip as a special award. Last year over 300 boys and girls from Allen, Steuben, and DeKalb counties enjoyed the annual outing.

Club work is made possible only by the cooperation of parents, leaders, and vocational teachers. Last year approximately 275 enrolled in the projects for girls and an exceptionally high number is expected at the close of the enrollment this year.

Each school in the county, both township and city, was visited this spring by Miss Moore, who explained club work to the girls. Each girl also received a summary sheet from her.

4-H club girls take part in judging contests in their local communities and local achievement programs are given by the various groups at which they exhibit their projects and demonstrations are given. All work is exhibited by clubs at a county-wide show in Auburn, July 30 to August 2.

Since the work is new in Garrett this year, it has been suggested that a special meeting be held for mothers of girls who are interested in the club work, in order to acquaint them with the complete organization, the various activities, and awards.

Miss Moore will gladly answer any questions regarding club work. Her office is on the first floor of the DeKalb County Court House in Auburn.

HOUSE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS ANNUITIES FOR AGED

Old age pensions or annuities for all persons who have passed 60 years were recommended to the Unemployment Conference of the House by its committee on Social Security and Old Age Pensions in a unanimous report this week. The report will have to be considered by the entire conference as part of a final master report which will be made after all committees have completed their recommendations. The Social Security and Old Age Pensions Committee, which has been working for nearly two months on its report, consists of: Frank B. Keefe (Rep., Wis.), Chairman; Homer D. Angell (Rep. Oregon), Frank R. Havenner (D., Calif.), Gerald W. Landis (Rep., Indiana), Martin Smith (D., Wash.), John H. Tolan (D., Calif.), Jerry Voorhis (D., Calif.) and R. T. Buckler (Farmer-Labor, Minn.).

The report contains a careful analysis showing the major importance of an old age pension system for our whole economy, and then makes five comprehensive recommendations for a "national old age annuity system." It emphasizes the vital relation between adequate consumer purchasing power and national recovery, showing that purchasing power must keep pace with production or under-consumption and unemployment result. Pointing out that production tends to increase faster than employment, that because of scientific methods of production, part of the people are able to produce enough for all the people and that if all the people do not consume their reasonable share of production, unemployment is inevitable, the committee concluded that: "If it is necessary for some group in society to be enabled to consume its share of national production without contributing to that production, then obviously, this group should be those people who have worked the longest and contributed most in the past to our national wealth and to the building up of our very efficient productive machine." The Committee showed that in 1939 the level of production was equal to the record breaking year of 1929 but that nevertheless more than a million less persons were employed in 1939 than in 1929.

The specific recommendations of the Committee were as follows:

(1) The annuity system should be on a pay-as-you-go basis. The present social security system is criticised for "its serious deflationary influence", since during the fiscal year 1940-41 the Old Age and Unemployment Insurance funds together will collect $1,200,000,000 more in payroll taxes than will be paid out in benefits.

(2) Pensions should be paid to all American citizens over 60 years of age who are retired from industry. "If it is desired to deny the pension to persons who clearly do not need it, it could be required that persons who are liable to the payment of a federal income tax must return, at the time the tax is paid, any money received as pension payments during the previous year. This would leave the pension system as possible, requiring no investigator staff or individual records."

(3) There should be no difference in the amounts paid to persons in the various states. The states may, of course, supplement the Federal payments if they desire.

(4) The revenue should come from a broad general tax such as the gross income tax, as well as from taxes calculated to reduce the volume of idle funds such as individual income, inheritance, estate and gift taxes.

(5) The size of the pension should be determined by pro-rating the revenue derived from the special taxes levied for this purpose among all eligible to receive the annuity.

The Committee concludes that: "Such a system as we have outlined would avoid the complicated system of bookkeeping now required on the part of individual employers and on the part of the Social Security Board. It would make possible elimination of the cumbersome payroll taxes on employees and employers and of the attempt to maintain individual records on upwards of 40 million workers. It would make possible the inclusion of all occupational groups of citizens and it would bring to an end the serious deflationary influence of the current attempt to accumulate reserve funds."

The House Conference on Unemployment is a group of seventy Members of the House of Representatives who organised two months ago for a thorough study of the unemployment problem. The general officers of the Conference are: Jerry Voorhis (D., Calif.), Chairman; Karl Mundt (Rep., S. D.), Vice-Chairman; and John Murdock (D., Ariz.), Secretary. The Conference is organised into twelve sub-committees, each of which is working on a special phase of the unemployment problem. General meetings are held weekly.

IDEAS AND COURAGE

Ideas are queer things...the product of man's brain. Some may be worth a million..some may be worthless; some are born on the spur of the moment.. some, after hours of concentration.

Many good ideas becomes worthless because the courage to present them did not accompany them.

Many ideas are cast by the wayside by one man, to be picked up by another, and the first loses a fortune because he did not have the courage to go forward.

Lincoln had an idea about slavery, so he took a plank out of Uncle Tom's Cabin, put it in his platform and stood squarely upon it until his idea was put across.

Franklin had ideas, so did Lindberg. Many men are not only cheating themselves when they hesitate, but the world as well...because the world is looking for men with ideas.

People thought the Wright brothers were crazy. The world discourages, it is true, but there is a niche carved in it for men with ideas... and..courage.

FROG HUNTING IS BANNED DURING MAY

The frog hunter is "on vacation" along with the bass and the bluegill fisherman this month, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, said today, in calling attention to the Indiana law providing for a closed season on frogs from May 1, to June 10.

Indiana has two open seasons for taking frogs, one extending from April 1 to April 30, and the second starting June 10, and ending October 31. The law does not establish a bag limit or a minimum size for frogs during the open season but penalties are provided for taking frogs out of season.

HEAVY DRINKING BETWEEN AGES OF 20 AND 30 REPORTED

Chicago, May 8.—Excessive drinking, especially among persons between 20 and 30 years old, has increased greatly in the last three years, according to Charles R. Jones, executive vice president of the American Business Men's Research Foundation.

"A survey reveals that in the younger age group two out of five men and one out of twelve women drink in such amounts as to constitute in many cases sub-standard risks for life insurance companies," Jones said.

Jones said the foundation was conducting an analysis of the experiences of insurance companies as concerns drinking habits.

"Drinking habits, we have found, are responsible for one of the most difficult situations ever to arise in the life insurance business," he said.

"Many directors and underwriters are advising us that they are forced either to decline outright or to accept only at special high rates, more applicants for life insurance for excessive drinking habits than for any other cause," Jones said.

One company reported that for each 100 applications rejected 24 indulged excessively in liquor.

"With high blood pressure and serious heart ailments, both frequently the results of drinking, they are responsible for more rejections than for all other causes combined," Jones said.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1940 NUMBER 20

The People's Column!

IT'S SPRING AGAIN!

That means nice weather, sunny days. It also means our little ones will be out playing, enjoying themselves with balls or perhaps a bicycle. Some will roller skate, others will jump rope, and some will run.

There little minds overenthusiastic with the very joy of living, their thoughts diverted with play, are likely to forget to be cautious in spite of a mother's repeated warnings. They will wander, they may get into the streets. I might venture to say they may "get in your hair."

Mr. Motorist in behalf of all mothers, I urge you to drive carefully, slowly, and be always on the alert. And we the mothers promise you that we will try our utmost to keep the children out of the busy streets. I'm sure that there isn't a mother who wouldn't second the motion and I know there isn't a motorist who is not willing to cooperate.

COMMUNITY TWILIGHT MEMORIAL SUNDAY EVENING, MAY 26.

It has been the sole purpose of your Legion Post to work out a plan whereby all communities in our area might have just consideration for Memorial services and in order to properly care for each of the several cemeteries we have in our Memorial program. We are planing the Twilight service for St. Joe, to be held as usual from the community building at the High school and then go to the cemetery for the service at the graves of those we honor from their part in continuing your hope and plan for a free country and Nation.

This service can be made the most impressive of the several patrotic functions that are observed by each community, and with the help of those who care, your Memorial Day, with your friends should be long remembered and furnish inspiration for future services, making each one mean more, and do more for this community and what it has always stood for.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION FOR MOTHER HELD LAST SUNDAY

Thirty-three members of the family of Mrs. Emma C. Winn gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Borthwick Sunday to celebrate the 80th birthday of Mrs. Winn. Visiting and singing was the order of the day with a Pot Luck dinner at the noon hour. Mrs. Winn received many beautiful gifts and cards from her children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and friends. She has seven living children, two sons and five daughters, all of whom were present on her birthday. Sixteen grandchildren and ten great grandchildren, six of the former and five of the latter not being able to attend the party. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Winn, Mr. and Mrs. W. Roscoe Winn, son Dallis, granddaughter, Doris Padorsa, Mrs. Clara Fulmer, daughters, Wyndolin and Lillian Jean, son Darrell; and son Raymond and wife and daughter Rosalie Ann of Hicksville, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith of Mark Center, Mr. and Mrs. Drexel Otis and son Lynn, daughter Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Vergil Montague, son Jimmie and Miss Lois Arnold of Ft. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Anderson, Mrs. Xenia Kramer, Pearl Winn of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Borthwick of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Borthwick and son Russell.

All enjoyed a pleasant day together, leaving their mother and grandmother with best wishes for many more happy birthdays. Mrs. Winn has been a guest in the home of her daughter Mrs. Borthwick, for the past three weeks.

PREPARE FOR FISHING SEASON—GET LICENSES

While Indiana's open season on bass, bluegills and other popular game fish does not open until June 16, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, urged anglers to get their licenses early. The Indiana law requires, he pointed out, that all persons 18 years old and older must have a license to fish in waters of this state.

Two fishing licenses are issued to Indiana anglers—the combination license good for fishing, hunting and trapping during the calendar year, and the special women's license for fishing also only good during the calendar year. A special 14-day fishing license is issued for non-resident anglers at a fee of $1.20, while a non-resident fishing license, good for the calendar year, costs $2.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sechler, of Kendallville, spent over Sunday with Mrs. Wm. Sible and son.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR WAR RELIEF DRIVE

Acting on an appeal from the Washington headquarters of the American Red Cross for public support in raising a war relief fund of $10,000,000, the DeKalb county chapter of the American Red Cross today announced that all arrangements have been completed to provide citizens of DeKalb county an opportunity to contribute for the relief of civilian war sufferers in Europe.

At an enthusiastic meeting of Red Cross workers in the assembly room of the court house Monday evening, plans were made for the drive to raise DeKalb county's quota of $2,000.

This is the first appeal made by the Red Cross for war relief since the inception of hostilities last September 1. The organization has announced its readiness from time to time to accept money donated voluntarily for specific relief purposes but no public campaign has been waged.

All townships and towns in the county were represented at the meeting and committees were named with minimum quotas given for each as follows:

Auburn—Herman Brown, Harry Kreider, Miss Hilda Dunn, amount $450.

Garrett—Rev. H. J. Jordan, D. L. Haffner, Mrs. J. W. Thomson, amount $390.

Waterloo—Miss Anna Deubener, amount $117.

Ashley—Carl Swank, amount $30.

Butler—Mrs. Irma Long, James Cather, amount $144.

St. Joe—Leslie Wilbern, amount $27.

Spencerville—Everett Paschen, Mrs. B. O. Shook, amount $18.

Corunna—Miss Vera Treesh, Miss Berneice Reynolds, amount $18.

Jackson—Ruth or Margaret Kelly and Mrs. Wesley Carper, amount $97.11.

Butler—Mrs. Ford Rugman and Mrs. Fred Davis, amount $70.11.

Richland—Mrs. Elmer Pontius and Mrs. Earl Farrington, amount $62.55.

Fairfield—Mrs. George Leo Noirot, amount $85.59.

Smithfield—Mrs. James Conrad and Mrs. E. R. Shoemaker, amount $82.62.

Franklin—Mrs. Charles Ratts and Mrs. Roy Robbins, amount $84.96.

Troy—Mrs. C. K. Brown, amount $34.92.

Wilmington—Mrs. Clyde Fales and Mrs. Charles Krise, amount $87.84.

Stafford—Mrs. Lawrence Diehl, amount $27.72.

Union—Mrs. Fanny Boger and Mrs. Harry Shull, amount $93.69.

Grant—Mrs. Clyde Husselman, amount $41.22.

Concord—amount $53.11.

Newville—amount $37.80.

Spencer—Mrs. Lehr Wilder, amount $59.76.

Keyser—Jay Olinger and Simon Cook, amount $85.05.

Ralph Griest of Garrett, chairman of DeKalb County Red Cross, presided at the meeting Monday night and Mrs. Florence Sinninger, the Red Cross nurse, assisted Frank Weathers of Auburn and Rev. H. J. Jordan of Garrett, gave talks and both expressed the thought that residents of DeKalb county would be willing and anxious to give to this cause. They declared Americans should be thankful that our children are free to play with no fear of bombs raining down to shatter their homes, with our business, factories and schools carrying on in peace with no soldiers guarding the doors. We people of DeKalb county should be very happy to raise this small quoto, they asserted.

Make the task easy for the canvassers and have your donation ready. Let's see DeKalb county go over the top as it always has before.

Those who wish may make their contribution direct to Harry Casebeer, county Red Cross treasurer, at the City National Bank in Auburn.

DeKalb county has been assigned a quota of $2,000 as its portion of a $10,000,000 war relief fund to be raised by the American Red Cross.

Ralph Griest of Garrett, chairman of the DeKalb county organization, received the following telegram Friday night from Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross.

"With the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg the war has entered a phase which will inevitably and at once bring widespread and appalling suffering to millions of helpless men, women and children. In order to inaugurate widespread relief measures the American Red Cross is at once launching a campaign for a minimum war relief fund of ten million dollars. Your chapter quota is $2,000. Please at once mobilize the entire leadership of your chapter and community in order that your quota may be raised and exceeded without delay. Chapters may retain fifteen percent of collections to cover their local war relief expenses.

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of May 2 showed the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

LEAS WINS OVER BAILEY AS DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN

Earl D. Leas, Waterloo banker and member of a pioneer and prominent DeKalb county family, was elected chairman of the DeKalb county democratic central committee Saturday afternoon, succeeding Clayton M. Bailey of Garrett.

Both the names of Mr. Leas and Mr. Bailey were presented and the vote was 68 to 19. Mrs. Levi Teeters of Garrett, was elected vice chairman and the new chairman was authorized to appoint the secretary and treasurer. W. W. Ketcham of Auburn, has served as secretary the last two years and Dr. W. R. Newcomer of Waterloo, as treasurer. Mrs. Maude Roberts of Auburn, was vice chairman.

Mr. Bailey, a locomotive fireman for the Baltimore & Ohio, was nominated for re-election by Mrs. Floy Hilkey of Auburn, while the nomination of Mr. Leas was made by James Duncan of Waterloo. Of 90 committeemen and vice committeemen elected at the primary, 87 took part in the formation of the county organization, personally or by proxy. Mrs. Teeters was nominated for vice chairman by John Summers of Garrett, and she was elected unanimously.

The meeting of the committeemen was held in the Auburn city hall and was called to order by Mr. Bailey. Upon motion of Monte L. Green of Auburn, Dan M. Link of Auburn, was selected as temporary chairman. In assuming his duties, Judge Link pointed out that the foundation of the party rests on its precinct workers and he urged them to strive for victory. Mrs. Mildred Wise of Keyser township, was chosen as temporary secretary.

The vote for chairman was canvassed by W. W. Sharpless of Garrett, Miles Baxter of Auburn, and Cleve H. Grube of Stafford township. After the new chairman and vice chairman were elected, they were introduced and Mr. Leas pledged his best efforts to the success of the party. He stated that he would appoint a secretary and treasurer later.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

A total of 336 head of stock made up the consignments for this week's auction. Bidding was active on all kinds and there were not enough cattle and hogs to fill the orders. Hogs weighing from 200 to 260, $5.60 to $5.70. Even at these prices buyers were willing to let a few light hogs go thru with the tops. Fat sows for the Chicago market made a top of $5.55 with all offerings well above $4.00. Feeder pigs are hard to place at steady prices although all offerings found new homes. Stags $4.50 down. Veal top was $11.40. Paid by Westfall & Son of Frontier, Mich., with Laube and Woebbeling bidding above eleven for good and select calves. Top heifers $8.00 to $10.00. Cows $6.60 to $5.45. Common slaughter heifers $6.80 to $7.50. Bulls $6.60 down.

Card of Appreciation

My sincere thanks and appreciation to all who, in any way, helped me to win the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of DeKalb county. Oscar F. Fitch. 20t1.

To The Voters of DeKalb County

May I in this way express my appreciation for the support you gave me in the Primary election and hope you will support the successful candidate, Mr. Murray Steele in the November Election, Robert Weaver.

The Townsend Club will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 at Town Hall. Frank Akins, President.

Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Armstrong and son Ronald of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway and family were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Armstrong.

ST. JOE LADY IMPROVING FROM TRAIN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Hattie Widney Stone, of Widney Orchard, St. Joe, who was injured Monday when she drove her truck into the side of a Wabash locomotive at the east town limits of Butler, was reported improving by attaches at the Dr. Bonnell M. Souder hospital Wednesday forenoon.

Mrs. Stone suffered a concussion and lacerations. At the time of the accident she was driving east out of Butler. Apparently she did not see the locomotive until she was almost upon it. Swerving the truck, the radiator crashed into the right side of the engine. The valve mechanism near the cylinder of the engine was jammed, causing the train to stop.

Mrs. Widney was rushed to Auburn hospital, where she remained in an unconscious condition until Tuesday evening, only regaining consciousness for a short time, and then the family were unable to learn much of her condition.

Mrs. Stone had started for the Stanley Everett farm for seed potatoes and was to return by way of Hicksville, where she was getting some field peas for planting. She had not been able to drive alone, due to a hemorrage in one eye some time ago, but she left home Monday morning without a driver.

Her son Dale of Columbia City and Mr. Stone have been at her bedside constantly.

Chas. Koch called Wednesday morning at the hospital and Mrs. Stone was much better, and wanted to be brought home and talked freely.

Her condition for recovery is encouraging.

Arrangements have been made for such a meeting to be held at the St. Joe Gym, May 17, at 8:30 P. M. E. S. T. The young people in and around St. Joe, Spencerville and Newville, or in Spencer, Concord and Newville township are invited to attend this meeting.

Vance, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walter, who reside on the Freeburn farm, east of St. Joe, was injured on Monday of last week, when he was knocked down by the family automobile, when it was being backed out of the barn by the older son, Robert. The youngster was rushed to Hicksville hospital, being in an unconscious condition from the fall, and there it was learned too, that his left arm was broken. It is thought he will recover as the car did not pass over his body.

CLEAN-UP DAY MAY 24th

May 24, has been designated by the Town Board of St. Joe, as the Annual Clean-up day of this year. All rubbish in the residential district is to be placed in containers at the rear of property so that truck can get to it easily. No ashes will be collected.

Frank, Akins, President

Russell Borthwick received a long distant call last Wednesday evening from The American Steel Corporation in Hammond asking him to report there for a position as welder Thursday morning. He accepted the position and is now employed by that corporation. At present he is making his home with his aunt, Mrs. A. L. Anderson at Calumet City, Ill.

The name "John Deere" on a tractor stands for top value all the way through. Burgoyne's Hardware, Hicksville, Ohio, 6tf.

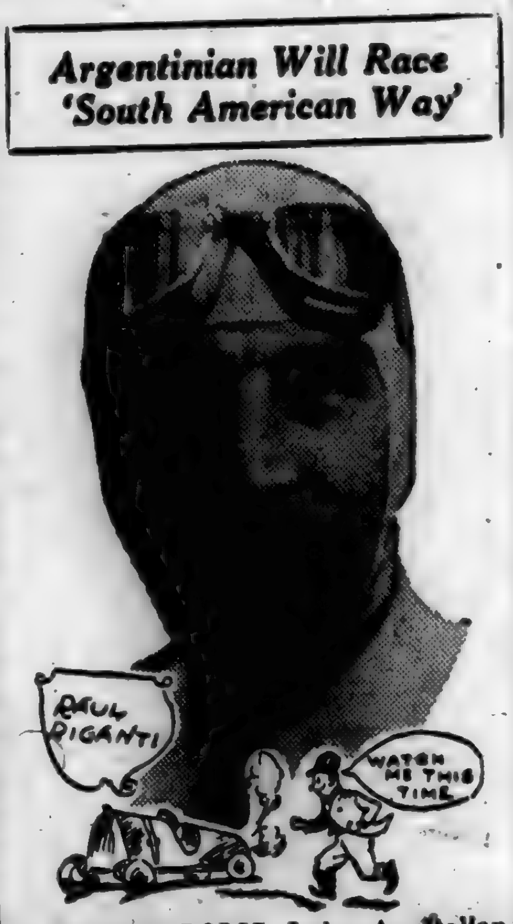
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curle accompanied Albert Engle and family of Garrett, to Latty, Ohio, Sunday where they were guests in the J. H. Argubright home, Saturday being Mrs. Argubright's birthday the children had planned a Sunday dinner in honor of her birthday and Mother's Day. Mr. and Mrs. Argubright sent greetings and asked to be remembered to all of their old friends in and around St. Joe. Others present were: Mr. Howard Smith and family and James Vogle and wife of Latty, Ohio.

Television, newest of the modern miracles, makes its bow in the big time Monday, June 24, when it takes its place alongside photographers, news reels, the press and radio at the 1940 Republican National Convention in Philadelphia. John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, today charaterized the appearance of television at the Republican Convention as an example of private enterprise at its best. What could be more appropriate Hamilton said, than having television—the newest of our industries—being brought sharply to the attention of the nation through its use at the Convention of the only Party in the country which gives high approval to the American system of free, private enterprise.

GOING BACK

Met a friend on the street in a neighboring town the other day who informed me that so-and-so is selling out his place in town and moving back to the farm. He tells me this and seems surprised, but not your editor who feels that there is a hankering for the rural and rustic in the make-up of most of us and that sooner or later a fellow gets pretty fed up with business districts and wants to get into the more undeveloped areas. Look at the people who are migrating to rural areas for your answer. Do not forget that when we trace it way back we are all of us country-born. The reason for the formation of the city was for commercial purposes and also for protection in those days when this was a factor in survival. But today we like the more normal and healthful life as well as the lower rents and taxes.

Argentinian Will Race 'South American Way'



INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—An Italian racing car will feel the grip of a fine Argentine hand in the "500."

Raul Riganti, idol of South American auto racing fans, will stage his comeback at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30th behind the wheel of an Italian Maserati car bought for him by public subscription in his country.

Riganti raced at Indianapolis in 1923 and 1933, coming here for the first time as a member of the famous Bugatti team headed by the European sportsman, Prince de Cystria.

The Argentinian brings back to Indianapolis the first international entry in seven years. North and South America are watching his effort with interest.

SPRINGER CHOSEN AS REPUBLICAN COUNTY CHAIRMAN

Capt. Henry C. Springer of Butler was renamed DeKalb county chairman of the republican party at the reorganization meeting held Saturday afternoon in the DeKalb county court house in Auburn. His only opponent, Dr. E. O. Hall of Auburn, withdrew his name as a candidate, after which the secretary was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for Mr. Springer.

HENRY C. SPRINGER

Mrs. Ora Lyons of South Main street, Auburn, was elected to the position of county vice chairman. Her predecessor, Mrs. Ida Penry Tharpe, now resides in Hammond, Ind. Mrs. Lyons has been active in party work for a number of years, in both city and county organizations. She is also precinct committeeman of Union 6.

E. E. Turner of Grant township, and Philip Carper of Jackson township, were reelected secretary and treasurer, respectively. Mr. Carper has served as treasurer of the county committee for 26 years.

Republican candidates for office in the general election this fall were introduced, among them being Murray Steel, candidate for clerk of the circuit court; Charles T. Miser, state representative; Harry Shull, joint state senator; Oscar Fulk of Smithfield township, commissioner of the north district; Wayne Van Auken, surveyor; Harvey Phelps, treasurer; and Lloyd Yelser of Concord township, commissioner of the southeast district Judge William P. Endicott, Prosecutor George E. Mountz, Sheriff Artus Coyle and Coroner John R. Clark were unable to be present.

We may be in a mess universally, but it helps to remember that the sun rises each morning in the eastern sky.

Have you noticed how a cold in the head becomes a cough in the chest when you are in a public gathering?

With war such a popular topic of conversation sort of puts a fellow's recent operation in the background.

A good answer to any difficult question is "yes and no."

Is there one in St. Joe to deny the sweetness of the sound of rain on the roof?

One thing nice about the census taking, it gave birth to a lot of parlor jokes.

There couldn't be anything much more tiring than announcing the same flowery radio commercial day after day.

It sounds like a clean sweep to the News readers when a burglar empties the cash register and steals the watch dog, too.

If our young folks would be as persistant as the dandelion, they might get someplace.

A good way to help with the abundant cotton crop, is for every mother to give daughter two new aprons before summer vacation.

They may complain about surplus crops, but you don't hear any hollering about surplus happiness or cash or friends.

Too many women are believers in putting a number seven foot in a number six shoe.

We have often wondered why some of these high-powered salesmen don't hold on to these sure things and make the money for themselves.

Found carrying bottles of poison, a burglar's outfit and falsified permits and stamps Gaston Maillard, a Paris electrician, was arrested in Dijon, France.

UNUSUAL TODAY

There are a number of St. Joe parents discussing the upset in a western high school where a girl refused to strip before other girls in the school gymnasium showers. The girl sought an injuction against the school authorities to prevent them from making her undress. The case will be called in July and by that time some of the feeling will subside. There are lots of girls who undress before associates in gym work and are still not bold and brazen girls. We are more aware of the various meanings of the word "modesty." Too many girls are not modest enough for their own good we know and if a girl does not want to undress publicly in her high school gym she should be allowed to have privacy perhaps. But in our opinion, the judge is going to have his hands full in July.

QUIET, PLEASE

Those cartoons of a yowling cat perched on a back-fence while a shoe goes flying through the air, or the neighborly dispute over a barking dog, are not as prevalent these days. They have given way to the annoyance of the neighbor to the loud, blaring radio. There was the youngster who practiced on the saxophone, the girl who was learning to sing. This caused unfavorable comment, perhaps. We are told that most neighborhood quarrels that find their way into the courts, come from trouble over loud radios. It is about time for all windows to be opened in St. Joe and if local radio enthusiasts would remember how sound travels, they will show consideration for folks by keeping the tone moderate.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Ordinarily those on the watch for a landslide in favor of anyone memtioned as a nominee for the Presidency, have to wait for the convention, but Washington would have it that Mr. Roosevelt already holds the nomination in his grasp, if he wishes the place. The results of the California primaries certainly boosted his stock to a high quotation. The fact that Mr. Garner was overshadowed better than six to one in the large populous Pacific coast state, is said to mean that he will receive small notice hereafter as a contender.

Following the California vote, came the visits of two committees at the White House, pledging support. That of the Iowa delegation was mildly conditional. The merits of Secretary of Agricultureal Wallace as an understanding that the choice will be switched to Mr. Roosevelt, at the wink of an eyelid. The North Carolina callers were out and out third termers, without qualification. Senator Wheeler, of Montana, formerly not without hopes and aspirations on his behalf, is quoted as saying that Mr. Roosevelt undoubtedly will be drafted, and an opinion of like import is attributed to Mr. Garner.

The rugged and popular statesman voiced a conviction having currency in many quarters; namely that the President ultimately will decline the nomination, even though he may wait for an actual tender of the honor before doing so. In that respect the Vice President may be wrong, but one of his observations may well be carried in mind by anyone, Republican or Democrat, who thinks that the Presidential pew is well cushioned. The next four years according to Mr. Garner are going to be tough for any President.

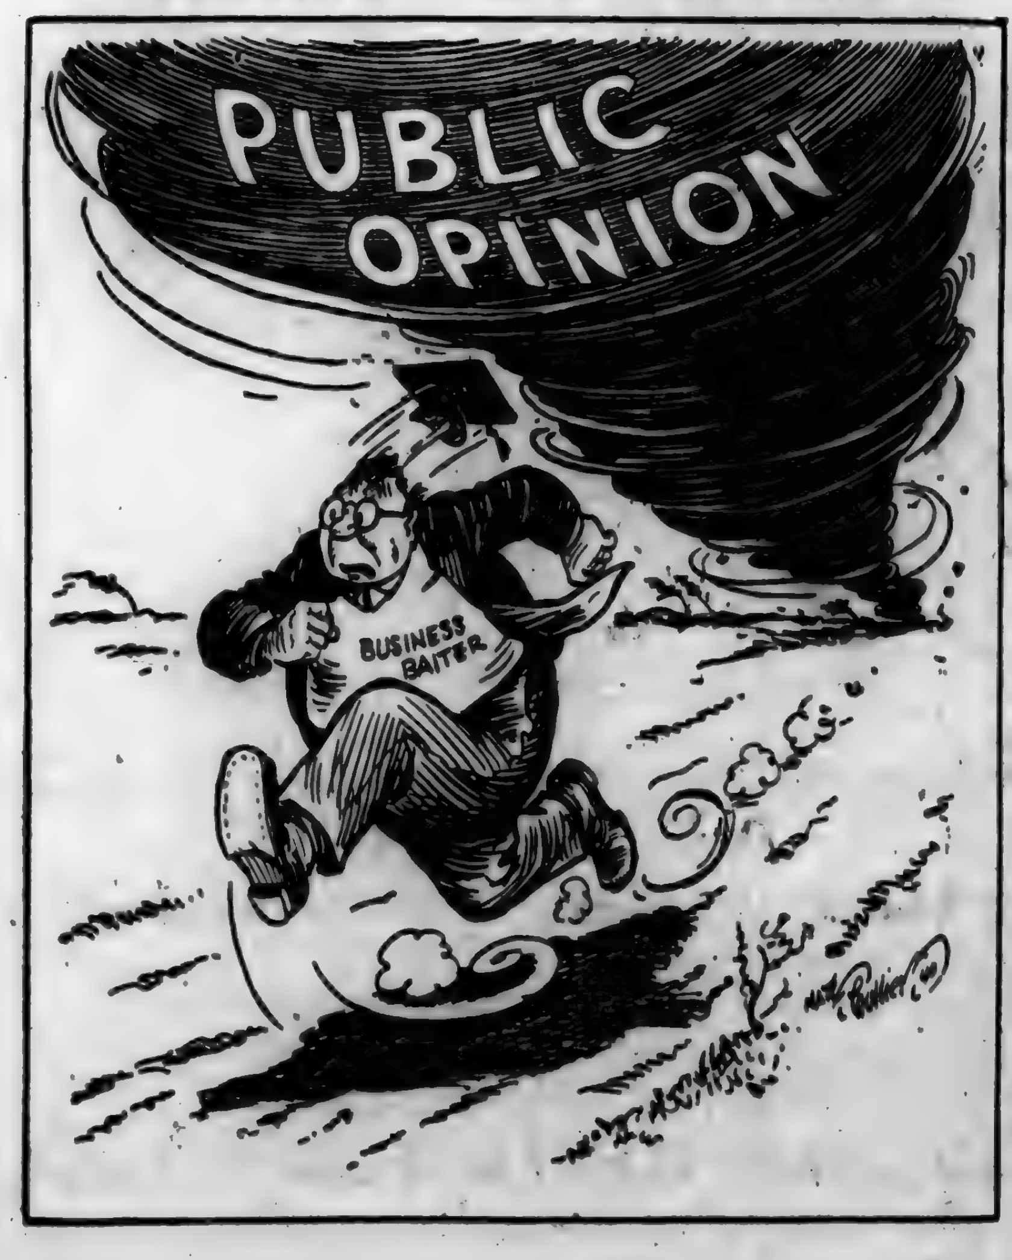
Although Mr. Roosevelt is well thought of by his party, Congress now and then manifests an inclination to have its own way. The transfer of the Civil Aeronautics Authority to the Department of Commerce, part of the reorganization plan, was refused in the House, by a vote of 232 to 153. So trustworthy a prophet as Senator Pat McCarran believes that the turn-down in the Senate will be even more violent. The Hatch Bill, recently pigeonholed in committee, has been brought to life, and has been the subject of sharp debate. By its benign working, politics will be cleared of a stigma that has long rested upon it. If the reader does not share that view, the Congressional Record provides well chosen words for his use, and the measure is a bureaucratic step toward a Hitlerian state, which must be something that is pretty bad.

The words "bad" and "Hitler" continue to be yoked together in so much of the public mind as does its thinking outside, the Reich, especially in view of what happened to Holland and Belgium. Participation of the United States in the European war is a delicate topic. Few in this country actually want it. Many do not see how it can be avoided. Arming to the teeth is commended as a patrotic duty, and condemned as an incentive to mingle in a mess with which we have no vital concern.

When the President promised Canada that the United States would go to her aid in the event of foreign invasion, it seemed that perhaps he had gone a little too far. The subsequent happenings abroad indicate that any other course would be nothing short of national suicide.

Laying aside as debatable matters, the embarkation of troops for Europe, and heavy outlays for the army and navy, the United States might well turn its attention to a little "purging", not of the German variety, based on racial distinctions, or those of religious beliefs, but on the surmise that scattered through the manufacturing plants of the country and through places where documentary information can be obtained, there are many whose real calling is that of the spy. Prompt and vigorous manhandling is in order, all doubts being resolved against the suspect.

"REAPING THE WHIRLWIND"



GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—National Republican leaders are considerably encouraged by preliminary studies of election returns from the Indiana Primary, in which all incumbent Congressmen were renominated by comfortable margins.

While GOP strategists at National Headquarters here are withholding comment on the Hoosier elections, they believe that a significant Republican trend is indicated. Their private estimates of the results, based on reports which have reached them, are as follows:

(1) Although voting was surprisingly light for a Presidential year, the Republican vote was much larger in several district than in the 1938 Primary.

(2) The Republicans apparently have lost no gronnd since the 1938 general election, when they captured a majority of the Congressional seats and won control of the lower house in the Indiana Assembly. In fact gains were reported in some sections of the State.

(3) The returns tend to substantiate earlier claims that Indiana will elect a Republican Governor and Senator next fall, and that the GOP will pick up two or three additional seats in the House of Representatives.

RETURNS from the Fourth Indiana District, where Rep. George W. Gillie won renomination by a smashing 14 to 1 majority over his nearest opponent, seem to support these Republican estimates.

In the Fourth District Primary two years ago, approximately 54,000 ballots were cast by voters in both parties. The two Republican candidates for Congress received 23,000 votes or about 42 per cent of the total.

In last week's Primary, the three Republican congressional candidates received a combined total of more than 30,000 votes out of 52,000 cast by both parties or about 58 per cent of the total vote. This represents a gain of 16 per cent.

Democrats may argue that there were factors present this year to encourage a larger Republican vote—the so-called Republican weather, for example, and the supposed advantage an incumbent congressional candidate has over his opponents.

This may be true, but the fact remains that there was a heated four-way contest for the Democratic congressional nomination, which ordinarily would serve to offset the alleged republican advantages.

FOURTH DISTRICT returns also appear to uphold the claims of GOP leaders that the Republicans have not lost ground since the 1938 November elections, when they registered sensational gains in Indiana and the entire midwest.

In the fall election two years ago, Congressman Gillie received 72,500 votes in the eight counties of the Fourth District or 59 per cent of the total vote of both parties. This was 14 per cent higher than the 1936 GOP figure.

The division of the votes in the recent Primary was about the same, with the Republicans making big gains in some counties.

In all-important Allen County, for example, Republican candidates polled 62 per cent of the total vote, while in Steuben County the figure was 85 per cent and in LaGrange County, 84 per cent. The Republicans also outvoted the Democrats in DeKalb, Noble and Whitley counties.

THIS WRITER has not forgotten his statement of two weeks ago that primaries are tricky political barometers. He still holds to this, and still contends that politicians who place too much faith in them face the danger of being sadly and surprisingly disappointed.

Observers should not forget that two years ago the situation in the Fourth District was exactely reversed. The Democrats had just outvoted the Republicans by a 3 to 2 margin. Some Democratic leaders became over confident as a result, which may partially account for their failure to "get out the vote" in November.

Republicans will do well to avoid this pitfall. They may be excused for gloating a little over the Primary returns which were definitely encouraging-but they should not use this as an excuse for relaxing their efforts and jumping to the conclusion that the fall election is already won. It isn't, by a long sight. A lot can happen in six months.

SIDELIGHTS: All but two of Indiana's 12 Congressmen—Louis Ludlow and Raymond S. Springer, returned to Indiana to vote in the Primary ...Congressman Gillie returned to Washington by train Tuesday evening, leaving just as the polls were closing. He received his first news of the election in Pittsburgh around midnight in a telegram from Mrs. Gillie. Complete results were obtained the following morning by long-distance telephone... The Halleck and Gillie returns were featured in the national news service reports of the elections...Colleagues in the House swarmed about Congressman Gillie to congratulate him on his victory. He also received personal felicitations from John D. H. Hamilton, national chairman, and other Republican leaders.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

POINTERS ON PLANTING CORN CROP ARE GIVEN

How thick to plant corn and how wide to make the rows are current problems now with corn growers as the planting season approaches, and they face the problem of dealing with fields of different fertility levels.

Getting the right population of corn plants per acre, without underplanting or over planting, is more important in obtaining high corn yields of desirable quality than overstressing single factors such as narrow spaced rows or rate in the row.

The corn grower who in recent years has found that narrowing the corn rows to less than 42 inches increased his acre yield overlooks the fact that he also has increased the number of plants per acre. Under the same fertility conditions similar results could be obtained by leaving the rows at 42 inches and planting the corn thicker in the row to give the equivalent total population.

In a test covering six years conducted at LaFayette, there was no significant difference in yield between planting at 42"x42" and 36"x42" so long as the same number of plants were used per acre in each case. Neither was there any advantage of drilled corn over hilled corn, for full season varieties, when the number of plants remained the same per acre. Drilling was of some advantage over checking when very early corn was used.

The three principal factors determining the most desirable population of plants per acre are: fertility of the soil, favorableness of the growing season, maturity and kind of corn used.

A productive soil should have more plants per acre than a poor soil. Ear size will be larger on good soil from the lighter planting but the yield will be reduced. Many times too much emphasis is placed on size of the ear and not enough attention given to a larger number of stalks carrying medium size ears, producing a larger yield. If one knew in advance whether the season was to be drouthy or favorable the problem of number of plants per acre would be much simplified. The ideal situation is to have a population that will give near a maximum yield in a very good season without lowering the yield or producing too many nubbins in a very dry season. Proper balance is difficult to obtain for the two extremes but it can be partially attained without serious loss in case of either extreme.

It is generally known that early corn should be planted heavier than late corn and that hybrids will stand heavier planting than open pollinates.

Except under very high fertility conditions where yields may go well over 100 bushels per acre it is very doubtful if the rows should be narrower than 40 inches. A good rule to follow where the rows are 40 inches to 42 inches apart with similar distances between hills in the row is to have two plants per hill on land that should produce 30 to 50 bushels of corn per acre; three plants on 50 to 75 bushel land; four plants on 75 to 100 bushel land, and five plants for higher than 100 bushel yields.

It should always be remembered, says Purdue Agronomists, that some loss of stand is unavoidable, even with the best of seed. Under good conditions the number of plants will average about 80 to 90 per cent of the number of kernels planted.

PROPAGATE WALL-EYE PIKE AT HATCHERIES

Artificial propagation of millions of wall-eye pike eggs is in progress at the Wawasee and Tri-Lakes State Fish Hatcheries, preparing for the annual restocking of Indiana lakes and streams with this popular game fish, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, announced today.

Two hundred quarts of wall-eye eggs were secured this year by the Division of Fish and Game, each quart including approximately one hundred thousand eggs. The eggs are placed in special holding tanks and then transported to lakes and streams previously selected for planting.

Wall-eye pike are among the most popular of the Indiana game fish and are found in most of the lakes and streams throughout the northern part of the state and in tributary streams of the Ohio River.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1940 NUMBER 22

75TH ANNIVERSARY MEETING AT AUBURN

The DeKalb County Sunday School Workers Are Planning Big Diamond Jubilee Convention To Be Held June 6 and 7

An event of unusual importance to the Sunday School workers of DeKalb County will be the observance of the seventy-fifth annual meeting of the County Sunday School Association, to be held in the Auburn Prsbyterian Church, Thursday and Friday, June 6th and 7th.

Seventy-five years ago the Sunday School people of that day, following the example of the state workers who had met one year prior and organized a state association, assembled in Waterloo and formed the DeKalb County Sunday School Association with Frank B. Willis, of Waterloo, as its first president. As far as the workers of today know, William Norris, of Richland township, is the only person now living, who was present at the formation of the association.

LEE C. FISHER
Director of Convention Musis

In observance of the diamond jubilee year, the county officers have planned a convention around the old time state workers, in whom every Sunday School worker has the utmost confidence, and whom most of the workers know personally from their many years of experience in the county conventions of years past. Names most familiar with the workers are those of E. T. Albertson, state general secretary, Miss Nellie C. Young, past superintendent of the children's division, and Harry G. Rowe, one time superintendent of the young people of the state. Lee C. Fisher, who led the singing in the 1938 convention, will have charge of the music again this year, assuring the convention of good music and good leadership in singing.

E. T. ALBERTSON
Secretary State Council

NELLIE C. YOUNG
Children's Activities

The diamond jubilee will be especially observed at the banquet on Thursday evening in the Presbyterian social rooms. This meeting will be in charge of Ward Jackman, of Auburn, and the principal address will be by Mr. Albertson, genial general secretary of the state association.

HARRY G. ROWE
Speaker on Friday Afternoon and Friday Evening

There will be luncheons on Thursday and Friday, more especially designed for children and young people's workers. Every Sunday School should make an effort to have their workers at these luncheons, though they will be open to every one.

Now that public school days are over, the association is expecting a larger attendance than for the past several years. Every school should have a large group from its organization. The history of the county association is being compiled by John Zimmerman, of Auburn, and will be given at the Thursday evening general session.

Word has just come from Raymond Willis, of Angola, one of the sons of the first president, that he will be present at the Thursday evening banquet and will address the meeting honoring his father and other past presidents.

The theme of the convention will be "Being Christian."

CONCORD HOME BUREAU

Mrs. Beulah Coburn was hostess for a meeting of the Home Bureau in May.

Mrs. Vada Wyatt gave a very interesting history of the author of Home On the Range, which was the opening song.

A short business session was held. $5 was voted for the Red Cross relief drive. Mrs. Iva Yeiser gave a canning demonstration. Mrs. Anna Rickett had charge of the Mother's Day program, each of the following taking part:

Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick reading, "Nobody Knows But Mother." Mother's Day contest by Mrs. Anna Rickett was won by Mrs. Myrtle Pugsley. Reading, "Ma," by Iva Yeiser. Reading by Anna Rickett, "Backward, Turn Backward." Mrs. Minnie Ulm and Mrs. Clara Sible, the project leaders, gave the month's lesson on making bed spreads. Pillow contest, which all enjoyed, was conducted by Mrs. Anna Hursey.

Mrs. Eloise Eadie and daughter, of Hicksville, and Mrs. Hugh Neiland were guests. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Mary Kinsey, Vada Wyatt and Lenna Thorp, served ice cream, cake, wafers and coffee.

The club will be the guests of WOWO broadcasting station at Fort Wayne, Jnue 4, any member desiring to go may notify Mrs. Arline Koch or Mrs. Ethel Wineland.

NOTICE

On account of Memorial Day, the Townsend Club will meet on Friday evening at 7:30 at the Town Hall. All persons who are wanting to know about the club are asked to attend.

WILLIS AND HILLIS TO LEAD INDIANA REPUBLICANS

The euphonious team of Willis and Hillis will lead Indiana Republican forces in their drive for election next November.

Raymond E. Willis, Angola publisher, was nominated for the U. S. senate by the state convention last week and Glen R. Hillis, of Kokomo, was made the party's nominee for governor.

Hillis was nominated on the second ballot when the delegates of county after county stampeded spectacularly to his banner. He had built up a lead of 840 votes on the first ballot as compared with only 509 for his nearest competitor, State Senator William E. Jenner, of Shoals.

On the second ballot the large counties, as well as most of the smaller ones, began leaping on the Hillis bandwagon. Lake county, the second largest in the state, gave him 114 of its 116 votes and then Marion county (Indianapolis) sent its solid delegation of 236 votes to him. This gave Hillis the necessary majority for victory and the convention then made the nomination unanimous by acclamation.

The party's ticket for the 1940 election is:

U. S. Senator, Raymond E. Willis, of Angola.

Governor, Glen R. Hillis, of Kokomo.

Lieutenant - Governor, Charles M. Dawson, of Indianapolis.

Secretary of State, James M. Tucker, of Paoli, renominated.

State Treasurer, James Givens, of Porter county.

State Auditor, Richard T. James, of Portland.

Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. C. T. Malan, of Terre Haute.

Supreme Court, second district, Frank Richman, of Columbus.

Appellate Court, first district, Dan Flanagan, of Fort Wayne.

Appellate Court, second district, Edgar Blessing, of Danville.

Reporter of the Supreme and Appellate Courts, Mrs. Marjorie Kinnaird, of Indianapolis.

Willis was the party's nominee for the senate in 1938 and was defeated by Sen. Frederick VanNuys by 5,000 votes. He was not opposed and won the nomination although Walter Bossert, of Liberty and Straude E. Wiseman, of New Albany had announced before the convention that they would be candidates.

Hillis is a Kokomo lawyer and business man. He sought the gubernatorial nomination in 1936 but was defeated by Raymond Springer and worked toward nomination this year ever since. He is a graduate of Indiana University, spent 18 months in France with the American expeditionary force during the World War and is the father of four children. His wife is the daughter of Elwood Haynes, pioneer automobile manufacturer.

Indiana's 28 delegates to the national convention were uninstructed although it appeared probable that a majority would be cast for Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, on the ballot. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, will capture a few votes. Wendell Willkie, a native Hoosier, and Sen. Arthur Vandenburg, of Michigan, will get a vote or two apiece.

The Indiana delegation probably would go for Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, keynote speaker of the state convention, if his name was placed before the convention.

Roger W. Babson, the Massachusetts statistician was nominated without opposition Friday as the Prohibition Party's candidate for President. In presenting Babson's name to the party's national convention, George L. Thompson of Boston, chairman of the Massachusetts state committee, asserted he was offering the Prohibitionists "leadership of character." The nomination of the man whose views have largely guided the convention in the adoption of a platform evoked a 10-minute demonstration by the 230 delegates.

The candidates at the primary last Tuesday now have the duty of filing reports of their expenses in the office of County Clerk Carl Walter. The corrupt practices act provides that candidates for all offices paying $100 or more a year must submit a report in writing, forms being furnished by the county clerk. The penalty for failure to comply is severe, being a fine of $300 to $2,000 or imprisonment of not more than a year, or both. Misstatements are held under the law of perjury. The reports must be made within thirty days after the primary and they become public property. The reports must be itemized and sworn to before an officer authorized to administer oaths.

MORTUARY

WALTER

Henry Allen, the youngest son of Jefferson and Margaret Whan Walter, was born in Mahoning County, Ohio, on September 5, 1852, and departed this life May 12, 1940. He was the last one of a family of ten children.

On August 17, 1864, he moved with his parents to Springfield Township, Allen County, Indiana.

On June 22, 1882 he was united in marriage to Samantha Alice Davis. Then went to housekeeping on a farm near by. This remained his home the rest of his life.

To this union was born four children. Three sons and a daughter. They also reared a nephew, Arthur Walter. He was a member of the Spencerville Lutheran Church.

He leaves to mourn his departure, a daughter, Emma F., at home, and three sons, Roscoe, Henry, and Martin, all in and near Spencerville, also a foster son, Arthur Walter, of Sanger, California. Besides other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held Wednesday of last week at 3 P. M. (C. D. T.) at the residence, with the Rev. Frank Stevenson officiating assisted by Bro. J. N. Scholes. Burial in Leo Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and words of sympathy in our recent bereavement.

CONCORD LADY DIES FROM FALLING DOWN STAIRS

Mable Irene Jackson, 45, of Concord, died Thursday from injuries received when she fell down stairs during the morning. Death was almost instantaneous.

Mrs. Jackson had left her daughter asleep upstairs in the morning, and going out of doors for a short time upon her return to the house found Mable at the foot of the stairs. It is believed she fell from the top step.

Howard Clark, DeKalb county deputy coroner, was called to conduct the inquest.

The body was brought to St. Joe and prepared for burial at Kinsey funeral home when on Saturday afternoon the services were conducted from the Concord Methodist Church, at 2:30, by Rev. L. E. Clayton and burial was made in St. Joe K. of P. Riverside Cemetery.

Mable had been tenderly cared for by her family for many years and she will be greatly missed because of such ties. She leaves her mother, Mrs. Valeria Jackson, and one brother, Ford, who lives on the Jackson farm west of Concord.

Mable Irene, daughter of Charles and Valeria Timmerman Jackson was born November 13, 1890. She passed away very suddenly May 23, 1940 at the age of 49 years, 6 months and 10 days. Due to her affliction she spent her entire life in the parental home. She united with the Concord church at an early age and as long as she was able attended Sunday School and church regularly.

Mable had many friends far and near and appreciated everything they did for her.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their beautiful floral offerings as expressions of sympathy and good will and for their helpfulness.

Mrs. Valeria Jackson.
Ford Jackson and Family.

ST. JOE MAN DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Mr. J. Frank Potrer passed away suddenly Thursday night of a heart attack. While he had been poorly, yet he was about town on Thursday evening. Mrs. Porter stated that he passed away without a struggle. Burial was made at St. Joe Monday afternoon from the home with burial in K. of P. cemetery, conducted by Rev. Milton Fronsoe of Waldron, Mich., assisted by Rev. Richard Key, local pastor of Church of Christ. Mrs. Porter and 3 daughters survive.

A church 30x50 will be constructed in Auburn by the Christian Scientists at a cost of $5,500, on a lot purchased some ten years ago at corner of Jackson and Fourteenth Street. The building is to be completed by October 1.

NICHOLLS

Robert Nicholls, the son of Simon and Catherine Robertson Nicholls was born in Newville township, DeKalb county on April 15, 1867. Here he grew to manhood and became a tiller of the soil, in which occupation he was engaged most of his life with the exception of a few years spent in the milling business. He moved to his home in Orangeville after his marriage on June 6, 1897 to Bird C. Roberts, daughter of William and Parlia Woodbury Roberts. To this union were born three children all of whom survive him, Simon of near Butler, Mrs. Parlia Hull of St. Joe and Mrs. Madalene Lemmon, of Kendallville.

In 1917 under the pastorate of Rev. Edward Hively he united with the U. B. church at Newville to which he remained a faithful member. He was a member of the Wm. Hacker Lodge, F. & A. M. at Newville until that lodge was disbanded, and then transferred his membership to the Butler lodge. He had been in poor health the past two or three years and the loss of his wife and companion on May 30 of last year was a great blow to him However, with the help of his brother-in-law, Preston Roberts, he had tried his best to keep what was left of his home together for the past year..

But the great Creator willed his work was done and he passed from this life on May 25, 1940 at the age of 73 years, 1 month and 10 days.

Beside the children above mentioned he leaves to survive him three sisters: Mrs. Eva Landers, of Atlanta, Georgia, Mrs. Martha Stanley of Buffalo, N. Y., and Miss Mary Nicholls, of Newville, one sister, Mrs. Nettie Hablewetz, having gone to the Great Beyond some years ago; nine grandchildren, besides many other relatives and friends.

Another home on this earth is now gone but gone to be a part of that Great Home on High where some day we shall all be united and sorrow is no more.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. O. P. Givens, of Newville U. B. Church Tuesday at 2:30 P. M., at the home. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rupp, of Archbold, Ohio, funeral directors.

TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Krabill, of two miles north of St. Joe, will be celebrated on June 7, at their home. Arrangements are being made to celebrate the event during the day and guests will be made welcome. A shower of cards is also being planned so that those who are unable to call at the home, can take part in the event by mail, by extending greetings to this couple who have lived in this community all their lives.

4-H CLUBS NOW ORGANIZED FOR SUMMER

Over 500 girls are now enrolled in 4-H club work in DeKalb County. An increase of over 287 in number. Ten new clubs have been organized in the county.

In Concord township, Mrs. Allen Haller is the senior leader; Carroll Reed and Evelyn George, junior leaders. The club will be known as the Get-To-Gether Club, with an enrollment of 31.

Jackson township senior leader is Mrs. Wesley Carper; Cordelia Diederich, junior leader; 4-H Hustlers Club, with 29 enrolled.

Mrs. John Washler is senior leader of Newville township and Sylvia Washler, junior leader. The name, Willing Workers Club; enrollment, 25.

Spencer township group will be known as the Priscilla Prim Club, with 17 enrolled. Miss Eva Mae Schwartz is senior leader, and Donna Mae Washler, junior leader.

4-H clubs give training in a variety of fields, including leadership, sportsmanship, responsibility in conducting meetings, writing news stories, leading songs and recreational groups, keeping accurate records and satisfaction of individual achievement in completing the club projects. Recreation is also a valuable part of the club program for it is of great importance to learn to play and enjoy friends.

The cost of living has advanced 20 per cent in Italy in the last year.

The twilight Memorial service was attended by a fair crowd Sunday evening. The threatening weather no doubt kept many local people from attending. Appropriate legion services were conducted at the monument with Rev. L. E. Clayton, Rev. Richard Key, and Rev. O. P. Givens. The color bearers, firing squad, girl scouts, band and children made up the parade to the cemetery.

HERRICK RESTAURANT SOLD TO A HICKSVILLE, OHIO, MAN

Frank Laub, of Hicksville, Ohio, has purchased the Dan Herrick restaurant at Auburn, and will open it the first part of June after remodeling and redecorating. Mr. Laub lives on a farm near Hicksville and owns a meat market-grocery store in that city.

Mr. Herrick has operated a restaurant at his present location in Auburn for the past fourteen years and has been in this business since 1904. Prior to that time he served a term as DeKalb county recorder, and was a resident of St. Joe at time of his election to the county office.

Mrs. Stella Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herick, and family, who have been living in an apartment above the restaurant, will move to the Herrick residence, 208 East Sixth Street.

A NEW FOOD

The advent of greenery throughout the countryside is a sight to please all eyes. The sound of a lawn mower is a pleasure that only those who have gone through a trying winter, can appreciate. These states where grass stays green the year 'round, cannot know of the glorious vision of a green lawn after months of snow and slush-ridden terraces. There also arrives the task of exterminating the weeds that prosper and many a home spends many an hour digging dandelions from the lawn.

As we view grass from an artistic standpoint this year, bear in mind that recent research has found grass to be good as food and high in vitamin content. We believe this and hope they get the subject down to more palatable stages for it is going to be mighty hard to make St. Joe folk swallow gras in its nativv state! It will take a deal of sanlemanship. It seems practical however, that anything so full of sunshine element as grass should be healthful as a food. A dog has known this for a long time, as well as cows, sheep, and horses. Man is sometimes slow to catch on.

OVERDOING IT

On one hand we are told that women go in for exercise too violently, that they don't take it in easy doses but jump into physical activity with a vengance. On the other hand we see that women in St. Joe are active so much during a day's labor in their homes that the excercising they might do outside could not be more strenuous. They have been warming up for sports doing vigorous housework. A mother of a family will convince you that one day of activity on her home grounds doing regular tasks is as much exercise as a game of golf, tennis or bowling.

DEAD AND GONE

This suggestion may only concern you during the holiday season when you are mailing packages and letters in quantities, but the postoffices throughout the land can testify that their dead letter office is used through your carelessness during the year. There are hundreds of thousands of letters that are mailed without any addresses on them and a hundred times that many that are misdirected or poorly written. There are drafts and money orders and checks that find their way into the dead letter office and are never claimed. If you can't remember to put pour return address on every piece of mail you write, have some envelopes printed with a return on them. We do it at News office at a very small cost.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Possibly the salient points of Col. Lindbergh's speech were no more than two in number. They were, first, that the United States can live in honorable peace with the victor in the existing European war, no matter who the victor may be. Second, extensive preparations for defense should not be undertaken until a plan has been worked out, into which those preparations will fit: and it is necessary that we first make up our minds whether the job in hand consists in safeguarding the United States only, or in participating in an international movement for the protection of the entire North and South American area.

There is a degree of force in the objection that Col. Lindbergh is not qualified by experience to pass upon matters of high national or international consequence, and some of those who attack him seem to be under the same condemnation. One thing is certain. He cannot be held up as a diplomat of the first rank, nor does he have the ability, or maybe the inclination, to pick the popular and winning side.

As to the Colonel's two major theses, the first is the more difficult to sustain by argument. The people at large have come to feel that, no matter what anyone says, ultimate German victory abroad will do the United States no good. Scattered through English literature are numerous references to the security that Nature has given to Britain by encircling her with the ocean. If supporters of the "sea girt" theory were alive today, probably doings along the continental shore of the Channel would lead them to think that their writings were in need of editing. The United States is subject to no such menace in degree, but certainly the danger is of the same sort.

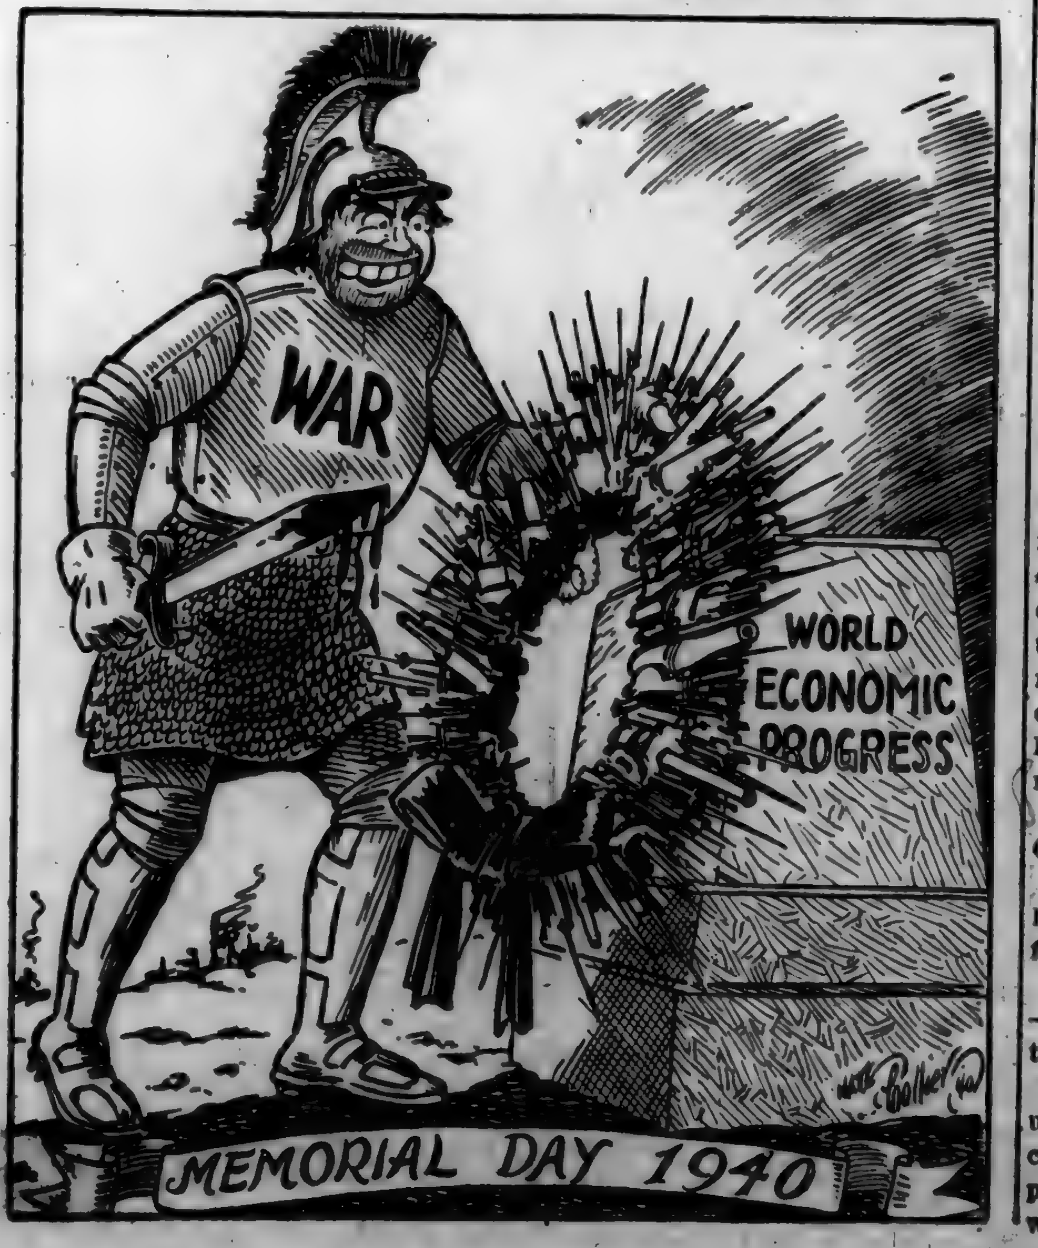
A person who told the War Office strategists of Queen Victoria's time that Germans would fly over like birds and drop bombs, would have been segregated for mental observation. Those who now urge that within ten years, wholesale and large scale air crossing of the Atlantic will be quite as practical as spanning the strait that separates England from the European mainland, cannot be rewarded justly by a sojourn in an insane asylum.

Regarding the second theorem, Mr. Lindbergh's feet rest upon soil that is closer to the rock. To pile up materials of defense in the absense of a well considered system whereby they may be made of use, does not appear on its face to be an act of wisdom. Such a plan already may be in existence, but if that is true, it is being held in secrecy, and perhaps wisely.

The propriety of preparation in the head as well as in the machine shop, is adequately illustrated by the success that has attended German activities of the past few weeks. Although the admission will have to be made grudgingly, it must be said that the Fuehrer so far has moved steadily forward and has the upper hand. He has done so not merely because he has an ample supply of machinery, but as well because he had a definite concept as to what he was going to do with it.

President Theodore Roosevelt once referred to someone as a Byzantine logothete, a pondeorus phrase that sent readers scurrying to the books. Relying upon memory, the Byzantine logothetes were officials who wrote letters and worked out plans while the empire went to pieces. It may be best after all to collect as much defensive stock as possible, and "when and if" occasion for its use arrives, at least the country will not be caught empty handed. Perhaps, since the brain can work faster than the hand, it may be relied upon to do quickly and efficiently what the emergency demands.

PLACING THE WREATH



GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Agriculture is Big Business—in fact the biggest business—in the eight Northeastern Indiana counties which comprise the Fourth District, according to an agricultural analysis prepared by Congressman George W. Gillie.

It has a capital investment of $100,000,000.

It boasts 19,500 separate farm establishments, with an average value of $4,400.

It supports a farm population of more than 85,000 persons.

And it supplies the Nation each year with 7,000,000 bushels of corn, 3,000,000 bushels of wheat and oats, 2,000,000 bushels of potatoes, 40,000,000 gallons of milk, 1,000,000 pounds of butter, and 9,000,000 dozens of eggs.

Yes, agriculture in Northeastern Indiana is Big Business—with capital letters—a business which supports the social fabric of every city, village and crossroads community in the territory.

REALIZING THIS, Congressman Gillie, a farmer himself, several months ago set out to obtain a picture of agriculture in each of the eight counties he represents. He called upon the departments of Commerce and Agriculture and other Government agencies for exact facts and figures. These he compiled into handy tables for ready reference.

Among other things, Congressman Gillie learned:

(1) That 98 per cent of the total land area in the Fourth District is in farms.

(2) That one-half of the land area—or 1,000,000 acres—is under cultivation.

(3) That 91 per cent of the acreage under cultivation is in four major crops—Corn (31 per cent,) hay (27 per cent,) oats (17 per cent,) and wheat (16 parcé nt.)

(4) That the acreage in two minor crops—soybeans (now in fifth place) and sugar beets—is rapidly increasing.

(5) That other important crops are barley, rye, potatoes, fruits and vegetables.

(6) That the livestock and poultry population is approximately—Swine, 230,000; cattle and calves, 165,000; sheep and lambs, 161,000, and chickens, 2,500,000.

(7) That the dairy industry alone produces enough milk each year to provide about six quarts to every family in the United States.

(8) That enough eggs are produced each year to provide three dozen to every resident of the state of Indiana.

(9) That 1,000,000 pounds of wool are produced annually.

(10) That of the 19,500 farms, 9,876 are operated by full owners, 6,673 by tenants, 3,148 by part owners, and 96 by managers.

ONE OF Congressman Gillie's tables present a picture of the average farm in his District. Glance at the figures and see how they compare with your farm:

Size—97 acres; value, $4,400; persons on farm, four; land available for crops, 73 acres; land under cultivation, 54 acres.

Division of land under cultivation—Corn, 17 acres; hay, 15 acres; oats, 9 acres; wheat, 9 acres; all other crops, 4 acres.

Division of land not under cultivation—Plowable pasture, 13 acres; woodland pasture, 10 acres; other pasture, 5 acres; idle crop land, 6 acres; other land, 9 acres.

Livestock and poultry—Cattle and calves, 8; sheep and lambs, 8; swine, 11; chickens, 130.

ANOTHER TABLE shows the relative acreage alloted to principal crops in the eight counties of the District. The number one crop, of course, is corn, with 325,000 acres under cultivation.

Next in order are—Hay (mostly timothy, clover and alfalfa,) 285,000 acres; oats, 181,000 acres; wheat, 168,000 acres; soybeans, 41,000 acres; potatoes, 15,000 acres; fruits (orchards and vineyards,) 11,000 acres; rye, 9,000 acres ,and vegetables, (exclusive of potatoes,) 9,000 acres.

OF WHAT VALUE are these statistics to a Congressman, you ask? Plenty! But let Congressman Gillie tell you about it in his own words:

"This analysis enables me to tell at a glance what agricultural activities are of the most importance to my farm constituents.

"It enables me to challenge the interest of these constituents and point out to them what legislation or government policies are beneficial and destructive of their interests.

"It also enables me to compare competitive agricultural imports as to classification and quantity with the farm products of my District. While the New Deal attempts to minimise the effects of these imports, it is of interest to my farmers to know how much of their market is taken by these competitive imports.

"In other words, this analysis gives me a complete picture of the economic interests of my whole district, or any individual county, and enables me to better represent these interests in the Congress of the United States."

Plenty of WATER...
pumped ELECTRICALLY

WITH an Electric Pump, the most remote farm has city water service with water for stock and for the house. There it is, right where you want it, when you want it, and plenty of it. Just turn a faucet or press a switch!

No backaches from pumping and carrying water to the house and to the stock. Higher milk and egg production from cows and poultry supplied with ample water. Greater profits from irrigated fields. Fire protection . . . alone worth many times the slight expense of installation. Both your farm and your family will be benefited by an adequate water system.

FROM ABOUT ST. JOE

Mr. and Mrs. Cam Scott are working for Edna Shroyer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Draggoo, of Fort Wayne, were in town Friday.

The Red Cross relief drive is short of their allotment at Auburn and Garrett.

The U. S. mail changed time this week or in other words, adopted the daylight schedule.

The Democratic state convention will be held June 27 and the men seeking political recognition are hard at work.

The personal property of the late Diadem Bone was sold at auction last Saturday by S. A. Mumaw, administrator.

The name "John Deere" on a tractor stands for top value all the way through. Burgoyne's Hardware, Hicksville, Ohio, 6tf.

Mr. and Mrs. Ercil Steward and Jeanne Hatch, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests in the home of Mrs. Mary Betz and Mrs. Ada Berry.

Mrs. Verdi Hollinger, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hollinger and two daughters, of Grant, Michigan, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee.

We learned last week that Mrs. Peter Pontius, of Elkhart, sister of John Wineland, had broken her wrist when in Chicago a few weeks ago, caused by falling.

Ray Means, of west of St. Joe, who has been a patient in the Lutheran hospital at Fort Wayne, was brought home Monday afternoon. He underwent a lung operation.

Rev. Richard Key and wife moved to St. Joe last week and are living in the Leighty brick house. Rev. Key is serving St. Joe and Coburn's Corners churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray Woodcox and family, of Garrett, and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Woodcox and family, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woodcox and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sechler and daughter, of Kendallville, and Robert Sechler and family were Saturday evening guests in the Ralph Sechler home. John and family remained for Sunday.

The residence property of Mrs. Alice Copp, deceased, was sold last week to Day Brothers, of Edgerton, Ohio. A transfer of the papers has been completed by the administrator, B. V. Widney, of Columbia City.

Mrs. S. E. Knisley, who has been in a serious condition, remains about the same. She has been cared for by her daughters, Mrs. Mary Snellenbarger and Mrs. Mable Littlefield at the Littlefield home at Concord.

Mrs. W. B. Cox and two children, of Rising Sun, Ind., were Saturday and Sunday guests of F. B. Leighty and wife. They are spending a few weeks with her parents near Howe, Ind., and in the Cox home at Helmer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham are spending a few days in the home of C. J. Foltz near Leipsic, Ohio, and also at the Foltz cottage at the State Dam. While there will make their annual trip to the Leipsic Cemetery.

The clean-up about town proved quite successful last Friday, as many loads of trash were taken to the city dump. Other forms of cleaning up could be made by mowing and triming the lawns regularly. There is nothing so noticeable and pleasing to the passerby.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Key, a son, Richard Lee, at Sanders Hospital, Auburn, on Friday, May 24. The Keys are new residents of St. Joe, moving a few days ago into the Leighty home on Main Street and they will serve the Coburntown and St. Joe Church of Christ.

We have on display another egg weighing 3½ ounces, brought in by Mrs. Donald Hart, excelling our first entry in smoothness and being a dark color. If you can beat that, just bring it in but remember no entries are returnable and all become the property of the St. Joe News.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter and family left Sunday for a visit with relatives thro' the West. Their daughter, Margaret, who the past year has been associated with the office force of the Sacramento Fire Adjustment Bureau, will return home with them. Mr. Walter leaves his business in the hands of a competent Funeral Director, other reliable men and employees. He expects to return about the first of July.

Mrs. Lee Smith, of Portsmouth, O., is here the guest of her sister, Mrs. Hattie Stone and taking care of her since her return from the hospital last Wednesday. Mrs. Stone is improving from her injuries received when she drove her car into a Wabash train at the east side of Butler, a couple of weeks ago. In calling on her, she stated that she will be required to rest for several weeks. Her brother, Judson Davis, and family, of Chicago, were recent visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. George Berry, of Richmond, Ind., recently visited with his mother, Mrs. Ada Berry, and aunt, Mrs. Mary Betz.

Maurice Hollabaugh is nursing a sore right hand caused by running a copper wire into it last week. Within a few hours his hand had swollen quite bad.

Week end callers in the Laney Gee home were Mr. and Mrs. George Cotrill and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hose, of Butler, and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jarrett and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Brown and children, of Elkhart, spent last week end here with Mr. and Mrs. John Hart. Page Brown remained for a longer visit with his grandparents.

A shipment of 200 baby chick pheasants will be received by the local Conservation Club next Saturday. Lester and John Coburn have taken charge of the rearing of the birds, and they will be brooded in the new electric brooder constructed by the club a few weeks ago.

Eighty-five casters took part in the intertsate tournament held at the east side park in Garrett Sunday and the number of spectators was estimated at 400. Trophies were awarded to two teams with the highest scores, these being Gary Casting Club No. 1, with 462 and Chicago Casting Club No. 1, with 457.

Rev. Frank Stevenson and a group of fifteen young people from the Lutheran churches at Butler, St. Joe and Spencerville, had charge of the services Sunday evening at the Auburn Lutheran Church. The youth conference at Wittenberg College was discussed. A social hour followed in the basement of the church and the senior choir served refreshments.

Plans have been completed by the Charles Foster Blaker Post of the American Legion for the observance of Memorial Day in Butler, May 30. Different from previous years, the program will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, preceded by a parade. The Rev. Frank Stevenson, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical Church, of Butler, will deliver the address.

Poppy sales according to Mrs. Lehr Wilder for the local Auxiliary will amount to over $70 for the 700 alloted the local sale. At time of getting the information $66.67 had been turned in with the sale of 45 not being accounted for. The response was very good, people seeming eager to do their share in contributing the money which is used for the care of disabled veterans and their families and child welfare.

In order that The News readers may be informed as to what happened to the paper last week, we wish to say that the editor was laid up at home and no paper was printed. The many calls made us feel that The News is really a necessity in the homes of its readers. Thanks a lot for calling and we will do our best to see you each week hereafter, and have our pleasant weekly chat with you and the family.

Sunday callers in the Ray Littlefield home at Concord were Miss Leatha Snellenbarger of Alma, Mich., Rev. Leslie Sperry, of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. George Knisley and daughter, Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Warner and daughters, Beverly and Virginia, of Auburn Junction, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wells and sons, Cecil Jr., and Bobbie Lee, and Miss Marcella Littlefield of east of Garrett and Noah Gibson, of Huntertown.

Henry David Renner, 71, for fifty years a resident of DeKalb county, and living in Smithfield township, northeast of Waterloo, died Monday morning in the Garrett hospital after 12 years of poor health. Surviving besides the widow are seven children, Mrs. Gertrude Sherer, of Chicago, Mrs. Alice Fee, of Hamilton, Howard, of Manilla, Ind., Mrs. Helen Hughes, of near Delaware, Ohio, Walter, of DeKalb, Illinois, Mrs. Sarah Hughes, of Joliet, Ill., and Mrs. Florence Husted, living at home; a brother, Isaac Renner, of Steuben county and 14 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at Barker's Chapel Church with Rev. Harley Shady, of Ashley officiating. Burial in the Waterloo cemetery. Mrs. Husted taught in the local schools last year and Howard Renner taught here a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gablick, of Niles, Michigan, and Mrs. Mollie Prudie and son, Bob, of Berrien Springs, Michigan, were Sunday guests in the Joe Gablick home.

POPPY POSTER CONTEST SPONSORED BY LEGION

Garrett students won both high school and grade classes in the district poppy poster contest sponsored by the American Legion in which eleven were entered.

Mrs. Clark Schoels, of St. Joe, was the district chairman and a meeting was held at the home of the district president of the Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. D. M. Reynolds, Garrett, Thursday evening. Wilford Rice, supervisor of the poster department of the Messenger Corp. at Auburn, Mrs. Leslie Wilbern, wife of the principal of the St. Joe high school and a former art teacher, and Dean Bechtol, of Garrett, served as the judges.

The poster which won first prize was one depicting No Man's Land, with the blue heavens above and a poppy growing out of the war torn country. Written across the poster was "Help Disabled Veterans." The drawing submitted by Miss Kelly was a Red Cross nurse giving aid to soldiers, one in a wheeled chair, one with a broken arm and one on a stretcher. The poster had an inscription across the bottom, "American Legion.

Posters were submitted by students in the high schools at LaGrange, Angola, Waterloo, Churubusco, Decatur, Bluffton, South Side, Fort Wayne, Kendallville, and St. Joe.

Royce Rose was winner of the high school entrants and Opal Kelly of the grades.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly,
You can hunt till you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by.
Till the forms are off the presses it is strange how still it keeps;
It shrinks down into a corner and it never stirs or peeps,
That typographical error, too small for human eyes,
Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.
The boss, he stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans;
The copyreader drops his head upon his hands and moans—
The remainder of the issue may be clean as it can be,
But that typographical error is the only thing you see.

Double Tulip Blooms Here Also

A writer in the News-Sentinel one evening last week mentioned the fact that he possessed a curiosity in the form of a double tulip, two perfect flowers on one stock. No sooner had this appeared in print; than two St. Joe News readers reported the same curiosity in their flower garden. Mrs. Zay Sailer in St. Joe and Elizabeth Hart, of Coburn's Corners likewise claim honors in this same class.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION WILL BE HELD JUNE 12, 13, 14

Plans for seventy-sixth annual state Sunday school convention, sponsored by the Indiana Council of Christian Education, are well on the way. This is to be held in Grant county at Marion, June 12, 13, and 14. E. T. Albertson, general secretary of the Indiana council located at Indianapolis, is arranging the usual high-type three day program. Both national and state leaders will appear on this program.

Rev. Jack Jones, field representative for the Indiana council, has visited the Grant county churches, appearing at the executive committee meetings to give the high lights of the coming event.

The Grant county executive committee is making plans to house about 1,200 delegates. The first Methodist church at Marion has been named as convention headquarters where mass meetings will be held, where people will register and be assigned to homes and where a large assortment of literature from denominational boards will be on display.

The memorial coliseum at Marion, scene of Marion's Easter pageant, will be the meeting place for the evening mass meetings.

Marion's fourth annual vacation church schools, held in the public school buildings, will be in session during the time of the convention. About 900 children were enrolled last year and the number this year is expected to exceed that of last year. Delegates are privileged to visit these schools.

Plans are being made for delegates to visit the veteran's hospital sometime during the convention.

The downtown churches in Marion are being assigned to mass meetings, departmental conferences and banquets.

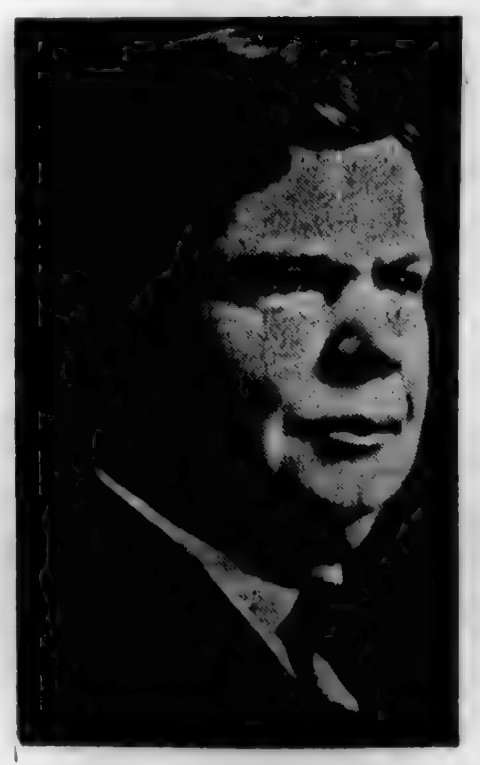
JUBILEE BANQUET TO BE HELD ON JUNE 6

Raymond Willis Will be Speaker At the Big Event in Connection with the Sunday School Convention in Auburn

Raymond Willis, of Angola, will be the principal speaker at the jubilee banquet which will be the high-light of the 75th annual convention of the DeKalb County Sunday School Association in Auburn. Mr. Willis is a son of Frank Willis, who, seventy-five years ago, served as the first president of the organisation.

The convention theme, "Being Christian," will be followed at this diamond jubilee banquet, honoring the living past officers of the association. In addition to the main address there will be remarks by the several past officers who will be in attendance, special music by Ray Upson, of Pleasant Lake, who was secured to take the place of Lee C. Fisher, who informed the committee Saturday that he could not attend, and many other entertaining and inspirational features. The toastmaster for the banquet will be Robert Raub, of Auburn.



The banquet will be held at the Auburn Presbyterian Church Thursday evening, June 6, and will start at 6:30 DST. The price of the tickets will be 40 cents.

On Friday noon a children's luncheon will be served in convention church and at 6:30 Friday evening a young people's dinner will be served in the Church of Christ dining room, and all are invited to enjoy these special events of the two days convention.

MORTUARY

PORTER

Joseph Franklin Porter, born July 1, 1873, passed away May 24, 1940 at his home at the age of 66 years, 10 months, and 24 days. He was the son of Joseph and Margaret Porter, and was born in St. Joseph Township, Allen County, Indiana.

He was married to Josie Maud Fleming on October 25, 1899. To this union were born four daughters, Mrs. A. L. Strupp, Mrs. Albert A. Dirks, Mrs. Albert A. Moore, and Mrs. H. Lyle McMaken.

Ten grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. John Monninger and Mrs. Emanuel Kiser, survive, besides a host of friends to mourn his departure.

Funeral services were conducted from the home on Monday afternoon, by Rev. Milton Fronsoe, of Waldron, Mich., assisted by Rev. Richard Key, local pastor. Burial in Riverside Cemetery, St. Joe.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of May 23 showed the the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

Expenditures	$8,457,468,262.06
Receipts	$5,084,647,655.98
In the hole	$3,372,820,606.08

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,786,583,540.89.

Your per capita share of that debt is $329.13.

ASKING ADDITIONAL WAR RELIEF FUNDS

An appeal for additional war relief funds has been received by Ralph Griest, of Garrett, chairman of the DeKalb County Red Cross. The county is asked to double its previous quota of $2,000, the national oraganization declaring that $10,000,000 will not be sufficient to take care of the refugees.

The message to Mr. Griest from Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, follows:

"The tragic events of the past two weeks have made it necessary for the American Red Cross to increase its war relief fund goal from ten million to twenty million dollars, thus doubling your quota. Twenty million dollars is a maximum figure. The only maximum limit is the generosity of the American people.

"We expect that this fund will enable us to carry through our war relief operations for the balance of the year, and that there will be no further special appeals before next Winter. We should make every effort to complete this campaign within the next thirty days.

"I am deeply appreciative of the loyal support of our chapter leaders in this great emergency. It is in keeping with the highest traditions of the Red Cross and with the expectations of the American people."

Residents of DeKalb county who have given to the fund are asked to make additional donations and those who have not contributed are urged to do so at once, remembering that double the previous amount is needed. Donations should be given to persons who solicited in the first appeal or taken to the City National bank in Auburn.

HEARING ON ASSESSMENTS

The DeKalb County Board of Review have the following schedule for hearing complaints from the taxing units of DeKalb County:

Tuesday, June 4—Jackson and Butler Townships.

Wednesday, June 5—Corunna, Richland and Fairfield Townships.

Thursday, June 6—Garrett City and Keyser Township.

Friday, June 7—Auburn City and Union Township.

Saturday, June 8—Butler City, Wilmington and Stafford Townships.

Monday, June 10—Ashley, Smithfield and Franklin Townships.

Tuesday, June 11—St. Joe, Concord and Newville Townships.

Wednesday, June 12—Spencerville and Spencer Township.

Thursday, June 13—Waterloo and Grant Township.

The township assessors will please be present on the date respective township is scheduled for hearing.

YOUNG FARM MOTHER DIES OF CARCINOMA

Funeral services for Mrs. Mildred McCann, 44, wife of George McCann of four miles north-west of St. Joe, at Coleman's Corners, were held at 2 o'clock (DST) Tuesday afteroon at the Newville Christion Church with Rev. J. O. Rose officiating. Interment followed in the Newville Cemetery.

Mrs. McCann died Saturday afternoon at 2:10 o'clock at the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne, where she had been a patient for the past seven weeks. Carcinoma was the cause of death.

Born September 9, 1895, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sebert, Mrs. McCann spent her entire lifetime in DeKalb county. She and George McCann were united in marriage September 28, 1912. Her church affiliation was with the Church of Christ.

She is survived by her husband, seven children, Mrs. Charles Oberlin, of Butler, Donald McCann of Auburn, and Jessie, Josephine, James, Marshall and Martha Jean, all at home, and three grandchildren.

ST. JOE VALLEY MEN GUESTS OF LIONS CLUB AT DINNER

Fourty-four Auburn Lions and guests met Monday night at Akins' Tea Room in St. Joe for the regular weekly meeting. Guests, prominent residents of St. Joe and Spencerville, were: Fred B. Leighty, Dr. B. O. Shook, Merritt Sechler, Ralph Sechler, Frank Bowman, Clyde G. Rectenwall, William Erick and DuWayne Kinsey.

During the business meeting John Wynne and Del Armstrong were named to serve two-year terms on the board of directors replacing Rolland Pearse and Carl Romeiser. Other men elected to responsible offices for the year were George M. Kelley, William Husselman, Frank Nicolai, William Roeder, G. A. Russell, Sam Landy, Herman Brown, Charles Shellenbarger, Arthur Haynes, and R. H. Wertenbarger. Forrest Gerig, president of the club during the past year, will serve as ex-officio member of the board.

Clyde Hart, of south-east of St. Joe, was the speaker Monday night, using as his topic, "The St. Joe Valley in History." He explained that the St. Joe Valley, being the most fertile section of the county, therefore was the first part to be settled. Of the many pioneer families, there are but few represented now, he said. He told of the academy at Vienna in the early days and said that St. Joe first was named Blair. He also told of many other historical facts.

He related the part which the St. Joe Valley has played in the wars in which the United States has participated, relating that of the 170 residents of the settlement at the outbreak of the Civil War that 40 men enlisted.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES FOR JUNE 3

Before our last meeting on June 3 we had a signaling meet. Three stations were set up and messages relayed through these points. After the signaling contest the regular meeting was held. Wednesday and Friday nites have been selected to have base ball practice. Mr. Garman has concented to be our coach.

Plans are being made for the annual camporee which is to be held at Foster Park, Fort Wayne, June 8-9. A group of the boys are planning to attend.

We will have another signaling contest next meeting June 11. All Scouts interested are asked to come early, at about 6:30. This concludes our news for this week but watch for more Scout Scribbles next week.

Scottish Rite Male Choir to sing for Brotherhood

The Scottish Rite male choir of Fort Wayne, will render a concert for the program at the June meeting of the Wittenberg Brotherhood to be held at United Brethren Church in Newville next Wednesday evening, June 12. This organization of singers is one of the best choirs in the state of Indiana, and their appearance at the meeting of the Brotherhood will be an exceptional fine program. There will be no other numbers on the program and the choir will furnish the entire entertainment for the evening. The church should be filled for this occasion, as it will be a rare treat for the men who attend the meetings of the Brotherhood.

The occasion will be the annual strawberry festival provided by the Newville church group. The serving will begin at 7:30 o'clock DST., and it is expected that it will be necessary to serve a second or third table, so that anyone who cannot be there at 7:30 can come later and be served before the program of the evening begins.

C. H. Fetter, president of the Wittenberg Brotherhood, will preside at the meeting. The opening of the meeting after the dinner will be a short song and devotional service, after which the Scottish Rite Choir will be introduced for the evening's program.

Men from all over the county and surrounding communities are invited to attend the meeting. It is urged that all who are interested will tell their friends to come, whether they are members of the Brotherhood or not.

The sins of today are the same sins of yesterday only today's sins come somewhat streamlined.

We all pray that the one game they won't play is "London Bridge is Falling Down."

There are a lot more people who understand the meaning of being popular than of being embarrassed.

There are some families in St. Joe trying to think of a vacation spot that will be as quiet as home.

It was liquor that used to be blamed for holes in the toes of shoes. Today it it fashion.

A bad habit is not only a slave-driver, it is also dictator of your conscience.

Working towards an objective makes some men as happy as obtaining it makes others.

Middle-class is defined as that part of the cake that holds the top and bottom layers together.

LOCAL WAR

There is many an American husband already enlisted—in the battle staged on home soil in the fight to exterminate the army of dandelion invasion. The battle is so often a losing one on the offensive side, for the invader seems to be overcome when up pops his yellow head to again undermine the lawn and overwork the householder. There are some folks who seem to have success in their effort, and then others of us who have only a momentary victory that is scarcely worth the aching muscles. It was a pretty smart man in St. Joe who says he thinks a dandelion makes an attractive splotch of color midst the green grass. Perhaps this is facing destiny in an artistic light and growing the dandelion as a border plant would save a lot of work.

A PITY

Before starting our Summer of motor travel of rolling about the country over highway and byway, give a thot to a warning word sent out by Nature Magazine on the increasing toll of wildlife. There are many ways of adding up the total of thirty million animal deaths a year, and one of the foremost ones in the listing is the number of creatures hit by motor vehicles. The average motorist tries to avoid hitting an animal but is too frequently unsuccessful. The rabbit is the one most often destroyed and the great pity of 800 deer killed in three states during 1938, by the auto. Drivers can be more careful and considerate by being less reckless, that is if they wish to reduce the growing list of wildlife disasters.

WOOD KILNS

One recent venture is a step forward in giving the purchaser more satisfaction for his money. The days when wood, after sawing into lumber, must be racked to season before being used in the construction of furniture and houses, can be overcome with a newer method used very successfully today. There has been developed a wood kiln in which, through control by air circulation, humidity and temperature, wood may be seasoned in a few days. Formerly it would take months and years to do a good job and often faulty construction was due to improperly seasoned wood. This newer means is supposed to increase the value of seasoning as high as 25 per cent.

FLY IT BRAVELY

Those oldsters of us in St. Joe can recall past Memorial Days of our used-to years when the home town was completely decorated for the patriotic occasion. Each house was constant in its flag raising on this special day for as sure as families paid tribute to their dead so surely did that family shake out the wrinkles of the folded flag as they hung it from the front porch. There was sort of a ceremony that accompanied the event with the many of us at hand to be sure the act was carried out to the letter. Did you notice the lack of flags flown as we observed the day this year? Of all years this is truly the one when the American flag should be flown in glory from every house top. We have been negligent here in St. Joe but we are going to do much better during Flag Week, which will be observed from June 8-14.

Americans have not been forced to fly their flag and they pray they will never be forced to salute any other one. As appreciative citizenry we will fly our banner during this Fly-the-Flag Week. We have been a people criticized for forgetting too soon. Now is our opportunity to put into the heart of the observance gratitude for freedom, love of country and respect for right. We will dedicate our homes and hearts to the waving stars and stripes. A small flag in the buttonhole will give us cause to think twice of the meaning of the red, white, and blue. This week will be given co-operation civically.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

Until America's foremost G-man, J. Edgar Hoover, mentioned this, we had not given the matter such concentrated thought. Except in towns where instances of dangerous operations have brought the menace to the fore, the existence of tourist camps where cabins are stopping places for overnight guests, have always been considered a convenience rather than a menace. However, Mr. Hoover warns that such places are too many times bases of operation for gangs of rackateers. There are a number of instances when publicity following hold-ups and even murders, have been given to tourist camps. It is such as easy way for an "out" and is a handy fort of call in a storm from the law. This indictment makes it a bit difficult on the owner of a reputable camp who has taken means to safeguard the lives and property of his guests. There are many havens along roadsides where stop many a traveler who prefers this to a hotel. But today he demands that these cottages be up to standard in sanitation, protection and appearance. Many states demand regular inspection regarding conditions in the camp. The man who patronizes them should be certain he is in one of safe and savory reputation.

BETHINK ONESELF

Today we do not pause to gloat over our wars of victory of the past nor do we speak of a fallen foe with hate. America gives this day in Maytime and in springtime, to commemorate the occasions when soldiers of our wars sacrificed themselves for a cause that was hailed as right and glorious. This day of memory is significant in that it stands for sympathy, sentiment and a symbol of peace although it originated in war. There should never fail to be a deep spirit of honor and respect in the hearts of us for those living and those dead who felt their duty to country was greater than the offering of their lives. We, here in St. Joe must not lose sight or thought of the noble endeavor of those defenders who were furnished by this town and every other town in this great land, as cannon fodder "upon the altar of freedom." Many brave lads have been laid away on camp grounds and many are these souls who have weathered the storm to live today and place a wreath "in memory."

We have been gathering 'round local hearths discussing the present struggle abroad and we speak of past accomplishments when this nation won wars and claimed rewards and spoils. The air waves are filled with war broadcasts, newspaper columns teeming with war data of maps, pictures and correspondents tales. We are not able, if we would try, to get away from the thought of Memorial Day this year.

Too much we think of military strength and naval supremacy and too little do we pray for brotherhood and understanding. Can any of us truthfully say we are proud to give sons, fathers, brothers, friends to death and to battle so that in years to come we may gather at their graves and place a flower in memory.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The shock of the week came to a world that believed itself prepared for almost anything, when the King of the Belgians put an end to warfare, so far as his land is concerned. The word "his" hardly can be used with propriety, respecting the King's relation to the country; parliament and cabinet having repudiated him.

It is not known whether Leopold ended hostilities of his own free will and accord, to save the army from being wiped out, or was bought off. France would have it that he was promised a reward. If that is true, everyone will watch with interest to see how much he actually collects. Mr. Hitler has the reputation of being an unreliable paymaster.

Leopold is distinctly unpopular just now, but should be given the benefit of the precept that it is unlawful to scourge a Roman uncondemned. The prosecution has made its charges but has not brought forward its evidence, and the defense is yet to be heard. Considering the secrecy which necessarily must surround every important move abroad, and the fact that chaos prevents the spread of trustworthy information, the judicially minded will be inclined to suspend judgment. It will be a long time before the facts are known. Meanwhile it is safe to admit that Leopold is under a cloud, but perhaps a cloud that history will dispel.

If recent and existing wars have shown that old fashioned military equipment is useless, they indicate too that rules of the old time sort are not so necessary and secure as was once alleged. Alphonse is an expatriated visitor in Italy, William probably is still in the shade of the wood pile, the unfortunate positions of Wilhelmine and the King of Norway are widely known, and Leopold may have acquired a status which is worse than that of any of his one time fellow monarchs. An old Testament character asked: "What can the man do that cometh after the King?" The European rulers mentioned will bear testimony that he can do much, so far as creating discomfort and humiliation is concerned.

The tension across the water has prompted the Administration to long steps in the direction of preparedness, the most important of which is said to be the creation of a commission of seven men of standing to supervise large scale production of defense materials, the ordinary course of business and manufacture being disturbed as little as possible. Congressional action has practically approved a two billion dollar fund to carry forward the work. Even a raise in the debt limit is not regarded with the same repugnance as formerly.

The liberal response of Congress is approved generally, but approval does not prevent question as to the source from which the funds must come. The President is said to favor a ten per cent raise in all taxes, a plan which at least has the merits of simplicity and directness. Some experts incline to the view that the burden should be carried chiefly by incomes and such commodities as gasolene, intoxicating drink and smokers' supplies. A ten per cent tax increase has an unwelcome tone, but will be paid cheerfully, in view of the circumstance that Mr. Hitler looms large as a collector able to make one hundred per cent, less the coat on one's back.

If a choice has to be made between paying out defense money to prevent war, and delivering a toll of lives to win one, there will not be great delay in reaching a decision. Public opinion is in favor of defense, but against participation in the European conflict. Since either course will demand a large monetary outlay, it may be assumed that the value of a warrior's life will turn the scale. In the Civil War, two Union soldiers died from disease for each one who perished in battle. When the tumult is done, and when Hitler is subdued, as by the help of Almighty God he will be, defense measures may well be continued, not only against invasion by force of arms, but also against the more subtle invasion of disease.

GILT OFF THE DOME By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.,—With Republican leaders scheduled to assemble in Philadelphia three weeks from now to draft a platform and select a national ticket, all signs point to as wide open a convention as any in the history of the Party.

Thanks to Mr. Hitler, the presidential race no longer is a simple two-way contest between Dewey and Taft, with the former having a slight advantage. All bets are off and it's now anybody's race. Dewey, Taft, Vandenberg, Hoover, Bricker, Wilkie, Bridges, Gannett—take your choice—the lightning may strike any of them.

While developments at home and abroad may clarify the picture somewhat during the next few days, indications are that a majority of the delegates will gather in the City of Brotherly Love on June 24 with open minds—unpledged and undecided.

Significant are reports coming from Indiana concerning the sentiment of Hoosier convention delegates. Although Dewey and Taft both claim to have a substantial bloc of Indiana votes, neutral observers say that most of the 28 delegates have no idea who they will support, and probably won't make up their minds until the last minute.

Despite increased speculation over the chances of Wendell Wilkie, Hoosier-born utility magnate, there apparently is no great enthusiasm for his candidacy among rank-and-file Republicans in Indiana. If a Wilkie "boom" developes at the convention, it is unlikely that it will be launched by the Indiana delegates, although it might receive support from them.

FAVORITE parlor game of the moment among Hoosier politicians is the writing of euphonious campaign slogans for the recently-nominated Republican ticket of Hillis and Willis. The fad isn't confined to Republicans exclusively, for the Democrats also are offering contributions. Some of the suggestions are harmless. Others are plain awful. Take a look at these samples and then try your own hand at it. You Couldn't do worse:

"We'll win with Hillis and Willis" . . . "Over the hill with Hillis and Willis" . . . "Hillis and Willis will Landus" (suggested by Congressman Landis. Get it?) . . . "For Peace, Prosperity and Preparedness—Vote for Hillis and Willis."

Among the milder Democratic suggestions are these:

"Hillis and Willis will killus". . . "We've had our fill of Hillis and Willis" . . . "To H— with Hillis and Willis."

A friend of Congressman Gillie suggests, "By Gillie, it's Hillis and Willis," and other misguided individuals are changing "Gillie" to "Gillis," and "Harness" (Fifth District Congressman) to "Harniss" in the interest of euphony.

Someone even has suggested that Wilkie should be nominated at Philadelphia to make it an all-Indiana ticket of Hillis, Willis, and Wilkie.

SPEAKING OF SLOGANS, did you know that Senator Styles Bridges, GOP dark-horse candidate, was a vice-presidential possibility in 1936 until Alf Landon was nominated for President? Party leaders shuddered at the thot of a Landon-Bridges ticket, realizing only too well that the Democrats would adopt as their campaign song: "London Bridge is Falling Down."

And did you know that friends of Tom Bath, secretary to Congressman Grant of South Bend, have been urging him to run for a state office on the slogan, "The State House needs a Bath?"

SIDELIGHTS. During recent weeks Congressional offices have been flooded with letters demanding that Congress remain in session for the duration of the war emergency, despite the political conventions and the approaching campaign.

One of the most convincing of these letters was received by Congressman Gillie from a constituent who, after listing several serious reasons why Dr. Gillie should stay in Washington, concluded his argument as follows:

"Us folks in the 'dark corner' will take care of the November election for you without your coming home. And besides, the fish aren't biting very good.

FLUSHING BAR ON MOWING MACHINES WILL SAVE GROUND-NESTING BIRDS

An appeal for use of flushing bars on mowing machine to save quail and other ground-nesting birds, was made today by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, in a message addressed to farmers and others engaged in mowing along the roads.

Each year thousands of ground-nesting and song birds are destroyed in Indiana during the season that farm crops are being harvested and weeds and grass are being cut along the roads. Sometimes the birds are crippled by the sickle heads, or driven away from the nests and the exposed nests are easy prey to natural enemies.

Flushing bars of the type illustrated, brushing through the grass or weeds ahead of the sickle, cause the birds to leave the nest before the blade reaches them and do not damage the nest. When a bird flushes, it is an easy matter to raise the blade, leaving a small patch of grass or grain to protect and shelter the nest.

A light pole, attached to the neck-yoke of the team pulling the mower and extending out as far as the mowing blade, and an old sack suspended from the pole are the only materials required to make a flushing bar. The lower edge of the sack should be weighted to be most effective.

WISDOM, ABILITY SHOULD DECIDE PRESIDENTIAL CHOICE

(By Geo. E. Sokolsky)

Suppose we drop personalities. Suppose we were to vote not for a radio voice or a vote catcher, but just for a President of the United States, what would we have in mind? Or, better still, what would we expect the candidate to have in his mind?

Surely, in these perilous times, we should be concerned with knowledge, experience, wisdom, capacity for work, compassion for humanity, a firm rooting in the traditions of the country.

I notice that no one seems to be talking about these qualities today. They ask, can he lick Roosevelt if Roosevelt runs? Is it a prizefight or a beauty contest, or has the Presidential election reduced itself to a cockfight? Is mere licking sufficient? Suppose the licker is as objectionable as or more so than the lickee? Where do we go from there?

* * *

It seems to me that if Mr. Roosevelt runs for a third term, that will be the sole issue. The people will have to decide whether they want to destroy American tradition, risk a dictatorship and establish a one-party tryanny. If they do, they will. If they don't, the third term attempt will fail. The name and personality of the opposition candidate will matter little, for the people will not vote for him, but against a third term. On the other hand, if Mr. Roosevelt is not a candidate, the Republicans and Democrats will be nominating much the same kind of Americans. The probability is that in that event two of the twenty names now being mentioned will appear on the ballot, and we shall be selecting, even as ever before, what the party politicians have given to us in their bounty.

Well, what kind of man do we want? Do we want a glamorous or a dull man, a bald or a bemustachioed man, a great scholar or a wise politician? After eight years of experience with a Presidential wife, shall we analyse the wives of the candidates and their children, if any? Shall we do this analyzing by a common procedure, or by Freudian obscurities or by Marxian criteria? Shall we wonder whether he knows how to fish or to sing "Sweet Adeline"? After all, some people vote for candidates because they wear dumpy clothing or even, it is said, because they're silent.

* * *

It seems to me that we cannot afford the luxury of taking this election that lightly. Too much is at stake. Let me suggest a few of the minimal qualifications of the next President.

1. He must be expert in international relations. The world is at war. Although we are not at war, we are in the war, because it encircles us. The next President will have to decide whether we actually go to war or stay where we are. He will have to know the characteristics, habits, ideas and tricks of the various combatants. He ought to know how to read a map, and it would be a canvenience if, at least once in his life, he visited some country other than his own. It would be better still if he had visited many countries. He ought to know something of the history, traditions and politics of these various countries, and it might even be an advantage if he knew one or two statesmen personally. In a word, he ought to have a better working knowledge of international relations than comes from the headlines of newspapers, comments on the radio or even the memoranda from his own State Department. He ought to have discernment and principle.

* * *

2. He must be an economist. Whether the next President is a Republican or a Democrat, he will have to clean out the New Deal Augean stables. It will be a job for any man. There is not only the question of industrial relations but the more difficult question of gold. Here we've been collecting gold and silver to every other country's heart's content, and we don't know what to do about it. The next President will have to know what to do about it or we shall have some very dangerous inflation.

3. As regards the problems which come under the single word "labor" there appears a complex of attitudes, ideas, traditions, bickerings and hatreds with which only superb statesmanship can deal. We cannot afford to have another decade of continued madness in this field. American industrial relations need to be on a cooperative rather than a class conflict basis. Few of the unemployed, few young men and women just out of school and out of jobs have any realization of how great a part the conflicts of labor—that is, conflicts over policy—have played in their misfortunes. And there can be no question that "Labor's Charter," the Wagner act, has proved to be a carelessly conceived and stupidly written document. Yet there ought to be a charter for labor, one to which the unions, the employers, the workers themselves can subscribe. Is this utopian Statesmanship can make it a practical reality.

4. Agriculture is, in American life, a shifting occupation. The number of farmers is decreasing; their relationship to the soil is changing. Crops which once were the gift of God to the American agriculturalist are now a drug on the market. This is not always due to the farmer or the government or any one in particular. The trade routes of the world change with wars, and changing trade routes alter the production balances of countries. Furthermore, and I might say even more so, we have been steadily altering our diets and apparel, and therefore our agricultural needs. Take the single item of women's undergarments, which once were largely a cotton product and today are made of spruce, cotton and chemicals, with cotton on the decrease—that works havoc which no government can control. Nor is price fixing of the raw material a solution, for whenever the price of the raw material produces an unmarketable manufactured article the chemist will provide a substitute. The possibility is that the solution to our agricultural market lies in varying crops to meet needs and in expanding markets in countries having a lower standard of living.

* * *

Whatever the solution is, here is a problem that has been dealt with only politically. The farmer has been the sport of the politician. I should even say that he has been fooled, swindled and tricked by the politician. The proof lies in the increase in tenant farmers—in farmers who do not own the farms they occupy. Tenancy on so wide a scale as an error in a democracy. It may ultimately produce some equivalent of feudal serfdom.

Surely this problem requires more adequate and honest treatment than it has received. And a statesman is needed in this field.

5. Let us shift for a moment from the tangible to the illusive. Let us consider the question of national morale and national morals. This is a hard generation to be born to. It is a pessimistic generation. It follows upon fierce shocks—the great war, prohibition, the shift in sex relationships, the inflations of production and currency, the jazz age, the flapper period, the debunking of tradition, progressive education, the depression, the New Deal, and now another war. Our generation has had to take those shocks in its stride, and it has been hard to do. Millions simply could not go on. Millions more are disheartened, disappointed, embittered.

* * *

It is not enough for statesmanship to feed them burdensome promises. Some of these promises are coming home to roost in terms of more burdensome and destructive taxes. It will be worse rather than better during the next five years. We need to face that inevitability.

Statesmanship calls for a great moral leader in the White House, one whose absolute honesty and humanity will reinstill a love of country, a faith of country in our people. We shall need to reach heights of self-sacrifice and devotion to country if we are not to fail as a democracy. We shall need to sacrafice hundreds of thousands of leeches who are now letting the blood of the nation, if youth is not to be permanently impoverished by taxes. This is a moral question, not only an economic one. It needs moral handling.

Obviously in this small area I cannot explore more of the requirements of such a President as this country needs at this stage. Do I ask for too much? Is it possible to believe that among the 130 millions of us there is no one competent to organize an administration which will provide such leadership? Are we so bankrupt in character and personality that all we can think of in terms of the Presidency is his thorax and diaphragm and their workings, or about the cut of his jib and his stance in golf?

* * *

And must we always limit our thinking to victory? Can he be elected, they ask? Could Lincoln have been a candidate had that question been asked? Is it not more important to assert a principle, to offer the nation beauty of mind and character, than to base this contest on mere political invulnerablility? And who is really invulnerable?

The next President needs to be a man—a good, honest, a fine man. He needs human wisdom and experience, He needs character. He needs to love his fellow men.

What we need in a President comes from the soul of a mother, the training in home and church and school, from the struggles in the inner life of a man of capacity and experience.

Who is that man?

Where is that man?

In line with the Nation's defense program an additional 25,000 enlisted men will shortly be required to meet the demands of new Naval construction. As an indication of personnel needs, the quota of 40 men originally assigned the State of Indiana for June has been increased 50% to a new total of 60 and, so far as can be seen, the demands for personnel will increase progressively each month. Eligible young men between the ages of 18 and 31, and unmarried can enlist providing they meet the physical standards. Fort Wayne is the closest recruiting station.

LIFE IS TOO SHORT.
DAIRY COWS—The average cow drinks 25 gallons of water a day. Supplied with running water at the barn, they will produce 5 to 10% more milk.
HORSES should have 10 to 20 gallons each a day.
CHICKENS—100 chickens need 2½ gallons a day.
HOGS need plenty of water to make flesh and require about 2 gallons of water each a day.
. . . to be pumping all day long. Get running water Electrically

A CONSTANT access to a plentiful supply of good running water is essential for all livestock. Pumping and carrying water by hand is not only inadequate; it is also expensive—in loss of profits.

Dairy cows, for instance, will produce from 5 to 10 per cent more milk without increasing the feeding rations if they are supplied with drinking cups at the stalls.

Horses and mules do better work when plentifully supplied with water. As an egg is two-thirds water, it is easy to see how important running water is to chickens.

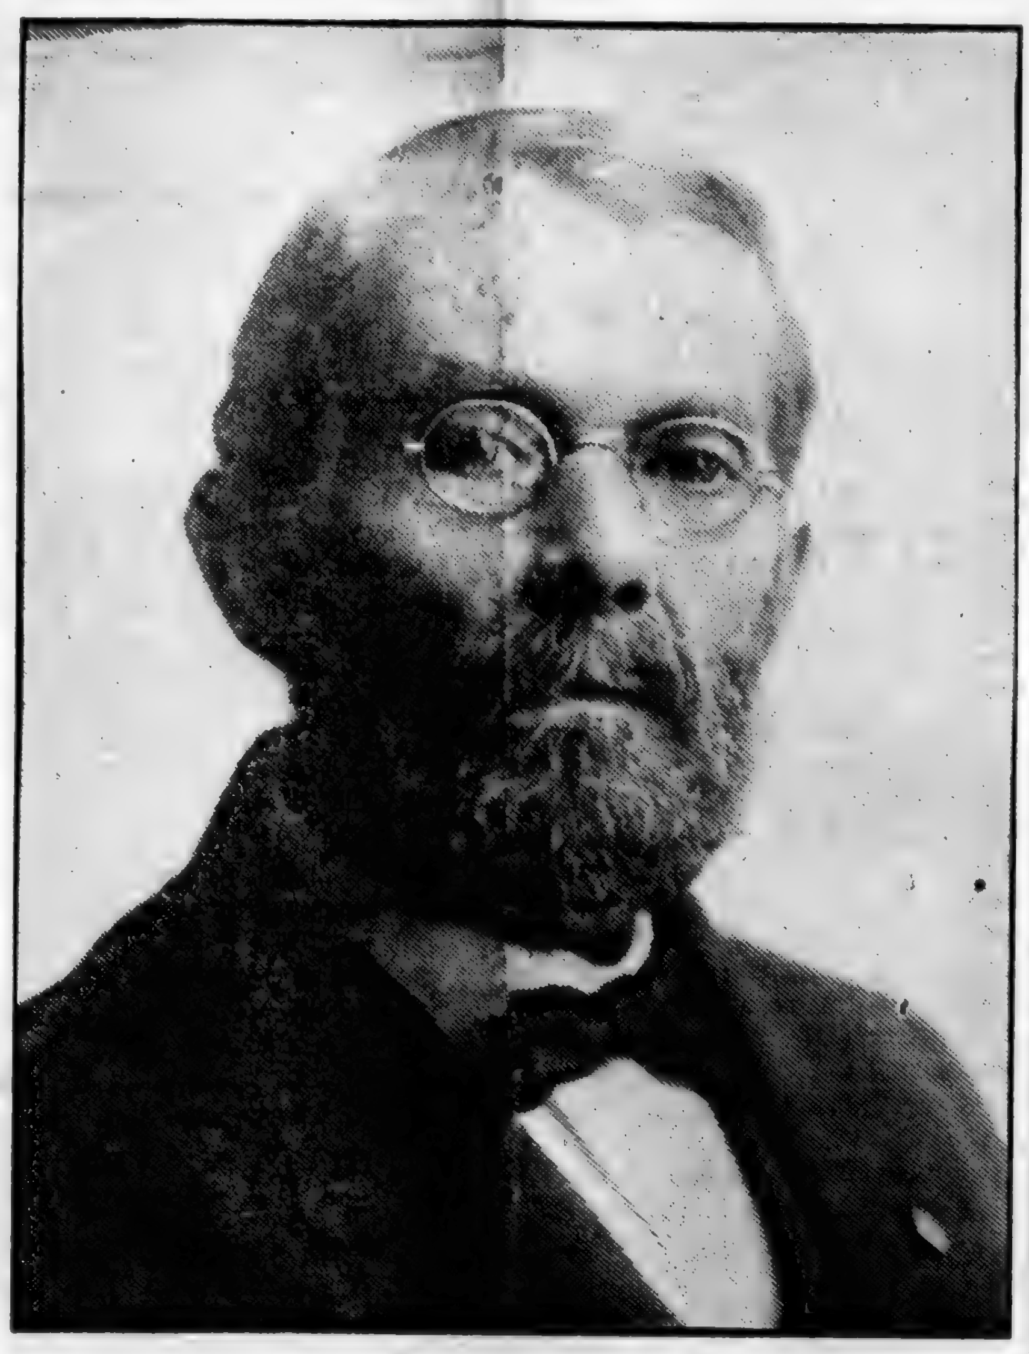
75 Years Celebrated by Sunday School Organization



Frank W. Willis Elected in 1865 As its First President

Rural Church School Attendance Less This Year Because of Needed Heelp on the Farm

HIGH CLASS SPEAKING TALENT

Delegates Enjoyed the Convention, Speakers—Dinners and Luncheon Proved a Success

TO RETURN TO WINTER DATE

(Auburn Evening Star)

"The trouble with the world today is that we have forgotten God," Raymond Willis of Angola, declared at the banquet in Auburn Thursday night in connection with the 75th convention of the DeKalb County Sunday School association. "We boast of our airplanes, our automobiles, we boast that we have three-fourths of the gold in the world—but if we forget God, all that will amount to nothing."

The convention banquet was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church in the social rooms of the church. The long tables were attractively decorated with bowls of spring flowers and appointments were in pastel shades. The menu consisted of baked ham, creamed potatoes, applesauce, spring salad, hot rolls, jello, individual cakes with pink and white frosting, and coffee.

Robert Raub presided as master of ceremonies, introducing first the state workers present. He told of William Norris of northwest of Auburn, who attended the third state convention when he was 12 years old, and read letters from Calvin Husselman, now of Cape May Court House, New Jersey, who is the oldest living secretary of the organization, and Lee O. Tustison of St. Joe, Col. Alfred L. Moudy of Indianapolis, both former presidents.

George Beugnot and Ward Jackman, both former presidents, spoke briefly, as well as Fred B. Leighty of St. Joe, the present head of the organization.

Mrs. Meiser of Corunna, a former secretary, was presented and also Miss Sadie Coy of Auburn, who has been secretary for the past 19 years. Others who were introduced were Rev. Ray Upson, who conducted the singing at the convention, and John Zimmerman of Auburn, who prepared the history of the organization.

All six of the sons of Frank W. Willis, first president, were invited to attend the sessions, but only two were able to attend, Raymond of Angola, the banquet speaker, and H. C. Willis of Waterloo. Regrets were sent by the other four brothers.

"We wouldn't have to worry about the fifth column if every person in our government were a Christian," Mr. Willis stated in his address, in which he stressed the need of coordination in Sunday school work. In discussing the changes in church work with the passing of the years, he said that only one thing has not changed—the eternal truths taught in the Sunday schools.

Presenting Sunday schools as a prevention of crime, the Angola editor and church worker said that the need of church organizations in the community today is just as great as it was 75 years ago.

"The long-faced Christian is a detriment to humanity," he charged and urged that the joy and hope given in the Sunday school be carried over into every-day life.

"Morality and patriotism must be taught to every generation—they cannot be handed down from generation to generation like acres of land. A man told me of seeing ten years ago the Olympic games in Germany and of that country's regimented youth. Today those youths, now grown to young manhood, are marching through the fields of France carrying instruments of hate and destruction. How wonderful it would be if they were marching there in peace and singing 'Onward Christian Soldier'!

"When a land forgets God—all is lost. We can't change the whole world, but we can change our own community. We can do our little part to make better and brighter the world for tomorrow."

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of May 23 showed the the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

Expenditures	..$8,457,468,262.06
Receipts	.......$5,084,647,655.98
In the hole	....$3,372,820,606.08

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,786,583,540.89.

Your per capita share of that debt is $329.13.

The Thursday night session opened with a program of six numbers played by an eighteen-piece orchestra under the direction of Frank Campbell of Auburn. John Zimmerman then read the history of the DeKalb County Sunday School association.

E. T. Albertson of Indianapolis, made the address at the Thursday night session, speaking on the topic "Being Christian." He made a plea that an effort be made to carry over religion from the church to the business world and to social circles.

Pleads for Local Option

"A lot of churches have fifth columns in their official boards," Mr. Albertson charged in discussing the liquor problem. He strongly advocated local option on liquor and flayed the present set-up in the state of Indiana. He also said that of every 100 men who applied for divorces in Chicago last year, 48 gave as their reason the fact that their wives drank.

All officers were re-elected for the coming year on Friday afternoon. Fred Leighty will start his ninth term as president and Miss Sadie Coy of Auburn will begin her twentieth year as secretary-treasurer.

Others re-named are: Albert Yoder, Jackson township, first vice president; Forrest Harding, Richland township, second vice president; Earl Reber, Auburn, third vice president; Miss Dora Carnahan, Jackson township, superintendent of the children's department; Mrs. Inez Dosch, Jackson township, superintendent of the young people's department; Arthur Friend, Jackson township, superintendent of the adult department; and Mrs. Nora McDonald, Corunna, superintendent of the educational department.

Speaks at Luncheon

Luncheon was served Friday noon in the church basement with Miss Young speaking afterwards on the subject, "At the Cross Roads." Mrs. Daniel Eynon served as toastmistress for the after luncheon program. The meal was prepared by the ladies of the church, with the young women serving.

Little Sally Emrick of Hopewell church in Jackson township sang a solo and Mrs. George Beugnot read a poem, "Building a Temple" as special features.

Miss Young discussed the European situation and said that over there children are taught hatred instead of love and fidelity to Christ. She said that in the penal institutions in the state of Indiana today less than 8.1 percent of the inmates have had any kind of religious nuture, and said that almost 85 percent of those in penal institutions came from broken homes.

She told of a speech she heard recently by a judge of the juvenile court in Indianapolis, in which he stated that four out of five children brought before him had received no religious training.

Another point emphasized by Miss Young was the necessity for having trained adult leaders in Sunday school work, especially in the preschool age groups. Things necessary for a better Sunday school program, Miss Young pointed out, are as follows: (1) Make the Sunday morning Sunday school worship hour as powerful as it can be; (2) grasp every opportunity for an extra hour throughout the week; (3) offer a definite mission program; (4) write a temperance program into child life; and (5) keep in contact with the young mothers who stay at home because doctors order that their babies not be taken into crowds.

The meeting was closed with the singing of a hymn, the words of which were written by Mrs. Dora Carnahan of Jackson township, active worker in the county organization. Rev. Upson lead the singing.

E. T. Albertson, state general secretary, made the principal address at the morning meeting Thursday, discussing "The Vision of Service." Rev. Ray Upson, Pleasant Lake evangelist, led worship in song and special music was a feature of the program.

Thursday afternoon Rev. Hugh Craven, pastor of the host church, led the devotions, speaking on the story of Jacob and Esau. He stressed the necessity of humanity discovering God.

Miss Nellie C. Young of Indianapolis, a prominent worker in the state organization, was a speaker on the afternoon program, her topic being "Guiding Children to Christ." She stated that many adults do not guide children to God, but lead them, and said that a new approach must be discovered for the good of the children.

She stated that the adult leaders in Sunday School work must make an effort to understand children and their emotions, for so many times leaders give so little time to the spiritual life of children. She advocated that many times the approach may be made through the parents, who oftentimes leave that work to the adult Sunday School workers.

Teaching that Jesus is a friend of children is an important point in Christian education of children, she said, and brought out that it is wise to give children the concepts of God as Jesus gave them.

"We must present Him as one who has something to offer," she said.

Mr. Albertson spoke on the subject "And in Their Hearts Will I Write It" during the latter part of the afternoon and special music marked the close of the session. Rev. Upson also led singing during this meeting and sang a solo, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Ethel Western.

"Too many persons are giving their churches the tag ends of their time," Harry G. Rowe, a former worker in the state Sunday School association, declared in Auburn Friday night. His topic was "The Challenge of 1940."

Mr. Rowe was the final speaker at the two-day convention of the DeKalb County Sunday School association held at the First Presbyterian church in Auburn. This year's convention marked the 75th anniversary of the founding of the organization. About 300 persons registered.

"We can accept the responsibility that belongs to us or we can wash our hands and thus sidestep the responsibility," he said. As an example of sidestepping, he told of Pontius Pilate, who could not be bothered with the death of an itinerant preacher.

"That's what people do about churches today, but you can't do that and get by with it. You have to pay the price. If ever there was a time for the world to face responsibility, it is now."

He accused the average Indiana citizen as being inert and careless and said that the common, ordinary man in the state doesn't read his Bible or pray.

"So now we are seeing a 'war to save civilization,'" he said. "But each war attempts to clothe itself with a moral issue. Every generation has its task—you yours, and I mine. We must assume our responsibilities."

As another instance of sidestepping duty, Mr. Rowe pointed to the Belgian king, who ordered his men to give up their arms.

"If the king of England," he said, "had called a day of prayer on the day that men carved up the map of Europe with a blue pencil at Versailles, things would have been different. But no—they wanted power. They only pray when a bayonet is sticking in a man's heart."

Officers were installed Friday evening for the coming year and special music included selections by the Auburn Lions club orchestra, group singing, a solo by Rev. Ray Upson of Pleasant Lake, who conducted the singing throughout the sessions, and a selection by a quartet composed of Vern Lowman, E. E. Lollar, and Peter Becker of Waterloo, and Rev. Upson. Geo. Beugnot, former association president, pronounced the benediction.

The young people's dinner, held at 6:30 o'clock in the dining room of the Church of Christ, was attended by over 70 persons. Robert Graham of the First Church of God presided as toastmaster. Vases of iris and ferns decorated the dining tables and the meal was served by the ladies of the church.

Miss Ruby Shoudel of Jackson township, was the song leader and she also played an accordion selection. A trio of girls, Naomi Ish, Waterloo, Norma Stroh and Kathleen Brandon, Richland township, sang "Trees," accompanied at the piano by Joan Farrington, also of Richland township.

Harry G. Rowe made the after-dinner speech, urging that young people select a life work which appeals to them. He said that, according to a survey made by the sociological department of the University of Chicago, 46 percent of the persons interviewed said that they were not happy in their jobs.

HISTORY OF SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

DeKalb County Programs were Formerly Adjusted to Meet Train Schedules—Delegates Given Lodging Over Night

One of the outstanding features of the DeKalb county Sunday school convention held in Auburn Thursday and Friday was the reading of the history of the organization. The data was compiled by John Zimmerman of North Van Buren street, Auburn, as a part of the seventy-fifth anniversary celebration of the organization.

One of the most outstanding developments during the seventy-five years was the change in the mode of transportation. Programs of the convention were formerly adjusted to meet train schedules and delegates were given free lodging over night. The situation was much different than in the present day when the delegates drive to and from their homes in a few minutes.

The history as compiled by Mr. Zimmerman follows, in part:

We do not find any written records of the meetings of the first five years of the association. There is a record of a talk by F. B. Willis of Waterloo, father of Clyde Willis and Raymond Willis of present day acquaintance, on the topic, "The Sunday School of the Past, Present and Future," made at the convention meeting held in Waterloo in 1911 in which he stated that the first organization meeting of the DeKalb County Sunday School association was held in a grove south of Sedan in 1865—45 years before.

He told of the enthusiastic meeting held from year to year with the people coming in wagon loads drawn by four and six-horse teams and with waving banners. He also told of the first state convention which he said was held at Fort Wayne in 1866, at which convention he was the recording secretary.

The earliest written record is of the convention held at Waterloo in 1870. Mr. Willis was the first president elected in 1865 and was also president in 1870 and it is presumed that he was president through the intervening years, but because of lack of records this is not positively known.

Mr. Willis through the years was continually active in Sunday school work and he again served the association as president in the years of 1880 and 1882 to 1884—also 1888 to 1901 inclusive—a total service of thirteen years during the thirty-seven year period from 1865 to 1902.

Records for the years of 1881 to 1884 have not been found other than the names of the presidents and secretaries. The roll call of the names of presidents of the association during the 75 years of activity includes the names of 24 individuals, men and women who have done real service for the Sunday school organization in this county and state.

Presidents of Association

In point of years of service F. W. Willis ranks first with record of 13 years and the present president, F. B. Leighty, is next with 9 years service to his credit. Next in years of service are L. W. Treesh and Geo. E. Beugnot, each having served seven years. Others are: Ward Jackman, 5 years, Rev. S. B. Ward, 4 years, Lee O. Tustison and H. M. Fretz each, 3 years, Mrs. C. B. Jones, Mrs. Mary Ehlers, M. T. Bishop, A. B. Filley, J. C. Hall, A. L. Moudy, Stanley Means each, 2 years, James Griswold, M. B. Willis, R. West McBride, S. P. Wartenbee, E. D. Hartman, Rev. Levi Rice, Jere Lewis, Mrs. M. C. Hartman, S. H. Yager, Solomon Reinohel each, 1 year.

The records of the 1886 convention show the election of T. J. Sanders as president and Mrs. M. C. Hartman as vice president for the coming year, but the record of the following year records that Mrs. Hartman was acting as president and M. E. Olds as vice president with no explanation as to the charge from Mr. Sanders' election.

Of this list of presidents, there are living at this time, Lee O. Tustison at Defiance, O., A. L. Moudy at Indianapolis, Ind., Geo. E. Beugnot at Auburn, Ward Jackman at Auburn, Stanley Means at St. Joe and F. B. Leighty at St. Joe.

In the office of secretary, the association has been well served by 14 different individuals. The present secretary, Miss Sadie Coy, has completed 19 years of service, having acted continually since her first election at the convention of 1921. M. E. Olds served 11 years, J. C. Hull and W. O. Miser, 8 years each, O. J. Powell, 5 years, R. Wes McBride and M. B. Willis, 4 years each, T. J. Saxton and Mrs. Harry Kees, 3 years each, M. T. Bishop, 2 years, Calvin Husselman, W. C. McGonigal, Alex Kinmont, M. Long, 1 year each.

There is no record of the secretaries the first four years of the organization. Of the secretaries named above there are now living, Calvin Husselman in New Jersey, Mrs. Harry Kees at St. Joe, W. O. Miser at Waterloo, and Miss Sadie Coy at Auburn.

Changes in Transportation

It is of interest to note the shift in public participation in Sunday school activities as noted through the years of economic depressions and years of World war excitement, also the changes made in means of transportation causing consolidation of schools. The first year that mention is made of persons coming to conventions in automobiles was in 1916 and previous to that time mention was frequently made of adjusting programs of the conventions in accordance with train schedules. The entrance of moving pictures and radio entertainment for the public and other activities of recent years has effected the Sunday school attendance.

It is of interest to note the list of places the conventions have been held during the term of 75 years of the organization. Following the meeting of organization in 1865 at Sedan, conventions have been held (including this year of 1940) as follows: In Auburn 15 times, Waterloo 13 times, Butler 10 times, Garrett 9 times, Corunna 7 times, St. Joe 6 times, Ashley 4 times, Spencerville 4 times, Newville 2 times and places unknown 5 times in the years 1869 and 1881 to 1884 inclusive.

The means of travel and the central location no doubt explained why the conventions have met in Auburn seven times in the past 15 years and 8 times in the preceding 60 years.

In earlier years of the conventions, the towns in which the meetings were held gave free entertainment to the delegates over night.

The convention held at Corunna in 1916 seems to have been an outstanding event. The reports tell of the business houses closing at the time of the opening of the first day's sessions. The meetings were held by departments in three different churches simultaneously and of the mass meeting at night in the town hall. There was a chorus of 50 voices and preceding the night meeting a parade of Sunday school workers led by the Corunna band (at that time the outstanding band of northern Indiana in reputation and ability) was held. The parade included 500 Sunday school workers (one paper reported it as 700) and the town hall was filled to overflowing by 800 or more.

The roster of names of the efficient and loyal workers is a lengthy one including president and secretaries already named and many others who served as vice presidents and assistant secretaries and treasurers, departmental and township officers who worked throughout the year, many of them traveling several hundred miles during the year, holding meetings and contacting different Sunday schools each Sunday.

Of those already mentioned as president, Mrs. C. B. Jones of Garrett was an outstanding character as an evangelist speaker and worker. She was especially welcomed by the convention of 1914 as the oldest, in point of years of service, of any teacher in the county. She was then 74 years old and had been in charge of Sunday school classes for 60 years.

Mrs. Mary Ehlers of Auburn, in addition to the service as president, each year for many years was active in addressing the conventions and participating in discussions and rendered services of outstanding merit. She but recently passed on to her heavenly reward, having died December 18 of the year 1939, at the age of 90 and her mind was clear to the very last, with an unusual knowledge and memory of the scripture.

Mrs. Anna Robbins, also of Auburn, was active in the promotion of the work among primary classes and was recognized as the outstanding teacher and worker in the county in the primary departments. The convention adopted a special resolution of respect at the time of her death in 1891.

JUNE DAZE

The man who sits behind his desk in the city office and gazes out of the nearby window and envies the fellow who lives in the country, doesn't stop to realize that the June days are beautiful but busy ones for the man who lives in the rural districts. The rare day in June is rare indeed if it doesn't find the average farmer worn to a frazzle at its end. The scent of blossoms and vision of new life is inspiring, but the man who works the land is pretty much fatigued and doesn't enjoy it to its full. He has to battle cutworms and haggle cornborers, worry the bean and cucumber beetles, pester the cabbage and tobacco worms and hope to have results that will meet the tax assessment on the old farm. The chap who sings the praises of that day in June doesn't know what labor the month of June means to the farmer of DeKalb County. Rare is the day not spent with aching back and sore muscles and a series of blisters to show for hard work. The farm is a busy place at this time of year, but the reward for the endeavor and the glory of such toil, the justification of it all will come in the following months when the harvest will prosper the purse and enrich the hope of the man who was too busy to appreciate June.

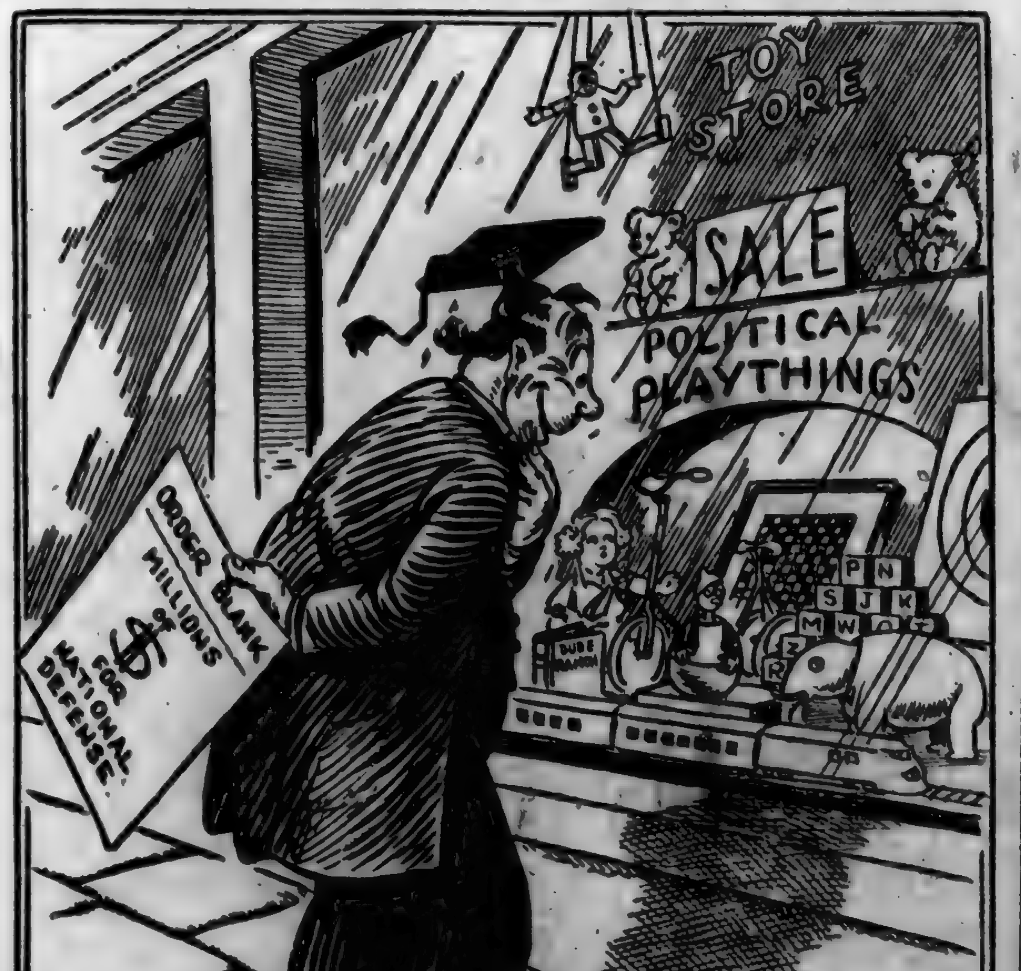
HEY! KEEP YOUR MIND ON OUR BUSINESS!



WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The Presidential election occupies about as much space in the papers as the question whether Sampson or Schley won the battle of Santiago in the Spanish-American War, but the fact remains that partise must chooke their candidates, and the voters must make their wishes known, even though tanks and cannon just now furnish a more popular topic of conversation and a source of more lively news.

On the Democratic side, it looks as though Mr. Roosevelt will be given a chance to run if he wishes. That point indeed may be regarded as settled definitely. The choice can be made in the White House, but the convention may be permitted to exercise its ancient prerogative and resort to the draft.

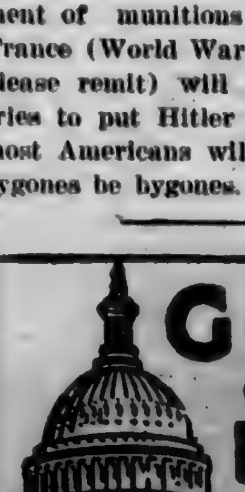
To the effect of the President's popularity in his party, must be added that arising out of the circumstances that Europe is in the turmoil of warfare, and that the United States is regarded as being in danger from enemies either within or without the land, or both. Throughout the history of the country, war Presidents have been looked upon as highly useful officials. Although third-term advocates have failed in the past, those of that cast of mind have a happier outlook today than did their predecessors.

As to Republican affairs, while neutrality in comment forbids the boosting of any particular aspirant for place, the stock of Mr. Dewey seems to be on the uptrend in the political market. Considering a negative qualification, he remans unsmudged. As a vote-harvester, he made a good showing in his run for governor of New York. A man almost forty years old hardly can be shoved aside as immature. It must be admitted that Mr. Dewey's chances of heading the ticket seem good, a statement having no bearing on the question as to whether or not there are other Republicans capable of making as worthy a showing in the Washington executive chair.

Congress faces Hamlet's familiar quandary: To be or not to be. The President suggests June 22 as the date for adjournment. It is alleged that all imperative legislation touching the war problems has been enacted: and assurance is given that in the event of crisis, a special session will be convened promptly. The opposing view is that Senators and Representatives constitute the body chosen by the people to handle the people's business, especially under conditions like those of the hour, and that Congress should be ready, with minute-man vigilance, even though it must, in the meantime do more than watch and wait.

A provision in the Federal appropriation measures denies the payment of salary to any government employe not a citizen of the United States, and aliens will have to seek employment of another sort, an arrangement which can be productive of nothing but good. There is no reason for looking askance at a citizen of the United States recording foreign birth or bearing a strangely-sounding surname, but if there is not work enough to go around, what is available should be parcelled out within the national household. It is little enough to require membership in Uncle Sam's family before entertaining a request for a share in the cakes and ale.

Once more the Duke of Windsor has been ushered to the inconspicuous back seat. Admitting that he is a friendly soul, well thought of on this side of the Atlantic, probably his personal rise or decline is not of vital concern to the United States. Yet the feeling persists that the English view is that while American airplanes may come in handy, an American-born queen is not much of an asset. An English snub, however is easier to take, and far less deadly, than what Hitler has to offer. This is no time to split hairs over wounded feelings. If a liberal shipment of munitions to England and France (World War accounts overdue: please remit) will enable those countries to put Hitler where he belongs, most Americans will be willing to let bygones be bygones.



GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

MR. GILLIE: Mr. Speaker, agriculture is the backbone and the lifeblood of the eight northeastern Indiana counties which comprise the Fourth Congressional District. This district, which borders Michigan on the North and Ohio on the East, boasts more than 19,500 of the best farms in America. And the products of these farms, with all due respect to my colleagues from the corn belt, are as fine in quality as any in the world.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the citizens of northeastern Indiana take more than casual interest in Government policies and programs which affect—favorably or unfavorably—the welfare of the American farmer.

I believe that this interest should be encouraged, and it is the purpose of these remarks to present some facts and figures concerning a Government program—the trade-agreements program—about which I want my constituents to be more fully informed.

MR. SPEAKER, it is one thing to produce large quantities of farm products, as the farmers of my district are doing, and quite another to find profitable markets for them. It recent years, with farm income at a shameful level and vast surpluses accumulating, it has become increasingly difficult to find such markets.

One reason for this is that the American market—our home market—no longer belongs to the American farmer. Gradually but surely it is being turned over to the farmers of other nations.

Who is to blae? The finger of guilt points directly to our own Federal Government. The trade-agreements program, fostered by the New Deal, has permitted foreign countries to import farm products—many of them duty free—at starvation prices in direct competition with our own.

In other words, while the Government is paying billions of dollars to our farmers to curtail surplus crops, it is at the same time encouraging the importation of vast quantities of these same surplus crops from abroad.

NEW DEALERS have made persistent efforts to convince our farmers that they are being benefitted by the trade-agreements program and that our imports of farm products are so trifling as to render them unimportant. The facts, however, tell a different story.

During the fiscal years of 1937 and 1938 our imports of competitive farm products averaged $537,000,000 annually. Does this seem like an unimportant matter?

The value of all crops grown in my congressional district during 1938 was only $16,000,000—less than 3 per cent of this amount. For the entire State of Indiana the figure was less than $165,000,000.

During 1938 the total value of all crops grown in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia was only $533,000,000.

MR. SPEAKER, to impress more forcefully on the farmers of my district how their markets have been taken away from them, I am going to present import figures for some of the principal northeastern Indiana farm products.

Imports of corn, the major crop in my district, increased from 335,000 bushels in 1931 to 86,000,000 bushels in 1936.

Imports of wheat, our second largest crop, increased from 3,829,000 bushels in 1938 to 10,747,000 bushels in 1939.

Imports of oats, our third biggest crop, increased from 7,183 bushels in 1938 to 4,293,000 bushels in 1939.

Here are some other startling import figures:

In 1934 we imported 59,000 head of cattle; in 1939, 753,000. In 1932 we imported 34,000 pounds of pork; in 1937, 16,500,000 pounds. In 1938 we imported 126,000 bushesls of barley; in 1939, 776,000 bushels. In 1938 we imported 45,820,000 pounds of potatoes; in 1939, 93,859,000 pounds. In 1938 we imported 104,274,000 pounds of raw wool; in 1939, 245,970,000.

These are all products of the Fourth Indiana District, all produced in large quantities under American cost standards. At one time they were sold on the American market at a fair price. Today they are sold at far below cost of production in direct competition with low-cost foreign products.

MR. SPEAKER, it has been charged that the New Deal has sold the American farmer down the river. I submit that the above facts substantiate this charge. The American farmer, the thrifty farmer of my congressional district, has been robbed of his just rights. His rich home market has been wrested from him and no new markets have been found to replace it. The protection he once received from a sympathetic Government has vanished.

Is it any wonder that farm prices have remained below parity or cost of production during the seven New Deal years? Is it any wonder that our farmers are still suffering from the depression

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the 19,500 Hoosier farm owners and operators I have the honor to represent in Congress, I demand that the New Deal return the American market, the richest and best in the world, to the people who developed it—the American people.

A Suit of Clothes

By MARY KEELING

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

"THERE are certain temperaments," the professor was remarking blandly, "of which it is—"

"Look out, daddy!" cried Pat.

The professor nimbly sidestepped to avoid the string of motors that suddenly started when the green light changed.

"There are temperaments, my dear, of which it is—".

"Oh, daddy, do please look out!" Pat cried again as a car whirled around the corner.

The professor sidestepped once more, but not nimbly enough this time to avoid a splashing of muddy water as the car passed through a puddle close to the curb.

"Oh, daddy," wailed Pat, as she mopped away at the professor's coat tails, "whatever will mother say? And your second best trousers are quite too—too unsafe for wear in public."

"There are temperaments, Patricia," began the professor.

"I do wish, dearest," said Pat reproachfully, "that you'd try to remember your own temperament—how careless you are about crossing streets and spoiling clothes and—"

• • •

"Henry," remarked the professor's wife at the breakfast table the next morning, "you simply must order a new suit of clothes at once. Your appearance is a disgrace to the family."

"That reminds me, my dear," said the professor cheerfully. "I have a distinct impression that I ordered a suit of clothes last week."

"Why, daddy!" exclaimed Pat in astonishment, "however did you come to order a suit all by yourself?"

"It is true," allowed the professor, "that I gave the order to a young man who called upon me after class time. I feel reasonably certain, however, that it was clothing he wished to sell."

"Henry Porter!" cried his wife despairingly, "do you mean to say that you gave an unknown salesman an order for clothes without seeing what they were like?"

"My dear, you quite distress me," expostulated the professor. "The young man seemed of a most superior type and now that I consider the occurrence I remember mention of a club. It appears that his firm is most particular whom they admit to its membership. I was selected in order that a name somewhat familiar in educational circles might head their list."

"How much did you pay down?" asked Mrs. Porter.

"Only $2, if I remember correctly."

"And when is the rest to be paid?" asked the business manager of the firm relentlessly.

The professor squirmed a little in his chair just as the doorbell rang, thus relieving him of the necessity of making an immediate reply. Fate was pursuing him, however, for Pat returned to the dining room with an aggressive sort of young man who demanded of the professor his $2 installment due the suit club.

"May I ask," said Mrs. Porter with great dignity, "when my husband's suit will be delivered?"

"Oh, most any time, ma'am," said the collector with a sly wink at Pat. "Some one is chosen each week to get a free suit and the old gentleman may be the next lucky one."

• • •

"Daddy," whispered Pat as she opened the door for the professor, "there's a perfectly beautiful young man waiting for you in the library."

The professor adjusted his nearsight glasses as the young man rose from a chair.

"You'll not remember me, Professor Porter, but I'm the man who induced you to sign up with that suit club. I've found out that they are a bad lot, but I want you to believe that I honestly thought it on the square. If you'll tell me how much you've given them I'll be glad to pay you back myself. You were so white to me that I can't bear to see you fleeced."

"I see no reason in the world," replied the professor, mildly, "why I should allow you to be the loser. The amount is inconsequential, for I ascertained some weeks ago that the plan was fraudulent. However, I am exceedingly glad to have you restore my belief in my sound judgment of character. I confess it has been somewhat shaken of late. This, my dear," he added, as Pat entered the room patiently for the purpose of meeting the caller, "is Mr. Samuel Salter. You may perhaps recall my mentioning him in connection with the purchase of a suit of clothes. My daughter, Patricia, Mr. Salter."

"Daddy, darling," said Pat, squeezing the professor's arm rapturously after the young man had reluctantly taken his leave for the time being, "it's no wonder, poor dear, that you fell for that suit club."

"It is indeed gratifying," remarked the professor, "to know that Mr.—ah—Salter's countenance of nobility and refinement mirrors the sterling character that I at once credited him with."

"What a funny old pet you are, daddy," crooned Pat, kissing the soon-to-be bald spot on top of the professor's head.

FISHING SEASON TO OPEN IN INDIANA JUNE 16

Opening of Indiana's fishing season on June 16 is being awaited with anticipation by a half-million Hoosier anglers, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, said today.

With hundreds of lakes and more than a thousand miles of fishing streams, favorable weather during the week-end will find a record number of anglers in action. Celebrations welcoming the opening of the fishing season will be staged in many communities, particularly in the lake region of Northern Indiana. Opening of the fishing season in these areas means a general stimulation of business with the influx of anglers and vacationists.

The season begins after midnight, Saturday night, June 15, Central Standard Time. Taking any of the protected species of fish before that time is a violation of the state fish and game laws. The species of fish which can be taken only during the open season, extending from June 16 to April 30—both dates inclusive—together with bag limits and minimum lengths, are:

Species	Bag limit	Size inches
Bluegill	25*	5
Red-Eared Sunfish..	25*	5
Crappie (both kinds)	25*	5
Rock Bass (goggle-eye)	25*	5
White or Striped Silver or Yellow Bass	6	10
Smallmouth Black Bass	6	10
Largemouth Black Bass	6	10
Kentucky Bass	6	10
Bass	6	10
Pike-Perch (Wall-Eye)	6	10
Pike or Pickerel	6	none
Yellow Perch	none	none

* ....Means bag limit of 25 in the aggregate of bluegills, red-eared sunfish, crappie and rock bass combined.

 .... Means bag limit of 6 in the aggregate of largemouth, smallmouth, silver or yellow, white or striped and Kentucky bass combined.

Other regulations which should be understood by the anglers include:

Possession limit is two days' lawful catch.

It is unlawful:

To fish without a license except: children under 18; owners of farmlands and the spouse and children living with them, who are residents of Indiana, and tenants of farmlands and the spouse and children living with them, in waters on such farms only.

To buy, sell or serve as part of a meal at any restaurant or hotel any largemouth bass, smallmouth bass, Kentucky bass, silver or yellow bass, white or striped bass, bluegill, red-eared sunfish, crappie or rock bass.

To fish or operate a motorboat in areas designated as fish spawning grounds.

To set a trot-line within 50 yards of any dam; to use a trot-line in a lake, except at trot-line, having not more than fifty hooks of one-half inch from point to shank or larger and baited with bait other than minnows, fish or crayfish with the bait sunk to a depth of five feet or more and used between sunset and sunrise; to use a trot-line having more than 50 hooks or hooks less than one-half inch from point to shank in any stream except the Wabash River where it forms the boundary between Indiana and Illinois. It is also unlawful to use more than one trot-line.

To possess any seine, dip-net, pound-net, or any other kind of fishing net, or any spear, gig or fish trap.

To use any hook and line attached to any floating device, except a cork or bobber attached to a pole and line that is attended.

To fish on the lands of another without permission.

Licenses may be secured from county clerks and designated agents in all counties, also at News office. A resident license good during the calendar year and entitling the holder to hunt and trap, is $1.50; a special license for resident women, good for fishing only during the calendar year, is 50 cents; a non-resident license, good for fishing only during the calendar year, is $2.25, and a non-resident license for fishing only during a 14-day period, is $1.00.

Fishing prospects for the coming season are brighter than in the past, due in part to the extensive stocking of lakes and streams carried on by the Division of Fish and Game in cooperation with the Conservation Clubs.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

A market increase in receipts in all departments except dairy cows and with all the regular buyers present and with Mr. Grimes of the Toledo Livestock Company again buying on the local market this week's auction was very satisfactory.

Hog sales responding to a 20 to 30 cent drop in terminal markets sold slowly at the following prices: 200 to 240, $4.75 to $5.00. Light shoats averaging 100 to 130, $4.40 to $4.55. Fat sows, $3.50 to $3.80.

Veals were plentiful making a top of $10.90 paid for selects with good top calves from $10.00 to $10.75. Lower grades were scarce and sold high.

Heifers good enough for small butchers, $7.50 to $8.00. Dairy steers, $7.25 to $7.40. Butcher cows sold freely at $5.50 to $6.00. The lowest slaughter cows on sale brought $4.00 up. Dairy cow top, $66.50 per head.

A great many local residents attended the show when it was given before and so many more are planning on attending the coming show. Few changes will be made in the cast but new numbers will be used, only a few special acts being repeated.

75 YEARS CELEBRATED BY SUNDAY SCHOOL ORGANIZATION

preacher and Sunday school worker, is repeatedly mentioned in the records of the conventions for a long term of years. He was well known as the favorite "marrying" parson of those days, having a record of having married several hundred couples of this county and he was accustomed to claim that couples he married stayed married and did not get divorces.

Under the leadership of Col. Alfred L. Moudy as president, the officers of the council decided to meet all of the requirements of the state council; however, Mr. Moudy, who was at this time a captain in the National Guard, was called into active service at the close of his second year as president and Geo. Beugnot was chosen to succeed him. It was in 1925 that through the inspiration of his leadership that this county first met all of the requirements of the state council and was recognized as the first county in the state to reach a grade of 100 percent. This fine standing has been maintained since that date. For his outstanding achievements as county president, Mrs. Beugnot was made vice president of the state council and has rendered valued service in that capacity to the present time.

While it is impossible in this short review to name all of the individuals who were active, serving as vice presidents and assistants and township presidents, and departmental heads efficiently, we do note in addition to the names of officers already mentioned, additional names as follows: J. E. Worthington, E. A. Eckright, Byron Hadsel, James Griswold, John George, H. E. Coe, Albert Case, Frank Beidler, O. C. Clark and Mrs. Frank Draggoo.

Attended 1867 Convention

We also particularly mention one who, so far as known, is the one person who has been in practically all convention work of the county and in many of the state conventions since 1867. He served as vice president of Richland township for many years. We refer to Wm. Norris, who in 1867 as a lad of 12 years of age, attended the convention held that year as the third annual meeting at Corunna. This convention, the same as the ones of the preceding two years, was a mass meeting of workers.

One incident of humor of that convention of 1867, which Mr. Norris especially recalls and related to us, was that James Griswold was leader of the singing and in announcing the first song urged every one to sing. The song was started and Mr. Griswold was the only person who made a sound and he stopped, much embarrassed and much to the amusement of the audience. He then very emphatically urged all to "sing," as he was not a solo singer and the audience then joined heartily in the song. Mr. Norris plans to be in attendance at this 1940 convention. His home now is south of Corunna on the same farm to which his father moved in 1867

The committee on resolutions, appointed at each year's conventions for many years, almost always included resolutions deploring the desecration of the Sabbath Day, and the use of alcoholic liquors and especially commended the temperance cause. In 1905 they particularly commended Governor Hanley for his rigorous enforcement of laws regulating liquor traffic. In the convention of 1914 the workers especially commended the activity of departments of temperance and reported over 3,000 signers of temperance pledges and in 1918 a resolution suggested the keeping in touch with the soldiers in service by correspondence.

A resolution adopted in 1909 expressed thankfulness for what they then considered a wave of reform sweeping the country. In 1915 a resolution was adopted condemning war. Possibly this year's convention committee on resolution may be like-minded as to condemnation of war.

In the address to the 1912 convention by Rev. Fred Thornberg of Auburn, he argued for the combination services of Sunday school and church to create a more general participation in the church service by the younger groups. This plan of combined services was later urged as desirable by M. L. Pearce, a speaker at the 1917 convention.

In 1921 DeKalb county had the greatest numbers in Sunday schools of any county in the state in proportion to the population and was the highest rated county in the state. That year, of the 59 schools reported, 57 were pushing interest in temperance organizations and 48 held "Decision Day" services.

In 1925 DeKalb county had 24 schools rating 100 percent by the state standards and the county has been a 100 percent county for many years.

One of the most worthwhile services which the council has rendered to the cause in DeKalb county is the introduction of the following departments and activities in the schools: Graded lessons; cradle roll; home department; tecahers' and officers' training courses; daily vacation Bible schools; temperance and missionary instruction each month; organization of adult classes and Decision Day.

DAVID M. LEWIS ENTERS DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR RACE

Indianapolis, Indiana,
June 5, 1940.

David M. Lewis, Marion County's Prosecuting Attorney, announced today that he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the State Convention here June 27th, and simultaneously opened campaign headquarters in the Claypool Hotel.

Although formal announcement of his candidacy comes only a short while before the convention, the Lewis for Governor movement has been gaining rapid momentum for some time and Democratic leaders in several districts of the state already have indicated their support.

Mr. Lewis has had a wide experience and an educational background which his supporters say will well qualify him for the executive post. He always has been interested in government and its problems, and during his university days he specialized in studies relating to government as well as law.

His outstanding ability and leadership resulted in his unanimous election as president of the Indiana Prosecuting Attorneys' Association which is comprised of both Democrats and Republicans.

As head of that organization, he led in the formulation of a proposed codification and modernization of criminal laws of Indiana, with a view toward speeding up justice, simplifying procedure, and providing for uniformity of sentences for identical crimes.

In administering the office of prosecuting attorney in Marion county Mr. Lewis has eliminated delay in criminal prosecutions and reduced the cost of operation materially, and at the same time provided additional services to the public. He inaugurated the practice of using affidavits for both misdemeanors and felonies; he also instituted the plan whereby a deputy prosecuting attorney is on the scene of crimes along with peace officers. Mr. Lewis' plan has made it possible for his deputies to build up their cases with a first hand knowledge of the situations involved. Another innovation of his was the establishment of a 24-hour service by the prosecutor's office.

Lewis' vigorous investigation and successful prosecution of the Marion county poor relief scandals brought him state-wide commendation and was followed by a governmental revision in poor relief administration that has won the approval of the general public here and elsewhere in Indiana.

In addition to his work as prosecuting attorney and as head of the prosecutors' association, Mr. Lewis is active in affairs of the various bar associations, has served as chairman of the criminal law committee of the Indianapolis Bar Association, and is a former member of the committee on admissions, the executive committee, and the board of managers.

During the past year Pi Sigma Alpha, the national political science fraternity, made him an honorary member, an honor conferred upon him because of his knowledge of the subject and his outstanding work.

Mr. Lewis has been active in Democratic politics in the ranks as well as in public office. In the campaign of 1934 he served as Democratic chairman of Lawrence township. In 1936 he was Democratic county election commissioner.

DAVID M. LEWIS

Mr. Lewis became a deputy prosecutor in 1935 and was nominated as the Democratic candidate for prosecutor in 1938, and elected. His party was so well satisfied with his record he was renominated without opposition in the May primary election.

Mr. Lewis is a native of Indianapolis, and a direct descendant of the family of Meriwether Lewis, member of the historic Lewis and Clark expedition, secretary to President Thomas Jefferson, and first Governor of the Louisiana Territory. He is the son of Frank T. Lewis, a native of Virginia, who has been affiliated with Kingan & Co., packers, for 35 years, and Ann McLeod Lewis, a native of Indianapolis.

Mr. Lewis spent his youth on a farm in Lawrence, Indiana, and was graduated from the Lawrence Township High School. He then entered DePauw University from which he received his A.B. degree. He did graduate work in political science at the University of Chicago and received a degree of Doctor of Law. Following his graduation he entered the practice of law in Indianapolis.

An interesting side-light on Mr. Lewis' character and his energy is revealed in the fact that he earned the money to finance his college education by operating a farm and raising live stock.

In 1931, Mr. Lewis married Elizabeth Lapp. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis are the parents of three boys, David M. Lewis, Jr., 4 years old, and Frank T. and Charles Stanford Lewis, twins, born May 31, 1940.

Mr. Lewis is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, the Scottish Rite and Shrine, and the Methodist Church. He is a member of the Indianapolis and Indiana Bar Associations, the Lawyers' Association of Indianapolis, and the Indianapolis Athletic Club.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1940 NUMBER 25

BICYLISTS BLAMED FOR MANY ACCIDENTS ON THE HIGHWAYS

With the arrival of Summer, thousands of bicycles, will crowd streets everywhere, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club, has pointed out in urging riders to exert extreme caution when in traffic and motorists to be on the alert for emergencies involving the "pedestrian-on-wheel" which might result in death or injury.

"Nearly 800 deaths and more than 38,000 injuries occurred among cyclists last year," he pointed out. "Since bicycle production is reported increasing this year, efforts to keep accidents in check must be doubled."

Mr. Hayes suggests the following twelve rules by which cyclists may best insure their safety:

1. Ride in a straight line. Avoid quick changes of direction.
2. Keep close to the right hand side of the road.
3. Obey traffic officers, lights and stop signs and give proper arm signals just as motorists do.
4. Ride single file on busy streets, never more than two abreast at any time.
5. Avoid pedaling too fast on slippery streets or rough pavement and cross all railroad and street car tracks at right angles to avoid falling.
6. Never hitch rides on cars or trucks.
7. Never "ride" another person.
8. Never try to squeeze into narrow spaces between two vehicles.
9. Keep the bicycle in good condition, the seat correctly adjusted, head and tail lights working properly and handle-bars tight. The law requires a white electric headlight and a tail light, both visible at least 500 feet.
10. Wear something white when riding afer nightfall to help motorists see you.
11. Dismount and walk across busy intersections.
12. Observe local regulations about riding on the sidewalk and keeping off busy streets.

THE MEASURE OF A MAN

Not—
"How did he die?"
But—
"How did he live?"
Not—
"What did he gain?"
But—
"What did he give?"
These are the units
To measure the worth
Of a man, as a man,
Regardless of birth.
Not—
"What was his station?"
But—
"Had he a heart?"
And—
"How did he play
His God-given part?
Was he ever ready
With a word of good cheer,
To bring back a smile,
To banish a tear?"
Not—
"What was his church?"
Nor—
"What was his creed?"
But—
"Had he befriended
Those really in need?"
Not—
"What did the sketch
In the newspapers say?"
But—
"How many were sorry
When he passed away?"

Sunday guests of Mrs. Mary Betz and Mrs. Ada Berry were Mr. and Mrs. George Berry, of Richmond, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Ercile Steward and Miss Jeanne Hatch, of Fort Wayne.

Sixty-five per cent of the members of the 1940 graduating class of Purdue University had jobs awaiting them the day they received their diplomas. This is 9 per cent gain over the figure for the 1939 graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foltz, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Foltz and son, Clyde and Monroe E. Foltz, enjoyed a pleasant day Sunday in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Scofield at Jewel, Ohio, honoring Father's Day and two birthdays, Mrs. Scofield's mother and her Uncle Joe.

Miss Isobel Furnish and Mr. Otis Broom, of Ferndale, Michigan, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh. Mr. M. H. Andress was also a Sunday dinner guest. Mrs. Hursh returned home Saturday evening after spending the week in Ferndale with her sister, Mrs. David Furnish.

For the convenience of employers and employees in the DeKalb County area, and to enable those present who have rights and responsibilities under the Social Security Act to get information and assistance in person, a representative of the Social Security Board will be in Auburn on June 24, 1940, between the hours of 9:30 A. M. and 1:00 P. M. Temporary quarters will be in the Postoffice.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Millin, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Maud Patterson and Dr. Agnes Reiling, of Chicago, Albert Winter of Detroit, Mr. George Patterson, Hicksville, Mr. Merritt Sechler, St. Joe, Mrs. Adda Patterson, Mrs. Della Zonker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harris, Mrs. Catherine Tidwell, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Nessler, of Fort Wayne were Decoration Day and week end guests of Catherine Mahoney at the Andrews Farm.

Mrs. Lucille Provines, daughter, Melva and son, Darwin, of near Butler, were guests of Mrs. S. D. Gee on Sunday forenoon. Mrs. Gee was 80 years old Sunday and the day was observed quietly with the children calling. Foster Gee and wife were afternoon guests. The Christian Church presented her with a large basket of peonies and it was grealy appreciated by Mrs. Gee. She is enjoying fairly good health this Summer.

James Alexander Baysinger, 76, a farmer living two and one-half miles west of Garrett in Keyser township, died Saturday morning at 11:05 at the Sacred Heart hospital in Garrett following an operation for acute appendicitis performed Friday night at 10 o'clock. Mr. Baysinger had apparently been in good health. Friday noon he ate his dinner as usual and went about his duties on the farm, but he returned to the house about 1:30 and complained that he did not feel well. He became worse and was taken to the hospital. Peritonitis set in and he died thirteen hours after becoming ill.

As of the third week in June, fifty men from the Indiana Navy Recruiting District have been enlisted in the U. S. Navy and commenced their training at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois. Ten more enlistments will be made on June 25th, thereby filling this area's June quota of sixty men. Efforts of the Recruiting Service are now being directed toward receiving applications in anticipation of the July Quota which will undoubtedly be in the neighborhood of 75 or 80 men. The age limits are 18 to 31 years, and other requirements are sound physique, character, unmarried, consent of parents is under 21 years of age, and the ability to pass a reasonable mental test, with no particular schooling a necessity.

WHAT IS YOUR LUCK?

Some caught fish and others just fished as Hoosier anglers opened the 1940 season on bass, bluegills and other game species.

Thousands of anglers, including scores of fishermen from neighboring states, were on the Indiana lakes and along the streams on the morning of June 16 when the season opened. Observers claimed that it was the largest crowd of anglers that they had ever seen on an opening day and they also pointed out that more people caught fish than they had seen in past years. There were a number of limit catches and a number of "whoppers" landed. Consult M. E. Storer for verification of this statement.

Fishing interest in Indiana is greater than ever before, due in large part to the better fishing afforded by the hundreds of lakes and miles of streams. Intensive stocking of the waters by the Division of Fish and Game in cooperation with the local conservation clubs—approximately forty million fish were planted in Indiana waters during 1939—has resulted in better fishing in this state each succeeding year.

LOCAL BOY MAKES WESLEYAN BASEBALL TEAM

Loren Laub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Laub, is one of fifteen baseball players selected to go on Illinois Wesleyan (Bloomington) University's annual eastern tour.

Laub was also a member of the squad which went on a Spring-training tour that extended as far south as Pensacola, Florida. During the eastern trip the team will see a dozen states and go as far east as the Atlantic seaboard.

Having recently completed a successful drive for the championship of the Illinois Conference, the Wesleyan aggregation left June 3 to clash with such outstanding teams as Michigan State, Rutgers, Yale, and the University of Vermont.

After defeating Rutgers Saturday the team visited the New York world's fair before meeting Yale in the latter's annual commencement game at New Haven, Conn. The Yale engagement starts the squad on the final lap of their trip, having won three and lost three previous games.

Laub, sophomore at Wesleyan, is third baseman on the team.

SPENCER TWP. HOME BUREAU

The Spencer Township Home Bureau met June 12 at the home of Mrs. Ruth Henderson.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Gladys Depew.

The song, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was sung accompanied by Miss Eula Chaney with her cornet. All answered to roll call, "How I Met My Husband. The motion to give the Red Cross five dollars, which had been carried at a special meeting, was read by Mrs. Zona Abel. An article taken from the Pathfinder, "We Must Help Them," was read by Sarah Lu Shaffer.

The project work on sewing pleats, shell edging, sham and set-in pockets, was given by Mrs. Ruth Baker. Entertainment consisting of comic songs and stunts was given by Elizabeth Hart. A dianty and refreshing lunch was served by the hostess.

Thirteen members and five visitors were present. After receiving the Cheer Sisters' gifts, the meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Edna Goldsmith July 10th. Reporter, Mrs. Zona Abel.

"THE PAUSE THAT REFRESHES"

The vacation which proves most beneficial is the one that combines recreation—Mental, moral, spiritual—with the physical rest obtained in cnial, favorable, and refreshing environments; provision for all these, and more, is made in the plans for the Summer season at Winona Lake, Indiana. Mr. Arthur Wm. McKee is General Manager and Promotional Director of the Winona Lake Christian Assembly, and there has been prepared a program of varied activities, conventions, etc., which will make this famous Chautauqua and Bible Conference center a delight and satisfaction to all who come.

Naturally many Christian Conferences, conventions and rallies are listed, such as the Women's School of Missions (Interdenominational,) June 22-29; Bethany Young People's Conferences, June 23-September 3; United Presbyterian Conferences, July 1-6; Christian Action Crusade, July 8-14; Christian and Missionary Alliance, July 8-14; School of Theology, July 9-August 14; Sudan Interior Mission, July 15-21; National Reform Association, July 22-28; Brethren Church Conference, July 22-28; Jewish Conference, August 5-8; Prophetic Conference, August 8-11; the World's Largest Bible Conference, August 11-25; International Union of Gospel Missions, August 11-14; Interdenominational Evangelistic Association, August 21, 22; Camp Meeting (Gipsy Smith,) August 25-September 1; National Brethren Conference, August 26-September 1; National Conference of Methodist Youth, August 27-September 1; United Brethren, St. Joseph Conference, September 3-8; each Sunday, the Sunday School, the morning preaching service, and at the end of the day the valuable Hillside service, followed by an hour of sacred song.

There are schools and conventions intended for special teaching or work, yet interesting to all: the famous Petrie Band Camp, July 1-August 3; National Photographers' School, July and August; Anti-Alcoholic Seminar, July 1-12; Federation of Women's Clubs, July 26; Women's Week, July 29-August 2; School of Sacred Music, August 12-24; and to large extra-Assembly activities, (all Summer,) the Chicago Boys' Club Camp and Camp Kosciusko in charge of the Presbyterian Synod of Indiana. Also some extraordinary occasions—Dr. Biederwolf Memorial Day, August 18, Foundation Day, August 4, the Winona Schools Reunion, July 27, 28.

The regular Chautauqua program extends from June 30 to August 4, and includes a number of outstanding speakers: Dr. Merton S. Rice, of Detroit; Colonel M. Thomas Tchou, of China; Clyde Williams, noted Alaska trail-blazer; Revs. F. Russell Purdy, Asbury Park, Archer Anderson, Duluth, R. H. Miller, Washington, W. W. T. Duncan, Lakewood, Ohio; and at the popular platform hours, Drs. J. A. Huffman, J. C. Massee, Peder Stiansen, James Charbonnier, W. W. McKinney, Samuel M. Zwemer, R. H. Martin, and others. Included in the program of the Bible Conference are such distinguished teachers and preachers as Governor Luren D. Dickinson, of Michigan, V. Raymon Edman, Paul S. Rees, Herbert W. Bieber, Lewis Sperry Chafer, Bishop Arthur J. Moore, W. W. Ayer, Will H. Houghton, Wilbur M. Smith, H. A. Ironside, Harold Paul Sloan, R. G. LeTourneau.

High-lights and personalities on the Chautauqua program include the Singing Marines, Russell Horton, tenor, the Deep River Singers, "Joan of Arc" (Marionettes,) Jerold Frederic (pianist,) Petrie's White Hussars, Kathryn Turney Garten, Bob Jones, Jr., Mark Love in a dramatic presentation of "Elijah," and Homer Rodeheaver on Foundation Day. All this talent and more—assures visitors of an interesting and valuable program.

The Assembly presents three special features in August—the world's greatest Bible Conference, August 11-25, the School of Sacred Music August 12-24, and the great Camp Meeting, August 25-September 1

A COOL HEAD

It was last Fall the housewives heard the plea for sanity in purchasing sugar. A war scare and storekeepers, bakers, candy manufacturers and housewives all become jittery and jump in to buy large quantities of sugar. What happens, when folks buy frantically to protect themselves in case of a food shortage, is that the price of sugar does a rapid climb. The fire dies and the price of sugar returns to normal. The subsiding of fear and the skyrocketing of prices is not necessarily over. It may come to life and all our produce structure be thrown for a decided panic. We do know that a wide-spread war brings inflation in food prices. The prices doubled during three and a half years of the last World War. The effect of the present conflict will influence the cost of commodities. The greatest harm comes, not during a war, but when the war is over. Can the situation be met so that this general collapse could be averted, or at least not cause such a depression? They say it can if the housewife gives consideration to the problem. We know she can do a great deal to help the situation and one suggestion is to find substitutes for products that show an increase in price. The purchaser asks, in turn, that she be informed concerning possible shortages and that she be made aware of justified increases and infringement by war-profiteers.

We are not in the war but we are considering the many phases that would effect us were we engaged in it. The housewife will get out her pencil and figure on today's living costs, but she should do her figuring for mass buying calmly and without frenzy. Keep the problem of today's living from becoming any more of an enigma than it is already.

LOOK AROUND

Here's a thought passed to readers that was given your editor by a local citizen. In replying to our question about a coming trip he plans for the Summer, "Our family enjoys a motor trip and a vacation the same as all families. We owe it to our dispositions to take trips and see the country. But when we get back to this town, nothing we have seen ever looks quite so good as our own yard. Maybe we need these jaunts to appreciate what is here in our home town."

There is sound sense in this, and although other states can proffer new sights, though visiting other cities might appear for a time, however short a stay away from St. Joe will convince you that there is much to like right here at home. We are too anxious to think that the other fellow's life contains much more in the way of advantages. We may envy him his home and salary, but take a vacation away from home and your own environment and when you return to unlock the front door you will forget the other fellow's benefits.

PICKING UP

A recent survey shows that there are some husbands that stop the family car at roadside stands, as surprising as it sounds. These accommodating fellows buy a total of $3,000,000,000 worth of goods annually from the many roadside stands that dot the country's roads. They estimate that there are at least 300,000 of such stands and you don't have to drive very far from St. Joe before you find one or more of them. They offer everything from fruits, vegetables, dairy products, honey, maple aygar, and soft drinks, to pottery, glassware and bedspreads. There isn't a woman in our town who can't direct you to one of them even though she may be married to one of those fellows who speeds up the car when he sees indications of a roadside stand ahead.

FAIR AND HOTTER

Due to the variety of weather we have had during the Winter, followed by a very late and extremely wet Spring, there are cropping up a lot of unusual predictions for the Summer weather. We are far enough along in June to see whether "one extreme follows another," or a "most unusually cool Summer. Who can insist upon a year without a Summer when the collar has already started to wilt and the rays of Sol have started chasing the thermometer up to high? The conditions of crops around St. Joe look good, as a whole, and although the reluctancy of Spring gave us a late start, the advent of Summer indicates that the heatful months to come will be forceful in seeing that we weakly seek the shade and shelter.

SAVE AS WELL AS SPEND

The present Federal debt limit of $45,000,000,000 will undoubtedly be raised to around $50,000,000,000 in order to make it possible to provide new capital for the national defense program, as thecurrent peace debt is virtually at the legal limit.

FINAL CHICK CALL!

For you late Chick buyers who have not as yet bought Chicks, we have some good news in the way of Started Chick Prices. We have on hand a large selection of started Chicks in Barred and White Rocks, also 175 White Leghorns and 100 New Hampshire Reds at Closing Out Prices.

Our 1940 hatching season is over but we still have plenty of May Chicks on hand. These Chicks will need no further heat, the only cost for further raising will be the feed cost. Statistics show a 25% decrease in Chick Sales this year which should mean a corresponding increase in Egg Prices next Fall.

War conditions may also be a deciding factor in increased Egg and Poultry Prices. So for ease and low cost of raising, our Started Chicks will make you money. All our flocks are Bloodtested insuring you of the Best of Chicks which means Profitable Layers.

Remember "St. Joe Valley Chicks are best."

The cost of an adequate defense structure will reach incredible totals. In addition to raising the debt limit and taxes, it is certainly the duty of public officials of both parties to reduce government expenditures for other, less essential purposes—even at the expense of pet political projects that have swallowed billions of the nation's wealth.

There is an inseparable relationship between national defense and national fiscal solvency. Each increase in taxes or debt must inevitably result in a steady lowering of a nation's resources. It is as important to learn to save as it is to spend when national emergencies demand it.

The defense program must be pushed with all speed. Similar speed should be shown in paring every nickel possible from the ordinary Federal budget in order to release every available dollar of regular government income for legitimate defense needs. Every conceivable economy should at once be effected so that increases in taxes and debt may be held to the absolute minimum.

A sound fiscal policy is one of the most vital factors in a national defense program.

The only change in the 1940 regulations from those in effect during the past year on squirrel has been to delay the opening of the open season in the Northern Zone from September 1 to September 2, as the 1st is on Sunday when hunting is prohibited. The season will end on October 31 this year instead of October 30 as in 1939. No change was made in the open season dates for the Southern Zone, the season there starting on August 10 and ending on October 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Almond Reinhart and Miss Viola Ginder, of near Butler, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reinhart, assisting in celebrating the host's birthday.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The papers report, generally with favorable comment, a growing opinion that Congress should remain in session beyond the date tentatively set for adjournment. The argument put forward is voluminous, and in many respects forceful.

The public print points out that each day brings its own grave question to be answered, a question with which the President lacks power to deal by himself, as events of the last fortnight have established. To disperse and reconvene Congress would result in delay at a time when an hour counts. Enforced military training is up for decision, and the decision has not been made by the legislative power which must have the say.

The pressure of the period has resulted in the suggestion of courses of action, and in some instances in legislation, which at best must be regarded as no more than cut and try expedients. The tax bill approved by the House, and calculated to yield a billion dollars, can be regarded as no more than a temporary stop gap. The entire tax system is in need of revision, as the Secretary of the Treasury has testified.

If a reconstructed taxing method calls for thought and careful planning, the same may be said of provisions for defense. While it was necessary that something be done without delay, the spur of the moment may be the parent of a child born out of time. Prompt action will not suffice. The head as well as the heart should govern money outlay and should direct a husbandry of effort, energy and natural resources.

Such, in brief, are some of the reasons advanced for holding Congress at its desk, and coupled with them is the feeling that generally stated, issues that concern so vitally the long future of the people at large, should be handled by the representatives whom the people have chosen.

Although 42 out of 372 Representatives turned a kindly eye on Mr. Bridges, the 330 who voted to escort him out of the country may be sure of support at home. Senate action will be awaited with interest. The Bill of Rights has been invoked in his behalf. One of the things to be taken into consideration in construing an enactment is the intention of the framers of it. It would be idle to assume that when the free speech article of the Bill of Rights was added to the Constitution, the fathers had it in mind that everyone should be at liberty to advocate a chucking overboard of that same Constitution and the adoption of a form of government of European invention. What Mr. Bridges would have received in Russia or Germany, arguing in favor of American democracy, is painful to think about. The limit of charity is represented by a deportation ruling which permits him to depart with an unpunctured pelt.

When a Senator of good standing, high ability and unquestioned patriotism, voices a determination to break with his political organization if it insists upon becoming a war party, one must admit that some advocates of a hands off policy have the strength of honest conviction. Likewise, there is rugged cogency in the warning of another Senator of like reputation, that talking about going to war in our existing state of unpreparedness is a foolish business. Yet going to war is one thing, and facing war which comes to us in quite another. It may be that the land is in no danger of attack. The position of those who think so is weakened rather than strengthened by the solemn assurance of Mr. Hitler that he has no designs on the Americas.

With German arms sweeping on beyond Paris, the condition of France indeed appears to be that of dire extremity. The consolation to be offered to the nation at the moment is not different in kind from that which can be tendered to the mourners for its honorable dead: that they shall rise again. Hitlers bearing a different surname have come heretofore, but time invariably has decreed that they must go. It looks as though the French would have to be content with that solace.

ENOUGH ELECTRICITY CAN BE BOUGHT TO EQUAL TWO HOURS OF HARD WORK

IT IS difficult to say just how much useful work this gal might be doing pushing a lawn mower around the lawn. Engineers would figure the height and density of the grass, the slope of the lawn and the drawbar pull on the mower. Perhaps it would be more useful if she turned it over to the old man and made him reduce his waist line. Without being technical, just remember that one cigarette's worth of electricity at our low rates will always do more work than any man or woman can do in two hours.

Fanny's Title

By BUD OVERMAN

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

FANNY REGAL had always lived with her aunt and uncle in a medium-priced apartment. She had studied music and art and elocution (called expression, which was too strong a word entirely for the instruction she had!) and had been prepared hopefully by her aunt for a legacy that had been long looked for.

And now the legacy had come! Uncle Regal quickly bought in Fanny's name a beautiful country estate some thirty miles out of the city, according to the genial realtor who closed the deal.

"And now, Fanny," said Aunt Regal, "your estate is much, much larger than we hoped it might be, and there is no use in letting yourself be married off to some commoner. You will marry a title. You can well afford it, dear. And I'll get you the title, see?"

And, sure enough, they hadn't been in the new house two weeks before a prince was invited to visit them for the week-end.

"So lucky you've been trained to sing a little and play a little and speak nice pieces," said her aunt to Fanny. "It will stand you in good stead now that you are to marry into royalty, my dear."

"Oh, but, aunty!" expostulated Fanny with a pretty blush. "Nothing is settled yet, you know. Why, I haven't even seen this prince of yours and he hasn't seen me."

"Well, I must say," admitted her aunt, "he certainly isn't much for looks. Skinny old thing, to tell the truth. But when he sees you, my dear—you're remarkably pretty, you know—and then with the pennies you have . . ."

"It's a pity that the head gardener isn't a prince," mused Fanny.

She looked at the gardener wistfully. She found occasion to ask him how hollyhocks were planted and taken care of.

"You like hollyhocks?" asked the gardener gravely.

"Oh, yes," said Fanny. "When I was a little girl, Sims, we had a book at home showing English gardens, and they always seemed to have tall hollyhocks nodding in such a gracious manner. Of course, that sounds silly—but they did look like that—really!"

"It doesn't seem a bit silly to me," he replied, as he bent over some very fine bulbs he was planting himself. "Weston! Wheel the barrow over fifty yards west there—to that bed I've been having smoothed."

"Don't talk to these gardeners, child," scolded her aunt. "They charge us an incredible sum for the work anyhow. Why that head gardener has a college degree, if you'll believe it."

And so Fanny found that Sims would talk a little about college and hollyhocks and the bugs that bother rose bushes.

The night that the prince arrived found Fanny weeping stormily in the garden pergola. "Skinny old thing!" she wailed between sobs.

"Who?" demanded a voice at her elbow.

And then she was telling Sims all about it, and some way or other his arms went around her to comfort her and pretty soon—well, well—these things will happen—he kissed her! And Fanny, having been brought up very strictly by her watchful aunt, considered themselves engaged immediately and Sims willingly agreed to hustle right off after a wedding license. In fact, he was more than willing.

And when they came back next morning to the estate Fanny expected her aunt to marvel at the romance of it all. Instead her uncle told Winfield Sims that he was a rascally fortune hunter.

"As far as that doggoned prince was concerned," said Uncle Regal to Fanny, quite as if her husband were not there at all, "you didn't miss a thing. It seems he gave his real name all right, but I had some detectives look him up, and, say! He didn't have a title any more'n I have—the faker! Why, he'd served time in a penitentiary—and he—"

"Oh, oh, oh!" laughed Fanny. "I believe I'm going to be a character reader or whatever they're called. I didn't like his looks at all and Win didn't like him either. Did you, Win?"

Winfield Sims did not hear his new wife. He was staring with horror-stricken eyes at a telegram that a servant had just put into his hands. "My—my brother has been killed—hunting. They cabled the New York lawyer and he telegraphed that I—I must go home at once."

"Did you think so much of this brother?" asked Aunt Regal uneasily as she looked at his suddenly deep-lined face.

"I haven't seen him for eight years," confessed Winfield. "But, you see, it will take Fanny away from you—I—I'll inherit the title now and I'll just about have to live at home to take charge of things. You see, I wanted to make my own way and I decided on expert gardening. I never thought of inheriting the title because there is only eighteen months' difference in age between Steven and me. Poor Steven! Will you mind—much—living abroad, Fanny, darling?"

And so, after all, Aunt Regal had her way and Fanny married a title.

The Indiana Board of Agriculture has named July 15th as the date for placing 225,000 half-priced 25-cent admission tickets to the 1940 Indiana State Fair, August 30-September 6, on sale throughout the state. Phares L. White, Oxford, Indiana, president of the board, declared the total of 225,000 tickets offered this year is 25,000 more than last year when the supply of 200,000 popular bargain priced ducats were sold within a total of 21 days.

The Auburn-Butler county road is being improved by the application of two inches of gravel and clay, covered with calcium choirlde. This is the first time that calcium chloride has been used on DeKalb county highways, although it is employed in other sections. It is a salty substance and holds moisture to keep dust from flying. The amount required is about seven tons to a mile and it is applied with a spreader resembling a farm drill. The improvement is made without closing a road to traffic. The first two and a half miles east from Auburn on the Butler road has been thus improved and an additional mileage on the same highway will be covered later. The work is being done under the supervision of Wayne Van Auken, county highway supervisor.

IN our town, this minute, a force you never see is helping us keep fire in its place. The homes we live in, the churches we worship in, the schools to which we entrust our children are vastly safer from fire.

This servant of ours is 200 capital stock* fire insurance companies. Through their public service organization, The National Board of Fire Underwriters, they have promoted improved building codes, safer electrical home appliances, adequate water supply, more efficient fire-fighting apparatus, better fire drills in schools.

Why do they bother? Making property safer... besides being humane ... is plain good business. Making fire behave reduces the losses these companies have to pay, and reduces the price you pay for insurance. When you buy capital stock company fire insurance, you help in this humane work—and get sound protection for yourself.

Let us protect your home, furnishings, business, automobile and other possessions with dependable, economical capital stock company fire insurance.

The advice and service of your local insurance Agent may be invaluable if you sustain a loss . . . particularly when he has had an opportunity to plan your insurance program before a loss occurs.

CAPITAL STOCK Standard protection COMPANY INSURANCE

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY FIRE INSURANCE provides sound protection at a predetermined price, without risk of further cost. In addition to legal reserves, its policies are backed by cash capital and surplus funds set aside to meet not merely normal claims but also the sweeping losses due to conflagrations and other catastrophes. Its organized public services are national in scope. Its system of operating through Agents everywhere gives prompt personal service to policyholders.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1940 NUMBER 26

MRS. A. R. COLE, PASSED AWAY AT GARRETT

Mrs. Lorinda Cole, 77, of 608 South Peters Street, Garrett, died Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. She had been ill for the past five years with anemia and was bedfast for twelve weeks.

Mrs. Cole was born June 7, 1863, near St. Joe, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Wineland, and was married to A. R. Cole October 1, 1882. He died May 13, 1937. Mrs. Cole had been a resident of Garrett for fifty years.

Survivors are three children, Miss Fairie Cole, at home, Albert A. Cole, Garrett, and Rayford Cole, Chicago; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Baker, of Auburn, and Mrs. Elma Pontius, of Elkhart; two brothers, John Wineland, of St. Joe, and Hugh Wineland, of Elkhart, and three grandsons.

Funeral services were held at the Garrett Church of Christ Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the Rev. Harold Dunson officiating and the Rev. D. J. Dunkin assisting. Interment was made at Riverside cemetery, St. Joe.

Mrs. Cole was a member of the Church of Christ and the Rebekah lodge.

FARM BUREAU

The Tri-Township Farm Bureau meeting will be held July 2, at 8:30 P. M. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook, one mile east and two miles north of St. Joe.

A very interesting program has been arranged, including music by Bob Gebhart's Fort Wayne Accordion Band, accompanied by marimbas. Senator Larry Brandon will be the principal speaker of the evening.

The public is invited to come and enjoy the evening. In case of storm the meeting will be held in the St. Joe Gymnasium.

Ladies please bring cake.

I. K. Hook, Chairman,
Howard Shilling, Secretary.

HELP TO PREVENT DEATH FROM APPENDICITIS

To make the American people as free from appendicitis mortality as medical science believes possible is the aim of Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, third vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. But, he says, at the present time the composite American appendix is the "birth place of 15,000 deaths a year."

Deploring this high and largely needless mortality, Dr. Armstrong points out that these 15,000 deaths could be reduced by at least 50 per cent through the observance of a simple three-point rule. So, in case of a stomach-ache which may turn out to be an attack of appendicitis, he says to play safe and—

Call a doctor.

Remain quiet and apply an ice bag to the abdomen.

Refrain from taking a laxative, food, or medicine.

FOUR RULES FOR THE FOURTH

1. Don't use fireworks.
2. Take it easy on the road. Start in time. Don't speed or take chances in passing, especially on curves or hills.
3. Dont overdo in exercise, eating or exposure to sun.
4. If you swim—

Don't go in alone or when overheated.

Wait an hour after eating.

Know the depth of the water.

Don't show off or indulge in horseplay.

TOWNSEND MEETING

The Townsend Club will meet at the Town Hall, Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock. Some flash communications direct from Washington giving the progress of the recovery plan petition that is now before congress will be read. All persons interested are invited whether members or not.

Tennessee communities that have suffered millions in tax losses by kicking out highly taxed private electric companies and substituting largely tax-exempt TVA power, have been asking Congress for Federal funds to recompense them. Why should the Federal government recompense local communities for taxes lost when they deliberately destroy their tax-paying industries? The obvious answer is, it shouldn't—either make up such deficits by raising the rates of public power plants to pay taxes, or raise the tax rates on remaining taxable property.

Funeral services for the late Ellery Brace, who lived on the Allen-DeKalb County Line, southeast of Auburn, were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Scipio Methodist Church. Rev. L. E. Clayton, of Spencerville, officiated and burial was made in the Scipio cemetery. Mr. Brace, age 75, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon from a heart attack. He was taken ill while painting farm implements at his home. He walked into the house and laid down on a couch where he died a few minutes later. The deceased was born February 6, 1865, on the farm where he died. On January 15, 1913, he was married to Miss Minnie Kester, of Scipio township, who with a son, Glenn, at home, survive.

Only 150 applications for fireworks display permits have been received by the state fire marshal's office, according to Clem Smith, fire marshal. Deadline for receipth of applications was Thursday. Under the new fireworks law which is in effect this year, fireworks are limited to public displays and by permits from the state fire marshal. The permits are then sent to the fire chief if the displays are to be in a city, or to the county sheriff, and bonds of $500 must be posted by the sponsors.

Leas, of Waterloo, was chairman, and Buster Hetrick acted as secretary.

The giant snow cruiser, in which Admiral Richard E. Byrd hoped to roll across the Antarctic, proved "not so hot" on frigid terrain, its thirty-five-year-old engineer disclosed. Charles Meyer, home to visit his wife and parents after return to the United States aboard the Expedition Ship Bear, said the 75,000-pound monster disappointed the explorers with its performance. Chief trouble, he said, was insufficient power. The expedition arrived in the Antarctic Summer, Meyer related, and recurring snowfalls kept a soft blanket eighteen to twenty inches deep on the vast ice shelf. Through this the huge machine wallowed with difficulty. Since the Bear left Antarctica, however, the snow has been frozen solid, the engineer continued, adding conditions probably are more favorable for the cruiser.

THE LILY

A Lily grew so pure and white
  Beside the house, beneath my window light.
When I awoke at break of day
  Dew's choicest gems on its petals lay.
The rising sun shone in its heart
  Revealing purity in its every part.
I loved its beauty, I loved its grace,
  And a flash of shame spread o'er my face,
When in my thoughts I did compare
  My heart with its heart so white and fair.
God made me and the Lily, too,
  But God gave me His will to do,
And I have failed in His light
  And even the purity of the Lily so white.

Mrs. Will Goldsmith, of Alvarado, is reported in quite poor health.

Miss Myrtle Hamman, of Quincy, Michigan, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. William Strouse and family.

Rev. Robert Treat, former St. Joe Methodist pastor, was in town Tuesday evening, accompanied by Charles Smith of Maples.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Tustison, of near Fort Wayne, were here Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tustison. They spent part of the day at Hamilton Lake accompanied by Paul and Carl Tustison.

Vance Woodcox was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, over Sunday. Coming home from Bloomington on Saturday night, where he had spent several days with officials of the RCA inspecting their new radio factory. He was met at Fort Wayne by his father and returned there Sunday evening.

Mrs. Hollis Dilley pleasantly entertained a few old friends Monday afternoon. An indoor picnic and recalling early school day experiences along with a few "big" fish stories were the high spots of the party. Those present were Mrs. Mary Sechler, Mrs. Mary Shuff, Mrs. Loretta Hull, Mrs. Elizabeth Milliman, Mr. Byron Widney, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham and Mrs. Jessie Sommer who has been a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dilley the past week.

A verdict of $9,000 was returned Thursday night against two defendants in the damage suit of the Peoples Savings and Loan association of DeKalb county against nine former directors and a former field agent. They were W. J. Mondhank, of Butler, and C. C. Muhn. The plaintiff claimed the defendants made loans in excess of the legal limitations that resulted in losses and ordered dividends paid when there were no net earnings available. The demand in the complaint was for $35,000. The trial was started last Monday and the jury was given the case at 12:20 Thursday noon, reporting at 10:55 o'clock Thursday night.

RURAL HOUSEWIFE NEWS

The R. H. Club was pleasantly entertained June nineteenth at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Crothers. Twelve active and one associate member and six children were present. The hostess served a delicious lunch at the close of the meeting. Next meeting to be July second at the home of Mrs. Edna Jenkins at St. Joe.

ELKHART LADIES SPEND DAY IN ST. JOE

Last Wdenesday while The News was being printed, three ladies came into The News office, and one of them said, "I would like to pay up my subscription to The News" and she introduced herself as Mrs. Prudie Lounsbery-Congdon, and of course she was remembered then as one having received The St. Joe News as long as the present editor could remember, and she stated also that it has been fifty-two years since leaving St. Joe, and that her father had been one of the pioneer subscribers.

Mrs. Congdon then introduced her daughter, Mrs. Florence Richardson, and a friend Mrs. Jessie Vollmar-Prethuff, also of Elkhart, but who was a former St. Joe resident, and whose name will be remembered by many of our readers.

Their stay was short at our office because they were stopping at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees for luncheon. Before leaving the ladies expressed a desire to spend several days in St. Joe, and to again renew old acquaintances.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

A clear day and lots of farm work reduced receipts of livestock 108 head from last week's total. Most out of town buyers went home with less than full orders. Bidding was active at the following prices. Hogs, 175 to 225, $4.70 to $4.90. Some vaccinated lights, 100 to 130 pounds, $4.90 to $5.05. Fat sows, $3.35 to $3.80. A few light smooth sows at $4.00. Stags, $2.75 to $3.00. Boars, $1.00 to $1.50.

Select veals, $9.40 to $9.50. Good calves, $8.90 to $9.25. There were only a few light slaughter calves on sale but these were taken by Mr. Borrmann for the Chicago market at proportionally higher prices than was paid for good heavy veals. In the cattle department common butcher heifers weighing from 800 to 900 pounds, $7.00 to $8.00. The top price for slaughter cows was paid to Joe Ferguson, who received $5.60 for a fattened Jersey cow. A heiferette weighing 1140 brot $6.10. Thin discarded dairy cows, $4 down. A small Angus bull, weighing 530 brought $7.10 and some dairy bulls of near the same weight selling by the head brought up to $7.50 per cwt.

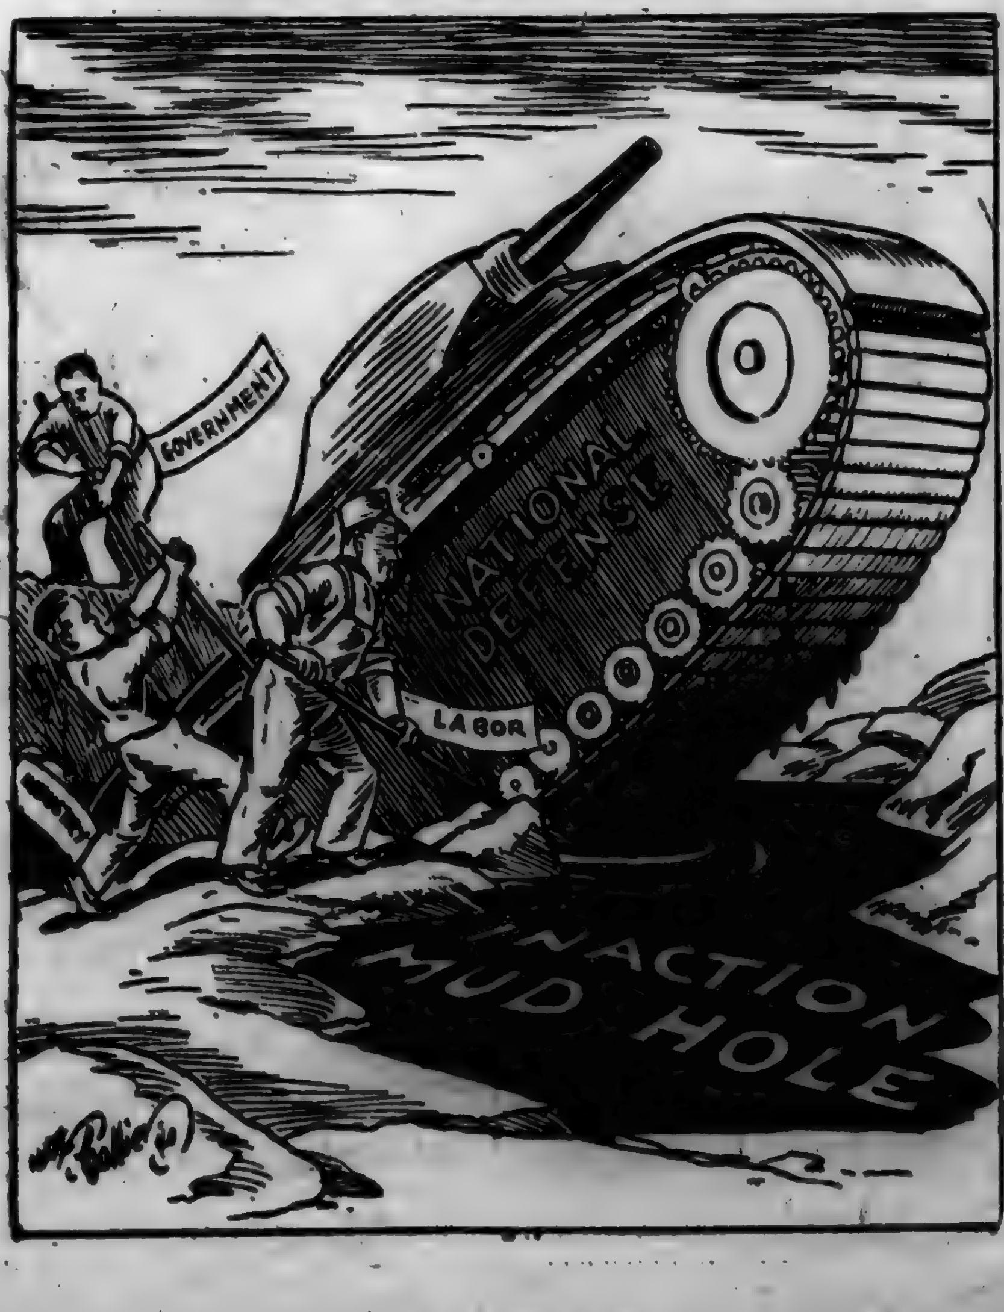
TIME TO GET GOING!



The surrender of Paris, which was followed almost at once by the collapse of French military resistance, was more than a disaster for the French Republic, more than a great victory for Hitler's incredible war machine. It was a symbol of the cataclysmic changes that are taking place at a bewildering speed in the world we live in. For Paris, with London, has long been associated in men's minds with freedom—with all that democracy means. And democracy is what Hitler, as he said and wrote time and again, is out to destroy. Paris is—or used to be—a living example of all that Nazism abhors.

Little by little we are coming to realize that this is not a war in the traditional sense. It is, instead, a revolution with the most far-reaching purposes imaginable. There have always been victors and vanquished in war. But, once the peace treaties were drawn, the world went on much as it did before. The victorious powers did not attempt to force a government, a philosophy of life of their own choosing, on the conquered. Few are able to believe that if Hitler wins he will be satisfied with such rewards as financial reparations, the restoration of the pre-war German colonies and similar material gains. For Hitler, as Mein Kampf vividly indicates, is consumed by two ambitions. One is to make the German race master of all Europe and perhaps, in the fullness of time, the world. The other is to destroy the capitalistic system, liberalism in government, and the democratic process. We have many an object lesson in the countries he has so far taken. In every instance freedom of press and speech and all rights of protest, have been abrogated 100 per cent. While the forms of local government are permitted to exist, all important decisions and policies are made in Berlin. Revolt of any kind against Nazi orders is punished with the utmost severity. And racial minorities, especially the Jews, are ruthlessly oppressed.

Men who have had contact with high German circles have lately been describing what they believe a Hitler victory would mean to Europe, and to the balance of the world. They say that the Fuehrer envisions a Germanic Europe in which only the German, the master race, would be permitted to bear arms. A European customs union, completely German controlled, would be established. The smaller nations would disappear, or would exist as mere geographical entities, without power or real meaning. All currencies would be dominated by Germany, and Germany would establish the terms on which trade between peoples could be carried on. The gold standard, of course, would cease to exist. It would be replaced by some sort of a barter system. The "superior" peoples of Europe—the British, the French, the Scandinavians, etc.—would command a high standard of living, while the "inferior" peoples, such as the Slavs, would be in the position of slaves, performing the hard labor and receiving in return just enough food and clothing and lodging and medical attention to keep them alive and able to work.

So far as this hemisphere is concerned, there are two theories. One is that, after Hitler had consolidated Europe, he would attack the Americans with military force. The other is that he has no such plans—which is what he said in his recent interview with an American news correspondent. The second theory has many authoritative adherents. Hitler, they say, feels that the Americans would have to come to terms with him whether they wished to or not, in order to dispose of their surplus commodities and manufactures abroad. The Americas, he reasons, must have foreign trade—and that necessity would drive them to join in whatever system of commerce he establishes. Our gold—and at the moment we have some 60 per cent of all the world's monetary gold—would be useful only for filling teeth and manufacturing jewelry.

One note of optimism is occasionally sounded. Even if Hitler wins an overwhelming victory in Europe, some hopefuls say, he will not be able to put his plans into effect. This is based on the fact all the empires won by conquest in the past have invariably collapsed sooner or later of their own weight. Conquered people are not cooperative—a tremendous part of the conqueror's energies and resources and man power must be given to policing them. And in time, the conqueror grows rich and soft.

So much for speculation. This seems sure—tomorrow's world, no matter who wins this war, will be a vastly different place than the world of today. There will, say the authorities, be famines, depression, constant social and economic upheavals. The future for all nations is far from bright.

FINAL CHICK CALL!

For you late Chick buyers who have not as yet bought Chicks, we have some good news in the way of Started Chick Prices. We have on hand a large selection of started Chicks in Barred and White Rocks, also 175 White Leghorns and 100 New Hampshire Reds at Closing Out Prices.

Our 1940 hatching season is over but we still have plenty of May Chicks on hand. These Chicks will need no further heat, the only cost for further raising will be the feed cost. Statistics show a 25% decrease in Chick Sales this year which should mean a corresponding increase in Egg Prices next Fall.

War conditions may also be a deciding factor in increased Egg and Poultry Prices. So for ease and low cost of raising, our Started Chicks will make you money. All our flocks are Bloodtested insuring you of the Best of Chicks which means Profitable Layers.

Remember "St. Joe Valley Chicks are best."

JUSTLY PROUD

Do we fully realize why we celebrate the Fourth of July? Are our children wholly aware of the significance of this day? Consider the importance of the American way of life that the Declaration of Independence gives us. We did not obtain all this peacefully but gained it through war and dedicating the new flag with American blood, blood of men who would die in order that their children might be free. And so there was born a nation of people who formed a republic based on foundation of free speech, the right to make their own laws that govern them, to choose their religion as their conscience dictated. Those colonists who fougth valiantly at Valley Forge and Lexington, were lead by love of liberty and freedom from oppression. They too fought for a cause they believed right and there is no true American who questions that cause, who does not thrill to the lines of our Declaration of Independence, who would not sacrifice were the cup to pass to him. Today as we revere this Fourth, we are cerebrating the sisterhood of states united in peace under the bonds of liberty, justice, brotherly love and patriotism. Those who live under the protection of this flag, who would undermine its meaning, who would change its government, who would subjugate its citizens to one-man rule, that man beware the fury of a nation who honors its priceless heritage and who will not permit anyone to tamper with its hard fought-for freedom. That man beware of the ghosts of departed pioneers who placed on the map of the world, through life and blood, the name of the greatest nation in the universe.

IN THE WAKE

The papers following the observance of a national holiday are always crowded with disasters due to a careless celebration. They deal with traffic accidents and casualties from fireworks after the Fourth of July festivities. There can be one hopeful note sounded this year in regard to the holiday and that is of the many cities that have placed a ban against firecrackers. It is impossible to get a correct number of those who suffered injury due to fireworks last year, for many are the cases never appearing on the record. We do know that the nation's youth suffers at the hands of gun powder and the eyes lost, burns and lacerations received, fractured fingers, hands amputated, explosions resulting in outright deaths, all tend to dim the glory of the Fourth which should not suffer at our hands.

The auto accidents of other holidays pile up such a total that many people refrain from driving at this time. They prefer to stay home than to run the risk of holiday accidents in traffic. Take your time, DeKalb County drivers, for you will get to your destination all in one place. If you do a bit of imbibing save your partying after you reach your destination. Let not the happiness of anyone be ruined by your selfishness and carelesnsess.

TELL US

This is a personal note from your editor which we issue at about this time of each year, asking for your cooperation in helping us with the Summer's printing. We know that you will give us consideration as you realize your travels, guests and entertaining as well as other items of local interest, is a refreshing bit to our readers. The editor is always willing and happy to be stopped on the street to jot down any bit of news. Large papers who employ a staff of news gatherers are papers no more eagerly read by folks than are we right here in St. Joe. People want their hometown papers and they are naturally interested in news of their hometown friends. Tell them through us and your reward is in making this paper better reading and this is worth something to you.

AN OPEN SEASON

The government sends a piece of literature dealing with a subject of importance to the well-being of all of us. We are advised to pass on the word to housewives of St. Joe and Spencerville to do their best to rid surroundings of Summer's pest, the housefly. Science has shown us the ills that follow in the path of the fly and science has given us various ways of eradicating the menace through poisons. Simpler means and one especially most commonly used is the old standby, fly paper. But however, try to eliminate the very drawing of flies by keeping refuse and garbage containers away from the living quarters. Burn everything possible in order to safeguard the health of our family and neighbors. Screen your doors and windows well. A fly is small but he is capable of instigating a man-sized epidemic.

THEY WATCH THIS

Uncle Sam warns the farmer of the danger that exists for him during June, July and August. This is combustion time and estimated that eight of every ten hay fires come during these three months. The majority of these fires occur in alfalfa, clover and soybean hay. Our farmers around the Tri-Townships will keep their eyes on their storage bins. They will sense offensive odors. These men are wise in the ways of agriculture and they know too well the importance of guarding the source of their Uncle Samuel's greatest wealth. The farmers we know are always on their toes in caring for their homes and barns, land and crops, their stock and poultry. But we pass on this warning for what might suffice as a gentle reminder of combustion months.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The appointment of Henry L. Stimson, of New York, as Secretary of the Navy, and the selection of Col. Frank Knox, of Chicago, to serve as Secretary of War, came to both political parties as something of a shock. To the one, because it seemed that there were plenty of good soldiers in the ranks who might have been commissioned: to the other, because it appeared that able men had forsaken the ancient faith, and that a coalition cabinet had been started, much as the Republicans abhorred such a move.

The coalition plan was repudiated by a prompt statement by party leaders that although Messrs, Knox and Stimson might serve if they chose, they did so as individuals, and not as representatives of the Republican organization. The President's comment amounted in substance to the statement that now is the time for all good men to come to the relief of the nation. Unconfirmed rumor has it that former Secretary of War Woodring retired freely, but with a willingness that arose out of differences of opinion too deep to be reconciled.

With not only the common weal but also with an early recess in view, the Senate made short and favorable work of what is set down as the heaviest peacetime tax in history, for purposes of defense. The vote was seventy-five "for" and five "against." As to manner of collection the levy will fall with the impartiality of the rain, and the chances of escape will be small, should there be those willing to let the other fellow do the defense financing.

Canada is reported to be getting right down to brass tacks in the matter of compulsory military training. Mexico, too, thinks that preparation along that line is in order. Whether or not the United States will fall in line is a matter of conjecture.

The President is of the opinion that compulsory training is needed, not only for service on the field of battle, but as well in the quieter walks, where mechanics, and indeed almost everyone, may be of use. It is said that it will be a matter of weeks only, before a Presidential message will be read before Congress on the subject of training.

Objectors see in conscription, nothing but a movement toward a truculent, chip-on-the-shoulder attitude, having no justification in a land that essentially, or theoretically at least, is at peace. The White House feels that war, though not in immediate prospect, is far from inevitable, and that it is a common duty to prepare for the worst, at the same time hoping for the best.

Each point of view can call sound arguments to its support. What is more irritating and seemingly more unjust than that a man must calculate that a definite portion of his life span is to be dedicated to drill and camp, whether he will or not? On the other hand, who wants Hitler? Can he be put down only by the same preparatory methods that enabeld him to push his spearhead into the vitals of France? The conscription proposal certainly is entitled to its day in court.

When it comes to keeping up with events, one is inclined to recall the negro's description of the express-train, which went so fast that an onlooker had time to do no more than say: "Here she comes" and "There she goes." By the time that these words are off the press, the world may know the German terms prescribed for France, and the French reaction to them: but at this date, those terms are under discussion. There is something disgustingly petty in the selection by Germany, as a place of conference, of the same railway coach in which Germany had to eat humble pie at the close of the World War. Mussolini did not participate in the latest conference. The most abject object is not France. It is rather Italy, liberal with bombast about the restoration of the might of the Roman Empire; in practice compelled to trail along as the tail of the German kite.

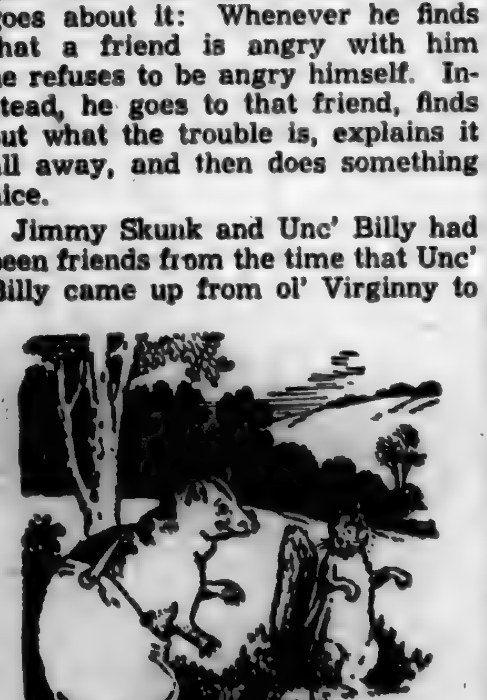
UNC' BILLY TELLS JIMMY SKUNK A SECRET

Be sure before you drop a friend
That you've done nothing to offend.

A FRIEND is always worth keeping. Unc' Billy Possum says so, and he knows. He ought to, for he had made a lot of them in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows, in spite of the pranks he has cut up and the tricks he has played. And when Unc' Billy makes a friend he keeps him. He says that it is easier and a lot better to keep a friend than to make a new one. And this is the way he goes about it: Whenever he finds that a friend is angry with him he refuses to be angry himself. Instead, he goes to that friend, finds out what the trouble is, explains it all away, and then does something nice.



"Don't be hasty, Br'er Skunk; don't be hasty," replied Unc' Billy soothingly.

Jimmy Skunk and Unc' Billy had been friends from the time that Unc' Billy came up from ol' Virginny to live in the Green Forest. In fact, they had been partners in stealing eggs from the hen house of Farmer Brown's boy. So when Jimmy Skunk, who had made a special call on Prickly Porky to find out if he had seen the strange creature without head, tail, or legs that Peter Rabbit said had chased him, told everybody that Prickly Porky had said that he had seen nothing of such a creature, he was very much put out and quite offended to hear that Unc' Billy was telling that Prickly Porky had told him that Peter might really have some reason for his queer story. It seemed to him that either Prickly Porky had told an untruth or that Unc' Billy was telling an untruth. It made him very angry.

The afternoon of the day when Unc' Billy had dared Reddy Fox to go up to the hill where Prickly Porky lives at sun-up the next morning he met Jimmy Skunk coming down the crooked little path. Jimmy scowled, and was going to pass without so much as speaking. Unc' Billy's shrewd little eyes twinkled, and he grinned as only Unc' Billy can grin.

"Howdy, Bre'er Skunk?" said he.

Jimmy just frowned harder than ever, and tried to pass.

"Howdy, Br'er Skunk?" repeated Unc' Billy Possum. "You all must have something on your mind."

Jimmy Skunk stopped.

"I have," he snapped. "I want to know whether it is you or Prickly Porky who has been telling an untruth. He told me that he hadn't seen anything like what Peter Rabbit said chased him, and you've been telling around that he told you that Peter may have had good grounds for that foolish story. If Peter saw that thing Prickly Porky would know it, for he hasn't been away from home this summer. Why would he tell me that he hasn't seen it if he has?"

"Don't be hasty, Br'er Skunk. Don' be hasty," replied Unc' Billy, soothingly. "Ah haven't said that Br'er Porky told me that he had seen the thing that Peter says he saw. He told the truth when he told you that he hadn't seen any stranger around his hill. What he told me was that—" Here Unc' Billy whispered.

Jimmy Skunk's face cleared. "That's different," said he, beginning to smile.

"Of course it is," replied Unc' Billy. "Yo' see, Peter did see something strange even if Br'er Porky didn't. Ah have seen it mahself, and now Ah invites yo' to be over at the foot of Br'er Porky's hill at sun-up tomorrow mo'ning and see what happens when Br'er Fox tries to show how brave he is. Only don' forget that it's a secret."

Jimmy was chuckling by this time. "I won't forget, and I'll be there," he promised. "I'm glad to know that nobody has been telling untruths, and I beg your pardon, Unc' Billy, for thinking you might have been."

"Don' mention it, Br'er Skunk, don' mention it. Ah'll be looking fo' yo' tomorrow mo'ning," replied Unc' Billy, with a sly wink that made Jimmy laugh aloud.

Up for Love

By NINA SLOAN SNELL

(Released by McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

"YOU gotta girl outside, buddy?" Gleason's voice was ingratiating.

The younger convict put down his magazine. "I haven't, but it's a cinch you have," he mumbled, resignedly. "You been stalling for an opening to talk about her ever since I came. Go ahead, brother. Get it over."

Gleason laughed sheepishly. "I guess it was your coming from her town started me thinking about her," he said. "Not that I don't do that a good deal, anyhow. It's what's kept me from blowing my top these nine years."

"That long? You are an old-timer. Does your girl visit you often?"

"Well, buddy, she ain't been to see me—yet. I ain't encouraged her to. I figured it wouldn't look too good for a rich, society lady like her to be running up here all the time."

A skeptical snicker came from the bunk. "What's the idea of ribbing me?"

"I ain't," he protested, earnestly. "My girl's among the highest. Honest! Why she's so up in society they put her picture in the papers sometimes. I cut one out last week. Wait!" He rose and went to a shelf, returning with a newspaper portrait of a beautiful woman.

The new prisoner took the picture. He squinted down at it a moment, then handed it back. "Uh-huh," he assented, grinning, "this here dame's a swell all right. But so's Mrs. Roosevelt and the queen of Greece. Why didn'ja pick on one of them 'stead of Katherine Vanstone?"

"Because they ain't neither of them my girl and Katherine is," Gleason avowed firmly. "How'd yuh come to recognize her?" he asked. "Have you seen her face before?"

"A hundred times. Whatever Mrs. Vanstone does is front-page stuff. I guess it's partly because of the talk there was about her at the time her husband was murdered."

Gleason swallowed. "Queer you'd remember," he murmured.

"I don't. Not all the facts."

"You never knew all the facts. Nor anybody else didn't. I kept my mouth corked. And I reckon I better keep on keeping it corked."

"Pshaw! shoot the works, brother. This is getting hot. I'm interested. And I won't let it go no farther. Let's see—wasn't you the Vanstone's gardener?"

"Their chauffeur," the older man corrected. "I'd been working there a few months. And it was funny," he went on, musingly, "that I didn't have an inkling Katherine had fell for me until the—the night of this—this trouble. Gosh! I was dumb."

"Hadn't she said nothing to let you on?"

"She never spoke to me, except to give an order. Then, this particular evening, she called to me over the house phone. She wanted her car brought around. Said she'd be waiting at the porte cochere. And she was. But I didn't hardly recognize her, at first."

"Why?"

"She looked younger, somehow—and smaller, and—well, sort of pitiful."

"Well, she put her head down on my shoulder and commenced to cry. I—I couldn't hardly believe I was awake.

"Well, after a while Katherine let out that she and Vanstone had quarreled—about me. She'd told him straight that she loved me, and it sent him off his nut. The row ended by his rushing out of the house threatening to get even with her. Which he did. The skunk!"

The young convict made a gesture of protest. "You're going too fast for me, brother," he objected. "Let's turn back to the page where you and Mrs. Vanstone are driving around—"

"—discussing plans for our future," Gleason resumed. "Think of it, buddy! She was willing to ditch her rich husband and give up her fine place in society and all her high-toned friends, just to marry me. I could have listened all night; but she finally decided we'd best go home. And it was after we did that the works got gummed."

"I don't sabe."

"You will. It was the servants' night out and the house was dark. Katherine asked me to go in with her; because she was afraid. It was good she asked it. For the first thing we seen, after I snapped on the lights, was Vanstone's body. The dirty coward had shot himself. At the inquest, they said it happened three hours before we found him.

"Oh! So you took the rap?"

"What else could I do, buddy? Vanstone had used his wife's gun. He'd fixed things so she would have had trouble proving her innocence if somebody hadn't took the blame. An' look what she'd been willing to do for me!"

"I'm not forgetting, brother. But did she really give you—well, so much as a kiss, before you was sent up?"

Gleason shook his head sadly. "No. I've always kind of wished she had. But she couldn't—hardly. You see they took me to jail—"

"Sure, I see. Thanks for the entertainment. That dame cert'n'ly copped herself off a bargain."

Young friends from far and Near, for a day of Christian Fellowship-Park Here!

Officers, Please Announce!

"HELLO, TOM . . . WHEN DO WE START REBUILDING?"

"Well, Jack, quite a fire, eh? Ethel and the kiddies OK? Fine, then there's nothing to worry about. Your insurance* is fire-proof. It will start you rebuilding right away. I've already notified the Company, and they're prompt with their loss payments."

Tom, you see, is Jack's insurance agent. To be sure, he is also the agent of the capital stock* fire insurance company in which he insured Jack . . . but, come the need or emergency, he is Jack's personal representative at the scene of trouble. He lives nearby, has his office in town . . . and he personally planned an adequate insurance program for Jack.

Yes, your local insurance agent is a mighty valuable friend when fire destroys. It is his business to see that his policyholders are protected with the best insurance . . . and his personal services.

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY INSURANCE
Standard protection

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY FIRE INSURANCE provides sound protection at a predetermined price, without risk of further cost. In addition to legal reserves, its policies are backed by cash capital and surplus funds set aside to meet not merely normal claims but also the sweeping losses due to conflagrations and other catastrophes. Its organized public services are national in scope. Its system of operating through Agents everywhere gives prompt personal service to policyholders.

FRED B. LEIGHTY, Agent

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1940 NUMBER 27

WAR DISHEARTENS OLDEST RESIDENT OF 99

Mrs. O. E. IGnther is in receipt of The Evening Sentinel, Carlisle, Pennsylvania, of June 7, containing an article concerning her aunt, Mrs. M. E. Hennigh, 99, and sister of the late William L. Hollabaugh.

We print the newspaper article in full as follows:

If this war continues and America becomes involved Mrs. M. E. Hennigh, of Carlisle, Pennsylvania,, who was ninety-nine years old Friday, June 7, is not so sure that she cares to live to be 100.

Mrs. Hennigh, who is up and about every day and has been ill only three times in her long life watches the progress of the war daily in the newspapers and it distresses her—the thought that men cannot live in peace.

"It will be nice to live to be 100, won't it?" queried one of the many visitors who called to extend birthday felicitations.

"Well, if the war continues and we get in it, I'm not so sure," she answered.

Mrs. Hennigh is looking forward to attending the meeting of veteran telephone employes at Wernersville on June 22. It is one of two annual pilgrimages. The other is to Atlantic City for a "vacation."

The pleasant old lady, who doesn't hear so well but sees perfectly, lives with her daughter and constant companion, Miss Minnie Hennigh whose careful and devoted care are credited by the mother with being important factors in her longevity.

FOUR RULES FOR THE FOURTH

1. Don't use fireworks.
2. Take it easy on the road. Start in time. Don't speed or take chances in passing, especially on curves or hills.
3. Dont overdo in exercise, eating or exposure to sun.
4. If you swim—

Don't go in alone or when overheated.

Wait an hour after eating.

Know the depth of the water.

Don't show off or indulge in horseplay.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

There was a marked shortage of cattle on sale this week with an average supply of hogs and calves. Fat ewes, $2.20 to $3.30. No lambs on sale altho order buyers were willing to pay up to $10.50 for grain fattened lambs.

There were more feeder pigs on sale than we have had for three months. These pigs found new homes in the country at sharply advanced prices, mostly 50 cents per head higher than last week. Most of the fat hogs went to Westfall & Son for the Detroit market. 180 to 225 pounds, $5.45 to $5.60. A few light hogs were taken at the above prices. Extremely heavy hogs 10 cents to 20 cents lower than top prices. Fat sows, $4.20 down to $3.90. Boars 90 cents to $1.20 per cwt.

Select veals, $10.00 to $10.60. Common grades, $9.50 to $10.00. Thin, light veals, suitable for the Chicago market are in good demand and are selling proportionately higher than quality veals. Fat cows, $5.75 to $6.10. Common yellow butcher heifers, $6.00 to $6.70. Bulls, $6.00 to $6.20.

Next week's sale will be held on Friday, July 5.

FOR FISHERMEN

If a spring flows in to cool your favorite stream that is well. Fish usually stop feeding when water temperature is over 72 degrees. Today there is a new gadget on the market used as a fish thermometer. When held in the water it registers the temperature according to depth. This gives the fisherman an idea of where to fish for the kind of prey he wants.

UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

The official Daily Treasury Statement of June 18 showed the the financial condition of the Treasury since July 1, '39, to be:

Expenditures	$9,301,381,606.40
Receipts	$5,655,601,533.20
In the hole	$3,645,780,075.20

The gross federal debt on that date was $42,902,756,147.32.

Your per capita share of that debt is $330.02.

COUNTY HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Within the near future, the county highway department will resurface the south Auburn-Garrett road, applying a coat of 98 per cent pure asphalt, covered with pea gravel, then broom dragged and rolled. Plans are now being drawn to widen the right-of-way at least 50 feet, the work being a WPA project.

The work of applying a 3½ inch mat of slow curing asphalt and gravel on the Auburn-Ashley road from Auburn to state highway No. 6, a distance of 4.7 miles also has been started under the supervision of County Highway Supervisor Wayne Van Auken. The north end of the road in this county, six miles in length, will be reconstructed and the same kind of surface applied as on the south portion.

Other blacktop roads in the county are to be seal-coated with the same kind of material. Calcium chloride has been applied to the first two miles of the Auburn-Butler road and to the gravel roads in close proximity to churches and cemeteries and in small communities, thus eliminating dust.

The highway department has completed painting of the guard posts and bridge facings along the county roads with white paint.

MUST KNOW BY 15TH

Paraphrasing an old American shopping slogan, President Roosevelt has "only 11 days until" the Democratic national convention at Chicago when he must declare whether he will run for a third term.

Mr. Roosevelt faces his fateful decision with his foreign policy on trial, his latest cabinet appointments opposed, and with threats of a third party growing.

The president plans to go to Hyde Park, New York, for the coming Fourth of July week-end. The White House already has revealed that there will be a "good story" developing from his visit there. It may be the long-awaited third-term announcement.

MORTUARY

SMITH

John Thonas Smith was born at Pleasant Lake, Indiana, Steuben County, October 10, 1854, to Price L. and Rebecca Crooks Smith. He lived near Ashley, Indiana, for all but the past eight years of his life, which he spent with his adopted daughter, Mrs. Leon Kees, whom he reared from infancy.

Mr. Smith was a member of the Church of Christ at Ashley, Indiana, which he helped erect.

His wife, Martha Crampton Smith preceded him in death nine years. He was in perfect health until June 5, 1940, when he suffered a paralytic stroke from which he never recovered. During his illness he was patient and suffered in silence and passed on quietly to his eternal resting place in peace July 1, 1940 having reached the age of 85 years, 8 months and 21 days.

He leaves his daughter, Mrs. Leon Kees, two grandsons, one infant granddaughter, three nieces, three nephews and a host of friends to mourn his passing.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the St. Joe Church of Christ with Rev. Richard L. Key officiating. Burial in Hudson cemetery by DuWayne Kinsey.

DEKALB COUNTY LOSES 212 IN CENSUS FIGURES FOR 1940

DeKalb county lost 212 in population in the last ten years, according to preliminary census figures announced by Arthur J. Meyer, supervisor of the census at Fort Wayne.

Enumerators this year listed 24,699 residents compared to 24,911 in the 1930 census total. The loss in population was in other sections of the county than Auburn where an increase of nearly 300 residents was shown in the 10-year period.

Every county in the fourth district except DeKalb showed a gain in population in the ten-year period.

The district as a whole jumped from 246,185 in 1920 to 275,752 in 1930 and 287,558 this year. The gain was 41,373 for the 20-year span, 11,806 in the last ten years.

The 1940 census figures for each county in the district follow:

Adams, 21,228; Allen, 154,844; DeKalb, 24,699; LaGrange, 14,342; Noble, 22,725; Steuben, 13,697; Wells, 19,090, and Whitley, 16,933.

NEWVILLE HOME BUREAU

The Newville Home Bureau held its monthly meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Della Hart with Mrs. Lucille Monosmith as assistant hostess. There were twenty members and several visitors present. The lesson was in charge of Georgia Davis, while the project lesson of making bound button holes was ably given by Mrs. Nellie Richards.

After the meeting a stork shower was held for one of our members and a number of nice gifts were received. The hostess then served ice cream and cake. This was a very enjoyable meeting and those absent missed a nice time.

Next meeting with Bien Moore July 24 at which time the club entertains members of Stafford Club.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The St. Joe Corn Huskers 4-H Club met Monday, June 26, with 12 members present and 4 absent.

The next meeting will be held at the St. Joe gym on June 8, and there will be a talk on potato pests, a talk on corn and one on how to conduct a meeting. Mr. Wicoff has been away and Mr. Garman has been taking his place. Refreshments were served by Pat Carpenter and Eugene McBride.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Auxiliary Unit Number 283 meets on every second and fourth Tuesday night of each month at 7:30 o'clock in the Legion rooms of the K. of P. Hall in St. Joe.

The Auxiliary of the American Legion was pleasantly entertained at the Legion Home by the Legion to ice cream and cake. Frank Curie, Jr., who attended Hoosier Boys State, gave a very interesting report.

The nominating committee has selected the following officers for 1941:

President, Lois Dean, Harlan; first vice president, Berniece Wilder, St. Joe; second vice president, Leora George, Auburn; secretary and treasurer, Kathleen Scholes, St. Joe; historian, Josephine Kees, St. Joe; chaplin, Stella Carper, Auburn; Sgt.-at-arms, Pearl Williams, St. Joe; executive committee, Anne Sechler, Alice Reidenbach and Agnes Monroe.

All members of the Auxiliary are invited to the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Berniece Wilder, July 9th at 8:30.

Mrs. Linda Shaughniss, of Angola, has been invited to install the 1941 officers at the next meeting.

The Fourth District Meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held in the Evangelical Church in Wolcotville, Tuesday, July 9th.

Charles Thayer, of Hicksville, was a St. Joe caller on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mattie Hart left Monday for a week's visit at Lucas and Mansfield, Ohio.

Mrs. Jessie Sommer and Mr. B. E. Widney took dinner with Mrs. Elnora Blue Tuesday.

Gareth Reese, of Garrett, spent last week with his aunt, Mrs. Clayton Keeler and husband.

Richard English and Robert Klopfenstein, of Fort Wayne, spent Wednesday evening with Elizabeth Hart.

Willard Hurni has bought the one acre of ground in the west end formerly owned by Marion Baughman, of Mrs. Elnora Blue, and it will be used to pasture a cow and some hogs. The barn will be used for sheltering during the Winter months.

SPENCERVILLE SCHOOL REUNION HAS GOOD CROWD

The twenty-seventh annual Spencerville School Reunion met Junt 30, 1940 at the school house. Although it rained a good crowd gathered from near and far to renew friendships formed in the past. The usual basket dinner was served, with plenty of ice cream and cake which all seemed to enjoy. After the noon hour the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Zona Abel and the following program was given:

All singing America.
Invocation, Rev. P. W. Walter.
Welcome address by the persident.
Response, Mrs. Katherine Lindstrom.
Song, "Just A Little Street Where Old Friends Meet," by Mrs. Frances Chapman and Mrs. Audra Wade.

The secretary's report read and approved, also the minutes of the first meeting were read by Mrs. Audra Wade. The report of the nominating committee was given by W. G. Erick. The old officers were re-elected, Mrs. Zona Abel, president; Mrs. Minnie Tyndall, vice president; and Mrs. Audra Wade, secretary and treasurer.

Many short and interesting talks were given by O. K. Shull, Dr. Carey, Mr. Ezra Horn, Mr. Henry Carnes, Mr. Harry Hursh, Carlisle Smith, Frank Horn, Dr. Andrew Wyatt, Elizabeth Rummel and Mrs. Ethel Walter. A vote of thanks was given to Dr. Carey for his great effort in writing and collecting the history of Spencerville.

A spirit of patriotism extended thru out the meeting and the twenty-seventh gathering is one to be long remembered.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND ABANDONED FAMILY

Her husband abandoned her and their three children to live with another woman, Iretta Griffin, of Troy township, alleges in suing Russell Griffin in the DeKalb circuit court Monday for a divorce.

Married August 31, 1931, the couple separated June 25, 1939. The plaintiff says that prior to the time of separation her husband had been associating with another woman and that he brought his family from near Quincy, Michigan, to DeKalb county and then returned to Michigan to live with the other woman, telling his wife to get a divorce.

The plaintiff says the defendant did not support his family prior to their separation and has contributed nothing since. The couple formerly lived in Jackson township, DeKalb county. Their children are Hugh, 7, Robert, 5, and Harold, 2. Mrs. Griffin and her children now make their home with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sawvel.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT SPENCERVILLE METHODIST CHURCH

On Sunday evening, July 7, at eight o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, the Young Peoples Choir of the Methodist Church will give a special program of music and stereopticon pictures under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Halleck. The choir will sing two anthems, there will be solos, duets, and trios—both vocal and instrumental.

There will also be illustrated hymns such as America, The Beautiful; Day is Dying in the West, etc., for congregational singing.

In addition there will be stereopticon pictures showing various views of Epworth Forest with an explanation of the Institute work carried on for young people, and one surprise picture which will be of interest to everyone.

The public is invited to this service. A free-will offering will be received for the young people's Institute Fund.

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

Abundantly Satisfied

How excellent is thy loving kindness O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. Ps. 36: 7-8.

There returns, after twenty years and more, the universal click of hurried needles, the snipping of scissors, the folding of hundreds of patterns, the cutting of threads, the sound of the sewing machine and the buzz of group conversation, as the double crochet and the knit two sweeps across the nation. Millions of hands of the land take up the sword of charity in war by each doing a bit for the cause of the refugees of the war-torn world. The appeal for funds made by the Red Cross was, and is, contributed to by all good citizens. The subscribing of money alone is not the only plea that comes from the American Red Cross, as they seek willing hands to do garment and gauze work, knitting and crocheting for the sufferers. Women from far and wide, as women have always done, give many hours to aiding in any way possible. Many cannot give money but few are those who will not sacrifice hours a week for the sake of a human being who needs their help.

The organization of the Red Cross is too large and wide-spread in exerting helpful influence to be without a humane foundation. There are criticisms by some of instances of unwise policies and this is to be found any place where there are so many nationalities and personalities affected by such service. The good that it does, the lives that it helps is worth our cooperation in furthering its work.

THIS IS BAD

It is disagreeable to face the fact but our present day youngster who enters into the world of business, has a belief that is distasteful to us, though there are those oldsters who agree with the youth. According to a recent poll, there is found that 80 per cent of our American youth figure that knowing the right people is more important than in doing a job well. They believe, 80 per cent of them, that it isn't their ability that will win for them but the importance of the people they know who will give them what they seek. This is a question that has been discussed around many a St. Joe table and unfortunately the solution has been in favor of "knowing the right people." In other words, it is the amount of pull that you have. The poll of opinion regarding this matter was not taken of the views of the older heads but we are fearful that the percentage would be high on the same side. How many times you have seen a chap well-fitted for a position give way to a less capable boy because of matters of political indebtedness, relationship, or money backing. We are sure that there is still opportunity for the boy who can go from the bottom to the top, for success has not gone with the wind and ability is not lost in the modern survival. We must not encourage our children to believe this about influence over true worth, of pull over push. That would be to admit defeat for our youth and would signify throwing up our hands in resignation against fate.

SO MUCH DOWN

Most everyone thinks of new schemes to make money and even the railroad takes a drastic step in starting installment buying of train tickets. It has long been a question whether the method of any installment purchasing ever really helps, a nation, but evidently the railroad figures that this business of extending credit could apply to a train ticket as well as a living room rug or a bedroom suite. Of course you have to establish credit and your proposed trip must cost $50 or more before you can expect to use their plan. Your St. Joe newspaper is open-minded and tries to keep up with the times but we are old-school enough to figure that a fellow should have the price of his ticket before he takes his trip.

NOT HERE

With so many motorists on the road as the touring season swings into full speed ahead, there goes up the cry of speed traps and unjust fines imposed by rural authorities. The city drivers have complained of trifling infractions that are imposed on them with heavy fines by small town authorities who take this means of collecting revenue. This is not true in DeKalb County and yet we can name some places where such is occurring. There are many traps that are speed traps and necessarily so in order to cut down the number of accidents. There are more cases where drivers are ignoring lights and stop streets than there are where they are called unjustly for failing to observe them. There must be regulations in all towns, regardless of size, but we do not condone any unfair advantage taken to fatten the town's till.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

For the first time since William McKinley was chosen to head the ticket in 1900, Philadelphians have had a chance to see a Republican national convention on the home grounds. The excitement did not run so high as on some occasions, but there was a hearty contest, which was brought to an end by the customary voluntary retirement of candidates, and substantial unanimity prevailed at the close.

Those who study political conventions as such, and without party prejudice, will incline to the view that the meeting followed the traditions, and indicated that a changing world is satisfied with standardized procedure in picking a Presidential candidate. It is unlikely that the coming Democratic convocation will present anything new for investigation, so far as convention structure and operation are concerned.

The welfare of the public at large has been promoted by the circumstance that the Republicans at no time were faced by the distressing condition known as a split, and there is comfort in the practical certainty that the Democrats will advance in a unitary and compact formation. No war was ever won by snipers. Consolidated armies are necessary, the individual soldier being left free to enlist as his judgment and conscience dictate.

In spite of such words as "machine" and "boss," political parties have a function and a utility of no mean proportions. Not only do they afford opportunity for effective team work, but they tend, as well, to discourage the unsound practice which consists in following men, rather than principles. Probably it was the personality of Theodore Roosevelt, more than the conviction that the Republican party was in a state of decay, that gave rise to the Bull Moose movement. Few who sat under the spell of Mr. Bryan's words will admit that anyone else could have drawn votes to the Free Silver ticket quite so effectively as the "Great Commoner."

Thus it comes about that garments of Democratic or of Republican cut are more than a mere prison garb, or the livery of a menial and undignified service. Giving due credit to the man who has the courage to stand alone, it is through concerted mass movements that most has been accomplished for the betterment of government and the promotion of the common good.

The political line up which will take place during the approaching months is wholesome. Speaking in a military sense, the country is said to be unprepared, and that fact is deplored generally. The same condition of affairs does not exist as to politics. Making proper allowance for Democratic claims that all is over but the shouting, and Republican allegations that the voters are simply waiting for an opportunity to cast the New Deal into the discard, each party retains the potency which accompanies organization. Neither will have the temerity to go too far, under the assumption that nothing can be done about it.

The pharse "What are you going to do about it?" was impressed on history by the late Bill Tweed, who in the days of our fathers or grandfathers ruled New York City with a heavy hand, and none too clean a hand at that. Those who believe in reincarnation may advance with propriety the theory that the spirit of Tweed found a new dwelling in the body of Hitler. For a long time, there seemed to be no way of stopping the small scale tyrant of the eigtheen seventies. Right now, there appears to be no answer to the question "So what" which comes from beyond the seas. William M. Tweed closed his eyer forever in a Manhattan jail. The future may have a similar reply ready for the Fuehrer.

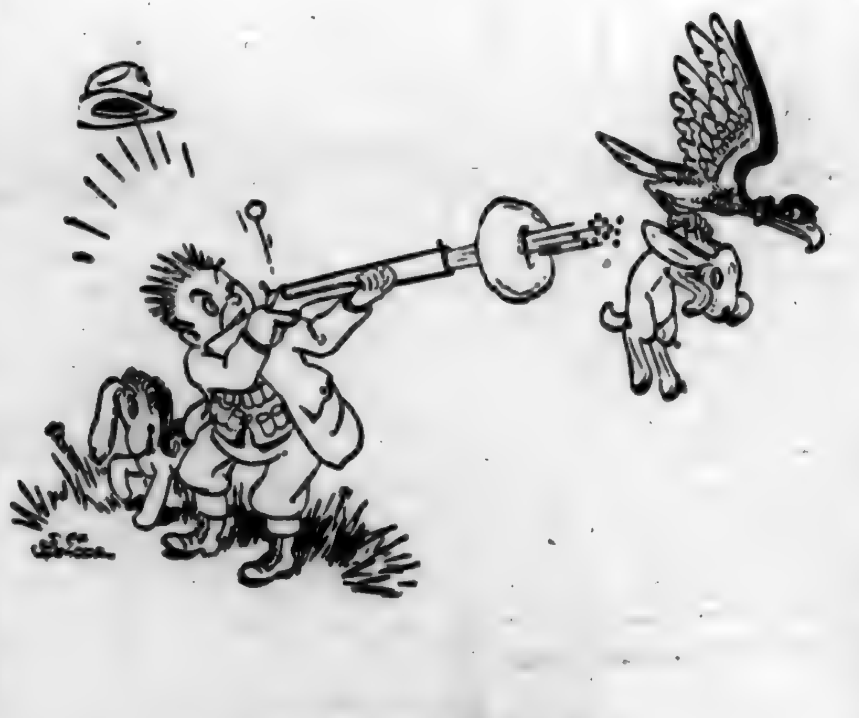
TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT!



By IROQUOIS DAHL

AN ISSUE of the Pennsylvania Game News told about one Tom Price of Slatington, Pa., who one day saw a big goshawk hovering close to earth. He shot it and, to his great astonishment, down came not only the hawk but also a rabbit, which the bird was apparently carrying off to its nest. Price took both the hawk and rabbit home with him and now, perhaps justifiably, "claims the altitude record for shooting bunnies."

Concord Township Home Bureau was well represented at the annual county picnic at Eckhart Park, Auburn, last Thursday. Seventeen ladies from this township took part in a comedy "quiz" program which was well received by one of the largest crowds in the history of the club.

Harry Randall returned to Chicago Sunday forenoon by way of B. & O., after spending several weeks here with his mother in an effort to recuperate, and he really did that so that his physician allowed him to return to his home, and possibly to his work by degrees. Here's wishing you the best, Harry.

The Indiana supreme court has ruled unconstitutional provisions of the state barber law providing for fixed minimum prices and maximum hours. The court overruled a decision of Judge Earl A. Cox in Marion circuit court and held that the price fixing sections were "unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority." The decision cancelled all prices and hours set by the state board of barber examiners.

The Wittenberg Brotherhood will meet in the Waterloo Methodist Church next Wednesday evening. An unusual feature program will be given following the song service. Prof. Sam Summers of Tri-State College will entertain the audience with physical and electrical demonstrations, using apparatus that he has arranged in the college for the purpose of explaining various freaks of practical and very interesting, and instructive. Prof. Summers is at the head of the Physics Department of the college. In addition to the electrical devices he will provide a variety of magic entertainment that will be well worth seeing. The seventh annual dance revue presented by the pupils of Marjorie Holben was held at the Court theatre Friday night before a large and appreciative audience. Among the young artists on the program were Jack Bowser, the only male member of the troupe, gave an advanced tap routine, dressed in a white mess jacket, black silk-striped tuxedo trousers, with black sash and tie. His sister, April Bowser, an advanced pupil, performed a difficult toe acrobatic dance, wearing a spangled bandeau and full skirt of pink taffeta.

Forty-seven members of the Quance families were in attendance Sunday at the annual family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. The usual sumptuous dinner was served at the noon hour and after the program in the afternoon, ice cream and cake were served. The day was pleasantly spent in spite of the inclement weather, as this affords a time for all the clan to meet and talk over their personal affairs for the past year, because once a year is about all some of the family kin are able to see each other. The 1941 reunion will be held at South Bend at the Charles Walker home.

The DeKalb County Fair in Auburn this year will close promptly at midnight Saturday, October 5, Noah Yoder, president, announced at a dinner for DeKalb county fair officials in Auburn Friday night. This action is being taken, he said, inasmuch as the fair is starting one day earlier and this closing will make it easier for the street department of Auburn to clean the streets for Sunday. The date of the fair is September 30 to October 5, inclusive. Every department shows signs of an increase in entries and this year's fair promises to be bigger and better than ever.

EVERY HOME IS BUILT AROUND ITS WINDOWS

W. Wadsworth Wood

New York City.—Few people when they build a new home, seem to realize the importance of windows. Yet every home is built around them. This is literally true in two different ways. First, the frame of your house is actually built around its window openings. Take a look at a home under construction sometime. Notice how the framing timbers around every window opening are doubled.

Windows Determine Wall Space

Second, the arrangement of your rooms, the arrangement of your furniture, is all done around the windows. Available wall space is largely determined by windows. On the outside the architectural harmony is largely determined by the placing or grouping of windows.

Thus you see how important windows are just from appearance alone. But appearance, important as it is, is only half of the story.

Here are some of the other things that a good window should do:

Keep cold air out. Keep warm air in. Keep cool air in. Keep hot air out. Keep insects out. Keep dirt and dust out. Work freely under all conditions without rattling. Provide ventilation when open. Be watertight when closed. Let light in. Give clear vision out. Add beauty to your home. Harmonize with your style of architecture.

No other architectural feature in a house must perform so many functions.

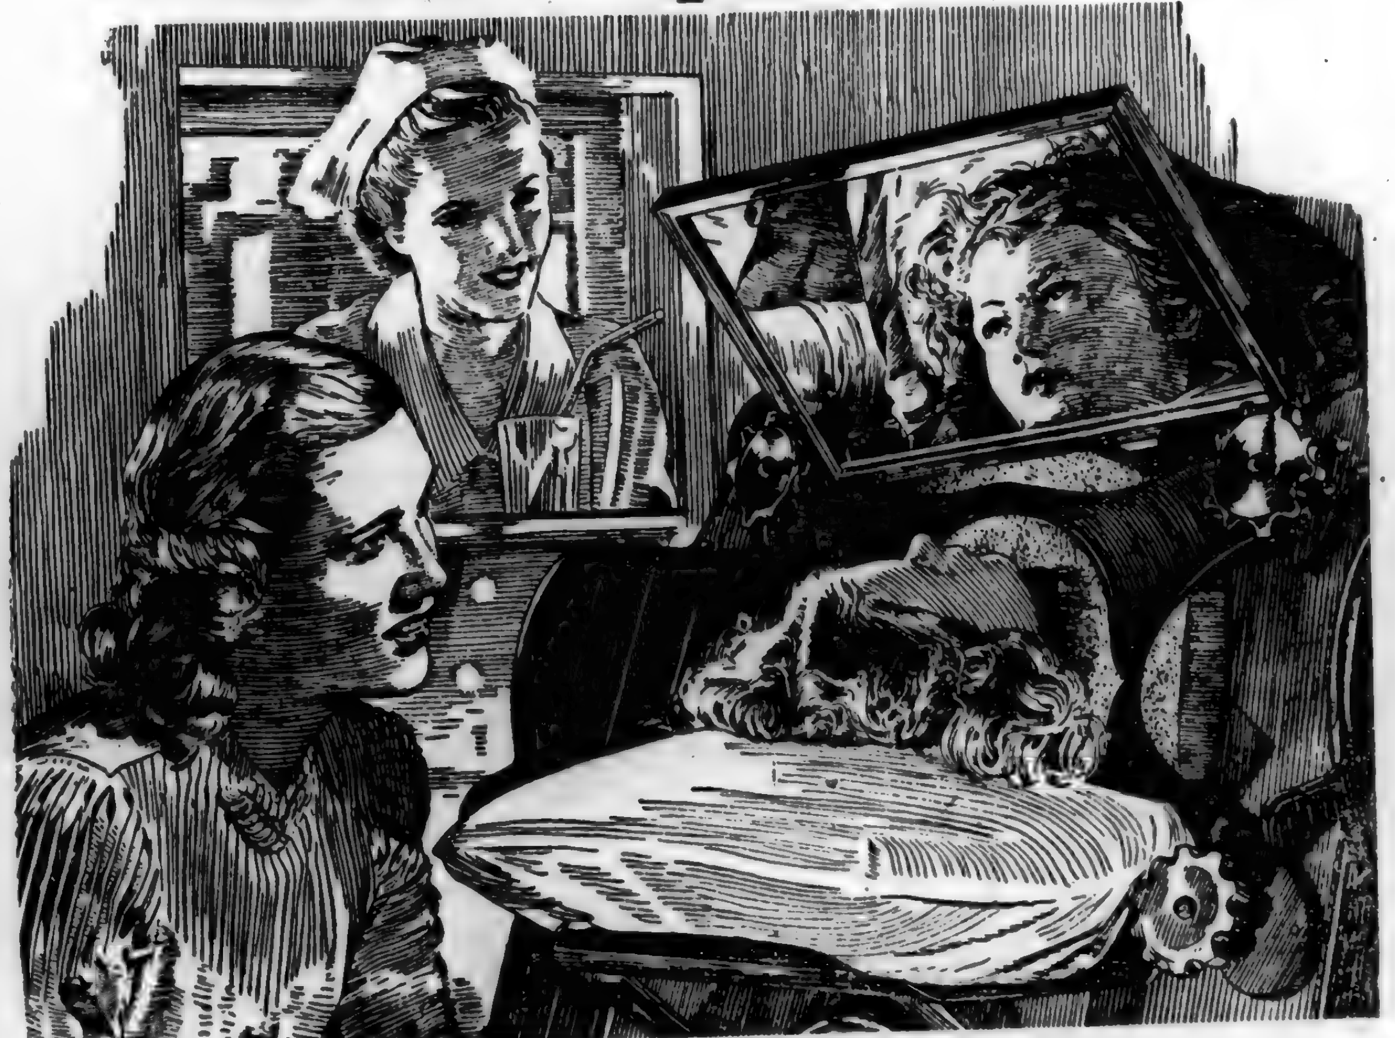
What good is a fire escape to her?



Do you know a human being more helpless than one in an "iron lung"? Out of her "lung" this little girl cannot live. In case of fire, a fire escape would be almost useless to her.

Making hospitals safer has always engaged the earnest efforts of capital stock* fire insurance companies. Their recommendations for ramps, sectional fire-proofing, non-flammable X-ray film, etc., are making patients safer in hospitals throughout the nation.

Not only hospitals but schools, factories, office buildings, private homes . . . even municipal systems for fire defense . . . are benefited by capital stock fire insurance companies' study of fire prevention.

You are aiding this vital public service when you buy capital stock company fire insurance.

The advice and service of your local insurance Agent may be invaluable if you sustain a loss . . . particularly when he has had an opportunity to plan your insurance program before a loss occurs.

CAPITAL STOCK Standard protection COMPANY INSURANCE

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY FIRE INSURANCE provides sound protection at a predetermined price, without risk of further cost. In addition to legal reserves, its policies are backed by cash capital and surplus funds set aside to meet not merely normal claims but also the sweeping losses due to conflagrations and other catastrophes. Its organized public services are national in scope. Its system of operating through Agents everywhere gives prompt personal service to policyholders.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1940 NUMBER 28

FORMER ST. JOE BOY DROWNS IN GRAVEL PIT

Funeral services for Ralph Knisely, 24, 519 North Peters Street, Garrett, a resident of Auburn Junction until two weeks ago, who drowned Thursday in gravel pit north of Garrett, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Garrett Church of the Nazarene. The pastor, Rev. Joseph T. Trueax officiated and burial was made in Riverside cemetery, St. Joe.

Young Knisely, his wife, a younger brother, Blaine, and two other boys were swimming in the Ober pit about two miles north of Garrett when the tragedy occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Knisely were swimming in deep water when he called to her, then sank. She thought that he intended to duck her and paid no attention. When she realised that he had sought help, she was unable to locate him.

Immediately search was started. The Garrett and Kendallville fire departments were called and Dilgards' of Auburn sent a set of grappling hooks. The young man sank at about 4:30 and the body was located in about seventeen feet of water at about 8:30. Members of the Kendallville fire department found the body.

Coroner John R. Clark was called at once to make an investigation of the fatality, the first drowning to occur in DeKalb county this year. He said that his verdict was accidental death by drowning. It is believed that Mr. Knisely suffered a stomach cramp in the cold water of the pit. A pulmotor was used to no avail.

Ralph Knisely was born August 17, 1915, at St. Joe but moved with the family when a small child to Auburn Junction. There he spent almost his entire lifetime. Only two weeks ago he and his wife moved to Garrett. On October 28, 1939, he and Bessie Marie Bowerman, of Lansing, Michigan, were united in marriage. He was a member of the Garrett Church of the Nazarene and has preached at a number of funerals in that locality. He was employed by Abe Mason, Auburn contractor.

In addition to the parents and widow, the young man is survived by five brothers, Paul Knisely of Flint, Michigan, Robert Knisely of Garrett, and Leo, Melvin, and Blaine Knisely at home; three sisters, Mrs. George Werner of Auburn Junction, and Evelyn and Mary Ines Knisely at home.

TRI-TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU

The regular Tri-Township Farm Bureau meeting was an open-air meeting held at the Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook home, July second, with nearly 150 present. The meeting was called to order by chairman, Ira Hook ,and was opened by the group singing "America." Rev. W. D. Nice, of the Newville Christian Church, then led in devotions. This was followed by singing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

All those who had led in devotions in the past were invited to this meeting and each gave a short talk and expressed their appreciation of being invited.

Bob Gebhart's Accordion Band, accompanied by marimbas, from Fort Wayne, was present and rendered several selections. Senator Larry Brandon was also present and gave a very interesting and educational talk on farm problems.

After adjournment, ice cream and cake were served.

There will be no August meeting.

TO WHOM CONCERNED

The trustees of the Methodist Church have discovered another broken window on the south side of the church. Last year there were eighty broken panes of glass replaced at considerable cost. The trustees, hereby request that this last damage be taken care of by those responsible.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE G. O. P. PLATFORM

The Republican Party stands for Americanism, preparedness and peace. No foreign war. An Army and Navy so strong that no unfriendly power can successfully attack America or its essential outposts.

National defense is vital to our existence as a Nation of free people. A free economy is necessary in war as in peace. People of the United States feel and express a sympathetic interest in all peoples everywhere who are struggling to establish or maintain their homes and their liberties. Upon this foundation we pledge ourselves to carry out the following:

1. Idle men, ilde capital, and idle farms will be put to work to create new wealth and profits insuring stable government and greater purchasing power among all our people.

2. Local control of unemployment relief with Federal grants on the basis of greatest need, thus wiping out waste and politics and placing a larger share of the relief dollar in the hands of the man on relief. No one to go cold and hungry in America.

3. Increased security for the aged and a real chance and a real job for those in early life who have been forgotten.

4. Sound collective bargaining. Teamwork between employer and employee and protection of the rights of labor.

5. Fairness to all agricultural producers. American markets for the American farmer, with provision for soil conservation, reclamation and sound rural credit.

6. A tariff policy, scientifically devised, which will protect American labor, industry and agriculture.

7. Sound money with control of the currency vested in Congress, as provided in the Constitution.

8. Conservation of the public credit and economy in governmental expenditures without sacrificing the needs of the people.

9. Government jobs on the basis of merit and not through political influence.

10. Equality of opportunity in the industrial and political life of the Nation, regardless of race, color or creed.

11. No third term for any President.

WALTER—SPIRES

George Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Walter living two and one-half miles north of St. Joe, was united in marriage to Miss Esther Spires, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Spires, of Hicksville, on Tuesday of last week at Paulding, Ohio. On Wednesday they left for Chicago where they spent the remainder of the week. Since graduating from the local high school three years ago, the groom has been working on the farm with his fater and will continue to do so. The young folks have the best wishes of their many friends.

$127,023 BUDGET FOR 1941 WELFARE DIVISION

The annual budget of the DeKalb county department of public welfare, which has been sent to the state board at Indianapolis for approval, anticipates expenditures of $127,023 in 1941, which is approximately the same as for 1940.

Only $27,000 of the sum is to be raised by local taxation, the state and federal governments contributing $100,000. The proposed tax rate is ten cents on the $100 valuation, which is two cents higher than for 1940. This is due to decreased receipts, the levy for 1940 being only 8 cents and an appropriation made by the legislature in 1938 having been exhausted.

Items of the budget for 1941 include $84,576 for old age assistance; $3,240 for burial of those receiving old age assistance; $300 for burial of deceased recipients of assistance for the blind; $2,700 for assistance of crippled children; $22,848 for assistance of dependent children in the custody of relatives; $4,190 for assistance of children in institutions; $548 for assistance of children in the custody of individuals; $450 for assistance of crippled and sick children; $6,245 for salaries of department personnel; $100 for legal services; $1,681 for operating expenses, and $200 for office equipment.

The number on the age assistance rolls is now 401, as compared with 362 a year ago. The size of the list is gradually increasing and is expected to reach 457 by December, 1941. Others on the rolls include 134 children in 66 families; 15 blind persons and 13 crippled children.

Forty-one other children are wards of the department. Of these, the department pays for the maintenance of only 12, who are inmates of private institutions. One other in a private institution is employed in the institution. Twelve of the children are in approved free homes; 5 are in private homes with prospects of adoption; 2 are receiving wages for services in private homes; 2 are with relatives other than their own parents; 6 are in their own homes and one is in a CCC camp.

The department's last annual report showed that 16.5 per cent of the population 65 years of age and over were receiving assistance from the county. The average grant was $15.30 a month. The list was about equally divided as to sex. About 25 per cent were married couples. Of the total on the rolls, 47.2 per cent were 65 to 69 years old, 39.8 per cent 70 to 74 years old, 10.2 per cent were 75 to 79 years old and 2.8 per cent were 80 and over.

Eight men are under the supervision of Wilbur Kimmell, county parole officer, who is secretary of the welfare department. The director, Miss Nora Brown, has four cases under her supervision as probation officer.

The department also has charge of CCC enrollments. The present quota is seven, but only five applications have been received. Enrollment started Monday. The number of boys from this county now in the CCC is 10.

ASKS DIVORCE AFTER MARRIAGE OF THIRTY-TWO YEARS

After thirty-two years of married life, Luella Wyatt, of 330 West Second Street, Auburn, is suing Norman Wyatt, in the DeKalb circuit court for a divorce.

The plaintiff alleges that her husband did not support her and threatened her with great bodily injury. She says that he insists upon going to her home and refuses to leave. She wants an order restraining him from entering her home or annoying her.

The parties have no dependent children and the plaintiff seeks an order for support and alimony. They were married June 19, 1908, and separated the 24th of last month. H. W. Mountz is the plaintiff's attorney. Mrs. Wyatt will be remembered as Luella Bills, and was a former St. Joe girl.

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

FINDING THE RIGHT WAY

Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him: and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. Isaiah 55: 6-7.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

In deference to Democracy's precarious toehold on the world at large, Washington had planned a spectacular Independence Day celebration. Jupiter Pluvius stepped in, and on it; we carried on, but with spirits and attire considerably dampened. Congress, which seldom meets on the Fourth of July, waived precedence to the extent of calling the house of Representatives together to hear the Declaration of Independence read by Representative Lewis, of Colorado, but a mere handful of the gentlemen showed up—60 by actual count. Our local movie theatre attendance, which is always a sign of the times, increased in volume, despite the additional tax, and booed and hissed and clapped the news reels, according to its lights. The rise and fall of the public's patriotism can be measured quite accurately by the reaction of Washington audiences. To the amusement trade, we are known as an apathetic town, an audience that sits on its hands; but, in the past few months, with Hitler amok in Europe, the hands come out and smack right heartily in response to certain mass appeals. The Man of the Week, who is receiving the most genuine ovation hereabouts is, of course, Mr. Wendell Willkie—right in the bailiwick of the New Deal, too ...And apropos of the new amusement tax, of which the Public seems not yet to have quite got the hang, there have been many financial casualties at the box office, mostly among the youngsters, who show up confidently with two dimes and not one cent over! Even the languid beauties who preside over the ticket wickets appear shaken when expected to take 54 cents, or 81 or some other uncouth amount out of a dollar......

The advent of the fiscal year has brought other changes to Washington than increased taxes. A lot of Government employes lost their jobs, including District workers who are aliens, and had not applied for citizenship papers. Also, three major Government agencies opened for business under new management, in accordance with Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization order of last spring. The Civil Aeronautics Authority and the Weather Bueran became units of the Commerce Department under Secretary Hopkins, and the Federal Security Administration, under Paul McNutt, took over the Food and Drug Administration. You will recall that the CAA had hithertoo been an independent establishment, and the other two agencies were under Agriculture. A few weeks previous to July 1, for lack of space, the rapidlp expanding defense agencies of the Government, began to scatter over the town at a great rate, even overflowing into Baltimore. Under the new defense program, units of the War Department sprang up in the queerest places—in an old reconditioned warehouse, and in one of the flimsy temporary structures run up during the World War and presenting a fine fire hazard. Meantime, the New National Defense Advisory Commission had to find quarters, so the powers-that-be grabbed a new and prized building, the one designated as the Social Security-Railroad Retirement Building—and, come September 1, when it will be completed, the National Defense Advisory Commission will move in and leave Social Security, etc., wistfully on the sidewalk. The catch is that the NDAC will have to share a part of its prize with the War Department's stepchildren until the first unit of the new War Department Building is completed and ready for occupancy next July 1. Meanwhile, Social Security, which is largely housed in Baltimore, will have to stay there, but can comfort itself with the knowledge that it has been temporarily spared the job of moving 4,500 employes, tons of equipment, and 50,000,000 wage records from Baltimore to Washington, all without interrupting the work, or damaging the records......

Mr. Hitler put the State Department in a spot when he demanded the withdrawal of American official representation in Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxemburg. So, midnight oil burned over the week-end in the gray building adjoining the White House, while the Department searched its records of the past to determine whether there is diplomatic precedence for such action. At this writing, it is desired by us that Ambassador Bullitt remain with the Petain French Government and Ambassador Biddle, formerly of Poland stay in Spain.

200 POUNDS OF WATER A DAY... 37 TONS A YEAR

A FARM woman who has to pump by hand all of the water she uses must bend her back to the pumping and carrying of 200 pounds of water a day . . . this amounts to the enormous load of 37 tons a year.

Farms equipped with electrically driven pumps free the farmer's wife and daughter from this barbaric drudgery. And it is only one of the labor and time saving features which modern electrical equipment supplies the farm of today.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Although Republican members of Congress from Indiana were divided in their allegiance to Wendell L. Willkie before the Philadelphia Convention, the Hoosier-born presidential candidate is now assured of the united and enthusiastic backing of the entire Congressional delegation in the coming campaign.

The Indiana GOP Congressmen are unanimous in their conviction that with Willkie as the standard bearer, the Republicans will be unbeatable in November.

"He's a natural" . . . He'll take the country by storm" . . . "The best possible candidate" . . . "We can't lose in Indiana now." These are some of the Congressional comments inspired by the Willkie nomination.

Congressman Forest A. Harness aptly expressed the attitude of his colleagues the other day when he admitted, frankly, that he was not an original Willkie booster, but added:

"After I got to Philadelphia and met and talked with him, I immediately changed my stand. One has to hear him talk to be convinced. They say he is 'homespun.' Of course he is and he will put on one of the fightingest campaigns this country has ever had."

THIS STATEMENT has been echoed by Representatives Gillie, Grant, Landis and Johnson, who originally favored other candidates—Vanderberg and Dewey in particuair—but who are now 100 per cent Willkie enthusiasts. When it became apparent at Philadelphia that Vandenberg and Dewey were out of the race, and that Willkie had a real chance, they joined wholeheartedly in support of the former Elwood baker boy.

"There can be no doubt that Wendell Willkie is the real choice of the people," Congressman Gillie asserted. "This was demonstrated beyond question at the Philadelphia convention. In Willkie we have a candidate that Indiana can be proud of. He'll win in November no matter who opposes him."

Several of the Indiana Congressmen are planning to personally pledge their support to Willkie at the acceptance ceremonies in Elwood, if Congressional duties permit them to leave Washington. Certain to be there is Congressman Halleck, who staked his political future on the Willkie candidacy and became a national figure over night.

UNHAPPIEST Congressman in Washington is William H. Larrabee, Indiana Democrat, whose district includes Elwood, home town of the Republican presidential candidate.

Larrabee's chances of re-election were none too good before the lightning struck Willkie at Philadelphia. In the 1938 Republican revolt in Indiana he retained his Congressional seat by the slim margin of 4,000 votes. His defeat now is almost a foregone conclusion.

Also threatened by the Willkie "blitzkrieg" are the seats of four other Indiana Democrats—Louis Ludlow, Indianapolis; William T. Schulte, Hammond; Eugene B. Crowe, Bedford, and John W. Boehne, Jr., Evansville.

WORRIED Hoosier Democrats are basing their hopes for November on the slim chance that Paul V. McNutt will be selected at Chicago as President Roosevelt's running-mate on a third-term ticket. They contend that Indiana is a doubtful and important state and that unless McNutt is placed on the Democratic ticket, to combat the Willkie influence, it will surely go Republican.

Not calculated to promote McNutt's prospects, however, is the revival of the income tax scandal which plagued him during his presidential campaign. Washington newspsapers have carried damaging stories quoting Indianapolis sources as stating that McNutt has been forced to pay $3,000 in deficiency taxes assessed on winnings at cards which he failed to report.

The stories assert that McNutt has privately admitted settling the tax claims but has denied that gambling profits were involved. In all previous accounts of the tax scandal, said to involve Bowman Elder, Pleas Greenlee and other former Two Per Cent Club leaders, McNutt has not been personally implicated.

SIDELIGHTS: According to reports, Wendell Willkie has more aunts, uncles, and cousins than Bob Burns, of radio and movie fame. If they all vote for him, his election is assured. Investigation reveals that he has nearly a dozen cousins in and around Fort Wayne. And Congressman Springer is boasting that his wife is a Willkie cousin, twice removed. . . Since the GOP convention, Congressman Halleck has been receiving congratulatory letters at the rate of several hundred a day. Many of them, he says, are from persons who had previously criticized him for joining in with Willkie. . . With Congress slated to remain in session for several more weeks, to wrestle with tax and defense problems, Congressional campaigns will necessarily be short. Many incumbent Congressmen, torn between duty and a desire to go home, are wondering if their opponents will agree to a truce until Congress adjourns.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

SEASONAL POULTRY TIPS

Broody hens are a source of worry and trouble during the entire Spring and Summer. They loose weight and occupy the nests that may be used profitably by other birds. Fighting over the nest space results in breaking many eggs, while those eggs remaining in the nest are kept warm and are soiled, thereby lowering the general quality of the eggs produced, explains C. E. Baker, County Agricultural Agent.

Remove the hen from the nest and place in a broody coop on the first sign of broodiness. Be sure to provide her with feed and water. Starving the hen at this time will only lengthen the time required for her to come back into production. About three or four days in the broody coop is usually sufficient.

Some poultrymen are able to develop a non-broody strain over a period of years by carefully checking the birds that have gone broody from time to time during the year and removing them from the breeding pen. Some kind of a simple banding system may be conveniently used.

Watch those pullets out on that alfalfa range. See that they have shade to protect them from the hot Summer sun. The feed hoppers should be kept full at all times. At this time of the year an adequate water supply is very essential. In order to reduce labor and to insure an ample supply of water many poultrymen have made use of barrels with automatic valves placed on skids so that they may be easily moved from place to place. Avoid placing water fountains or feeders under trees where birds roost.

Although lice and mites should never be referred to in sophisticated poultry society, they do become very troublesome at this time of the year. Catch a few birds for examination. A good treatment with either Sodium Fluoride as dust or dip, or Black Leaf 40 (Nicotine Sulphate) painted on the roosts just before roosting time and repeated in about ten days in order to kill the newly hatched lice will prove to be a very satisfactory method. Mites, having a different type of life cycle, spend most of their day in cracks and crevices on the roosts and dropping boards and feed on the birds at night. They can usually be controlled by spraying the perches, dropping boards, nests, etc. with a mixture of carbolineum and kerosene.

What good is a fire escape to her?

Do you know a human being more helpless than one in an "iron lung"? Out of her "lung" this little girl cannot live. In case of fire, a fire escape would be almost useless to her.

Making hospitals safer has always engaged the earnest efforts of capital stock* fire insurance companies. Their recommendations for ramps, sectional fire-proofing, non-flammable X-ray film, etc., are making patients safer in hospitals throughout the nation.

Not only hospitals but schools, factories, office buildings, private homes . . . even municipal systems for fire defense . . . are benefited by capital stock fire insurance companies' study of fire prevention.

You are aiding this vital public service when you buy capital stock company fire insurance.

The advice and service of your local insurance Agent may be invaluable if you sustain a loss . . . particularly when he has had an opportunity to plan your insurance program before a loss occurs.

CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY INSURANCE — Standard protection

*CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY FIRE INSURANCE provides sound protection at a predetermined price, without risk of further cost. In addition to legal reserves, its policies are backed by cash capital and surplus funds set aside to meet not merely normal claims but also the sweeping losses due to conflagrations and other catastrophes. Its organized public services are national in scope. Its system of operating through Agents everywhere gives prompt personal service to policyholders.

EXPERIENCE DIFFICULTY IN PROVING CITIZENSHIP

In response to a telegram from the Curtis Aircraft Company, Max Chapman drove to Buffalo last week. He was accompanied by F. R. Bowman. They found many roads were being repaired and were unable to make the trip as quickly as they expected.

The next day Chapman contracted to work for the Curtis Co. and the two men decided to return home via Canada. They asked proper officials if they could do so without trouble and they were told to go ahead and that traveling in Canada was in a normal condition.

They found this to be true. Everywhere they were served by affable Canadians and all was well until they tried to re-enter the United States. Here they were stopped by armed Federal Defense Men. After numerous questions they were asked to prove they were American citizens. This proved to be a difficult task and so the men were marched to a building for the investigation of aliens. Here they were questioned again and literally turned inside—outside.

This performance disclosed some tax receipts and a K. of P. membership card in Bowman's bill-fold. The authorities finally accepted these as proof of his citizenship and he in turn vouched for Chapman.

The two men are passing out this tip. You may enter Canada "with the greatest of ease" but when you want to return home you better have your birth certificate in your hand.

On Monday morning Mr. and Mrs. Chapman went to Buffalo where they will reside.

SPENCERVILLE MAN DIES

Gust Haffner, near 58 years of age, died at his Spencerville home, Wednesday morning of a heart attack. He had been ill for three years with stomach trouble but had been about his daily tasks. No arrangements were made for his burial at time of going to press.

RESUMING PRACTICE

NEWVILLE 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Newville Willing Workers 4-H Club held their last meeting Tuesday, July 9th at the home of Mrs. John Washler, the adult leader. The members and their mothers took a tour Saturday, June 29. They went to WOWO broadcasting station and the junior leaders were interviewed over Jane Weston's program. Jane then showed everyone around the studio. They went to the filtration plant next and then went to West Swinney Park for a picnic. At 3:00 everyone went back up town and went up in the Lincoln tower. Sixteen members stated they were going to join the 4-H Club for sure next year. The achievement night will be held Tuesday, July 16, at the home of Miss Verna Mae Thomas. Ice cream and cake will be served.

JUNIOR LEADER'S MEETING

The 4-H Club Junior Leaders of this vicinity were host to the monthly DeKalb County Junior Leaders meeting held at the St. Joe Gym last Monday night. The group of thirty included the County Agent, several vocational agriculture teachers, and Junior Leaders, both boys and girls. Earl Stemen visited the meeting and presented a plan whereby 4-H club members might aid in the Auburn Fair Membership Drive.

Election of officers for the coming year was held. Tihs was followed by the business meeting, recreation, and refreshments. The meeting was then adjourned until the September meeting as the next regular meeting would fall on August 19, at which time a large number of the Junior Leaders would be at the annual 4-H Club camp, to be held this year at Camp Crosley on Lake Tippecanoe.

Charles Bassett spent a few days the past week in Detroit.

"CITRONELLA"

Our Weekly Amateur Contribution, Send in Your Lines

How often, at night, as I lay in my bed,
  I hear a dull buzzing approaching my head;
'Tis first at a distance, but quickly draws near,
  Till it ends with a thump on the lobe of my ear!
I draw back my hand for a death-dealing punch,
  And chuckle with glee as I hear their bones crunch!
But a dozen come back for each one that I kill;
  And labor away with their hammer and drill!

Oh! These Pirates! They land on my ears, nose and neck;
  And I battle these beasts till my nerves are a wreck!
Their ominous buzzing I hear in the room,
  A suitable dirge to my forthcoming doom!
But the battle is hopeless! I struggle in vain!
  For I soon am exhausted fsom torture and pain!
I make one more effort to conquer the host,
  But fear that, 'ere long I must give up the ghost!

But I've conquered at last! For I've found me some dope
  That will give me relief from Mosquitoes, I hope!
'Tis called "Citronella;" and I'm here to say
  A few drops will drive the Mosquitoes away.
Just a dash on your forehead, a drop on your ear,
  And not a blamed pest can you coax to get near!
I hear them approaching, but the Devils all pass,—
  They smell "Citronella" and step on the gas!

Oh! What a relief! I can now go to bed,
  And not pull the covers up over my head!
I can sleep like a Baby, and suffer no more,
  Nor dream of these Devils, all drilling for gore!
All Hail! Citronella! May your flag always wave
  Till the last blamed Mosquito is laid in his grave!
I'll pour "Citronella" this whole World upon,
  Until the Mosquitoes forever are gone!

Philip F. Smith, St. Joe, Indiana.

CLERK OF DEKALB CIRCUIT COURT DISAPPEARS

The whereabouts of Carl Walter, 31, of Auburn, clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court for the past seven years, was still unknown Tuesday and his office was turned over to Carrie B. Weaver, of Auburn, for the remainder of the clerk's term.

Action was taken Wednesday afternoon when Judge William P. Endicott ordered County Auditor Burley Ensley to call the commissioners into an emergency session to appoint a clerk following Walter's disappearance Tuesday. Mr. Walter failed to appear at his office all day Tuesday and the office remained locked all day.

The commissioners, Lloyd Yeiser, president, Frank Hilkey and William Brecbill, voted the clerk's office vacant and appointed Carrie B. Weaver to serve in Mr. Walter's stead until January 1, 1941. The State Board of Accounts was notified at once and State Accountants Stewart and Huchins arrived late Wednesday to check the clerk's records.

The $10,000 bond filed by Walter when he assumed the clerk's position was signed by the Ohio Casualty Company and it is said that a representative of that company had been checking the office records two weeks ago. At that time, it was said, Mr. Walter was asked to bring his daily balances up to date so that a company accountant would find them in order by July 10. Action was taken to declare the office vacant after the company accountant called Wednesday and was unable to gain access to the office, it was said.

An unusual situation was created in the office due to the absence of any deputy clerk. Mr. Walter had appointed his brother, Kenneth, as deputy, but his brother had found other employment and has not spent time in the office for nearly a year. It was understood that he had resigned the deputyship, but he did not go through the formality of resigning till Wednesday. In the meantime, it was said, the clerk's office was receiving $75 a month for deputy hire but the office never appointed a successor deputy.

Mrs. Carrie Weaver is the widow of the late Charles B. Weaver, former treasurer of DeKalb county. She served as deputy in her husband's office for several years and was then elected to the county treasurer's office on her own behalf and served two terms. She was notified of her appointment late Wednesday and immediately accepted. She qualified Wednesday afternoon by filing her bond and assumed the duties of the clerk's office Thursday morning.

The clerks salary is $2,000 a year plus some fees, while the deputy's salary is $900 annually.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The St. Joe 4-H Corn Huskers Club held their meeting at the Gym July eighth with sixteen members present and no absentees. The meeting was called to order by the president. Songs were sung by the members. Dale Wicoff gave a talk on corn. Our next meeting will be held July 22nd. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments served by Paul Kitchen and Dick Reed.

NONPARTISAN RECEPTION AT WATERLOO TOWN HALL

The six Willis brothers, all of whom were born in Waterloo, and spent their boyhood days here, will gather in the old home town Thursday evening and enjoy a dinner together. Ranging in ages from the youngest up, are William H. Willis, of Indianapolis; Frank B. Willis, of South Bend; Edward Willis, of Angola; Raymond E. Willis, of Angola; Fred I. Willis, of Indianapolis, and Herbert C. Willis, of Waterloo.

It is planned to have the dinner served in picnic style on the garden lawn of the George W. Speer home, which was formerly part of the old Willis homestead where the six boys were born and spent their early days working spare time in the garden to help produce enough garden truck to feed the family of eleven.

The Waterloo High School Band will play a concert in the evening from the bandstand just west of the town hall at 8 o'clock at which time the public is invited to be present and greet Raymond E. Willis, who is a nominee for the United States Senator.

It is seldom that this small town has ever produced a candidate for such a high office, and it is a fitting time to call on him.

The meeting will have no political significance, and will be strictly nonpartisan. A reception committee has been named and is made up of men of different political faiths. There will be no political speaking and nothing of a partisan nature expressed at the reception. Friends, regardless of their politics, are invited to attend. No one will be expected to support the candidacy of Ray Willis because they are at the reception, but all are only given the opportunity to meet a former Waterloo boy, who was reared to manhood in Waterloo.

SPENCER TWP. HOME BUREAU

The Spencer Township Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Edna Goldsmith, July tenth. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Gladys Depew followed by the song of the month, "Love's Old Sweet Song." Roll call, "My Favorite Recipe." The project work, "On Tuffed Bedspreads," was given by Mrs. Ruth Henderson, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Baker. Many samples and price lists from different companies were shown also how to make your own patterns.

The club was delighted by the presence of the County President, Mrs. Ida K. Miller, in an interesting talk she compared "A Boss to a Leader. She left many good thoughts with us.

Mrs. Grace Laub had charge of the entertainment. A group of girls sang, "Leanin' on the Old Top Rail" and "The Woodpecker's Song" accompanied by Miss Elanor Chaney and Evelyn Kline on their accordions. They also gave two numbers as duets.

The president appointed a committee of three, Mrs. Zona Abel, Mrs. Venus Mason and Mrs. Ruth Henderson to have charge of the refreshments for family night which will be August 14 at the home of Mrs. Roy Chaney. Seventeen members and eleven visitors were present.

RURAL HOUSEWIFE NEWS

Mrs. Troas Carpenter was hostess to the R. H. Club at the regular meeting at her pleasant country home Tuesday afternoon, July 16th. Fourteen active members responded to roll call.

We were pleased to have as guests Mrs. Walter Coburn and Mrs. Richard Key, also Mary Wilder. Mrs. Coburn was an active member while living here and her name was placed on the honorary roll. The manager of special numbers asked for a miscellaneous response from each member and the program was quite varied and very interesting. Next meeting July 30th at Mrs. Ellen Hart's.

Hostess served a very appetizing lunch and gave tiny flags as favors.

Manufacturers of Germany are shipping bicycles to Italy.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Wm. Randall were Mr. and Mrs. Mel Tulley and daughter, Marjorie and Mrs. Ivy Tyler, of Ligonier.

Margaret Goodwin, of Tahunga, California, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Goodwin, and family, the past week, returned to her home in the West, Saturday.

Rev. Frank Stevenson, Mrs. Stevenson and her sister, Miss Myers, Richard Freeburn, Franklin Sechler, and Ruth Anna Doll, Joyce Dean and Richard Shilling from Spencerville, are attending the Young People's camp at Lake Wawasee this week.

BIRTH CERTIFICATES

The war has brought something else to our shores. We have become birth certificate conscious where of old we didn't give much thought to the matter. It does not concern only those foreign born or of foreign parentage, but it reaches out to Americans who can trace their ancestors back to the wampum days. Workmen, engaged in the production of war materials, are required to show birth certificates. Then too, tourists leaving this country, going to Canada especially, must show a certificate of birth upon their reentry to this country. Many others are asking for information regarding certificates and others who are becoming more interested. The man who sat behind the desk in the 'birth certificate department' is having more work to do.

EATING OUT

It seems to us that folks are doing more cooking in the out-of-doors. They build grates and fireplaces in back yards these days, and where there isn't room for this a portable stove or charcoal burner comes in handy. Rare indeed to find a St. Joe man who doesn't enjoy officiating at a picnic where he can broil the steaks over a hot bed of coals while the coffee boils, the potatoes baking in the embers ready to burst their jackets. Perhaps the corn is tied inside its husks and lies on the coals as it cooks to a king's taste. More families are having their suppers in the yard where they put up a card table, carry out trays and take advantage of the weather for an out-of-doors feast.

HALF PRICE SALE ON STATE FAIR TICKETS NOW ON

Indianapolis, Ind., July 15.—Announcement was made today by the Indiana State Fair Board that 225,000 half-price 25c tickets to the 1940 State Fair, August 30 to September 6 inclusive, are ready for sale calls attention of the Hoosier citizens to the fact that summer is nearly half gone and the annual September agricultural festival is just around the corner.

In 1933 the Indiana Board of Agriculture, seeking to make the citizens of Indiana State-Fair-minded early in the summer and at the same time develop some type of rain insurance, established a policy of selling bargain 25c tickets in advance of the Fair. It was agreed that as long as the tickets remained popular and the supply exhausted prior to the opening of the Fair that the supply would be increased 25,000 each year. However, it is a rule that when the 225,000 available are all sold, no additional supply will be printed. Also, if any tickets remain unsold at 6 P. M. August 29, the sale will be suspended. The regular price of 50c will prevail during the Fair.

Persons desiring to purchase half-price 25c tickets may obtain them from County Agents, Farm Bureau Secretaries, Hooks and Haags Drug Stores in Indianapolis and throught the State, at banks and other business institutions. All of the persons handling the tickets are doing so without profit and are merely desirous of extending a service to their customers and friends.

Those who are unable to obtain tickets at any of the above designated points should address a check or money order to Harry G. Templeton, Manager, State Fair Grounds, Indianapolis, Indiana. Checks should be made payable to the Indiana Board of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

At this writing, Congress has just voted itself a ten-day recess from torrid Washington after cleaning up a number of controversial matters, not the least among them being final approval of Mr. Roosevelt's choice for the portfolios of War and Navy. The President, by the way, took a leaf out of Woodrow Wilson's notebook in selecting a newspaperman for his Secretary of the Navy; the World War Executive, you may recall, appointed Josephus Daniels, owner of the Raleigh News and Observer, to run the Navy, with Franklin D. Roosevelt as his First Assistant; now Mr. Roosevelt, with a second World War raging, chooses that stalwart editor, Col. Frank Knox, to help him put across the stupendous task of building and directing a two-ocean Navy. Regarding the new Secretary of War, we should remember that he is really "General" and not "Colonel" Stimson, as most people seem to think. The records show that he was promoted to Brigadier General in the Reserve Corps on June 16, 1922. He actually served in that capacity at maneuvers at Pine Camp, New York in June, 1926 when he commanded the 152nd Field Artillery Brigade, retiring later in 1931, on reaching the statutory age limit of 64. When the World War closed, as "Colonel" Stimson, he was commander of the 31st Field Artilley Regiment of the Regular Army......

Signs of the times around Washington: U. S. jobs have reached an all-time high, expanding under the impetus of the defense program. As a result, Washington is again about to face a housing shortage, comparable to some extent, to conditions during the World War. At any rate, apartment vacancies, which customarily increase during the summer months, are decreasing rapidly with the addition of 1,260 employes to Federal agencies in a single month, and the expectation that there will soon be 30,000 new job holders. We already have 130,937 employes in the executive branch staff in Washington, with a local monthly payroll of $23,298, 161. It is estimated unofficially that employment since May has raised the total Federal force over the million mark, which would be around 100,000 above the World War peak....Uncle Sam's total number of employes, in case you're interested, is placed at 177,880 and his total monthly payroll at the neat little sum of $125,907,134, but just wait until the defense program gets really under way and watch those figures skyrocket ...... The ladies are not to be outdone in the rush for national defense, either. Not content with providing "Bundles for Britain," "Friends for France," Red Cross aid for various other stricken European nations, and keeping the home fires burning along the Democratic and Republican fronts, the gentle, tireless creatures hereabouts are planning an army of a million women to be called "The Green Guard Volunteer Women of America." It appears to be a sort of ladies sharpshooters' brigade, growing out of the month-old Women's National Rifle and Preparedness Association, and is pledged to aid Uncle Sam if he needs them. As might be expected, the uniform was selected before the organization even thought of getting under way. It's a snappy green number with a Robin Hood feather in its cap, said to be "unusually becoming." (Privately, we predict that the G. G. V. W. A. will be joined only by those ladies who look well in green.)........

Almost on the heels of the fireworks attendant upon Mexico's selection of a new President (an event pretty nearly fatal to a number of visiting Washington students who had the bad luck to get in range of the ballots, or bullets, which in this case were synonomous) our State Department was presented with a check for $1,000,000 by the Mexican Ambassador, Dr. Castillo Najera, as an installment in payment of claims of American citizens whose Mexican lands have been expropriated since August 20, 1927. Payments thus far made are being held by the American Government because of failure of a joint commission to adjudicate claims

'PEOPLE'S CHOICE'... Winner of Republican presidential nomination by popular acclaim, though opposed by old-line politicos, Wendell Wilkie was hailed as uniquely entitled to time-worn label of "people's choice." A native of Indiana, he has been farmhand, teacher, lawyer and utilities president.

100,000 Feminine Anglers Find New Thrill In Indiana's Fishing

More than a hundred thousand feminine anglers are experiencing the thrills of fishing in Indiana's lakes and streams this summer, taking advantage of the special bargain-price women's fishing license, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, said today.

While complete reports are not yet available, it is estimated that more than a hundred thousand of the special licenses have been issued during the year. This license, good for fishing only during the calendar year, costs the resident feminine angler but fifty cents, and can be secured at News office along with all other forms of licenses. This bargain price, only a third of the regular combination resident license which covers hunting and trapping as well as fishing, has resulted in thousands of women participating in this popular sport.

The women are not only fishing—they are catching fish, some of them landing record strings, the game wardens have discovered as they check licenses along the stream banks and on the lakes. Frequently the catch of the male anglers does not match in size or number the strings which the feminine anglers display with considerable pride.

It has been only in recent years that the women have joined in any appreciable numbers in the sport of fishing. The more intensive stocking of lakes and streams, an active interest in the conservation program and the discovery that fishing is a thrilling as well as a healthful outdoor activity, has done much to increase the number of feminine anglers in Indiana.

"EARN, LEARN, AND TRAVEL," SAYS GENERAL HODGES

Columbus, Ohio, July 17.—"Rapid advancement through the non-commissioned grades, awaits the young man enlisting in the U. S. Army today!" said Brigadier General Campbell B. Hodges, Commanding General of the Fifth Corps Area, today.

General Hodges cited the case of David E. Pickard, a graduate of Tangier, Indiana, High School. Pickard first enlisted in the Army in 1935 and chose service with the U. S. Air Corps, in Hawaii. He soon found out "what made the wheels go 'round" in the Army. Recently, a vacancy occurred in the grade of First Sergeant in the 86th Observation Squadron of the Army Air Corps at Wheeler Field, near Honolulu and Pickard was selected to fill that high post.

"Young soldiers who are conscientious in their attention to duty are afforded every opportunity for promotion in Army rank, with accompanying substantial increases in pay," the General pointed out.

A first sergeant in the Army Corps receives from $125.00 to $145.00 per month, according to his length of service. In addition to that salary he gets comfortable quarters, excellent food, plentiful clothing, transportation allowances and the best of medical and dental care for himself and his family—to say nothing of the privileges of retirement with a substantial, livable wage after the prescribed number of years' service.

The Army offers valuable training, good pay, opportunity to travel. These jobs are open today. The nearest Army recruiting station, or postmaster, will be glad to give complete details. Single young men between the ages of 18 and 35 years should investigate this opportunity.

Mrs. Cora Curle is experiencing a real thrill over the installation of a new Norge electric refrigerator in her home a few days ago. Like most women, she marvels at the convenience of this kind of refrigeration so close at hand. No more running up and down cellar steps following each meal to put away the left overs, and to find a cool spot for the butter and milk until the next meal. It's all right in the kitchen now, where its needed and besides she can now have a cool drink on warm days by adding ice cubes. No one knows how much they have missed in life, until a refrigerator has been placed in the home for family use.

GILT OFF THE DOME

By CHARLES BAIRD

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With Wendell L. Willkie, a native Hoosier, heading the national Republican ticket, and with the popular team of Glen Hillis and Ray Willis carrying the state G. O. P. banner, only a miracle can prevent a Republican victory by a large majority in Indiana next November.

This is not just loose political talk. It is a prospect agreed to by Republicans and Democrats alike. For Democratic leaders, in pushing Paul V. McNutt for the vice presidency, openly admitted that without McNutt on the ticket to counteract Willkie strength, the election might as well be conceded to the G. O. P. in advance.

The Republicans, who long ago ceased to take the McNutt candidacy seriously, are now predicting that they will carry Indiana by a landslide majority of about 100,000 votes—barring war or an earthquake.

This would mean the election of Hillis and Willis, the entire state G. O. P. ticket, a comfortable majority of the State Assembly, at least 10 of the 12 Republican Congressional candidates, and hundreds of politically important city and county candidates.

It also would mean the junk pile for the spoils-ridden McNutt-Minton-McHale machine, which is showing signs of an immienent breakdown.

THE HANDWRITING was clearly on the wall in 1938 when Indiana Republicans, in revolt against the Big and Little New Deals, captured 7 of the 12 Congressional seats, a majority in the lower house of the State Assembly, the office of Secretary of State, and came within a hair's breadth of winning the Senatorial contest.

Hoosier Democrats, frankly worried about 1940, hurriedly took stock, and came to the conclusion that their only hope rested in the political ambitions of their once-mighty leader, Paul V. McNutt. There followed the ill-fated McNutt campaign, which floundered on the rocks of the third-term boom.

This came as a shock but they still clung desperately to one forlorn straw—the vice presidential nomination. Long before the delegates gathered in Chicago this week, however, it was obvious that McNutt didn't have a chance.

Added to these disappointments came the cruelest blow of all. The Republicans, with 48 states to pick from, selected a darkhorse candidate from Elwood, Indiana, to carry their banner in the Fall election. Could anything worse have happened?

Thus began the last chapter of an eventful era in Indiana—the era of McNutt, Minton, McHale, Townsend, Elder, the Two Per Cent Club, the Little New Deal, the port of entry and schoolbook rackets, the income tax and prison scandals, ad infinitum.

HOTTEST Republican campaigning this Fall will be conducted in the Indiana industrial districts—Gary, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Evansville, Terre Haute and Indianapolis—traditional centers of New Deal strength.

Of these six cities only one—Fort Wayne—was won by the G. O. P. in 1938. Large gains were registered in the others, but they ended up as holdouts in the Democratic column.

Certain to play an important role in this vital phase of the campaign is the astute Don C. Flanagan, Allen County chairman, who turned the trick in Fort Wayne two years ago. Using modern, streamline methods, Flanagan transformed a 1936 Democratic majority of 10,000 in Allen County, into an overwhelming majority for the Republicans of 13,000 in 1938.

DEMOCRATIC strength in the industrial district accounted for the election of four of the five Hoosier Democrats in Congress—William T. Schulte (Gary,) Louis Ludlow and William Larrabee (Indianapolis,) and John Boehne Jr. Evansville.) In addition Robert Grant and Noble Johnson, both Republicans, had to overcome Democratic majorities in South Bend and Terre Haute to win election by narrow margins.

Here is how one usually accurate observer rates Congressional District sentiment as of today: First (Schulte,) doubtful but leaning Democratic; Second (Halleck,) certain Republican; Third (Grant,) leaning Republican; Fourth (Gillie,) certain Republican; Fifth (Harness,) certain Republican; Sixth (Johnson,) leaning Republican; Seventh (Landis,) leaning Republican; Eighth (Boehne,) doubtful but leaning Democratic; Ninth (Crowe,) leaning Republican; Tenth (Springer,) certain Republican; Eleventh (Larrabee,) leaning Republican, and Twelfth (Ludlow,) doubtful but leaning Republican.

He predicts that G. O. P. candidates will carry every district with the possible exception of the First and Eighth, with good chances of victory in both.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

Receipts of livestock well above average and active bidding by all of our regular buyers made this week's auction a very satisfactory one. There were thirty-six lambs in the offering this week. Most of them went to the Detroit Market in the care of Floyd Landel, of Waldron. These lambs averaged 82½ pounds, were of fair quality, grass fat but not grain fed and brought $9.30 to $9.40. Fat ewes, $2.20 to $2.50.

In the hog division 175 to 220, $6.55 to $6.70. Light Yorks, $6.75 to $7.10. Stags, $3.75 to $4.40. Fat sows, $4.90 to $6.20 with a few large thin sows at $4.00. Medium quality Jersey butcher bulls, $6.30. There were 115 good veals on sale. Top, $11.00. Bulk, $10.00 to $10.40. Good cutter cows, $4.00 to $5.00.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

NEED FOR PROPER SOIL DRAINAGE IS EXPLAINED

(By Dr. George D. Scarseth)

Plant roots will not enter a water logged subsoil. If they must feed only out of the topsoil in a poorly drained soil, the farmer is using only part of his field. He could increase his production by increasing the root feeding space through drainage and thus produce a more economical crop.

The black upland soils of this region will respond directly to drainage, since in their natural state drainage is usually the first limiting factor of crop production. On the heavy, poorly drained gray upland soils the lack of nitrogen, phosphate, potash and lime may be as much limiting factors as the need for drainage. Here it is necessary to correct all the factors along with the drainage installation in order to make the drainage profitable.

Poor drainage limits the activity of air loving bacteria that are helpful in producing available nitrogen from organic matter. Poor drainage also results in bacterial activity that may produce injurious, toxic substances, that will hurt plants.

Young Wife Asking for Divorce

Her husband struck and otherwise mistreated her and failed to support her, Esther Woodcox, of 904 South Peters Street, Garrett, alleges in suing Homer Woodcox in the DeKalb circuit court for a divorce. The couple married September 4, 1937, and parted last April 27. The plaintiff says the defendant refused to pay her medical and surgical bills and mistreated her young son by a former marriage. The court is asked to restore the plaintiff's former name, Esther Baumgardner. Her attorneys are Atkinson & Sanders.

"FILLS" PHONE NUMBER FOR DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION

Here is a real case of a wrong number.

A man went to a druggist recently in an eastern city to receive a prescription that had been made up for him. When the druggist handed him a large bottle, the man was startled. He wondered if it possibly could be the eye-wash for which his doctor had given a prescription. His astonishment grew when he read on the label, "Take with water twice a day."

In alarm, the man searched his pockets, where he found the prescription just where he had tucked it away upon leaving the doctor's office. "Where is the prescription I gave you?" he asked the druggist, and when the clerk produced the paper the mystery was solved. By mistake the man had given the druggist not the prescription, but a slip of paper on which he had jotted down the telephone number of a friend. Thinking it to be the number of a prescription to be refilled, the druggist had "filled" the telephone number.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105

GOD OUR REFUGE AND OUR STRENGTH

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea; Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the Most High. God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her, and that right early. The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted. The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Come behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth. He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he braketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire. Be still, and know that I am God. I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth. The Lord of hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge. Psalm 46: 1-11.

HOT WEATHER HINTS:

Canning: When canning in glass jars, put an old jar ring over each jar at about the middle. When cooking the jars will not touch each other and there is not the danger of breaking.

Fruit Stains: Fruit stains in white linens may be removed by boiling the linens fifteen minutes in a gallon of water to which you add a lot of soap and two tablespoons of peroxide. Rinse cloth in warm water and let dry in hot sun.

Flower Box: When you have a lot of flowers and are kind enough to pass along slips of them to friends, use a large box for your "gift slips." Whenever a plant needs cutting back or a slip is broken plant the flowers in the extra box and have ready for someone's garden when they ask you for a start.

WALTER WHITEHURST POST No. 283
Meeting Night: Second & Fourth Tuesday of the Month. - - - -

American Legion new officers for the coming year are as follows:

Commander, Elmer Dean.
1st Vice Com., Emmet Carper.
2nd Vice Com., Paul Perry.
Adjutant, Chas. Bassett.
Chaplain, Albert Kreager.
Sgt. at Arms, Vernie Monroe.
Executive Committee, John Crothers, Clark Scholes, Elzie Moore.
Finance Officer, Harvey Hull.
Delegates to State Convention, Elmer Dean, John Crothers.
Alternates to State Convention, Roy Reidenbach, Albert Kreager.

These officers will be installed at the Legion annual picnic at Nettle Lake, north-east of Edon, Ohio, on Sunday, August fourth.

All members and ex-service men and their families are urged to attend this annual get together. Don't forget the date.

METHODISTS IN IMPORTANT MEET

On the evening of August fourth, the Methodists will meet in an important meeting for the discussion of vital relations of the church. B. Brooks Shake, of Fort Wayne, the newly elected district superintendent of the united Methodist Church, will preside. The theme of the sermon for the evening will be, "Essential Elements of a Conquering Church."

In view of the fact that there will be important discussions on the future church relationships of this local church it will be necessary to begin the service at 7:30 Daylight Saving Time. All Methodists, far and near, are urged to be present on this occasion. This shall be a vital, important meeting.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

Mrs. Roosevelt stepped in front of as angry a body of politicians as ever got "rough," at the Chicago convention, a few days ago. In ten minutes they cooled down and finished the business before them as the ancient poet observed, long ago:

"O woman! lovely woman! Nature made thee to temper man: we had been brutes without you."

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

IF YE LOVE ME KEEP MY COMMANDMENTS

Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very work's sake. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it. If ye love me keep my commandments. And I will pray the father, and he shall give you another comforter, that he may abide with you forever; Even the spirit of truth; whom the world can not receive because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. I will not leave you comfortless: I will come to you. Yet a little while and the world seeth me no more, but ye see me: because I live, ye shall live also. John 14: 11-19.

177 pheasants were released Saturday by the local Conservation Club.

Mrs. Arthur Flynn and Mrs. Opal Thompson and daughter, Sally, returned to their home at Portsmouth, Ohio, after two weeks visit with Mrs. Hattie Widney Stone. Mrs. Thompson and daughter will then return to their home in Kansas City.

It is estimated that 8,925,000 unpaid family workers are employed on farms an increase of nealy a million and a quarter workers over those employed last April. With the upturn in employment of hired farm labor considerably sharper than usual, the index of total farm employment was up 19 points from April. An increase of almost one million hired farm workers during the quarterly period was attributed in part to the generally late season and the resulting rush of work incident to the small grain harvest, to haying and to cultivating of row crops.

County Highway Department Effects Tremendous Saving in Appropriation

Wayne VanAuken Makes Semi-Annual Statement of Interest to DeKalb County Taxpayers concerning the Department Operations.

No known communists are tolerated among employes of the DeKalb county highway department, Wayne T. Van Auken, highway superintendent, reports. Labor is employed on a non-political basis but "reds" are barred.

Mr. VanAuken makes the following report of the work of the highway department for the second quarter of the year, April, May, and June:

Believing it to be the proper policy for a public official intrusted with considerable public funds to be expended, I herein submit my second quarterly report of the DeKalb county highway department.

During this quarter, which included the months of April, May, and June, we have placed upon the gravel roads as maintenance approximately 6,000 cubic yards of gravel with our own equipment.

All of the 700 miles of gravel roads have been repeatedly scraped and maintained with road drags and for this time of year are in excellent condition.

We have furnished for the WPA program the 25 per cent sponsors' share, in both material and equipment, for work program employing approximately 190 men.

We have finished painting all of the guard rail posts and bridge facings in the county with a good grade of white paint, not only preserving the wood and metal, but enhancing their visibility, thereby doubling their safety value.

This item alone has cost $591.42 for paint and $446.90 for labor, a total of $1,038.32. We consider this money well spent if it saved only one human life in an accident.

We have resurfaced the Auburn and Garrett road, the highway from Auburn Junction to St. Johns, the small parcels of county highways around Garrett and within the next few days will have completed the resurfacing of the Auburn-Jackson Center Road, the Grube Road out of Butler and the south two miles of the Shoemaker Road, north of Waterloo.

These highways have all been thoroughly patched and placed in good condition before being resurfaced and with this treatment should give many more years of service.

In patching and reconstruction alone we have used approximately 50,000 gallons of asphalt and 3,000 yards of gravel.

We have placed on the south part of the Ashley Road an asphalt surface of 20 feet wide with a compacted thickness of 3½ inches. This pavement was built in conjunction with the federal works program, the asphalt being furnished by the WPA and all gravel and labor of constructing the pavement being done by your own highway department.

This gravel is a well graded mixture 100 per cent passing a 3-4 inch sieve, thereby eliminating the large coarse stones so objectionable to all types of road construction. Right here is a good place to inform the public that as long as I have anything to do with this department all gravel placed upon the highways will be run over a 3-4 grate, and as fast as possible we expect to eliminate those over-size stone now upon the roads.

We are conducting an interesting experiment on five and one-half miles of the Butler and Auburn Road. The first two miles out of Auburn were constructed with what is known as a calcium chloride stabilized mat, the remainder being treated to a penetration coat of asphalt and covered with fine gravel allowing traffic to build its own road.

These two experiments are being watched and checked by our department in co-operation with both the calcium and asphalt engineers and we really think we have something here that may change our methods of building and maintaining county highways. We also have one mile known as the Mutzfeld Road in Wilmington and Stafford Townships treated with clay and calcium, which we are watching very closely for results.

We have treated the highways with calcium chloride in all the small congested centers in the county and also adjacent to cemeteries and churches. This of course is temporary treatment simply as a dust preventive, but as a safety matter and for other advantages we think the expense is justified.

We are continually seeking the advice of informed and experienced road engineers, in order that your money may be spent to the best advantage and with the least waste.

Much of the credit for the results of our operations is due to the 100 per cent co-operation I have had from your board of county commissioners, Lloyd Yeiser, William Brecbill, and the new member, Frank Hilkey, all of whom have equally contributed to this program and have assisted me in every possible way.

No Communists Tolerated

Labor has been hired on a non-political basis, a man's only recommendation is his ability to do the job. Some of our most worthy and trusted employes are of the opposite political faith and in consideration of the political complexion of DeKalb county our department is about half democratic. No known communists are tolerated.

The Auburn and Ashley Road from State Road No. 6 north to Ashley has been kept in fair condition by a continuous patching program, but we have torn up and are rebuilding completely about two miles of it.

This highway has only been built two years, but it is very evident that it must be completely rebuilt next year due to faulty construction methods, improper material or a combination of the two.

We have completed the moving of the entire county mileage one round and a considerable portion the entire right-of-way and at the present time have several men at work cutting Canada thistles and other obnoxious weeds.

This item up to now has cost approximately $1,400. The exact cost cannot be ascertained as some of the labor time has not been turned in to this office.

We have two county owned machines still mowing and expect them to continue as long as any of the mileage remains unmowed.

We have repaired three bridges and rebuilt four small culverts.

We are at the present time underpinning the abutments on several weak county structures.

Our equipment is in excellent shape due to the efficiency of our repair department in the county garage.

New Signs are Being Painted

New signs are being painted daily to be put up in place of those that have become faded or obsolete. More than 2,000 signs have been repainted and replaced on our roads but many more are needed and are being supplied as fast as possible.

We have accomplished all of this work due to the efficiency and faithful performance of our men and their foreman, Elmer Johns, to whom a great deal of credit is due, and remained within our budget.

Below is a financial summary of the quarter. Further details may be had by anyone in the county at any time. Our books are open for public inspection eigth hours a day every working day in the year.

First quarter balance, $18,054.12.
Second quarter appropriation, $35,109.96.
April 1 balance, $53,164.08.

INSANITY APPLICATION FOR ST. JOE INSURANCE AGENT

An application for an insanity inquest for Ivan C. Bowser, 60, an insurance agent of St. Joe, has been filed in the DeKalb circuit court by his wife, Estella Bowser.

The application says that Bowser has had mental trouble since he was hit by an automobile eight years ago and that his condition has gradually become worse. He is violent at times, destructive and threatens suicide, requiring restraint. He seeks to harm his wife.

The attending physician, Dr. Harold Nugen, of Auburn, made an affidavit supporting the application. He stated that Bowser is noisy and unruly; that he does not recognize his relatives or know his place of residence, and that he cannot carry on an intelligent conversation.

Judge W. P. Endicott appointed Dr. B. O. Shook, of Spencerville, and Dr. Forder DeMuth, of Hicksville, to exaine Mr. Bowser and report.

WINELAND FAMILY REUNION MET AT AUBURN

The annual Wineland family reunion was held on Sunday, July 28, at the home of Mrs. Laura Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop in Auburn. A bountiful carry-in dinner was served cafeteria style at the noon hour.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pontius, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wineland, Elkhart; Miss Fairie Cole, Mrs. Alice Dawson, Garrett; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steward and daughter, Gloria, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hollabaugh and family, Spencerville; Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ridgway and son, Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Freeburn and sons, Richard and Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McCann and daugther, Sandra, St. Joe; Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hendricks and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Haverstock and son, Jon L., of Auburn, and the host and hostesses.

The afternoon was pleasantly spent in visiting and trying to keep cool.

A business meeting was held later in the afternoon and it was decided that the officers would be re-elected for the coming year. Mr. Simon Hendricks, president; Mr. Hugh Wineland, vice president; Mrs. Ethel Haverstock, secretary and treasurer.

All adjourned at a late hour, assuring each other that they would meet again next year.

HOME BUREAU ENTERTAINS FAMILIES

The ladies of the Home Bureau entertained their families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Yeiser, July 18. In a few well chosen words, the president, Mrs. Millie Shull, gave the welcome address and introduced County Demonstration Agent, Elnore Moore, who led a group of songs.

The club was pleased by the presence of the County President, Mrs. Ida K. Miller, in an interesting talk comparing "A Boss to A Leader," which was instructive and interesting.

Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, assisted by the club ladies, conducted a "Quiz" program and was very much enjoyed by the guests.

Plenty of home made ice cream and cake was served to about sixty guests who were grateful to the club ladies and Mr. and Mrs. Yeiser for a very pleasant evening.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A subscriber of the masculine sex comments upon the number of lady tourists who travel in slacks. He mentions that though local women wear them and the custom is easier to accept each summer, still the picture of a lady stepping from an auto, clad in a wrinkled pair of slacks is not pleasing on the average masculine eye. He figures in such cases as these the husband shouldn't find it necessary to shave! Folks who live around resorts become used to the sight of too-large women wearing too baggy a slack suit. The outfit may be comfortable but there is one type of wearer who should consult a full length mirror before appearing in slacks in public. Remember, this is the other fellow's opinion!

STILL TOPS

With the constant talk of additional airplanes and new types of planes, man must still look to his laurels to produce as an efficient machine in the air as the one manipulated by the master of the skies, the bird. The sight of the winged creatures as they dip and swing, their grace as the wings carry them high and low, is a sight that our modern planes cannot successfully equal. The only edge that man has over the feathered flier, is speed. Birds know more about the winds than does man and they carry all of the necessary equipment of the plane from wing slots and landing gear to flaps. They gave us the idea of changing the wing area while in flight but man cannot do it as easily. A bird knows just the proper time to migrate, to locate the right tail winds, to save the lengthy stretches for the favorable winds. Man cannot be too self-satisfied with his progress in plane manufacture.

A SUMMER DAY

Do not pass over the glory of a summer day, the beauty of a summer sky, the gold of summer sun, the blue-green of near-by stream, the waving black-eyed Susans, the shady roads that lead to countryside where glaring heat seems not so hot, and the sun not so scorching as it filters through the tree tops. The early morning hours of a summer day refreshes us after a night of unrest. The dew that covers the grass sparkles, the sound of mower and cry of a child beats a melody of summer. Before we start out on a day of labor to produce and provide, we must gaze about us and appreciate the loveliness of our natural environment that calls for a prayer for continued simple, peaceful days. For such riches we are grateful.

A-STIRRING

There is a bit of hustling around centers such as St. Joe where rural women are making ready items that will grace many a county fair exhibit. Women today go in for more of a variety of things than in those fair days when the lack of modern devices made farm work such a chore that there was little time for developing outside artistic talent. Gone the days of too many trips to the well, too heavy baking, too tiring the back-breaking laundry job. These left little energy for the study and discussing of outside interests. The rural woman today has her study clubs and social groups, is aware of the trend in home and dress decoration and design. She travels by auto to keep in contact with other women whose interests become hers. The county fair finds worthy exhibits from women who get beyond the farmhouse door.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Among other things, the Havana conference is interested in devising a plan whereby English, French and Dutch territory in the Americas may not be acquired by some other European power. Into that particular machine, Argentina has thrown a monkey wrench, as was expected, with the plausible argument that the inhabitants of the regions concerned should have the say.

That, of course, amounts to no more than Hitler's theory that if a German population of sufficient size to make trouble can be planted in a foreign land, nobody has the right to object. It is to be hoped that the conference will find a way out. In the meantime, Argentina subjects herself to the suspicion of having a warm spot in her heart for the Nazi point of view.

When General Lee was asked who, in his opinion, was the best military man in the service of the United States, he said, "McClellan, by all odds." General McClellan was charged with lack of vigor, and at an early stage of the Civil War was conducted to the back pew. The single fact that he was not sufficiently aggressive was enough to condemn him.

Over in France, a poor Deladier is under a two fold damnation. He too was slow, and with a singular inconsistency, he is charged with immersing his country in war, when he should have known better.

Perhaps the Petain government, either from choice or necessity, is trying to carry water on both shoulders. If Mr. Deladier can be lodged behind the bars on the ground that he is sluggish, crushed and indignant French nationalism will be appeased. If his offence turns out to be fostering a war when there was no cause for one, justice will have been accomplished, according to German standards.

Viewed in the most charitable light, the Nazis have compelled the Petain regime to provide a terrible example of what happens to those who pause in Hitler's way. Or maybe Mr. Deladier merely came in handy during one of those dark hours when the next step in order is to look up a goat.

On April 15, 1912, the steamship Titanic rammed an iceberg and sank, with a loss of fifteen hundred lives, and a state of sympathetic excitement prevailed for weeks. Today the papers carry an obscurely casual notice that twenty eight hundred were missing after the destruction of an English troop ship. The death of three hundred in a similar disaster would hardly have brought up the topic. War advances the price of most useful commodities, but human life does not participate in the rise.

Slowly but surely the Senate moves forward toward consideration of a bill calculated to limit Presidential tenure to a single term of six years, or to prevent a third term if the existing four year period is considered desirable. In ten days or so, public hearings will begin, it is said. The committee report will be followed by open debate on the floor. The third term is an issue, and possibly the one upon which the election will turn. When the Senate takes the matter in hand, there will be an outburst, not only of statesmanship, but of old fashioned politics as well.

Depressions may come and depressions may go, but business always is good in the Post Office Department. The important body which may be referred to loosely as "the governent," has just paid about a million and a half dollars postage on five billion dollars in gold, shipped from the Treasury to the Kentucky storage cave. Add fifty thousand dollars for guards and approximately twice that sum for army protection, and it will be seen that when Uncle Sam shifts his small change from one pants pocket to another, the transfer is a serious matter. One is inclined to suspect that the gold would have reached its destination safely if the boxes had merely been piled in freight cars and started on its way with no formality other than the toot of a locomotive whistle.

A new restaurant has been opened in St. Joe, and is being operated by Mrs. Pearl Williams in her home, where she at one time operated a restaurant. She has had years of experience in this work and is an excellent cook.

The Cheesetown school grounds afford a pleasant place to picnic these hot summer days. An outdoor furnace has been constructed and a well put down for the comfort of those who choose to linger there. Drive out and enjoy this beauty spot.

Mr. and Mrs. DuWayne Kinsey were Saturday and Sunday guests of Marion Randall-Carlin and family at Chicago. Harry Randall, who had been here for several weeks taking a rest cure, trying to regain his health, returned to Chicago with them with the idea of remaining.

You can make up your mind that when The News fails to arrive at your home at the proper time, there is something wrong. Last week the paper was not printed because Mrs. Leighty, who operates the linotype, was unable to work having a severe attack of arthritis, but this week she feels much better and we have done our best to give you the news that was available.

The post office has undergone one of the most complete house cleanings in its history. Postmaster Storer spent his spare time for the past two weeks making this general cleaning of the entire walls, woodwork and fixtures. It surely looks nice and the public appreciates it. Even the call box numbers have been renewed. Any one with such ambition in this hot weather is to be complimented.

TO MAKE APPOINTMENT TO MILITARY ACADEMY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An open examination for appointment to the United States Military Academy from the Fourth Congressional District will be conducted by the Civil Service Commission on Saturday, October 5, in the Fort Wayne Post Office Building, it as announced today by Congressman George W. Gillie.

The appointment will be made to fill a vacancy created by the anticipated graduation next June of Cadet Rob R. McNagny Jr., of Columbia City.

All young men in the Fourth District between the ages of 17 and 21, who have completed their junior year in high school, will be eligible to compete for the appointment. Those desiring to take the examination should write at once to: Hon. George W. Gillie, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

In pursuance of a policy of removing West Point appointments from the realm of politics, inaugurated by Congressman Gillie a year ago, the 1941 appointment will be based strictly on the outcome of this competitive examination.

The candidate receiving the highest grade will be given the appointment as principal, and the two alternate posts will go to those placing second and third, Congressman Gillie said. The three young men thus selected will be eligible to take the regular entrance examination at West Point in March.

This policy was followed by Congressman Gillie last year and resulted in the appointment of Gilbert R. Hershey, Angola, principal; Charles W. Thomas, Fort Wayne, first alternate, and James K. Glendening, Geneva, second alternate. Mr. Glendening successfully met the entrance requirements and was admitted to West Point on July 1.

The preliminary examination for the 1941 appointment will be held at 9:00 A. M., Saturday, October 5, in the Civil Service Room of the Fort Wayne Post Office. It will be conducted by a representative of the Civil Service Commission and will last for approximately six and one-half hours.

Subjects of the examination will be: Algebra, Plane Geometry, English, Composition and Literature, U. S. History and English Grammar. Descriptions of the examination and information booklets on West Point may be obtained by writing to Congressman Gillie.

There will be no Fourth District vacancy in the Naval Academy at Annapolis until 1942, Congressman Gillie announced.

AS IN 1917

. . . we are ready.

In the interest of national defense, 200 capital stock* fire insurance companies, members of The National Board of Fire Underwriters, offer their services and facilities to the United States Government.

With cooperating technical organizations, The National Board of Fire Underwriters is experienced in guarding against fire hazards in cities, towns, villages, manufacturing plants, public buildings and hospitals; we have detailed knowledge of local structural conditions, water supplies and fire-fighting equipment.

In the Nation's determination to keep American industry producing supplies for home use and for export . . . without interference through sabotage . . . we offer the services of a staff of nationally-operating arson investigators who are wise to the ways of firebugs.

As in 1917, we are ready again to utilize our facilities to the utmost to reduce fire loss in industry; to prevent unnecessary destruction of grain, cotton and other vital necessities; to design special fire prevention and fire protection measures to safeguard government property and the property of those engaged on government contracts.

And, through familiarity with industrial equipment throughout the country, we are prepared again to give to the Government a vast amount of information respecting potential sources of supply for the strengthening of military and naval defense.

We favor adequate preparedness for national defense.

We are ready.

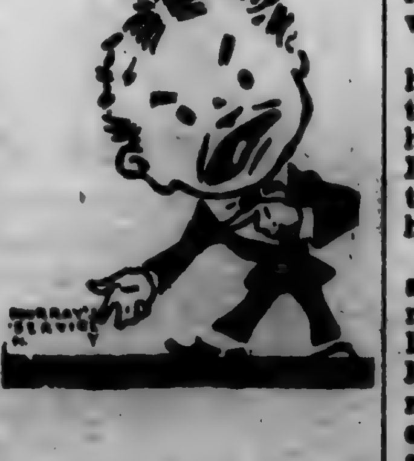
SPENCERVILLE ELEVATOR



Out of the Fog

By GREGORY JONAS

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

BARRY STUART, bachelor, was driving his high-powered roadster over the country roads at a pace quite inconsistent with its ability for speed. Barry was drinking in the beauties of the moon-flooded night. A fog rose from the river and floated lightly above the lowlands, wandering clouds touched by the magic of the moon. Like a huge, disgorged feather-bed the bank of white awaited Barry's dip into the valley only to disappear upon his advent.

"Like all my troubles," mused Barry. Now and then oblongs of yellow light showed through the blur of white and Barry knew there was a home—and he wished vaguely that there were a yellow light beckoning him. With these vague wishes was mixed the shadowy dream of a girl's face, her blue eyes and her bright hair as soft and intangible as the feathers of fog about him.

Barry had been unable to forget this particular girl for one moment after meeting her; and now he was running away from her; she threatened to crystallize his vague dreams into reality; she imperiled his celibacy, and he wasn't ready—not yet. His memories of her mingled so enticingly with the night that he was startled, as his car rose to the hilltop, to see a slight figure hurrying along ahead of him.

"Won't you ride?" asked Barry, sensing that there must be some reason for a girl's treading this lonesome road so long after teatime. Her voice sounded sharp and there was recklessness in her acceptance of his invitation.

"Yes, I'll ride," she answered, and slumped down into the seat beside him.

"On your way to Moorestown?" he asked.

"As well as anywhere," she replied, and Barry was silent. His dreams were lost in the fog as he puzzled about the girl beside him. They drove along quietly, dipping into the valleys and rising to the hilltops with a swift, clean motion that was worthy of his car. When they had gone another ten miles the girl spoke suddenly:

"I'm leaving my husband!"

"Indeed!" ejaculated Barry, and added: "How old are you?"

"Twenty-four and I'm tired of drudgery and tending babies and having nothing!"

"I see," commented Barry softly. "Husbands and babies aren't much compensation unless they're nice," he added tentatively.

"My babies are adorable!" she flashed.

"They must be unusual, then," he observed. "Most babies are pests!"

"Have you any?" she demanded.

"Good Lord, no—I'm a bachelor."

"Then you don't know a thing about it. They're so soft and adorable and—and cute! Twin girls. But his mother is always there—making trouble. She'll take care of them."

"Of course," agreed Barry. "In another six months they'll probably think she's their mother—they're unfeeling little brutes, at best."

"Mine are not! They know me—they cry when I leave them!" Silence enveloped them, when suddenly the girl's voice broke it.

"I've got to go back! Take me to the next bus stop—you'll think I'm crazy!"

"What difference does it make what I think? I don't even know your name. But you're foolish to go back. We could go to the show and have a good time—" He turned and caught the appeal in her upturned face.

"Honestly, I didn't mean that!" he said contritely, turning the car about. "I'm going to take you home." The car flew like a live thing.

"Tell me the house," said Barry.

"I will." He could feel her tenseness; once she put out a small hand and laid it over his on the wheel.

"I don't know how to thank you—"

"Your husband won't—abuse you?" he inquired.

"Phil? Good heavens, no!"

"Men do—"

"Not mine—it's just that his mother bosses me so—"

"I know—I have a boss myself and some day I'm going to wax independent and fire myself—but not till I see that it won't ruin my own happiness," he told her.

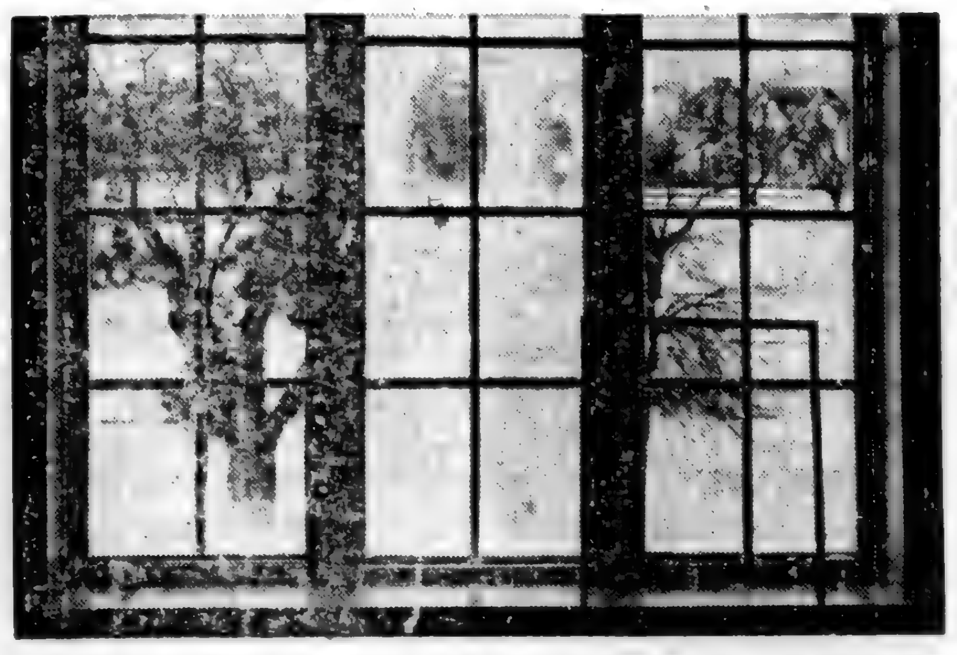
She touched his arm when at last two rectangles of light gleamed through the lifting fog.

"Atmosphere has cleared," remarked Barry, drawing up to the house and sounding his horn. The door opened and a frenzied young man stood outlined—behind him a woman twisting her apron.

"I've brought back your wife," he announced, handing her out of the car. "Wives are hard to get," he observed, "and harder to keep, I'm told. When I find one I'm going to make it my business to keep her!"

The young man, with his arms about his wife, tried to thank Barry; but with a wave of his hand Barry was gone; not toward Moorestown, but in the other direction where the girl with the blue eyes and lovely hair must be sitting somewhere behind oblongs of yellow light—waiting!

WINDOW FOGGING CONTROLLED BY DOUBLE GLASS



Here is one way to control that annoying fogging and condensation on the windows in your new home. Shown here are three casement windows. Notice that two of them are entirely clear because of inside double glazing. The other window has had the inside double glazing removed, with the result that it is fogged up almost immediately. When this picture was taken the inside room temperature was 71 degrees, while outside the thermometer stood at 15 degrees above zero.

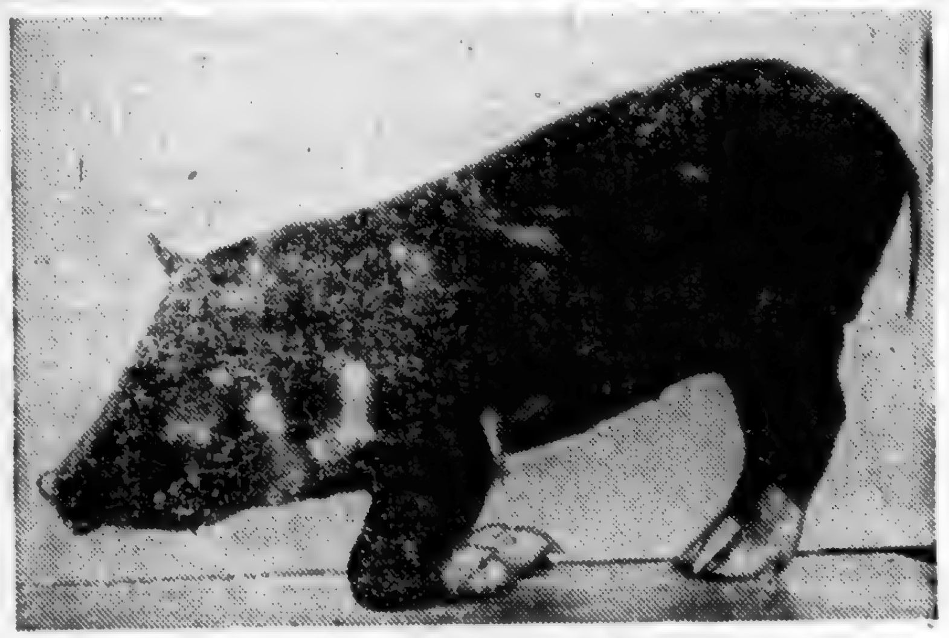
TWO SWINE PLAGUES THAT ACT ALIKE

Though due to entirely different causes, two of the most disastrous swine diseases, hog cholera and swine erysipelas, are so very similar that even trained veterinarians often find it necessary to resort to laboratory diagnosis to determine which disease is affecting a herd.

Both of these plagues of swine may strike suddenly. Both cause a high fever, general weakness and depression. The filtrable virus of hog cholera and the tiny rod-shaped erysipelas germ both raid the tissues through the blood stream and leave the tiny, dot-like blood spots or pinpoint hemorrhages called petechiae. The eyes may be "gummed" shut, and the skin discolored in the case of either disease.

But there is one characteristic fact about hog cholera that is true of almost no other hog disease—almost 100% of all hogs sick with cholera die. And there is no known cure for a hog in advanced stages of cholera. On the other hand, the death rate in erysipelas ranges from 20% to 40% of the affected animals. Those which survive the disease may show big joints, stiffness, sloughing off of sizable pieces of hide, and emaciation due to growths on the valves of the heart.

As erysipelas is steadily becoming more prevalent—it has now been identified in more than 27 states—the possible loss resulting from confusion of this disease with dreaded hog cholera is a very real menace. All livestock authorities agree that one of the most sensible precautions is to have the local veterinarian immunize all pigs against cholera at or near weaning time. This largely eliminates hog cholera as a factor if its "running mate"—erysipelas—happens to strike the herd later.



Typical erysipelas case. Note enlarged joints and sore feet.

One should remember that the swine erysipelas germ also infects human beings through abrasions on the skin. Every one should use rubber gloves or cheap cotton gloves that can be burned or destroyed while handling carcasses of swine dead from erysipelas.

Luckily, a very potent and curative serum is available for combatting swine erysipelas outbreaks, and if it is used after early identification of the disease by a trained veterinarian, heavy losses may be avoided.

GUARD AGAINST HOG CHOLERA

Although more than thirty years have elapsed since scientists discovered that hog cholera was due to a virus this dreaded contagion of swine still ranks as the hog industry's most important menace. For example over 14,600 swine carcasses were condemned last year at federally inspected packing plants because they were infected with cholera virus.

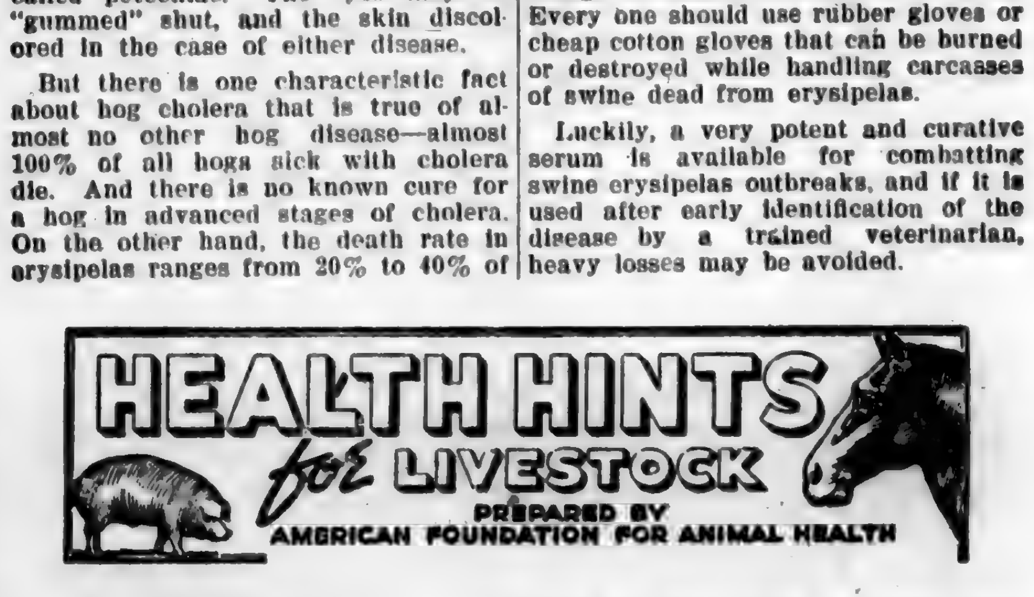
The 6,262 outbreaks reported throughout the country in 1939—2,000 more than the year before—do not really tell the story of cholera ravages for countless droves were handled locally without being reported to authorities.

All too often almost complete loss of a valuable herd of hogs occurs because the owner mistakenly thinks that a beginning sickness in the drove is due to a feeding error, to a change in the weather or to some other cause. Then when skilled help is obtained the virus may have spread so quickly that salvage is impossible.

Any time that one or more pigs in an unvaccinated herd hide in the bedding and show little inclination to eat; when they walk with a weak, staggering gait and show diarrhea, or when their eyelids gum shut . . . then it is high time to stop guesswork on what is wrong and immediately get a skilled veterinarian to ferret out the true cause of the trouble.

Cholera CAN be whipped. This has been demonstrated year after year in countless townships throughout the swine belt. For, where all pigs in a given area are properly immunized at or soon after weaning time, cholera losses rarely get a running start, and each immune drove serves as a living barrier against an invasion of the virus.

If every swine raiser will cooperate with his local veterinarian in seasonable immunization of all pigs the current twenty million dollar a year loss from hog cholera can be soon made a thing of the past.



Typical cholera-sick hogs. Note weakness, and hogs piling up.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, AUGUST 8, 1940 NUMBER 32

NEWVILLE FREE CHAUTAUQUA BEGINS NEXT SUNDAY

The twenty-sixth annual session of the Newville Chautauqua will begin Sunday morning at 10:00 with the union Sunday School. The lesson will be given in lecture form by Dr. O. K. Ensor, of Indianapolis. The Dr. is a product of the Newville community and he will be received by many former acquaintances. The morning sermon will be delivered by Dr. A. W. Cordier, of North Manchester. "The Resources of Religion for our time." Community basket dinner at noon.

The lecture at 2:00 P. M. by Dr. Cordier, "Observation in Nasi Germany," will present this timely topic from his own personal viewpoint in the land of Hitler. This lecture will tax the capacity of the church. Dr. Cordier will deliver his third address at 8:30 on "The World Faces a New Direction."

The program on Monday evening, August 12, will be given by members of the Central High School of Fort Wayne. This program will consist of piano, violin, flute, accordion, vocal selections and humorous and patriotic readings. All the numbers on this program have been state contest winners.

Tuesday eve, August 13, is designated "Youth Night." H. E. Richer will be the speaker and his subject will be "Dreams." Mr. and Mrs. Richer have been the genial music masters of the Newville Chautauqua for many years. There are no draggy programs with them on the job.

Wednesday eve the speaker will be Rev. Morris E. Coers, Baptist pastor at Bluffton. Subject, "The World and the Jew." He will be remembered from last year and there were many requests for his return.

"The Mission of Magic, Music and Mirth" will be the subect of James Allen Troke for Thursday evening. This is an entertainment that is delightfully different.

Prof. J. O. Winger on Friday evening will deliver his lecture "Sun-Crowned Men." Prof. Winger has filled many return engagements and is always well received.

The program for Saturday evening will be Home Talent, and for that reason it should be well attended.

Sunday, August 18 will be the closing day. The Sunday School and Community Basket Dinner customary on these Sunday services will be held as usual.

The speaker for the morning, afternoon and evening services will be the Rev. Edna B. Hughes, of Logan, Ohio. Mrs. Hughes has been preaching since she was twelve years of age. She has conducted evangelistic meetings in some of the largest churches in the United States. She has a pleasing personality. Her messages are safe, sensible and sincere. Her methods are entirely free from the objectionable spectacular. This will easily be the climax of a great week.

The 1940 program will prove to be as good as the best and better than some of the many preceding sessions. The Newville Chautauqua has never been a commercial venture. The only objective for twenty-six years has been to bring a little happiness and helpfulness to the community. The poorest child has always been welcome to a choice seat. That is the reason for the loyalty of the friends who have supported it through the years. You are not only welcome this year, but your presence is sincerely desired.

Rev. O. P. Givens, the originator of the Newville Rural Free Chautauqua, is the present pastor of the U. B. Church.

STRAWS and STRAYS for WILKIE

The wildfire popular support for Willkie and McNary is a political phenomenon without parallel in American history.

Three recent polls show the Republicans dealing in sufficient states to make a safe majority in the November electoral vote; this some ten days before the formal acceptance speeches, which normally mark the real opening of the campaign.

Willkie's personal appeal to voters of all parties to band together for true-blue American principles has sounded a campaign keynote new in our generation.

The great issue of 1940 becomes clearer daily, in the view of Washington's most reputable political observers. That issue is—Americanism or dictatorship?

MORTUARY

SNELLBAKER

Leonard Snellbaker, son of Frank and Rosa L. Snellbaker, born December 26, 1905 at Newville, Indiana, died August 1, 1940, at Toledo Ohio. He was united in marriage to Helen Campbell December 8, 1924. To this union was born one child which died in infancy.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, Helen Snellbaker, his father, Frank Snellbaker, of Newville, two sisters, Mrs. Charles Harter, of Newville, Mrs. Walter Price, of Toledo, Ohio, a brother, Don Snellbaker, Newville, Indiana, a grandmother, Mrs. Jane Hatch, of Newville, and a host of friends. The mother preceded him in death in July 1934.

The funeral was held Saturday at Newville being conducted by Rev. Richard Key, of St. Joe.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

Threshing and oats harvest kept many farmers away from last Thursday's auction, however receipts of dairy cows, hogs for slaughter and veals were average. Hogs reflected a general market weakness weights from 230 to 250 selling at $6.25. Fat sows $4.60 down with a few quality light sows up to $5.15. No feeding shoats on sale this week.

Veals were taken at active prices with a top of $10.00 paid by the Detroit market through Mr. Landel. The bulk of good and second line calves from $9.00 to $9.90. Day old calves slightly lower than last week. Butcher cattle of all classes from 25 to 50 cents lower than last week.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

The Word of God

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.—Psalm 119: 105.

GOD'S LOVE FOR US

Beloved let us love one another: for love is of God; and everyone that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love. In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten son into the world, that we might live through him. Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. 1 John 4: 7-11.

Following a hearing in the DeKalb Circuit Court Saturday, Milton Spitler, a Spencer Township farmer, was ordered to pay his estranged wife, Iva Spitler, $4 a week for support pending the trial of her divorce suit. He also is to pay $35 to apply upon her attorney's fees. The order restraining him from molesting his wife or disposing of any personal property was modified to permit him to sell his crops. He also may sell livestock upon a petition approved by the court.

Ivan C. Bowser, of St. Joe, was committed to the Richmond State Hospital Saturday by Judge Endicott. The court acted upon an application by Mrs. Estella Bowser and recommendation of Dr. Harold Nugen, of Auburn, Dr. Forder DeMuth, of Hicksville, Ohio and Dr. B. O. Shook, of Spencerville. Mr. Bowser has been mentally ill for the last eight years, as the result of an automobile accident. He has lately become destructive, has threatened his family and must be held in restraint.

ST. JOE NEWS READER FOR FORTY-FOUR YEARS

A letter received from Miss Agnes Dunn, daughter of Mrs. L. V. Dunn, of Breedsville, Michigan, and well known to many of our local readers as a missionary to India, now in school at Camp Wycliffe, at Sulphur Springs, Arkansas, said:

"For forty-four years my mother has taken the St. Joe News, and so keeps in touch with the old friends. As she is eighty-one years-old, many of her former friends have gone on before. I enclose $1.00 for another year. Mother is just as interested in all that's going on in the world as ever, reading and listening to the radio. I visited her for a month, arriving in time for Mother's Day, and am returning to Michigan to see her again in September. Some of the St. Joe people know me from childhood days, and others since 1933 when I visited my cousin, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, while home on furlough from India. I'm hoping to see her again this fall.

"Later on I'll send the general letter which is now being prepared, but this time will only tell you about the summer school of Linguistics in Sulphur Springs, where I'm spending the summer.

"Just now in class I learned that one tribe of Latin American Indians when they greet each other say, 'Good-morning my nose and eyebrows.' I thought that about as queer an expression as one would find if he went to the ends of the earth. We have a queer 'yes' in one of the South India languages, 'how do.' "

FORMER ST. JOE MAN HAS BEEN ARRESTED

Russell Griffin became an inmate of the DeKalb County jail Sunday to await arraignment on a charge of deserting his family.

The arrest was made by Sheriff Artus Coyle and State Policeman Wm. Hunter at the home of Griffin's parents, living southeast of Garrett in Keyser Township. The complaint was filed by his wife, Iretta Griffin, who alleges that the abandonment took place last June 25th.

Mrs. Griffin recently filed a divorce suit, charging that her husband associated with another woman in Michigan; that he brought their houseold goods to DeKalb County and returned to Michigan to live with the other woman, and that he told her to get a divorce.

Mrs. Griffin and the children; Hugh, 7, Robert, 5, and Harold, 2, live with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Sawvel, and Mr. Samvel on Hamilton Rural Route. The Griffin couple married in 1931.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

It took the House less than three hours to pass the auxiliary defense bill, carrying an appropriation of approximately five billion dollars. Action was enthusiastic, but one dissenting vote being recorded. The measure will be passed on to the Senate, where no serious opposition is expected.

The salient features of the bill include an increase in the airplain force of the army and navy; the building of two hundred vessels for naval use; the complete outfitting of an army of two million men; the provision of reserve supplies for a force of that number; and an assured industrial organization capable of ministering to war demands which may be made upon it.

The vigar with which the defense matter was handled, indicates that Hitler's statement that he is without designs on the Western Hemisphere, is regarded as no more than so much sounding brass; and that the time has come when the United States must move rapidly and keep a sharp eye on self-preservation.

A somewhat saddening corolary to the foregoing proposition is the belief that it is too late to give England worthwhile aid. The feeling persists that France to a degree laid down on the job, interest in the Allied cause being dampened accordingly. It is probable from now on, that the United States will protect herself directly against Hitlerism, rather than by aiding buffer or agent nations.

Along with the desire to be ready, so far as a supply of inanimate things is concerned, goes a disinclination to make too many immediate demands on man power. The increasing sentiment against conscription is reflected in Congressional action. When the Burke-Wadsworth bill went to the Senate Military Affairs Committee, it called for the drafting of men between the ages of 18 and 64. In the hope of reducing opposition, the limits were set by committee amendment at 21 and 31.

The papers report that a German raider has been put to flight by armed merchant vessels of Britain, off the South American coast: which reminds one that disposing of merchant shipping is not the pleasant afternoon pastime that it used to be, when ship construction was in the transition stage from wood to metal. Prior to the Monitor-Merrimac engagement of the Civil War, ironclad boats leisurely poked their prows between the ribs of merchant craft and steamed away, a few popgun projectiles perhaps rattling off their hard armor. Nowadays, the skipper of a naval vessel has to think twice before tackling what appears to be a harmless carrier of goods.

The alleged desire of Japan to rear a huge, totalitarian, Asiatic state, without interference from democracies, shows that the disease is spreading, although it is difficult to determine which of the countries now affected was the first to be taken down with the disorder. In practice at least, a dictator seems necessary to the operation of a totalitarian philosophy. A long while ago, Guizot the French historian wrote an effective chapter which left the reader convinced that not much substantial civilization had been founded on the efforts of big two-fisted leaders.

The mere rudiments of history are sufficient to prove that there is no escape from periods during which dictators and their schemes plague the earth. Yet the same source of knowledge conveys the assurance that no matter how much dictators may roughen the surface, the workings of Time will grind it smooth again.

This is a good and peaceful land. Domestically speaking, we are faced by nothing worse than Democratic and Republican claims, each to the effect that the other side does not know anything, an allegation which neither proponent fully believes. When the election is over, there will be no seizing of arsenals to carry the contest further. Mr. Roosevelt may be getting ready to pack. Mr. Willkie may be getting the horse laugh. That is all. This is a good and peaceful land.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1940 NUMBER 33

EXAMINERS COMPLETE WORK ON BOOKS OF COUNTY CLERK

The task of examining the books in the office of the DeKalb County clark was compelted Friday by O. A. Hutchens and Charles R. Stuart, of Fort Wayne, and they sent their report to the office of the state board of accounts at Indianapolis.

The state board may make the report public at once, or this action may be delayed a short time. If the report indicates a discrepancy in the cash account of the missing former clerk, Carl Walter, suit against the bonding company involved will no doubt ensue. In the meantime the cash on hand and in the bank when Clerk Walter abandoned the office remains intact and no payment will be made from it until settlement is reached with the bonding company.

The examiners were at work on the books for about a month, Mr. Walter having disappeared July 9. The report they prepared contains twenty-nine typewritten pages.

UNSAFE AT HOME

Is your home the haven of security you think it is?

It probably isn't. Last year 32,000 Americans were killed by accidents in their homes.

Why?

The St. Joe News, in cooperation with the National Safety Council, will give the answer in a series of pictorial home safety hints.

They will begin August 29. Don't miss them!

NOTICE, BARBER CUSTOMERS!

I have been called to my former job at the International Harvester Co., so have arranged for my Barber Shop to be open every evening at 5 o'clock and all day Saturday.

Thrills And Chills To Be Presented At State Fair

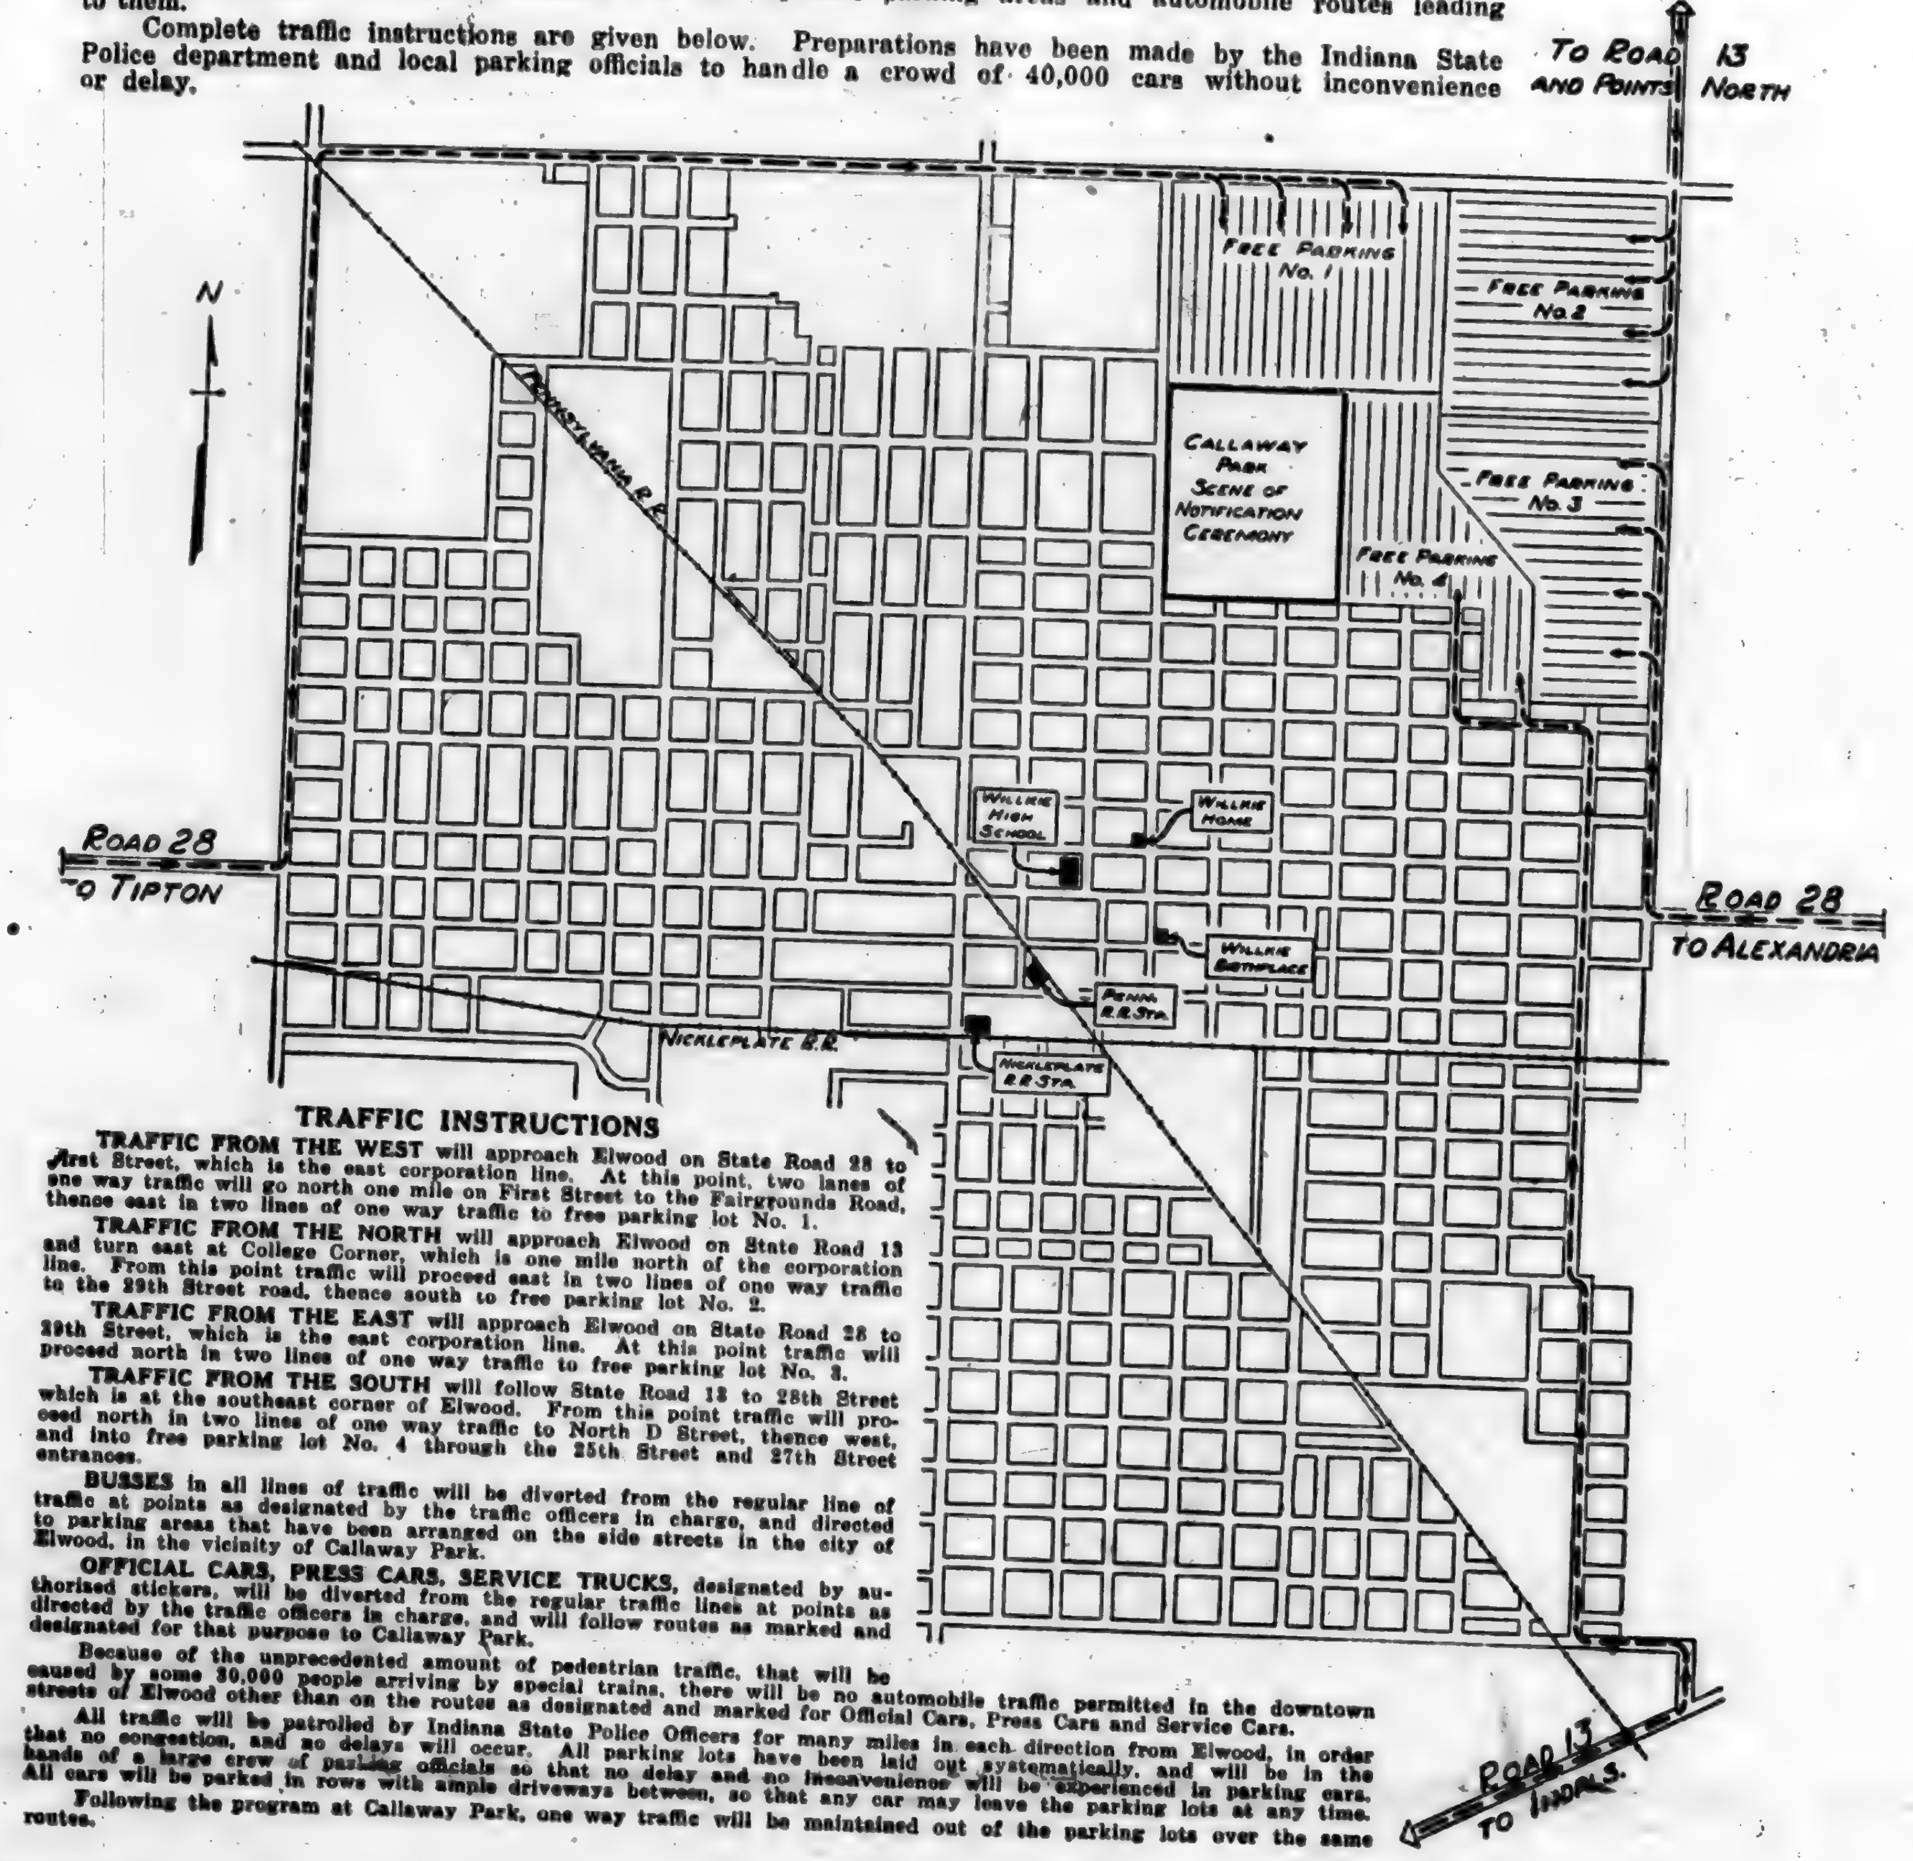
PERSONS attending the Harness Races at the State Fair, August 30 to September 6, this year will be treated to some sensational entertainment between races by a great cast of hippodrome performers rarely ever assembled for one show.

One of the features on this "thrill and chill" program will be the team of Paul Lorenzo and Vicki, who present a swinging pole act. In the above photo Paul is performing a head stand 115 feet in the air with Vicki only a few feet below.

TRAFFIC ROUTES FOR WILLKIE NOTIFICATION

Below is a map of the city of Elwood and vicinity showing the location of Callaway Park, the scene of the notification ceremonies, together with the adjacent parking areas and automobile routes leading to them.

Complete traffic instructions are given below. Preparations have been made by the Indiana State Police department and local parking officials to handle a crowd of 40,000 cars without inconvenience or delay.



TRAFFIC INSTRUCTIONS

TRAFFIC FROM THE WEST will approach Elwood on State Road 28 to First Street, which is the east corporation line. At this point, two lanes of one way traffic will go north one mile on First Street to the Fairgrounds Road, thence east in two lines of one way traffic to free parking lot No. 1.

TRAFFIC FROM THE NORTH will approach Elwood on State Road 13 and turn east at College Corner, which is one mile north of the corporation line. From this point traffic will proceed east in two lines of one way traffic to the 29th Street road, thence south to free parking lot No. 2.

TRAFFIC FROM THE EAST will approach Elwood on State Road 28 to 29th Street, which is the east corporation line. At this point traffic will proceed north in two lines of one way traffic to free parking lot No. 3.

TRAFFIC FROM THE SOUTH will follow State Road 13 to 28th Street which is at the southeast corner of Elwood. From this point traffic will proceed north in two lines of one way traffic to North D Street, thence west, and into free parking lot No. 4 through the 25th Street and 27th Street entrances.

BUSSES in all lines of traffic will be diverted from the regular line of traffic at points as designated by the traffic officers in charge, and directed to parking areas that have been arranged on the side streets in the city of Elwood, in the vicinity of Callaway Park.

OFFICIAL CARS, PRESS CARS, SERVICE TRUCKS, designated by authorized stickers, will be diverted from the regular traffic lines at points as directed by the traffic officers in charge, and will follow routes as marked and designated for that purpose to Callaway Park.

Because of the unprecedented amount of pedestrian traffic, that will be caused by some 30,000 people arriving by special trains, there will be no automobile traffic permitted in the downtown streets of Elwood other than on the routes as designated and marked for Official Cars, Press Cars and Service Cars.

All traffic will be patrolled by Indiana State Police Officers for many miles in each direction from Elwood, in order that no congestion, and no delays will occur. All parking lots have been laid out systematically, and will be in the hands of a large crew of parking officials so that no delay and no inconvenience will be experienced in parking cars. All cars will be parked in rows with ample driveways between, so that any car may leave the parking lots at any time.

Following the program at Callaway Park, one way traffic will be maintained out of the parking lots over the same routes.

ST. JOE LIONS CLUB IS ORGANIZED

St. Joe will have a Lions Club, the first service club ever attempted here. After several days work on the part of George W. Bormuth, special representative of Lions International, as The News goes to press, twenty St. Joe men have signed up as charter members, and more will be added by Saturday night, the time set for closing the charter.

The organization was perfected at a dinner at the Akins Tea Room on Tuesday evening, and the election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Frank R. Bowman.
1st vice president, Ralph Sechler.
2nd vice president, Dennis D. Gerig.
3rd vice president, Fred B. Leighty.
Secretary - treasurer, E. DuWayne Kinsey.
Lion Tamer, Leslie Wilbern.
Tail Twister, R. Stanley Garman.

The board of directors consists of Willard L. Hurni, Paul Martin, Derwood B. Ridgway, and Clifford R. Billow.

The club has set September sixteenth as Charter Night, with Dale Wicoff as general chairman of the special committee.

Many visiting Lions and their wives will be present at the Charter Night meeting, an announcement of which will be made later.

Visiting Lions from Auburn and Avilla were present at the oragnization meeting and gave talks as to the possibilities of such a service group in the small communities.

Charter Night, the official birthday of the club, will be attended by Lions and their wives from Auburn, Waterloo, Pleasant Lake, Angola, Ashley, Hudson, Fort Wayne, Garrett, Avilla, New Haven, Monroeville, Woodburn, Kendallville, Wolcottville, Hamilton. District Governor, Robert Black, of East Chicago, Indiana, will present the charter.

Zone Chairman, Wilmer B. Weimer, of Avilla; George Kelley, president of Auburn Lions, and Herman Brown, past president, Auburn, spoke at the meeting. Judge Endicott, past president of Auburn Club, made the principal address of the evening.

The objects of Lions clubs have been clearly set out as follows:

1. To create and foster a spirit of "generous consideration" among the peoples of the world through a study of the problems of international relationships from the standpoint of business and professional ethics.
2. To promote the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship.
3. To take an active interest in the civic, commercial, social and moral welfare of the community.
4. To unite the members in the bonds of friendship, good fellowship and mutual understanding.
5. To provide a forum for the full and free discussion of all matters of public interest, partisan politics and sectarian religion alone excepted.
6. To encourage efficiency and promote high ethical standards in business and professions; provided that no club shall hold out as one of its objects financial benefits to its members.

" MY SON "

Every night I pray that life only brings,
The best for you, my son.
I won't tie you to my apron strings,
So go on and have your fun.

If ever you need me, don't fail to say,
I will always lend a hand.
Mothers are mostly made that way,
You see, they understand.

I'm proud of your spirit and courage, my dear,
Though I miss you more each day.
Our home is so empty without you here,
But I don't write you that way.

You won't fail your country; you've never failed me.
You're honest, loyal, and true.
And if we need them, I'm sure there will be,
Millions of others like you.

But gone is my courage, and shaken with fears,
Alone, at the end of the day;
God bring you home safe at the end of three years,
Over and over I pray.

MRS. ROBERT TAYLOR.

Marcus Taylor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, of near Mt. Pleasant Church, is now at the Slocum Field, New York, awaiting orders to sail for Honolulu, where he will be permanently stationed with the unit of the U. S. Coast Guard there.

THIS IS A RELIEF

We have been worrying about what would happen to us as a nation, if our rubber supply from the Far East would be cut off, due to foreign developments. It was a picture of alarming proportions, for the importance of rubber is great in a country that has so much motor transportation. 90% of the rubber used in tire maufacture came from the Far East. So we asked what would result if we lost this raw material so essential to our industry and our defense.

It was with relief that we learned of synthetic rubber which will help us out of an emergency. There is a way of making this rubber out of a petroleum or natural gas by combining it with elements that produce a synthetic rubber. The cost of products will be slightly higher until goods can be turned out on a large production basis. But it is the relief of knowing that, were we completely cut off from our Far Eastern source, American manufacturers may turn homewards. For those who knew it not, our rubber import was controlled by a board in London who regulated the world's rubber supply. Sometimes in the past we have suffered through an unreasonable boost in price. Perhaps this synthetic rubber will give us protection from this, as well. We are convinced again that it didn't pay us to worry about the matter.

"GOD BLESS AMERICA"

Many a St. Joe resident goes about whistling a song that pleases his fancy. It isn't a love-sick ditty or a jitter jig but a patriotic air that is catchy and stirring. It recently caught the nation's fancy when it played an important part in both of the political campaigns. The song was written in 1917 when Irving Berlin composed it for a patriotic musical show. However, it went to sleep and nothing was heard from it until Kate Smith gave it life and feeling on a radio broadcast on Armistice evening i n 1938. "God Bless America" is now sung with fire and fervor and seems to be a national anthem. Due to the radio this air is popularized to suc han extent that it really does ring, "From the mountains, to the prairies, To the oceans white with foam." It is easy for any voice to handle and this helps make it a hit.

With the many stores selling lapel pins of colored American flags, of ladies bracelets of small flags fastened by chains, of emblems for coats bearing the words, "God Bless America," we are having a wave of patriotism that isn't hysterical. This song is sung in public assemblies, open air meetings, baseball games, band concerts. Perhaps you did not know that Irving Berlin gets no money as profit from the thousands of sheets of this music that are sold. Every penny goes to the Girl and Boy Scouts. "God Bless America, my home, sweet home."

A GOOD YEAR

The part of the West that has been under storms of dust, is yearly showing a gain in crop production that is the result of nature and man cooperating. The "dust bowl' is reclaimed and this year they produce a good wheat crop that speaks well for the cover crops and contour plowing. The trees that have been planted to form a protective belt is of benefit to the plains swept by dusty winds. This year the rainfall has been helpful, but whether or not these new trees could stand a severe drought and would perish with the wheat, is a matter of conjecture by farmers most concerned. Folks of St. Joe are mighty glad that the "dust bowl" makes this encouraging report for this year's crops.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

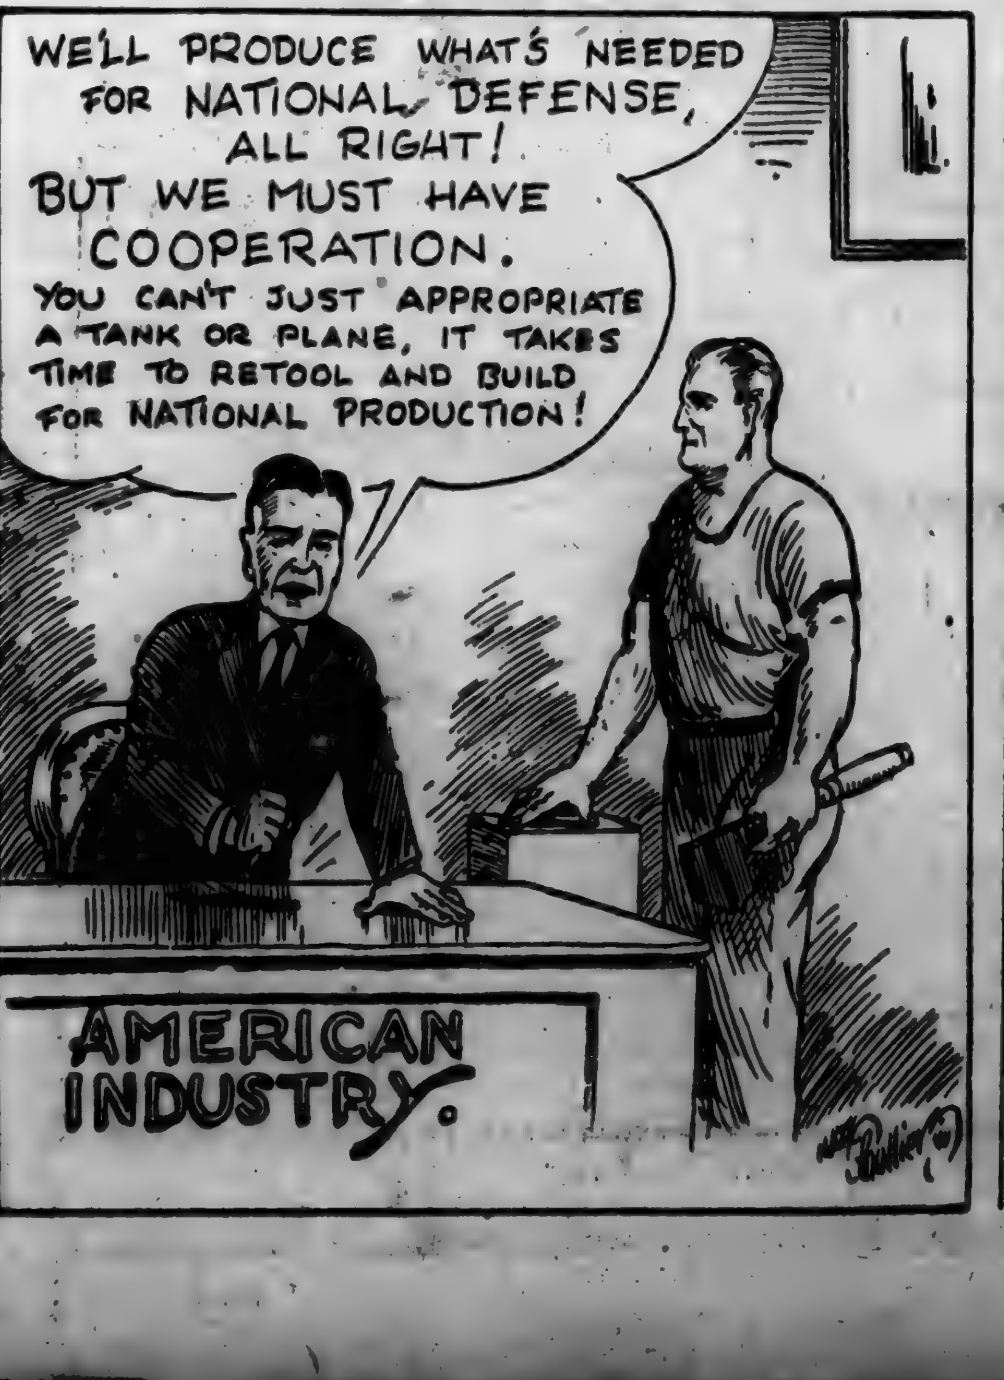
Last year on August 15 was celebrated the silver anniversary of the Panama Canal. This annniversary did not pass by unheralded for its important role in the life of our country is too great to disregard. The linking of the two oceans was not a dream but became a reality with the completion of the Panama Canal. They celebrated the success of the canal as a commercial lane of traffic which showed a monthly increase in traffic and tonnage. The Panama Canal is a vital link in our present scheme of national defense and this month of August, on its 26th anniversary, when the government makes plans to protect it from any invasion, we salute the canal with special concern. The farmers of the West who use this canal for shipping to the East are anxious for it to be preserved. Transportation of produce is important. But most important is the fact that the canal may have many more birthdays to unite the East Coast and the West Coast as one.

DO YOU KNOW—

Only a small percentage of the huge WPA fund can be used for national defense projects, largely because New Deal policies for eight years have discouraged training of skilled workers.

The name "John Deere" on a tractor stands for top value all the way through. Burgoyne's Hardware, Hicksville, Ohio. 6tf.

YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE



WE'LL PRODUCE WHAT'S NEEDED FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE, ALL RIGHT! BUT WE MUST HAVE COOPERATION. YOU CAN'T JUST APPROPRIATE A TANK OR PLANE, IT TAKES TIME TO RETOOL AND BUILD FOR NATIONAL PRODUCTION!

ELWOOD EAGERLY AWAITS WILLKIE

Republican Candidate To Accept Nomination At Elwood, Indiana, Amid Boyhood Memories

This is the house in which Wendell Willkie was born on February 18, 1892, in the little town of Elwood, Ind., where he undertakes the solemn responsibilities of the Republican Presidential nomination on August 17. (Right) Mr. and Mrs. Willkie wave to a throng of cheering admirers.

International News Service Photos.

ELWOOD, INDIANA.—The tousled-haired boy who used to drive cows through old Joe deHority's woods for 75 cents a week will come back Saturday, August 17th, to accept the Republican nomination for President of the United States.

Wendell Willkie, who made good in a rough and tumble world, chose the site of his boyhood memories to tell a waiting nation of his philosophies and beliefs on the fundamentals of American Democracy.

Beside him will be Mrs. Willkie, who was assistant librarian in the Elwood Public Library when they were married, just before Wendell Willkie marched off to fight in the World War.

The Elwood he will come back to this time won't be unfamiliar to him. He spent the greater part of twenty-seven years here, and he probably can call by their first names most of the middle-aged folk he will meet along the streets. Memory no doubt guided him in choosing a Saturday to make his acceptance speech.

Saturday is still the time when Elwood turns out en masse. Not only the townspeople, but the farmers from close around go downtown on business or just to see what's going on. Anderson Street, the main thoroughfare, is lined with cars and its sidewalks are crowded with people. There are crowds in the drug stores, laughing, joking, discussing. There are forums on the sidewalk in front of the First National Bank and the Citizens Bank; other forums in the lobbies of the Sidwell Hotel and Callaway House. Talking politics mostly, nowadays.

Elwood Waits With Pride

The plain folks of Elwood are waiting with eager pride for the triumphant return of the native son. They are fully ready to show all who come here just how deep that pride is. Streets have been cleaned, houses and store fronts repainted, tumble-down buildings removed and lawns and flower beds have been spruced up.

First, Mr. Willkie will receive a hearty handclasp of welcome from old friends on the steps of the Elwood High School, from which he graduated in 1910. He had intended to deliver there his speech of acceptance of the nomination, but it soon became evident that thousands of admirers would trek to this typical middle Western town of 12,000 persons to glimpse and hear the man who next January is expected to pass through the doors of the White House.

Plans for holding the entire ceremony of acceptance in the limited area of the High School were quickly revised and Mr. Willkie will deliver his speech of acceptance in the old grove of his boyhood, now known as Callaway Park.

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, will formally notify Mr. Willkie of the action of the Republican Convention in Philadelphia in choosing him as the Party's standard-bearer.

More than three score special trains have been arranged to carry visitors from such distant points as New York, New Orleans and the West. Many others will come by automobile. In this latter group will be farmers and their families who are Willkie's "neighbors" at nearby Rushville, where the candidate prides himself in the well-tilled acres of his own farm lands.

Unique Event Planned

The decision to return for the event among the people with whom he grew to early manhood is as unorthodox, unconventional and unique as Mr. Willkie's whole excursion into politics. Those who know him best expect none of the usual hackneyed words of a politician, nor do they expect any flag-waving Fourth of July speech. They say Mr. Willkie will deliver a forthright declaration of principles which will specifically join the issues of the campaign.

The formal ceremonies will be broadcast by the Columbia, Mutual and National networks and Station WLW, Cincinnati, beginning at 3:15 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, with the welcoming on the High School steps. The speech of acceptance will be broadcast at 4 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, from Callaway Park. There will be other broadcasts incidental to the event during the day.

YOUR FARM will profit from water pumped ELECTRICALLY

AN ELECTRIC pump is a very efficie machine. Under ordinary conditions will pump surprisingly large quantities water for just a few cents. Assume an average far where the water is pumped 60 feet from the botto of the well to a tank 30 feet above ground. Und such conditions, one kilowatt-hour will pump 3,(gallons of water, and you know how little a ki watt-hour costs at our low rates. You can't aff to be without electrically pumped water whe costs so little. Dairy cows will produce 5 to 10 cent more milk. Horses and mules do more v when plentifully supplied with water.

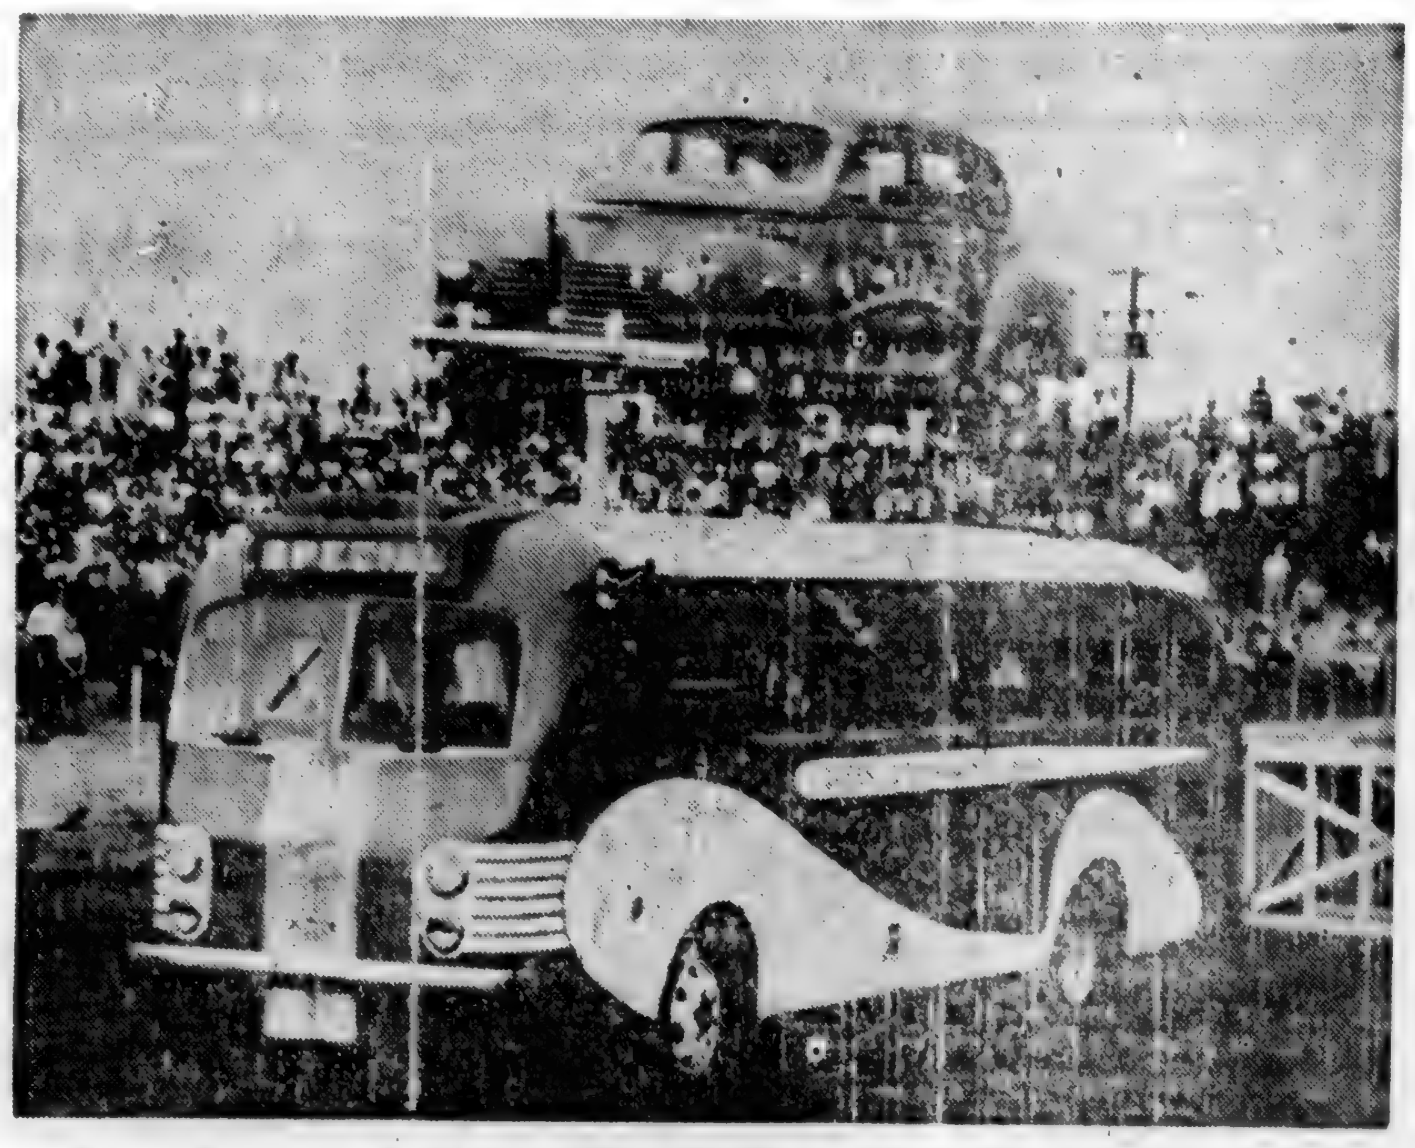
TETER TO JUMP BUS AT STATE FAIR



Attaining new heights in automobile and motorcycle stunting this year, Lucky Teter, world's champion daredevil, is jumping autos 15 to 20 feet high in the air. In the above photo Lucky was jumping over a big passenger bus and after clearing the bus landed on a narrow receiving platform. It's a good stunt when he "makes" it. This is just one of the 28 high speed stunts on the Hell Drivers' Show that will be presented at the Indiana State Fair on Sunday afternoon only, September 1.

ANTI THIRD-TERMERS ORGANIZE FOR WILLKIE

Arch N. Bobbitt, Republican State Committee chairman, today dispatched a telegram to Wendell L. Willkie at Colorado Springs, Colorado, notifying the Republican nominee for President that formation of Indiana's first Democratic Willkie club at Shelbyville, Ind., is progressing with marked success.

"You will be pleased to know that in Shelby County, traditionally a Democratic stronghold, an organization of Democrats to boost your candidacy has been established and has gained widespread support," Mr. Bobbitt's message said. "Bertie Anderson, temporary chairman, and Jess Smith, former Democratic sheriff, secretary-treasurer of the club, report that they have received numerous calls from Democrats throughout the county endorsing their opposition to a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt and their support of your candidacy."

Anderson, Shelbyville real estate dealer who served as a member of the county Democratic finance committee in 1936, said that the Democratic Willkie club is bringing into its membership many Democrats "who believe, as I do, that it will be better for democracy to elect Mr. Willkie than to return Mr. Roosevelt to power for a third term."

SECHLER REUNION

The fiftieth annual Sechler family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie, St. Joe, on Sunday, August 11, 1940. There were about eighty-six members present. After filling themselves well, with a delicious carry-in dinner, a short business meeting was held.

The next year's reunion will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Staman, of north of St. Joe. Officers elected were: Avis Staman, president; Cora Curie, vice president; Marcia Wade, secretary, and Sam Mumaw, treasurer. Two speeches of "thank you" were made by Rev. Frank Stevenson and Mr. Gerald Kinsey. The secretary's report was read and approved. A harmonica solo was offered by June Sechler. The meeting was closed by Hollis Dilley offering prayer.

The afternoon was spent in visiting. Guests departed late in the afternoon thanking Mr. and Mrs. Curie for a lovely time.

We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kinsey and daughter, Judy, of Chicago, for being able to attend, also Leon Sechler and son, Edward, of Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Belle Ridgway, son, Floyd and family, were called to Plymouth, Indiana, by the illness of Mrs. W. H. Freisinger, and when they arrived there Sunday morning, Mrs. Freisinger had passed away on Saturday night. Mrs. Ridgway remained to be there for the funeral on Wednesday afternoon.

A survey of all railroad crossings in the city of St. Joe which will also include those in the following DeKalb County cities and towns: Auburn, Garrett, Butler, Waterloo, Altona and Corunna will be started August 16, by engineers representing the State Highway Commission and the U. S. Public Roads Administration. All grade crossings whether on state highway routes or not, will be included in the study which is a part of a state-wide program to obtain data for future safety programs. Engineers making the survey of crossings in the seven cities and towns of this county are, W. J. Everett and C. A. Stier. It is estimated that the collection of necessary data here will require approximately eight days. The information gathered will be sent to the Bureau of Highway Planning offices in Indianapolis for tabulation along with that on crossings in other Indiana cities and towns.

AS IN 1917

. . . we are ready.

In the interest of national defense, 200 capital stock* fire insurance companies, members of The National Board of Fire Underwriters, offer their services and facilities to the United States Government.

With cooperating technical organizations, The National Board of Fire Underwriters is experienced in guarding against fire hazards in cities, towns, villages, manufacturing plants, public buildings and hospitals; we have detailed knowledge of local structural conditions, water supplies and fire-fighting equipment.

In the Nation's determination to keep American industry producing supplies for home use and for export . . . without interference through sabotage . . . we offer the services of a staff of nationally-operating arson investigators who are wise to the ways of firebugs.

As in 1917, we are ready again to utilize our facilities to the utmost to reduce fire loss in industry; to prevent unnecessary destruction of grain, cotton and other vital necessities; to design special fire prevention and fire protection measures to safeguard government property and the property of those engaged on government contracts.

And, through familiarity with industrial equipment throughout the country, we are prepared again to give to the Government a vast amount of information respecting potential sources of supply for the strengthening of military and naval defense.

We favor adequate preparedness for national defense.

We are ready.

THE NATIONAL BOARD OF FIRE UNDERWRITERS
85 John Street, New York
Established in 1866

Your local insurance agent is proud that his companies are able now, "as in 1917", to play a unique and vital part in the national defense . . . a part made possible, incidentally, by your purchase of capital stock company fire insurance.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Europe had nothing on Capitol Hill last week while the Senate vaulted the smaller hurdle (the National-Guard-into - immediate - active-service measure) and got set for the big one (compulsory military training.) Invectives and epithets were exploding like bombs all over the place, and the Senate floor, inclined to be the stodgiest scene, normally, in all the Americas, blazed with more temperament than a movie set. The galleries doted on it, voted it the best show in ages—since the fabulous Supreme Court fight, in fact. But, candidly, it was a pretty shameless spectacle, and not one to be proud of, or touted by the exponents of the surpassing virtues of Democracy. Before the Guardsmen had a chance to get jittery, the Senate tossed in the clause permitting married men, or those having dependents, to resign. But the War Department says it will make only a "negligible" dent in the machinery; as a matter of fact, a lot of soldiers with dependents have already been discharged; the various States have been weeding such guardsmen out of their militia outfits since last September when war broke out in Europe, realizing that men, worried about dependent wives and children, would not make good soldiers if called into active service. The result is that today the National Guard is composed largely of men, either single, or without a care in the world (or is this synonomous?) Meanwhile, however, the army jitters have got our young men hereabouts who may come under the 21-to-31 clause if Congress passes the compulsory military training bill. We have 65,000 in that class in Washington alone. Seems as though most of the youths in the various States were spending the Summer writing protesting letters to their Congressmen, to judge by the truckloads of mail that are delivered each day on Capitol Hill, and the droves of young males who call in person to present their pleas. Also, the effect of the pending legislation on our marriage license bureau is significant. Maybe it's only the seasonal trend, the results of the June moon, etc., but the number of youths between twenty and thirty applying for "bliss permits is increasing notably day by day. All of a sudden the urge for a dependent wife appears as widespread as the Japanese beetle....

Signs-of-the-Times around Washington: The National defense program has boomed Government employment around Washington close to 150,000 this Summer. This figure culled from official reports, includes legislators and office clerks, dollar-a-year men and volunteers, military men assigned to Washington and civilian Navy Yard mechanics—and an expanding army of Government workers in the executive agencies. The National Defense Commission, with only seven members at the end of May, now has 400 office employes, 100 or more dollar-a-year men and volunteers, and nearly 75 experts borrowed from other agencies. The Washington Navy Yard has already passed its World War total with more than 10,000 employes. However, it is believed that, although Washington's employes in all the branches may increase by as much as 30,000, the current emergency cannot repeat the World War boom, which saw an increase from 35,000 to 117,000.....The Federal Bureau of Investigation is being deluged with complaints of spies and other subversive agents at the rate of nearly 2,900 a day since the war began in Europe. This nearly swamps the G-men, who also have 12,000 "vital" factories to survey for protection against possible sabotage, and, during the past year, have had a total of 16,885 "national defense matters" to engage their "investigation activity." For five years before 1938, the FBI had only an average of 35 espionage cases yearly to investigate. But in 1938, the number jumped to 250, and in 1939 to 1,651. Although every "alarm doesnt mean a spy, the FBI takes no chances; it follows the suspect relentlessly until innocence is proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, though years may come and go in the process. Anti-espionage measures for the defense program got a set-back recently when Secretary of Treasury Morganthau flatly rejected the "two-guard" idea outside his office door; thought the Secretary, one guard was enough in those days of national economy and sent the other one away.

Rural Youth and Young Adult Group of State Select State Fair Farmhouse Furnishings

Four girls of Indiana's Rural Youth and Young Adult Group, along with Miss May Masten of Purdue University Extension, who acted as supervisor of the group, met at L. S. Ayres & Company, July 29, 30 and 31, under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Miller, home furnishings stylist of the store, to select the furniture, floor coverings and accessories to be used this year in the model farmhouse at the Indiana State Fair.

This Rural Youth and Adult Group is composed of young men and women between the ages of 18 and 28, under the supervision of the Indiana Farm Bureau and Purdue University Extension. The program of each group consists of the discussions and study of problems relating to citizenship, homemaking, farming as a profession, civic responsibility, recreation and good grooming.

These four representatives, Miss Kathryn Smith of New Palestine, in Hancock Co.; Miss Phyllis Falk of Bluffton, in Wells Co.; Miss Marjory McKinney of Newtown, in Fountain Co., and Miss Rosaleen Koch of Urbana, in Wabash Co., were selected from among the 300 delegates attending the annual Rural Youth and Young Adult Group conference at Purdue University early in June.

This year the group has selected Lincoln Oak Furniture in a light sand finish, because of its practicality and sturdiness. It's an Indiana oak, made by an Indiana manufacturer, designed for the average Indiana farmhome. In style, it is what might be called American Provincial, because it retains all the simplicity and charm of Early America.

For the floor coverings in the living room and hall, "Scandia-flax" was selected because of its durability and because it goes perfectly with Lincoln Oak. For the furnishings, some interesting innovations are being worked out with mattress tickings for draperies, slipcovers and bedspreads in the master bedroom. Companionate fabrics in Glo-Sheen and Voile are being used in the girl's room, and the living room scheme is being built entirely around companionate fabrics. One interesting feature here will be the use of drapery fabric as a wall covering instead of paper.

4-H Club Groups Coming

In addition to this group, the 4-H Club Girls of Wayne Co., under the direction of Miss Helen Johnson, Home Demonstration Agent of Richmond; Fayette Co. 4-H Girls under direction of Miss Virginia Brown, Home Demonstration Agent of Connersville, and the Union Co. 4-H Girls under direction of Miss Edith Lewis, Home Demonstration Agent of Liberty, will come to Indianapolis for trips through the Ayres' Home Furnishings floors to select furniture and furnishings for the girl's bedroom, guest bedroom and living room, which will be on display in the Women's Building during the Indiana State Fair.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

Not many spectators in the bleachers this week but an additional 56 head of livestock in the offering and all of the out of town buyers as well as local butchers and dealers were all present. The increase in numbers was most evident in the cattle pens as a result of burned pastures.

Hogs 175 to 230, $6.55 to $6.80. 230 to 275, $6.00 to $6.25. Fat sows, $4.55 to $4.75. Slaughter boars, $1.40 to $2.00. Feeding shoats steady to strong.

Veals again put on the show of the auction; selects $12.00 all top and second line calves from $11.00 to $11.75. Light thin calves are in good demand selling from $9.00 to $10.50 on a liberal sort. Lambs, $8.00 to $8.40. Some common butcher steers and heifers $6.00 to $7.75. Fat cows, $5.00 to $6.10. Low cutters and canners, $3.40 to $3.80. Bulls $5.75 to $5.85. Milk cows active and strong.

CONCORD HOME BUREAU

Concord Township Home Bureau spent a delightful afternoon at the home of Josephine Kees in West St. Joe. The meeting was opened by members singing "Love's Old Sweet Song," after which Mrs. Pugsley gave the history of the club. Report of meeting of county was given by Mrs. Millie Shull. The committee appointed to arrange program for muck show is Mary Krise, Laura Washler and Arline Koch. Secretary's report and roll call was responded to by twenty-two members giving a bit of poetry. A description of Brown County was then given by Mary Krise, which the club enjoyed. A spelling lesson was conducted by Katherin Haller to which honors of best were given to Helen Ulm. Minnie Ulm gave a demonstration of her beautiful crochet work.

We were pleased with the presence of of Mrs. Delphia Provines, of Oklahoma City, Okla.

WINS TRIP TO PHILADELPHIA

At a state elimination vegetable judging, grading and identification contest held at Purdue University, Friday, August 16th, Lawrence Boger, of Auburn, won a trip to the National Vegetable Growers Convention, which will be held at Philadelphia on August 26-29.

The contest covered judging five classes of vegetables; grading a 50 pound sample of potatoes, and identification of 100 specimen of vegetable varieties, grade defects of potatoes, vegetable diseases and insects. In the judging, there were eleven plates in each class and these were to be placed on the group award basis. In other words, each plate was to be placed as either Excellent, Good, Honorable mention or Unworthy and a thorough knowledge of the U. S. Federal Grades was required. Lawrence's score was 849½ out of a possible 1000.

Lawrence and two other boys from Otterbein will comprise the vegetable team representing the State of Indiana in the National Junior Vegetable Growers Judging, Grading and Identification contest which will be held on Wednesday, August 28. This team will be in charge of Roscoe Fraser, Purdue Extension Muck Crop Specialist. Many points of interest will be seen on this trip and should be quite interesting.

Other boys from DeKalb County taking part in the elimination contest at Purdue were Max Dilgard and Max Heffley. The three boys were coached under the direction of County Agent, C. E. Baker.

The above three boys, along with vegetable judging teams from Waterloo and Garrett, will take part in a State Vegetable Judging Contest held at the state fair on Monday, September 2nd.

ANOTHER LINE FROM MISS AGNES DUNN

Last week The News carried a message from Miss Agnes Dunn, known to St. Joe friends as a missionary to India, and who is now taking more missionary training at the Sulphur Springs, Ark. school. Miss Dunn states that the school has 50 students where the university classes run from 5 to 15 students.

The following article tells some facts concerning the school.

The Word SHOULD Be Evangelized in This Generation

(A Task to be Finished)

"Why speak ye not a word of bringing the king back?"—II Sam. 19:10;

"Looking for and hastening the coming (marg.) of the day of God."—II Peter 3:12;

We are looking for the Lord to come again, yes, but are we doing what is expected of us to bring him back? God has done His part. Difficult prophecies are being fulfilled before our eyes. All seems to be set for the Lord's return. But are we so busy watching the preparation of the stage that we forget what is expected of us?

"The gospel MUST first be published among all nations." Mk. 13:10; Interpret this verse as you may, it presents an awful responsibility for someone. Christ Himself narrows it down to you. "YE SHALL BE witnesses unto me. .unto the uttermost part of the earth." That task has never been COMPLETED. There are a thousand tribes, in Africa, Asia, Mexico, (50 in this one country,) South America, Central America and the islands of the sea who have never received God's word in their own languages. They are included in the great commission. "Preach the gospel to EVERY CREATURE." Mk. 16:15; "a great multitude. .of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues."

Just because most of these 1,000 unreached tribes are small (though many number over 100,000 souls each) is no excuse to offer the One who said, "My meat is. .to finish his work."

The World CAN be Evangelized in this Generation

(The Bible Translation Plan)

Souls are born again through the Word of God. Out on pioneer mission fields most congregations date back to a Bible or a Testament which somehow came to the community. The Word, however, cannot be given at this time to the thousand tribes who have never received it because it has never been translated into their languages. Therefore, the work of Bible translation is absolutely basic. Yet the church has failed to prepare and send out linguistic missionaries in large numbers to attack this basic problem. Evangelistic missionaries, educational missionaries and medical missionaries are carefully trained for their special tasks and are sent out in large numbers, but how few are the linguistic missionaries (Bible translators) and how scant their specialized training in the phonetics and morphology of primitive languages so very different from Greek and Latin or our modern European languages.

Camp Wycliffe was founded to meet this problem. During annual summer session, we teach the candidate for pioneer missionary work, how to reduce a primitive language to writing and translate the Word into it. A worker of mediocre gifts after receiving our specialized training over a period of three months (at a cost of only $10 per month for board, room, and instruction) went to a tribe of Indians and within seven months had learned their difficult language well enough to converse exclusively in it and to translate half the Gospel of John into it. At that rate, the thousand tribes can easily be given the Word in this generation if sufficient young men and women, and supporters to back them, really take the problem to heart.

This training is offered to candidates for pioneer missionary work any place in the world under any evangelical board. Young men are especially needed for very difficult fields. In fields where mission boards are not permitted to send workers due to nationalistic laws, we find it possible to send our workers due to the scientific value of their work. All fields MUST be reached.

Camp Wycliffe is now holding its seventh session. Already it has representatives on three different continents preparing to translate the Word into twenty different languages. Another group of workers will go out this fall as God opens the way.

RURAL GO TO CHURCH MOVEMENT STARTED

The Farm Bureau of DeKalb County has started a Rural Go to Church movement which is striving to have every rural man, woman and child in the county go to church on Oct. 27. A meeting was held Monday night, Aug. 19 at 8:00 o'clock in Auburn at the Y. M. C. A. where plans were discussed for the success of the campaign. Every church in the county has agreed to cooperate to make the county, church conscious. Everyone is looking forward to the middle of September when posters will appear simultaneously all over the county in all places of business and the public schools. Look for a poster in your favorite store.

A chairman and secretary for Concord and Spencer Townships and the following were elected: for Concord Township, D. B. Ridgway, secretary, and Richard L. Key, minister of the Church of Christ, chairman. For Spencer Township Everett Paschen, secretary, and Frank Stevenson, minister of the Spencerville Lutheran Church, chairman. We know everyone will cooperate to make this movement a huge success. Will you Be in Church Sunday?

SCHOOL FACULTIES ARE ANNOUNCED

Newville Township — Grace Stroh, Karl Hart.

Spencer Township—Everett Paschen, principal, science and physical education; Ida Reed, mathematics, English; Dale Wicoff, vocational agriculture; Kenneth McCrory, social science and Latin; M. Cleo Halleck, commercial; Eva Mae Schwartz, home economics; Geraldine Davis, music, English; Bina Glawe, grades 5 and 6; Violette Kline, grades 3 and 4; Gladys Impton, grades 1 and 2.

Mrs. Calvin Laux and son, Maurice, left Sunday night for Petosky, Michigan, where they will camp out during the hay fever season here, which will be about five weeks. The son will return for school.

WALTER'S SHORTAGE PLACED AT $7,340 BY AUDITORS

When Carl Walter abandoned the office of DeKalb County Clerk July 9 he left a shortage of $7,340.23, according to a report of the state board of accounts placed on file with County Auditor Burley Ensley Friday.

The report indicates that the money is due the fish and game license fund and the trust fund. It shows that the clerk drew two checks for $355.40 each on July 8, payable to himself, against the clerk's account in the City National bank of Auburn, and that he cashed one of them the following day at the City National bank and the other at the Auburn State bank.

"These checks had nothing to do with the affairs of the office," the report states. "On the face of each was written 'Fish and Game.' " The report says that the checks were not posted in the cash book and that the state conservation commission advised that no payment was due the clerk. The report brands the checks as "illegal withdrawals."

A report in the auditor's office shows that when the state examiners completed a check of the clerk's records a year ago for the period from Jan. 1, 1937, to June 30, 1939, the amount of $3,612.45 was needed to effect a balance. On Aug. 10, 1939, the clerk deposited $1,800 in the City National bank, leaving $1,812.45 still due.

It is expected that the surety company involved, which is the Ohio Casualty Insurance Co. of Hamilton, O., will be notified of the shortage and that if payment is not made a suit will be instituted. The bond is in the sum of $10,000.

The grand jury of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in session recently, returned one indictment in five counts.

The examination of the clerk's books following Walter's disappearance was made for the state board of accounts by O. A. Hutchens and Chas. R. Stuart, of Fort Wayne. They report that the books disclose the following balances as of July 10, 1940: Court costs, $88.89; marriage licenses, $6; miscellaneous fees, $6.50; state docket fees, $8; fines and forfeitures, $12; sheriff's fees, $46.70; prosecuting attorney's fees, $20; support fund, $295.-78; all other trusts, $7,825.91, a total of $8,307.76.

Of fish and game licenses sold, the report states that $1,552.75 was not posted to the cash book. Of total sales of $6,843.25, the amount of $3,856.40 was due the state conservation commission, less $44.85 commission. The clerk also owed $156.30 for commissions retained by error in 1939. Clerk Walter had 22 fish and game license agents, four of whom were located in Steuben County. After the examiners took charge of the books they collected $2,577.50 from the agents and deposited the money in the bank.

The report states that the clerk was entitled to $2,951.65 in salary and fees in 1939, but collected an excess of $217.57. For the year 1940 he was entitled to $1,655.10. Up to July 10, he received $1,359.25. The amount still due him consisted of $65 salary and $367.85 fish and game license commissions. However, he owed the county $98.27 retained by him for making certified copies of records, the fees belonging to the county under the law.

The report sets out a long list of items in the trust fund, showing to whom the money is due. Most of the amounts are small, but the aggregate is $7,711.17. The support payments on hand according to the report totalled $427.08.

In senidng the report to the county auditor, the state board wrote a letter stating that it is an official decument and subject to public inspection.

It is reported that potato crop will be small this fall, but M. M. Mansfield reports a fair yield. See the one on display in The News window.

BAD HOUSEKEEPING

Lady, are you a bad housekeeper?

Now don't get excited! Of course you're not! Your corners are dustless. Your floors are spic and span.

But are you a good housekeeper from the safety standpoint?

The National Safety Council in reporting that 32,000 Americans were killed by accidents in their homes last year, puts most of the blame on bad safety housekeeping.

How do these accidents occur? How can they be stopped?

The St. Joe News will show you how to make your home safer in a series of pictorial hints which will begin next week.

They are called "unsafe at Home." Watch for them!

THOSE VACATION PLANS

The subject of vacations is paramount at tablesides in many a St. Joe home. It is always cropping up at this time of year, come what may. Sometimes the family decide to curtail expenses and the yearly trip is not so elaborate or lengthy, but folks usually find a way to take a vacation. With the European stand as a bar to foreign travel people who have traveled abroad are urged to visit Latin America. The Department of Commerce suggests this is a good way to cement friendship between the two Americas.

Those of us who cannot afford this type of journey, will dig out the road maps and dust off the picnic baskets for spending time in our own countryside. There is much of interest in our own state for tourists to see. Enjoy your own back yard!

MONTANA LADY WRITES TO THE NEWS

Aberdeen Ranches, R. F. D. 3,
Bozeman, Mont.
Aug. 3, 1940.

Mr. Fred B. Leighty,
Editor St. Joe News, St. Joe, Ind.
Dear Mr. Leighty:

I do not know whether you are still in Saint Joe, and if so, whether you are still the editor of its newspaper. However, in any case, I am asking you to remember "away back when" a Methodist minister's daughter by the name of Esther McCaslin lived in your town.

I have returned there but once since we left in 1915. I suppose there are many changes in the old town since then. At least I'm sure there are filling stations, of which there were none at that time.

What started this particular chain of thought was the enclosed clipping taken from the "Capper's Farmer" which set me wondering whether Harry Shull mentioned is any relative to the Joe Shull who was a schoomate of mine.

"Way Ahead

Harry M. Shull seeds sweet clover in corn at the last cultivation to build up his soil in DeKalb County, Indiana. The next year it behaves as any second year stand. 'Sometimes,' he said, 'I get a poor stand, but I never failed to get enough to make the practice pay for that year. In the long run I am way ahead.' "

About a year or so ago I noticed an article in this same magazine about the apple orchards of Mrs. Hattie Widney, whom I remember very well.

My husband and I and out three children have a comfortable modern home on an 880 acre ranch of irrigated land, devoted to diversified farming and specializing in pure bred cattle. Our ranch is in the heart of the famous Gallatin Valley, about 100 miles from Yellowstone National Park. We have lived here since our marriage in 1928, and the ranch belonged to my husband's family before him.

My elder son enters High Schol this fall. Though just fourteen, he is almost six feet tall. Then I have a son almost twelve and a small daughter.

My husband and I were in Chicago last December for the "International" and the National Farm Bureau Convention. At that time it was my honor to be given second place in the National Public Speaking Contest sponsored by the Associated Women of the A. F. B. F.

Please remember me to my old friends and say I think of them kindly and would like to hear from them.

Sincerely yours,
Esther McCaslin Harrer.

Willkie Speech Of Acceptance Thrills Nation

Republican Candidate for President Outlines Policies Before Vast Audience at Elwood:

ELWOOD, IND. — Coming back to this, the town in which he was born and grew to young manhood, and before a wildly enthusiastic audience of many thousands, Wendell Willkie accepted the nomination for President on the Republican ticket.

In that acceptance Mr. Willkie promised the kind of leadership that will keep America a nation of free men, a nation of prosperous people, a nation offering opportunity for all.

He said: "An acceptance speech is a candidate's keynote, a declaration of his broad principles. It cannot possibly review the issues in detail. I shall, however, cover each of them frankly during this campaign. Here I give you an outline of the political philosophy that is in my heart. We are here today to represent a sacred cause—the preservation of American democracy.

"Obviously, I cannot lead this cause alone. I need the help of every American—Republican, Democrat or Independent—Jew, Catholic, or Protestant—people of every color, creed, and race. Party lines are down. Nothing could make that clearer than the nomination by the Republicans of a liberal Democrat who changed his party affiliation because he found democracy in the Republican party and not in the New Deal party.

Thunderous applause greeted Willkie's statement that party lines are down. When he said the times demanded the help of Americans from every walk, the cheers came wave upon wave, the vast crowd having sensed that it typified that very thought. Here were a hundred thousand Americans from every part of the United States, representing every faith, every station of life, yet carried away by a single devotion.

WENDELL WILLKIE
Republican Candidate for President.

Mr. Willkie briefly sketched his boyhood in Elwood and told of his ancestors who, "like the ancestors of millions of Americans, lived in central Europe. They were humble people—not members of the ruling or wealthy classes. Their opportunities were restricted by discriminatory laws and class distinctions. One was exiled because of his religion; another was persecuted because he believed in the principles of the French revolution; and still another was jailed for insisting on the right of free speech. As their descendant, I have fought from boyhood against all those restrictions, discriminations and tyrannies. And I am still fighting."

Foreign Policy.

Mr. Willkie compared the peace of America with the conditions in war-torn Europe, and defined his foreign policy by saying:

"No man is so wise as to foresee what the future holds or to lay out a plan for it. No man can guarantee to maintain peace. Peace is not something that a nation can achieve by itself. It also depends on what some other country does. It is neither practical, nor desirable, to adopt a foreign program committing the United States to future action under unknown circumstances.

"The best that we can do is to decide what principle shall guide us.

"For me, that principle can be simply defined:

> "In the foreign policy of the United States, as in its domestic policy, I would do everything to defend American democracy and I would refrain from doing anything that would injure it.

"We must not permit our emotions—our sympathies or hatreds—to move us from that fixed principle."

Again the crowd let out a deafening cheer. It was an exciting moment. A nation was waiting anxiously to hear Mr. Willkie's views on foreign relations. The enthusiastic response of the crowd reflected a nation thrilled.

National Defense.

From foreign policy Willkie turned to national defense of which he said in part:

Wendell Willkie's Birthplace at Elwood, Ind.

"We must not shirk the necessity of preparing our sons to take care of themselves in case the defense of America leads to war. I shall not undertake to analyze the legislation on this subject that is now before congress, or to examine the intentions of the administration with regard to it. I concur with many members of my party, that these intentions must be closely watched. Nevertheless, in spite of these considerations, I cannot ask the American people to put their faith in me, without recording my conviction that some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to secure the trained and competent manpower we need for national defense."

He stated in definite terms his belief in a policy of providing to the opponents of force the material resources of this nation, and our own preparation for meeting any emergency that may arise, but criticized the President in his conduct of foreign affairs at this critical time, saying:

"There have been occasions when many of us have wondered if he is deliberately inciting us to war. I trust that I have made it plain that in the defense of America, and of our liberties, I should not hesitate to stand for war. But like a great many other Americans I saw what war was like at first hand in 1917. I know what war can do to demoralize civil liberties at home. And I believe it to be the first duty of a President to try to maintain peace.

"But Mr. Roosevelt has not done this. He has dabbled in inflammatory statements and manufactured panics. Of course, we in America like to speak our minds freely, but this does not mean that at a critical period in history our President should cause bitterness and confusion for the sake of a little political oratory. The President's attacks on foreign powers have been useless and dangerous. He has courted a war for which the country is hopelessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want. He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give.

"'Walk softly and carry a big stick' was the motto of Theodore Roosevelt. It is still good American doctrine for 1940. Under the present administration the country has been placed in the false position of shouting insults and not even beginning to prepare to take the consequences."

Cheers Interrupt.

Several times the speaker was compelled to stop as applause and encouraging shouts drowned out his voice. The cheers grew in volume and frequency as Mr. Willkie, citing France as a tragic example, declared in a firm voice that our foreign policy must "begin in the United States" and be dedicated to making us strong "right here in our own land."

Referring to the defeat of France, Mr. Willkie said in part:

"And in this tragedy let us find our lesson. The foreign policy of the United States begins right here in our own land. The first task of our country in its international affairs is to become strong at home. We must regain prosperity, restore the independence of our people, and protect our defensive forces. If that is not done promptly we are in constant danger. If that is done no enemy on earth dare attack us. I propose to do it.

". . . I promise, by returning to those same American principles that overcame German autocracy once before, both in business and in war, to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after. And I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way."

A Doctrine of Growth.

For our home policy Mr. Willkie proposes to follow a doctrine of increased production, of increased growth, instead of the New Deal "doctrine of division," and said:

"We are not asked to make more for ourselves. We are asked to divide among ourselves that which we already have. The New Deal doctrine does not seek risk, it seeks safety. Let us call it the "I pass" doctrine. The New Deal dealt it, and refused to make any more bets on the American future.

"Why, that is exactly the course France followed to her destruction! Like the Blum government in France, so has our government become entangled in unfruitful political adventures. As in France, so here, we have heard talk of class distinctions and of economic groups preying upon other groups.

"As for me, I want to say here and now that there is no hate in my heart, and that there will be none in my campaign. It is my belief that there is no hate in the hearts of any group of Americans for any other group—except as the New Dealers seek to put it there for political purposes. I stand for a new companionship in an industrial society.

"Because I am a business man, formerly connected with a large company, the doctrinaires of the opposition have attacked me as an opponent of liberalism. But I was a liberal before many of these men had heard the word, and I fought for many of the reforms of the elder LaFollette, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson before another Roosevelt adopted—and distorted—liberalism.

Opposed to Monopolies.

"I believe that the forces of free enterprise must be regulated. I am opposed to business monopolies. I believe in collective bargaining, by representatives of labor's own free choice, without any interference and in full protection of those obvious rights. I believe in the maintenance of minimum standard for wages and of maximum standards for hours. I believe that such standards should constantly improve. I believe in the federal regulation of interstate utilities, of securities markets, and of banking. I believe in federal pensions, in adequate old age benefits, and in unemployment allowances.

"I believe that the federal government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer, with that of the manufacturer. If this cannot be done by parity of prices, other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs. I believe in the encouragement of co-operative buying and selling, and in the full extension of rural electrification. But American liberalism does not consist merely in reforming things. It consists also in making things.

"And I say that we must henceforth ask certain questions of every reform, and of every law to regulate business or industry. We must ask: Has it encouraged our industries to produce? Has it created new opportunities for our youth? Will it increase our standard of living? Will it encourage us to open up a new and bigger world?"

New Deal Victims.

Mr. Willkie demanded that kind of legislation, that policy, that will encourage business to expand, to create jobs for the unemployed, saying:

"It is a statement of fact, and no longer a political accusation, that the New Deal has failed in its program of economic rehabilitation. And the victims of its failure are the very persons whose cause it professes to champion.

"The little business men are victims because their chances are more restricted than ever before.

"The farmers are victims because many of them are forced to subsist on what is virtually a dole, under centralized direction from Washington.

"The nine or ten million unemployed are victims because their chances for jobs are fewer.

"Approximately 6,000,000 families are victims because they are on relief.

"And unless we do something about it soon, 130,000,000 people—an entire nation—will become victims, because they stand in need of a defense system which this administration has so far proved itself powerless to create anywhere except on paper.

"To accomplish these results, the present administration has spent $60,000,000,000.

Mr. Willkie Accepts.

"I accept the nomination of the Republican party for President of the United States.

"I accept it in the spirit in which I know it was given at our convention in Philadelphia—the spirit of dedication. I herewith dedicate myself with all my heart, with all my mind, and with all my soul to making this nation strong.

"But I say this, too. In the pursuit of that goal I shall not lead you down the easy road. If I am chosen the leader of this democracy as I am now of the Republican party, I shall lead you down the road of sacrifice and of service to your country.

"What I am saying is a far harsher thing than I should like to say in this speech of acceptance—a far harsher thing than I would have said had the Old World not been swept by war during the past year. I am saying to you that we cannot rebuild our American democracy without hardship, without sacrifice, even without suffering. I am proposing that course to you as a candidate for election by you."

When the speaker finished, the crowd went wild with enthusiasm. Hats went up in the air and shouts of "Hurrah for Willkie" came from many thousands. They left the great meeting repeating to each other the words "Willkie—the Hope of America."

ST. JOE, INDIANA. "WE'RE OPEN EVENINGS"

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dennis and son, Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Claude White, of Richmond, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitacre and children, of Highland, were Sunday evening guests in the James Reed home.

The Oberholtzer reunion was held Sunday near Coldwater, Mich., at the home of Millard James. The new officers are Mrs. Cosy Fillman, of near Harlan, president, and Mrs. Kathryn Dean, secretary-treasurer.

NEWVILLE

Mrs. Moma Gaff and son, of Fort Wayne, spent the past week here with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bremer, of Crown Point, Ind., attended the Chautauqua here on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean and daughter, Joyce, of Spencerville, visited friends here Sunday evening.

Charles Smith returned to Mongo, Sunday, after spending three weeks here at his farm, south of town.

Mrs. Noah Cottrell and Miss Ida Cottrell, living south of Hicksville, called on relatives here Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles Moore and two children, former residents of this place, attended Chautauqua Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Traxler and family attended the Farmer reunion Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ella Rosenberry, near Mooresville.

George Baron and Kenneth Gaff brought home a fine string of fish Saturday from Loon Lake, proving that the big ones did not all get away.

Mrs. Frank Deneve, residing one mile east of the state line, is in the hospital at Garrett where she submitted to an operation for gall stone.

Mrs. Max Norman and daughters and Mrs. H. G. Stanton and daughter, Jean, of South Bend, were over week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wyatt. Mr. Norman and son were at Elwood Ind., to hear the Willkie speech.

Sunday, Aug. 25 is the last of the U. B. Church conference year. All benevolence money and reports to be counted must be in by that date. Church services at the Newville U. B. Church following Sunday School and at the Mt. Pleasant Church in the evening.

The 26th annual session of the Newville Rural Chautauqua is now history. The meeting begun Sunday Aug. 11 and closed Sunday Aug. 18. The programs were all of excellent quality. The attendance for most part was not up to the former years. The largest attendance at any session was the closing session Sunday evening. Three eloquent and searching sermons were delivered Sunday by Rev. Mrs. Edna B. Hughes, of Logan, Ohio. This was the first visit of Mrs. Hughes to the community and she left many admiring friends who hope for her return. The music for the entire period was under the efficient direction of Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Richer, of Peru, Ind., who have served the community in that capacity for ten years. The Richers bring inspiration and optomism. The officers elected to direct the session of 1941 are as follows: President, Marion Webb; vice president, Guy Platter; secretary, Laura Washler; treasurer Blen Moore.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook and son, Dale, spent Sunday afternoon at Huntington.

Mrs. Anna Frank, of Akron, O., was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Meade Baker.

Week-end guests at the Lloyd Draggoo home were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Morr and son, of South Bend.

Mrs. Mary Shuff has been moved to the Donald Hart home where Mrs. Hart is caring for her.

Roy Zimmerman is having eye trouble and is just able to get about. His doctor states that the trouble is the result of kidney infection.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Rouls and Miss Janalyce Rouls, of Angola, and Mrs. Edith Cole were Thursday guests in the Ralph Sechler home.

GILLIE FAVORS FAIR TEST OF VOLUNTARY PLAN

Congressman George W. Gillie, in his first public statement on the conscription issue, today threw his support solidly behind a proposal to defer compulsory military training "until an honest and fair trial has been given to our time-honored system of voluntary enlistments."

In an announcement from Washington, at the House of Representatives began consideration of the widely-disputed Burke-Wadsworth Conscription Bill, the Fourth District Congressman said:

"In my considered opinion, it is yet to be demonstrated that our voluntary system will not provide enough recruits to keep abreast of our defense program. Until this has been proven beyond shadow of a doubt, I see no real justification for resorting to peacetime conscription.

"Americans do not have to be conscripted to defend their homeland. If invaders ever threaten our shores there will be no lack of volunteers. Americans, however, do not wish to be conscripted for wars abroad."

Congressman Gillie expressed approval of the proposed Maloney amendment to the Burke-Wadsworth Bill, which provides for deferment of the draft until January 1 while the voluntary system is given a thorough test. Under this plan the draft would go into effect if sufficient volunteers are not available.

"Why all this rush to conscript our manpower?" Congressman Gillie asked. "Why this rush to discard the voluntary system before it has been given an honest trial? If we encourage volunteers by reducing the enlistment period to one year and increasing the pay to at least $30 a month, there is every reason to believe we will obtain all the recruits we need."

Congressman Gillie revealed that, in connection with an exhaustive survey of the conscription problem, he has conducted a personal poll among several thousand of his constituents "in both parties and in all walks of life."

The survey indicated, he announced, that sentiment throughout every section of the Fourth District is overwhelmingly in opposition to the Burke-Wadsworth Bill in its present form.

"Replies to my questionnaire have been pouring in at a rate of more than 100 a day for the past four weeks—and the ration in opposition to peacetime conscription is more than 10 to one," he said.

"I am convinced, therefore, that in urging an honest test of our voluntary system, before adopting conscription, I am speaking for the great majority of my constituents."

SPENCER TWP. HOME BUREAU

The Spencer Township Home Bureau held their family night meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chaney, August 21. Sixty-two members and guests were present. The family and home extended a royal welcome and their hospitality will be remembered.

The president, Mrs. Gladys DePew, called the meeting to order by all singing "The More We Get Together" and "Old Folks at Home." The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Jennie Walter who announced the following program:

Devotional, Mrs. Mattie Hart.
Group of girls singing, "Down By The Ohio," "The Isle of Golden Dreams" and "Sierra Sue."
Reading, "Willie and His Ma," Margaret Walter.
Saxophone solo, "Irene" Eleanor Chaney.
Solo, "Little Golden Hair in the High Chair," Phyllis Chaney.
Accordion Duet, "Oh, Johnny Oh," LeVon Kline and Evelyn Kline.
Tonette Duet, "The Woodpecker's Song," Betty Henderson, Phyllis Chaney.
Piano Duet, "On the Marching Order," Mrs. Flossie Rediger and daughter, Marcella.
Reading, "Christoper Columbo," Dona Mae Washler.
Trio, "Sharpshooters' and "Mexicalla Rose" Margaret Chaney, Eleanor Chaney, William Allen.
Piano Duet, "Stars and Stripes Forever," Sarah Lu Shaffer, Eula Chaney.
All singing America.

After the program a bountiful pot luck supper was served, featuring ice cream and cake. The next regular meeting will be held September 11th at the home of Mrs. Ira Leichner.

CLASSES OF 1902-'03 HOLD SECOND REUNION

The graduating classes of the St. Joe High School of 1902-'03 held a reunion at the home of F. B. Leighty on Sunday, August 25th, honoring their instructor, Dr. Robert Dixon, now of Cairo, Michigan, where he is the superintendent of the largest State institution of its kind in the United States, a home for Epileptics.

A bounteous repast at the noon hour started the day's festivities and although the weather outside was gloomy, nothing of the sort prevailed within, where the cheery conversation interspersed with ripples of laughter made a joyous atmosphere. As usual in school activities the ever present excuse for absence came from Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Tustison, of Defiance O., who were unavoidably detained.

Lee's excuse seemed to be valid and the professor accepted it without the customary comment.

Those present besides Mr. and Mrs. Dixon were Mr. and Mrs. Deo Dermott, of Constantine, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop, of Auburn, Mrs. Nettie Baker, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kees, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker, Mrs. Ines Hadsell, Mr. Merritt Sechler, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, of St. Joe.

This was the second meeting of the two classes, the first meeting having been held one year ago at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cole. The 1941 meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Dixon.

FROM ABOUT ST. JOE

Kodak Films—At News Office.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Volkert, of Quincy, Michigan, were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schroeder, of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Merl Guilford, of St. Joe. On Friday evening of last week the Volkert family had a pot luck supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Yinger at Hillsdale. Besides those already mentioned, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Volkert and Mr. Earl Volkert were also present.

Frank E. Lyon, 58, former auditor of DeKalb County, and resident of Butler, died Tuesday resulting from a stroke of a few weeks ago. As we go to press we learn that the funeral will be held from the Newville Church of Christ, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 with Rev. Sherman Aldrich and Rev. William Nice officiating. The body was removed to the home Wednesday morning from the Kinsey funeral home.

The annual county meeting of the Churches of Christ, DeKalb County, was held at Garrett, Aug. 25. W. R. Walker, of Columbus, Ohio, was the speaker for the day. Large crowds were present at the three services with a basket dinner at noon and evening being enjoyed by all. Thirteen ministers were present for the afternoon service. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Meade Baker, president; Homer Casebere, Butler, secretary-treasurer. The meeting next year will be held the last Sunday of August with Cedar Lake being the host church.

The People's Column!

McNARY PLEDGES PLAN SUPPORT MOVE UPSETS POLITICAL RIVALS

With the gentle effect of a torpedo amid ships, Senator Charles L. McNary's powerful endorsement of the Townsend Bill has blown the smooth sailing national campaign completely out of the water.

As Republican candidate for Vice President, the Oregon senator's stand has shaken the candidates of both parties into a feverish activity. Political fences have been broken, oral treaties junked and a wild vote-rush is on.

Destroys Device

In many districts, a tacit understanding between rival candidates has enabled them to avoid commitments on the Townsend Bill. McNary's support has destroyed this convenient device, for candidates are afraid to trust each other in such a conspiracy when the issue is hot.

The nomination of Willkie has created the hottest national election since 1916 with hundreds of Congressional seats in the balance. And for the first time, the great block of Townsend votes are in a position to be the deciding factor in the election.

Hundreds of candidates are now in a last minute effort to corner Townsend club approval. Clubs in every part of the country are being deluged by Democrats and Republicans alike with the result that there is every prospect of our next Congress being one that will give a huge majority to the Townsend Bill in both houses.

Districts are being urged to use great care in placing their stamp of approval on candidates. Whenever possible, the background of each man should be subjected to the closest scrutiny. Realizing the power of a persuasive tongue, Townsend leaders warn against selections being made because of words rather than acts.

Seek Approval

"Now, when victory is within our grasp, we must bend our energies to this selection so that we will know that the men we help into office will be men who will stand for the things they stood for in the campaign," they have stated.

"Your Townsend National Weekly will keep you informed of every move being taken. It is the one sure method we have of giving the complete picture to club members. We therefore urge that every Townsend supporter have a copy of the Weekly available each week to follow the campaign. Full coordination requires that all members know exactly what is transpiring all the time," concluded National Headquarters.

Indiana State Fair To Have Outstanding Entertainment Features

H. G. Templeton

The Indiana State Fair, August 30 to September 6, inclusive, will offer an unusual array of outstanding entertainment, Harry G. Templeton, fair manager, pointed out today.

On Saturday night, Alec Templeton, famed blind pianist, and a cast of 100 radio and stage stars including the Hoosier Hot Shots, Eddie Peabody, Red Foley and many others, will present the regular WLS National Boarn Dance, coast-to-coast radio broadcast, from the stage of the new Coliseum. This will be a four and one-half hour "double feature" entertainment with 11,000 reserved seats available.

At 2:00 P. M. on Sunday afternoon, Lucky Teter, internationally famous dare-devil will bring his cast of thrill show hell-drivers to the State Fair for a single performance that will feature 28 new acts, the foremost of which is a car leap by Teter over a regulation passenger bus.

Sunday night, the opening performance of the Indiana State Fair Night Horse Shows will be given in the spacious tan-bark arena of the Coliseum. This year, this colorful event has attracted the leading horses of the nation and will offer $20,000 in purses and premiums without deductions. Added shows this year will be matinees on Monday and Wednesday.

"Americana," on of the outstanding outdoor stage productions of the season, beautiful scenery, singing, dancing, will open on the stage in front of the grandstand on Sunday night, for a six-night run. This is an outstanding attraction offered at unusually low prices.

On the race track this year the Indiana State Fair will offer its greatest harness horse program with $60,000 in purses and stakes being offered and the leading horses and reinsmen participating.

The Johnny J. Jones famous shows and rides will be on the midway dishing out thrills and excitement from morn until midnight and everywhere on the huge exposition grounds there will be unusual attractions for every type of interest.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

The discussion of the conscription bill goes on in the Senate, after a two weeks debate which may be referred to conservatively as warm. In fact, at times it was hot and bitter. The two major features are drafting men and drafting wealth.

As to the propriety of assembling man power, the arguments are conventional but none the less forceful, and boil down to the statement that the necessity exists. Nor is the reasoning of the opposition without weight, a draft of military rigidity in time of peace being regarded as a menace to the liberties of a free people.

The situation in regard to conscripting wealth is more complex. Senator Clark, of Missouri, is quoted as asking his fellow legislators whether they are willing to demand the nation's blood and brawn, and let the wealth of the nation go scot free. Upon the other hand it is pointed out that the Government stands in need of the assurance that the capital of the land be kept ready for use in the making of war equipment, care being taken that there shall be no profiteering. The proper course lies, it is said, in taxing excess profits, rather than in a direct levy upon capital, to the disoragnization of industry.

It will take a month to thresh out the conscription measure, according to one authority. Another would have it that a vote is expected daily. Remarks on the subject may be current comment, or may be no more than a review of something that has become law and history over night.

When canals are mentioned, one is inclined to think of slowly moving boats decorated with lines of wash fluttering in the breeze, toiling mules urged onward by eloquently profane drivers, and the wail of the steersman's horn as a lock is approached. Britain and the United States seem to find something beyond antique charm in artificial waterways.

The report that Italians are massing for a foray on the Suez Canal may well give rise to apprehension. Newspaper men who have explored isolated islands of the Carribean Sea, speak of large stores of liquid fuel cached there and uncomfortably available for a Nazi attack on the Panama Canal. Operators of shallow draft boats are familiar with a so-called inland waterway reaching from Florida to the vicinity of Philadelphia, and in none too good condition. It should not be neglected. Canals may have lost much of their picturesqueness and romance, but their utility remains in many instances and under emergency conditions. Perhaps the most vulnerable spot under the control of the United States is the Panama Canal.

Although the campaign hardly can be said to be under way, the plans of both Democrats and Republicans are being worked out carefully. Mr. Willkie has in mind a four thousand mile trip through the Central and Middle West, with a closing speech at Detroit the latter part of September. The Democrats are not idle. If the remarks of Secretary Ikes may be taken as a sample and omen, the fur will fly before the votes are cast. The ability of Mr. Roosevelt to state his views are known, and Mr. Willkie hardly can be called a pensive and retiring soul. There will be things doing!

The movement toward a defense between the United States and Canada should have a few opponents. It is one thing to weigh and consider, as to sending men and munitions beyond the ocean, but quite another to extend a reassuring hand to the Dominion, remembering that we may need something more than sympathy in return. Tackling the United States by way of the water would tax the resources even of a Hitler. A thousand Nazi tanks in Canada would just be too bad. The boundary line is a frail barrier. It may be crossed as easily as that which surrounds France. In these days, all that invaders have to do is to step on the gas.

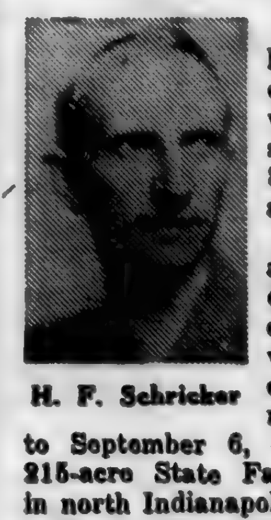
Lieut.-Gov. Schricker Calls Attention To State Fair Program



H. F. Schricker

All roads will lead to Indianapolis August 30th, when the gates swing open on the 88th annual Indiana State Fair.

This agricultural, livestock, industrial and educational exposition will be held for eight days and nights, August 30 to September 6, on the mammoth 215-acre State Fairgrounds located in north Indianapolis.

The Indiana State Fair offers $159,349 in purses and premiums this year, an increase of $10,000 over last year, according to Lieut.-Gov. Henry F. Schricker, Commissioner of Agriculture.

The two opening days of the Fair this year again will be given over to the judging of 4-H Club work, and on Friday evening, a fun jamboree for the youths will be presented free by the Fair Board on the stage at the grandstand. Boy Scouts and other youth organizations will headline this program that will be climaxed with a colorful display of fireworks.

The high-light of the 1940 State Fair will come on Sunday afternoon at 4:00 P. M. when the beautiful new Coliseum and livestock pavilion, completed during the past year, will be formally dedicated with leaders of state government, education, agriculture and state fairs participating.

Union labor will present speaking and entertainment on Monday morning at the grandstand.

There will be a parade of high school champion bands on Wednesday, Educational Day. Tuesday will be Governor's and Legislators' Day and Thursday, farmers and farm organizations will present the second annual parade of floats, bands, livestock in a demonstration expected to exceed the successful initial demonstration of last year.

Many new improvements have been added to the fairgrounds during the past year and everything is in readiness for the "Biggest and Best" State Fair in history.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1940 NUMBER 37

DEKALB COUNTY 4-H GIRLS WIN HONORS

DeKalb County 4-H Club girls carried away more than their share of prizes and honors from the Indiana state fair, held last week at Indianapolis, Miss Lenore Moore, DeKalb County Home Agent, stated Saturday. Miss Dortha Martz, of Fairfield Township, winner of the county dress revue, was one of the ten blue ribbon winners in the state in the dress revue and Eileen Carpenter of Butler city, won a trip to the national 4-H Club Congress.

Dortha was one of 89 contestants in the state dress revue, being chosen one of the ten blue ribbon winners. From this group a grand champion will be selected on the basis of the best record of achievement, the winner to be announced later.

The DeKalb County girl modeled a black wool crepe dress, fashioned with a square neckline, short sleeves and a pleated skirt. She wore a black felt casual hat with a small bright red feather, red gloves, and black suede shoes. She made her black wool crepe purse with initials of bright red yarn. The only ornament on the dress was an American flag pin.

Eileen Carpenter, now is entering Purdue University this fall, for a best record of achievement won a trip to the national 4-H Club Congress which will be in conjunction with International Stock Show at Chicago December 1-6. This is the frst time this award has ever been given to a DeKalb County entrant. This award is presented by the Indiana board of agriculture.

Other winners from the county, their placing and their division are: Joyce Dean, of Spencerville, first, white layer cake; Ruth Custer, of Keyser Township, second, dress for a girl one to three years of age; Eileen Carpenter, of Butler, third, two-piece wool suit; Lenore Boger, third, yellow layer cake; Mary Ann Quance, of Auburn, third, drop cookies, and Phyllis Kempf, of near Butler, two-piece suit for a boy two to three years old.

MASS-MINDED

If you do not follow the big crowd these days you're very apt to be called an "appeaser," which is a synonym for the World War "pacifist." This is the danger in our National Capital today.

Most people like to keep in step with public opinion even though they have to follow with the sheep. In Washington and throughout the country mass-minded is doing a lot of damage. But "appeasers," and "pacifists" usually have constructive conversation to back up their opinions, for the very good reason that they do their own thinking. When a Nation lets one man do most of the thinking and planning then that Nation becomes an intellectual goose-stepper. That's the trouble with Germany. In short, God was good enough to give each of us a brain and we ought to use it in genuine efforts to reach sound conclusions regarding all public questions.

YOUR HOUSE IS MARKED

On the maps distributed to township chairmen of the RURAL GO-TO-CHURCH MOVEMENT. Whether you live in town or in the back-woods, we know where you are and we'll be around to ask you to be loyal to the church of your choice.

Be in Sunday School somewhere this Sunday, Sept. 15, when a visiting layman will be given about five (5) minutes to tell you all about this movement in DeKalb County.

No matter where you live, if you belong to, attend, or are in any way interested in a church in this county, this is your movement. GET IN EARLY—SEE IT THROUGH!

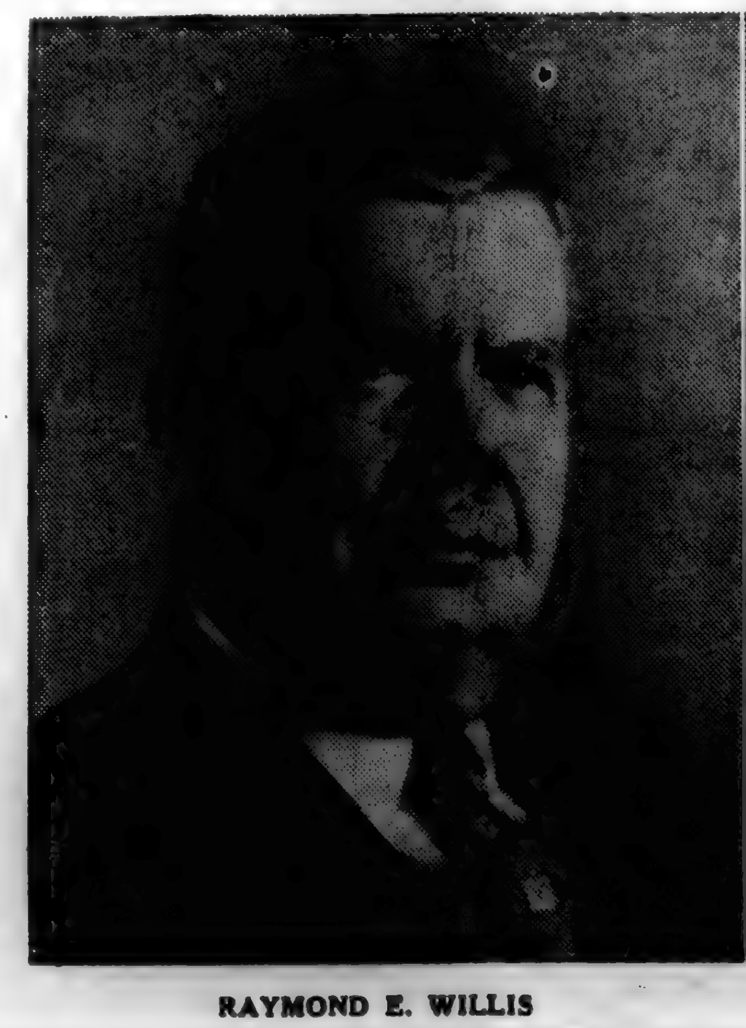
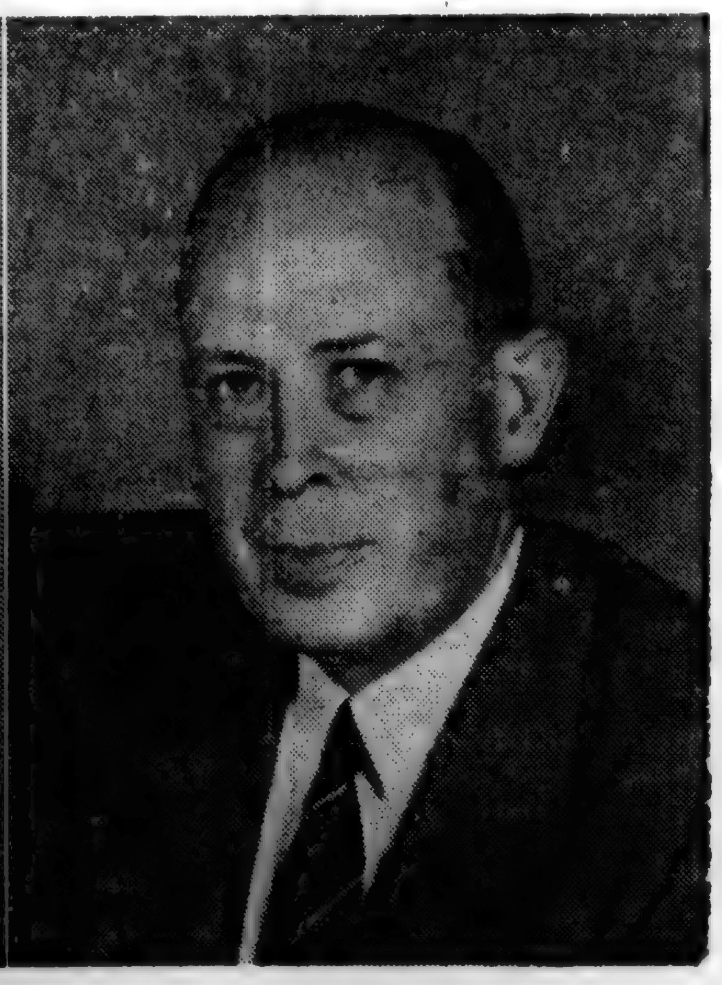
Indiana Republican Standard Bearers Ready To Fire Opening Guns of 1940 Victory Drive



RAYMOND E. WILLIS



GLEN R. HILLIS

HILLIS, WILLIS OPEN CAMPAIGNS SEPT. 16 AND 18

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 12. — Imbued with confidence that the entire G. O. P. ticket in Indiana is destined for victory, the state Republican organization will shift its campaign activities into high gear next week, when Glen R. Hillis, of Kokomo, the nominee for Governor, and Raymond E. Willis, of Angola, making the race for United States Senator, will open their individual campaigns.

Mr. Hillis will start his drive for election to the governorship Wednesday night, Sept. 18, in a meeting at 8:30 o'clock in the Haworth gymnasium, Kokomo. The home town "send-off" for Mr. Hillis will be held in conjunction with the opening of a four-day homecoming celebration sponsored by the Kokomo Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Willis B. Dye, president of the chamber. A dinner for distinguished guests will be given at 6:30, and a band concert will be presented before the meeting in the gymnasium.

Throughout his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination and since he became the choice of Indiana Republicans to make the governorship race, Mr. Hillis has had vigorous, enthusiastic support of members of both major political parties in Kokomo and Howard county. Citizens of Kokomo are not content with seeing Mr. Hillis as the nominee for Governor—they are determined to give his candidacy every possible boost and to impress upon all Hoosierdom their own admiration and respect for the man who is know to most people in Kokomo as Glen rather than as Mr. Hillis.

Mr. Willis will address a Republican assemblage in Elkhart Friday, Sept. 18, and this occasion will mark the formal opening of his campaign for election as United States Senator. Arrangements for that meeting are in charge of Frank W. Smith, Elkhart county Republican chairman.

Although Mr. Willis conducted a forceful, energetic drive for election to the senatorial office in 1938, when he was defeated by a margin of only 5,000 votes in what was described by many political observers as a "slow count," audiences in meetings he has addressed this year have seen a new, fighting campaigner, devoted to the task of fighting off further encroachments of government.

The Willis style of presenting Republican arguments was demonstrated in an address he made last week before the Indiana Federation of Republican Women's Clubs at Indianapolis when he said:

"I know the President has pledged that he will never send our boys across the seas, and he has also said that he will participate in this struggle in every way short of war. You cannot run an automobile at increasing velocity toward a precipice and attempt to stop at the brink without certain disaster. What assurance is there that this promise will not be cast aside, as his many other promises have been neglected, when his every act draws us closer to that war?"

Mr. Willis quoted Secretary Wallace's recent assertion that America must choose between Roosevelt and Hitler, then added:

"There is another choice. As between Roosevelt and Hitler, we shall choose Wendell Willkie. That chant, 'We want Willkie,' is no longer a ground swell, it is a mighty chorus of the Union responding to a desperate need of the American people to save America."

Other Republican state candidates also are intensifying their pre-election activities this week and next.

Mark W. Rhoads, director of the Speakers' Bureau for the Republican State Committee, reports that his call for volunteers for campaign speaking engagements in the state has met with unprecedented response.

INCREASE IN SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

With a total of 261 students enrolled in the Concord Township school, an increase of 8 students over last year was shown. The enrollment in the first six grades is 111; in the seventh and eighth, 42; and in the high school, 108.

Baseball Team Wins over Butler

The Concord Township baseball team got off to a good start last Friday when they won a close game by a score of 2-1. The game went into extra innings when the score was tied in the seventh. Butler took the lead in the first inning. St. Joe tied in the last of the seventh when Bleeks went to second on an error by the Butler shortstop. Bleeks stole third. When the catcher overthrew third he scored on that error. Pugsley retired three Butler runners single handed in the first half of the eighth, two on strikeouts and one on ground ball to the pitcher. In the St. Joe half of the inning Reed went to first when the catcher dropped the third strike. Curle walked; Pugsley was hit by pitched ball; Shuff struck out; then Bleeks was walked forcing in the winning run.

Pugsley held the Butler batters to 2 hits while his team-mates were getting 5 from the Butler pitcher. Reed was catcher.

A return game is being played today at Butler. The Ashley team comes to St. Joe Friday for their first game with the local team.

THE DEAR OLD U. S. A.

I've been around this great old World,
To many lands I've wandered;
I've been ashore in many Ports,
And lots of coin I've squandered!
I've been down through Magellan's
  Straits,
And in Yokohama Bay;
But I've never seen the equal yet
Of the dear old U. S. A.

Ive been upon the Pyramids,
On Egypt's burning sands;
I've heard a dozen different tongues,
In as many different lands!
I've seen the Palace of the King
Of England; yet I say
That in spite of all these wonder-lands
There's naught like the U. S. A.

Oh! One may wonder far and wide,
O'er mountain, vale and sea;
He's sure to see some beauty spots,
Wherever he may be.
But ne'er the less, where e'er he goes,
I'm sure like me he'll say
That the fairest spot on God's green
  Earth
Is the DEAR OLD U. S. A.

Household News By Eleanor Howe

WHEN YOU PLAN A PICNIC FOR A CROWD
(Recipes Below.)

Community picnics are fun! They offer an opportunity for a carefree day under the open sky—carefree for even the chairman in charge of affairs, if she's planned her program well and chosen her helpers wisely.

If the crowd to be served is a really large one, it's a good idea to have one committee member responsible for each main dish such as meat, potatoes, salad, dessert, and beverage, and one responsible for extras such as buns, butter, relishes, etc. There'll be a serving committee and a clean-up committee, as well.

Picnics for four or five families are usually co-operative affairs. Each family may supply its own lunch, but more often each one provides one item in large enough quantities to serve the crowd. One family might provide the salad, one the meat, and still another family the dessert, which might be watermelon, a luscious chocolate cake, or a freezer full of old fashioned ice cream. With a little planning, the cost can be fairly equally distributed.

When an outing is in the offing and it's up to you to plan the menu for a crowd, you'll find these picnic pointers helpful.

1. If lunch is being prepared at home, choose foods that permit beforehand preparation, and that are not too difficult to carry or to serve.

2. Provide a fairly simple meal, with plenty of everything but not so much variety that it will cause confusion and lots of extra work.

3. Unless you are sure of a good water supply, it's better to carry the water from home.

4. Carry fruit juices, tomato juice or milk in thermos bottles.

5. The main dish for the picnic—which might be chili, baked beans, or escalloped potatoes, can be cooked the day before, then in the morning brought to the boiling point, and the dutch oven or casserole wrapped in several thicknesses of newspaper to retain the heat.

6. Don't overlook the possibilities in frozen foods for picnic use. Quick-frozen meats can be carried, without ice, even on a warm day. They thaw out on the way to the picnic ground and will be ready to use.

You'll find other picnic pointers in my cook book, "Easy Entertaining." There are menus and tested recipes for beach parties, hikes and a "Colorado beefsteak fry."

When you write to me, won't you tell me something about the "community meals" your group has served? Do you serve dinners for the church, for business men's organizations or for the farm bureau, perhaps? How many people do you serve at meals like this, and what are your favorite menus? I'll be waiting to hear from you!

> Eleanor Howe is going to give you, next week, some of her favorite recipes for cool, refreshing summer beverages, and dainty cookies to serve with them. Watch for this column next week.

> There's something very social and heartwarming about entertaining friends in your own home. And entertaining needn't be expensive, nor does it necessarily mean a lot of work!
>
> Eleanor Howe's cook book, "Easy Entertaining," will give you the secrets of doing just that—entertaining without fuss and bother, and to fit your budget.
>

Grandmother's Ginger Cookies.
(Makes about 6 dozen)

1¼ cups shortening
2½ cups sugar
3 eggs (separated)
1¼ cups molasses
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons soda
⅝ cup cold water
9 cups flour

Cream shortening and add sugar gradually, creaming until smooth. Beat egg yolks until light, and add to the creamed mixture, with the molasses, and spices, and salt. Dissolve soda in cold water, and add to the first mixture; blend well. Beat egg whites until stiff, and fold into batter. Add flour, and mix until smooth. Roll out to ⅛-inch thickness on a lightly floured board. Cut with 3½-inch cookie cutter, and press a raisin into the center of each. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake on a greased cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for about 10 minutes.

Barbecue Sandwiches.
(Filling for 3½ to 4 dozen buns)

2 pounds beef
2 pounds pork
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon red pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1½ tablespoons salt
¼ cup flour
1½ cups tomato puree or condensed tomato soup
1½ quarts meat stock
3 large onions (sliced)

Cook the meat until tender in enough water to cover. Drain, and grind coarsely. Combine seasonings and flour. Add tomato puree and the meat stock, and cook for 5 minutes. Brown the onions lightly in butter or bacon fat, and add to the sauce with the coarsely ground meat. Serve hot on large, round buns.

Chocolate Fudge Cake.
(Serves 25)

1 cup shortening
3 cups light brown sugar
3 eggs (slightly beaten)
3½ cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1¼ teaspoons soda
¾ cup sour milk
⅔ cup cocoa
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and add sugar gradually, blending well after each addition. Add slightly beaten eggs and mix well. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, and soda. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk. Blend cocoa and boiling water. Add to the cake batter with the vanilla, and mix just until the batter is smooth. Pour into 3 8-inch square pans, which have been greased and lined with wax paper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 30 minutes.

Meat Loaf.
(Serves 25)

4½ pounds beef (ground)
1½ pounds pork (ground)
¾ cup quick cooking tapioca
3 eggs (beaten)
⅓ cup onion (minced)
2 tablespoons salt
¾ teaspoon pepper
¾ teaspoon sage or poultry seasoning
1 No. 2½ can tomatoes

Combine ingredients in the order given, reserving about half of the tomatoes. Pack into 2 long, narrow loaf pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 1½ hours. At the end of the first 45 minutes, pour the tomatoes which were reserved for this over the top of the meat loaf, and continue baking.

Tomato French Dressing.
(Makes 1 quart)

1 can condensed tomato soup
¾ cup vinegar
1½ cups oil
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon paprika

Place all of the ingredients in a mixing bowl and beat until blended. Store in refrigerator in a quart jar.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THERE'S never a dull moment at Big Bear, Calif., these days. No sooner did 20th Century-Fox's "Brigham Young" troupe finish work on location near there than Monogram's "Queen of the Yukon" moved in.

The town has just one important street, and it's jammed nightly with bearded extras (whose beards earn a living for them) and members of the cast. Irene Rich, Charles Bickford, Melvin Lang, Dave O'Brien, and June Carlson are in the lineup.

Melvin Lang and Dave O'Brien had to stage a fight the other day; in preparation, Bickford spent several days teaching O'Brien how to avoid injuries. But—when Director Phil Rosen called "Cut!" O'Brien fell to the ground, and the company doctor found that he had a broken rib. He'd been too much excited to remember Bickford's instructions.

When young players in Hollywood get discouraged they remind themselves—and anyone who'll listen—that it takes just one good picture to make a star.

"Look at Pat O'Brien in 'Front Page'," they'll say. "Look at Cary Grant in 'Topper'—Shirley Temple in 'Little Miss Marker'—Errol Flynn in 'Captain Blood'—May Robson in 'Lady for a Day.'"

IDA LUPINO

Another name has been added to the "Look" list—it's that of Ida Lupino, who did a nice job in "The Light That Failed" and has won her spurs as a result of her "mad" scenes in Warner Brothers' "They Drive By Night." She'll co-star with John Garfield in "East of the River."

—*—

We may have another Rogers-Astaire picture, if RKO can find the right story for it. Fred Astaire is free-lancing at present, and Ginger is booked for three pictures, one of them being a picturization of the very popular novel, "Kitty Foyle." But some time next year they may be dancing together again.

Herbert Moulton has a new idea for screen entertainment, and he hopes you're going to like it. After six months of hard work he has finished an abridged version of "Love Me Tonight," starring Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald and Myrna Loy, and originally released in 1932. It will run just 45 minutes.

Other old-time successes being considered for streamlining are "Design for Living," "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "Night After Night," and "One Hour With You."

Betty Field left the stage for Hollywood a year ago; in that time she's played four big parts, so different from each other that she's the envy of all the other young actresses. In "What a Life!" she was the nice high school girl who was Jackie Cooper's sweetheart; in "Of Mice and Men" she was the sultry, amorous young woman who attracted Lon Chaney Jr. In "Seventeen" she was a giddy young siren, and in "Victory," her latest picture, she's warm, tender, understanding.

Three years ago Ralph Edwards hitch-hiked from his home in Oakland, Calif., to New York for a job. A couple of weeks ago he returned to his home in a plane. These days he's so busy that, when he decided to take a six-week vacation, five other announcers had to be called in to sub for him.

Six months ago he turned up as creator, director and master of ceremonies of his own program, the hilarious "Truth or Consequences." It was tried out on four eastern stations, and soon will be launched on WEAF in New York.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Geraldine Fitzgerald returns to the screen to co-star with George Raft in "South of Suez" . . . Looks as if Charlie Chaplin's "The Dictator" would be released about the middle of September . . . Susanna Foster has a gold powder box which, when opened, plays "Fight on for U. S. C."—given her by the boys of the University of Southern California's band, who worked with her in "There's Magic in Music" . . . Tyrone Power will do a series of pictures based on tales about Zorro, the California bandit—his current one, "The Californian," is a re-make of the old Douglas Fairbanks "The Mark of Zorro."

PERFECT to put on and wear right now in flat crepe, silk print or spun rayon, this beautifully cut shirtwaist fashion will be a cool delight on the hottest days of summer. No. 8727 will look so crisp and fresh, in striped linen, polka dot silk or brilliant white sharkskin. And it will feel comfortable and unhampering, because the lines are so simple and free. The bodice can be fastened with three buttons and turned back in narrow, deep revers, or buttoned almost to the throat, with shallow revers.

Why not have it both ways, since it's so very easy to make? There's practically no detailing to it—just a few gathers beneath the yoke and darts at the waistline. The circular skirt has a lovely, youthful swing.

Pattern No. 8727 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material without nap. Send order to:

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

United Features WNU Service

BIBLE AND CONSCRIPTION

WASHINGTON. — My repeated statement that compulsory selective service is also of biblical origin has been challenged.

Well, the draft consists of three steps. First comes registration of the whole adult male population and classification as to availability for military service. In Numbers 26; 1 and 2 "The Lord spake unto Moses . . . saying take the sum of all the congregation of the Children of Israel from 20 years old and upward throughout their father's houses, all that are able to go to war in Israel." The ensuing first "registration report" showed 601,730 registrants.

The next step is the assignment of quotas. Numbers 31-3 "Moses spake . . . arm some of yourselves unto the war . . . of every tribe a thousand . . . shall ye send to the war." They were drafted and inducted.

Some men are "exempted" according to regulations. For rules of exemption in the Mosaic draft, see Deuteronomy 20; 5-9. Briefly, they exempted men who were providing homes and had not "dedicated" them, newly married men, men who were growing vineyards not yet mature and, curiously enough, self-confessed cowards. In Deuteronomy 24-5, the "married man" exemption was confined to one year.

The theory of this selective service is found in Numbers 32-6 "And Moses said unto the children of Gad (Gad correct) and the children of Reuben" (who wanted to call it a day in the conquest of Canaan) "shall your brethren go to war and shall ye sit here?" Then he recalled an earlier evasion of military service by the children at Kadesh-Barnea and reminded them that "the Lord's anger was kindled against Israel and he made them wander in the wilderness for 40 years." The entire tribes of Reuben and Gad (Gad correct) marched, "every man armed to battle."

Maybe all that was not a faithful forerunner of our selective service system of 1917 and the Burke-Wadsworth bill of today, but it seems so to me. It is interesting but unimportant, because there is no respectable argument in law, morals or ethics against the universal obligation to military service when it is necessary to the safety of a people. It is inherent in the social compact. These be four dollar words but I imagine something like this happened.

Og and Ug and some other cavemen got tired of losing hides, cattle and women every time some great Neanderthaler Snaggletooth in the next valley decided to raid off the reservation. Singly he could bash in the brains of any. They held a conference and ub-glubbed a gang-up on him. The next time he came they sent him howling home. That kept the peace. Some kind of society became possible and that tribe was formed and on its way to better things and the more abundant life. Fine. But could Og or Ug, or whoever live under the protection of that pact for months or years, when old Snaggletooth threatened again—as Moses said—sit there while their brethren went to war! It is an inescapable duty of every single man who has enjoyed the collective protection of any nation.

The objections won't stand up.

"We have not done it before." We have rarely needed to do it before. But every time we have needed to do it, we have done it—three times.

"Yes, but not in peace—only in war."

The obligation arises with the danger and in proportion to it. This danger is great enough. This duty has nothing to do with the legal formality of a declaration of war. Few recent wars have been "declared." If we had to wait idly for that we would be lost.

In modern war you can't fight if you're not trained. If there is an obligation to fight there is an obligation to train.

• • •

A STUPID BLUNDER

The change in the proposed draft bill ages 21-31 from ages 18-46 for registration, was forced by an absurd scarehead ballyhoo that fooled a lot of people into believing that the "draft would affect 42,000,000 men at terrific expense and no necessity."

The draft will affect only the number of men drafted. That has nothing whatever to do with the number registered—except that if too few are registered the whole scheme becomes grotesquely inefficient and unfair. The change—at least as it relieves men between 18 and 21, and those over 31 from registration—is a stupid blunder.

It is true that we started the World war draft at ages 21 to 30 but, as we later learned, it was a mistake. It had to be corrected by widening the range to 18-45.

If you are going to get the full benefit to the government of scientific selection, you want the widest possible field of selection. On the other hand, one purpose of the draft is to get the necessary man with the least possible interference with family, educational and economic life. The smaller your range of selection the less generous can your deferments be.

Bruckart's Washington Digest

Only Time Can Test 'Advantages' Of Havana Conference Agreement

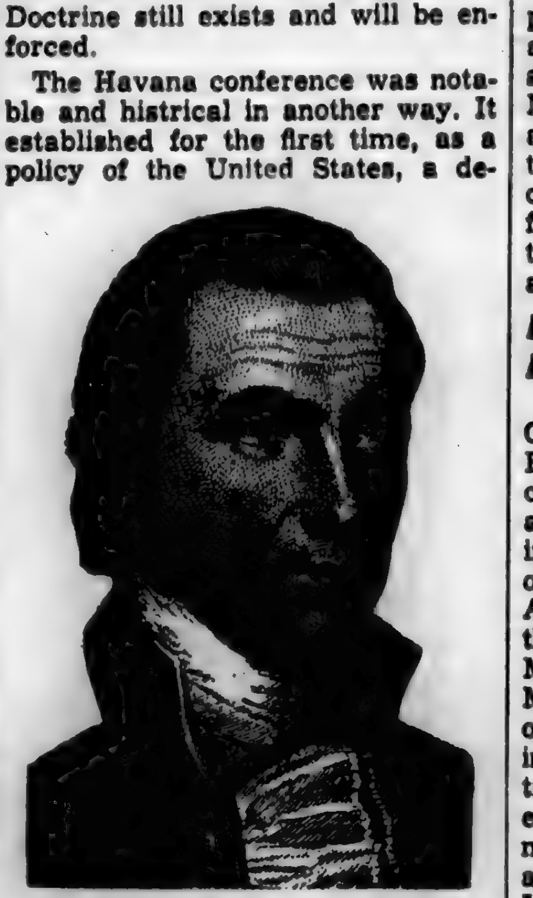
Pan-American Plan for Colonies Enlarges the Scope of Famous Monroe Doctrine and Assures Enforcement Of Its Provisions.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — Although copybooks long since have disappeared and the school systems seem to have omitted the "R" from reading, writing and 'rithmetic, the truth of the copy lines remains indisputable. One line, "time brings changes," continues to be basic fact and it applies to nations as well as individuals. If proof were needed as to the truth of the adage, recent developments at Havana, Cuba, surely can be used.

The conference at Havana, in which the United States and 20 other American republics participated, brought into being an agreement whereby all of the nations in North and South America, excepting Canada and the possessions of European nations, will work together in defense, military or otherwise. It was a meeting that must be placed in large print in history because it told the whole world that the Monroe Doctrine still exists and will be enforced.

The Havana conference was notable and histrical in another way. It established for the first time, as a policy of the United States, a determination to use our national defense—our army, our navy, our air force—in protecting not only our own shore lines, but the shore lines of our sister nations of the Western hemisphere.



PRESIDENT JAMES MONROE
—His policy has become a tradition.

In other words, the conference which is described as "the Pan-American Agreement on Colonies, did these things: (1) it determined steps to be taken if any European possession in the Western hemisphere were threatened with transfer of sovereignty to another foreign nation; (2) it established a new base for inter-American trade and economic relations so that inroads by any European or Asiatic power will be made more difficult; (3) it prepared the way for dealing with, and the control of, agents of foreign powers seeking to carry on subversive activities against the New world.

Agreement Establishes New World Solidarity

Under this structure of international agreement, there is set up machinery which will provide something of a guardianship—a protectorate—for British and French and Dutch Guiana. The British section of that three-part country, of course, is still subject to British rule. Nobody knows exactly the status of the French and Dutch sections, since Hitler forced France to her knees and wreaked havoc with Holland.

To date, the situation is not thoroughly clear how this protectorate will work. It can be said, however, that the idea is definite and conclusive and that any move to transfer Dutch and French Guiana to Germany will meet with resistance. The United States and its sister republics simply have said to Hitler and the others in Europe: stay on your own side of the Atlantic, we don't want you over here and you shall not come here.

So, any fair interpretation of the Havana international meeting means that (1) a principle has been established, (2) that means of supporting and enforcing that principle have been created, and (3) that any of the nations of North or South America can act against any foreign power and will do so with the agreed approval of the others. It is a powerful thing and, if it holds, there is established an entirely new solidarity within the New world.

Value of Agreement Is Highly Controversial

There are many objections possible of statement respecting this new treaty arrangement. None can foretell whether those objections have merit or not. Nor can anyone in this day say with certainty that the program will guarantee either peace or war. In most arguments that we hear in Washington discussions, claims that appear sound are advanced both for and against the value and general merit of the Havana treaty. The thing will have to be studied and will have to be in operation for a time, I believe, before anyone can make an unequivocal statement whether its advantages outweigh its disadvantages, or whether the reverse is true.

To get back to the copybook line that "time brings changes," it may be pointed out properly that the United States has bound itself to defend all of South and Central America. It may be said, moreover, that the Havana treaty expands the Monroe Doctrine beyond any of the original meaning of the statement made by President James Monroe. Or, it offers ground for argument that the United States is taking upon itself the guardianship of all of the Americas, since it is a fact that the United States navy is the only navy worthy of a name in all of the Western hemisphere.

Fate of Small Republics Has Become Very Important

These changes have taken place. Of that, there can be little doubt. But there remains the condition that confronts all of the nations of North and South America. We do not know in this country what influences are operative in South and Central America. Of course, it is known that subversive agents—Hitler and Mussolini and Stalin—are busy in Mexico. We can see various signs of the boring-from-within that is taking place in other nations. But the truth is that we have no real knowledge of how much progress has been made or whether the parasites that are within the body politic of the Latin countries have left only a shell of solidarity on the surface for us to see.

These things, if they do exist, are highly dangerous to the United States. How dangerous they are, time alone will tell, but time has brought the changes that force the United States to build something in the nature of protective fence. The question is whether that fence shall be on our frontier with Mexico and Canada, or whether it shall be a fence along the shores of the Atlantic and the Pacific, and whether the United States can build a fence at all to make trespassers keep out.

It was only a few years ago that the Washington government was sort of letting the South American republics hold their elections with gunfire and thinking nothing of it. Now, those elections are important to us. The United States cannot go down there and supervise the elections. That would be the surest way to disrupt the relations of a more or less peaceful character that exist between the various republics. Yet, anything that is done by any of those governments now, anything that affects their status in relation to any other nation in the New world, becomes a matter paramount in importance.

U. S. Must Bear Burden Of War in Americas

Probably, the Havana convention will come in for some very harsh criticism. It likely will be said by some, for instance, that it is another step in the direction of war and that its terms will result in American troops being used all over South America at some time in the future. To the extent that the United States must fight—if war comes to this side of the Atlantic—the Havana treaty will send our troops south of the border. It may be that such a result would have to come, anyway, whether the United States was aligned with its sister republics or not.

If war comes our way—and I see no reason for it to come over here—the United States is going to have to carry the burden. The United States has the great stake and it must defend that stake. So, the question turns on whether it is wise to take in so much territory by a written agreement, or whether to persist in following the doctrine of President Monroe as is now a tradition, dealing with the problems as they arise.

As I said, none can tell yet how the Havana treaty is going to work out. If it works out as planned, it has plenty of meritorious phases. If some of the South American republics kick over the traces, as they have been known to do, the Havana treaty will be just another scrap of paper. For the time being, however, the agreement is an excellent talking point, in any event. It is notice that any foreign nation had better consider the consequences before attempting to decide the fate of European possessions here.

PROBLEM OF COLONIES

The recent Pan-American Conference on Colonies receives a thorough analysis by William Bruckart, Washington correspondent. This conference enlarged the scope of the Monroe Doctrine to establish virtual protectorates over European possessions in the Americas. Bruckart believes that the true value of this government cannot be known until it has stood the test of time.

½" STITCHES WITH CANDLEWICK NEEDLE AND 4 STRANDS OF COTTON YARN DOUBLE CLIP
DIP IN WATER TO SHRINK

WHEN we last heard of Marty and Bill the curved bottom shelf of that old buffet had not been used. Well, Bill made it into a cornice board for the bathroom window, and painted it blue. Then Marty went into action on curtains to match.

Grandmother is an expert at doing old-fashioned candle wicking, so together they made the tufted curtains illustrated. They used plain white muslin marked off diagonally in three-inch squares. They found the blue they wanted for the tufting in a soft string type of cotton yarn. The sketch tells you the rest. The dipping is what really turned the clipped stitches into tufts; then the curtains were stretched into shape to dry but were not ironed. All this about curtains has given Gram the most wonderful idea for something for a bride's kitchen shower that is coming off soon. It is pretty clever, we think. Watch for it, next week.

Centenarian Must Have Grieved Over Wasted Life

It was a great day for the village when the oldest inhabitant celebrated his hundredth birthday. And the excitement grew intense when it was learned that a newspaper reporter had come in search of an interview.

After various questions, the answers to which were prompted by fond and anxious relatives, the press representative asked:

"And now, tell me what you would do if you could have your time over again?"

There was a long silence while the old man thought. Then he said slowly:

"I think I would part my hair in the middle!"

Lafferty, 26, of Woodward, Oklahoma, where he and his wife had lived for the past two years, working as a civil engineer on the great government dam that is being built. It seems that he was killed Sunday while hunting with a partner, but just what happened they did not know on Monady. Mr. Lafferty died within two hours after being shot. The burial will be made in Missouri at his home town. The wife, Alice, will return to her parents at Huntington.

The late John H. Reinoehl, farmer and school teacher living in Fairfield township, left an estate worth $24,-867.57, according to a report made to Judge Endicott Thursday by County Asessor Chas. E. Miser. Value of the personal property is set at $9,397.50 and of the real estate, $15,470. Mr. Reinoehl owned 380 acres of land. He died in April, 1938. Mr. Reinoehl was a former St. Joe citizen and operated the St. Joe Telephone exchange.

Keep Faith Through Affliction

What do ye imagine against the Lord? he will make an utter end: affliction shall not rise up the second time. For while they be folden together as thorns, and while they are drunken as drunkards, they shall be devoured as stubble fully dry. There is one come out of thee, that imagineth evil against the Lord, a wicked counselor. Thus saith the Lord; Though they be quiet, and likewise many, yet thus shall they be cut down, when he shall pass through. Though I have afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more. For now will I break his yoke from off thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder. Nahum 1: 9-13.

Electrically Pumped Running Water at the Barn

WHETHER you want running water at the barn for the stock, in the poultry houses, or at the house, electrically pumped water anticipates farm needs and eliminates all of the old time drudgery. The value of electric pumping equipment lies in the extreme simplicity of operation and the unlimited volume available at the turn of a faucet or a switch.

Dairy cows, for example, will produce from 5 to 10 per cent more milk without increasing the feeding rations if they are supplied with drinking cups at the stalls. Horses and mules do better work when plentifully supplied with water. As an egg is two-thirds water, running water is important to poultry.

SPITLER

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, September 3, for Joseph D. Spitler, 72, retired Spencer Township farmer, at the residence, one mile south of Spencerville, with Rev. Frank Stevenson, pastor of the Lutheran Church at Spencerville, officiating. Burial was in White City Cemetery at Spencerville.

Mr. Spitler died Saturday night at 11 o'clock of myocarditis. He had been in poor health for three years and in a serious condition for three months.

Joseph D. Spitler was born October 4, 1867, in Cedar Creek Township, Allen County, the son of Elias and Mahala Spitler. He was a resident of DeKalb County for the past thirty years, prior to that time living in Springfield Township, Allen County. He and Miss Allie Houck, of DeKalb County, were united in marriage.

She survives, as well as one daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Dwyer, of east of Spencerville; two grandchildren; a brother, James Spitler, of Harlan, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret McNabb, of Spencerville.

WRITES INTERESTINGLY OF TRIP THROUGH THE WEST

Below we reproduce one of the descriptive letters sent back home to Elwood Hart and family by their parents, when on a sight seeing trip last month through the West. This letter was mailed on August 23, in which Mrs. Hart has the following to say:

"We are nearing the city of Los Angeles, Calif., gliding along on a very fine road through the desert country, a few sage brush and lots of sand with here and there a herder's cabin, set in between the mountain ranges.

"Have just crossed one range and another looms in the distance. Daisy and Dad are sleeping, they are the children in our party and need lots of sleep.

"We had a nice trip yesterday from Winslow, Ariz., up to Grand Canyon, where we spent a lot of time at the different points of interest. The main road runs back from the river but has branch roads leading up to the very edge, and such wonderful views, words cannot express the beauty and majesty of it all.

"From there we drove through mountains and pine forests then more mountains to Boulder Dam. got there before the lights were turned on. Of course it was a sight as all were lighted. We took a trip with a group of 16 down the elevator about 700 feet to base of dam, then through marble corridors to machinery rooms and through a tunnel back into mountain where the tunnel that carried the water around the dam (while they were building) crosses it. There we heard a lecture explaining the plan and purpose of the Dam. Left there at 8 o'clock and drove to Los Vegas, Nev., 30 miles, where we spent the night. Had air cooled cabin with innerspring mattress beds for $2.25.

"We drove to El Paso, Texas after visiting Carlsbad Caverns on Tuesday and went across the Rio Grande into Old Mexico in the evening. Their night life was in full swing. We got a few souvenirs and walked back to El Paso for the night.

"Wednesday drove 490 miles to Winslow, Ariz. Passed through several showers in the mountains, then out into the sunshine. Visited the museum and Rainbow Garden at Petrified Forest. Very beautiful and colorful rock made of silica and other chemicals in the form of wood.

"We then drove to the painted desert several miles north, but the rain was coming down in torrents dulling the colors that must be very vivid in the sunshine, though very vast and interesting at any time. Thursday morning on our way to Grand Canyon, we stopped for breakfast at Sunset Crater, an old volcano, dormant for 1000 years. While Daisy and I were cooking breakfast, Glen and Dick climbed to the crater rim 750 feet high. They looked like mere specks as they neared the top, but we could hear their voices very distinctly.

"The mountain is covered with volcanic ash, like fine wheat grains, and has trails leading zigzag up the side, while it took about one half hour to ascend they returned in about five minutes. We stopped one place in the mountains and gathered wild flowers, ten or twelve varieties,

"Just passed through Barston, a mining town and railroad renter. Have been following the power line from Boulder Dam' which furnishes Los Angeles with lights. Will soon be in Pasadena then on to Los Angeles."

LIKES AUTO STALLS ON WABASH TRACKS FRIDAY

Eight persons in an automobile escaped serious injury Friday night at 6:40 although the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Wabash passenger train.

The accident occurred at the Walter crossing a mile and a half north of St. Joe. Cecil Likes, of near Mt. Pleasant, was driving a 1934 Plymouth coach and with him were his wife; their four children, Katherin, 9, Juanita June, 7, Barbara Joe, 4, and DuWayne LeRoy, 2; Mrs. H. J. Lindley, 66, and Virignia Campbell, 13.

Likes was driving north from St. Joe and the car went up the grade to the track, where the engine stalled. A passenger train was approaching from the north. Likes frantically stepped on the starter and succeeded in backing the car nearly off the track by the use of the starting motor. The engineer of the train applied the brakes and the train slowed down, but the locomotive struck the front end of the automobile and turned the car around. As the train passed, projecting parts struck the front end of the car, damaging it badly.

Mrs. Likes jumped to safety before the arrival of the train, but the others remained in the automobile. However, the only ones hurt were the Campbell girl, who had a finger broken, Mrs. Lindley, with a sprained wrist, and Juanita Likes, who had her head bruised.

Sheriff Artus Coyle investigated the accident.

Taken to Lutheran Hospital

Lloyd Goldsmith of west of Spencerville, was injured Saturday, while helping workmen to make some repairs on his barn, when a piece of timber broke and struck him, breaking his hip. He was rushed to the Lutheran Hospital. Mr. Goldsmith had suffered a stroke of paralysis some months ago, and was able to go about with crutches.

A brindle Guernsey cow was killed at 7:30 Friday night three and one-half miles southeast of Newville by a car driven by Albert Thimiar who lives in that vicinity. The cow was valued at $55. Leonard Craig, tenant on the Homer Donley farm, just south of Scio bridge, was taking two cows across the road at the time of the accident. The cow was carried on the auto forty-five or fifty feet.

THOUSANDS PLAN TO ATTEND GREAT RALLY

Neither war nor politics has diverted the enthusiasm with which the announcement of the North American Christian Convention has been greeted. Reports are received from the national Planning Committee that the convention in Indianapolis, October 9-13 will be the largest in attendance for many a year. The promotion committee has a number of representatives in the key points of all states, and the members of this committee are constantly reporting new groups and whole motorcades that are definitely planning to make the trek to Indianapolis.

Large double-color posters have been sent to each of the ten thousand congregations of the brotherhood to be displayed in the churches. Earl Hanson Fife, of Johnson City, Tenn., who is in charge of the men's banquet, reports that responses indicate at least a thousand men from Men's Bible classes, church boards and other men's groups will be in attendance at the men's banquet on Saturday night. Invitations have been sent to all the ministers of the brotherhood for the minister's breakfast on Friday morning. There will also be a young people's banquet Saturday evening.

Reports of planned attendance are coming not only from near-by states, such as Illinois, Ohio and Kentucky where many motorcades are being promised, but from Florida, New York, California and other states far removed from Indianapolis. Eastern Tennessee reported a group of fifty signifying their intention to form a motorcade upon the first announcement of the convention. Pittsburgh early reported plans for a large group to form a motorcade from Pittsburgh and vicinity. Cincinnati plans for fifty carloads to make the trek to this love feast of the disciples. Northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota, South Dakota, Kansas and many another state have reported groups set to attend.

The Hon. Clifford Townsend, governor of Indiana, and R. H. Sullivan, mayor of Indianapolis, will welcome the hosts from the convention platform. Many hundreds of Indianapolis homes are listed as ready to extend their hospitality to the visiting delegates. Arrangements are made with Indianapolis hotels to keep their registers as clear as possible for the convention crowd. Tourist cabins and tourist camps are listed for those who desire them. The Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce is entering in with a hearty welcome and generous service.

The large number of unusually fine national and state highways that focus in Indianapolis are an enticement to motorists. The local arrangement committee reports a signed contract with the weather man for one of his A-1 exhibits of Hoosier Oct b.r weather.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

For the convenience of employers and employees in the St. Joe, Ind., area, and to enable those persons who have rights and responsibilities under the Social Security Act to get information and assistance in person, a representative of the Social Security Board will be in Auburn, Ind. on Sept. 23, 1940, between the hours of 9:30 A. M. and 1:00 P. M. Temporary quarters will be in the Post Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Key were hosts for a birthday surprise party held in honor of Mrs. Thelma Hart. It was a double surprise in that Mrs. Mabel Furnish was honored also. Everyone present had a happy time. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hart and Jackie, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Furnish and Jonelle and Larry, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hart, Tommy and LaVon, and Mr. Marsh Andress.

Sunday, Sept. 15th every church in DeKalb County was officially notified of the Rural Go To Church Movement. Every rural home in the county is becoming conscious of this immense movement and thousands are co-operating by promising to attend the church of their choice on October 25. There are 260 rural families in 223 town families in Concord and Spencer Townships which will be visited the final week of this drive and a sticker signifying their co-operation in the movement will be placed in their window. Will you be in church Sunday?

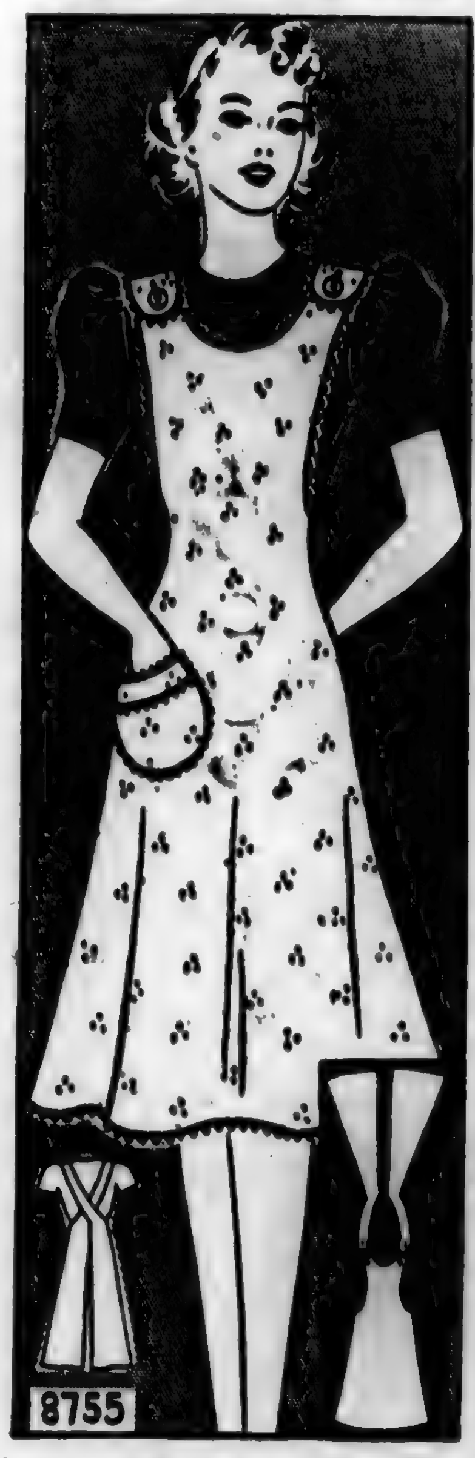
Just Three Pieces To Pinafore Apron

AS YOU see from the little diagram, this pinafore apron consists of merely three pieces, that practically put themselves together. What could be simpler and quicker to make? And 8755 is such a practical, satisfying household help, too. It protects the hole of your dress, top and skirt, and simply won't slip off the shoulders. If you're sick of sloppy-looking difficult-to-fasten aprons with cross-buttoning effects in the back, you'll welcome this slim trim, go-on-over-the-head design with cheers of joy, and make it up time and again.



Choose polka dot percale, flowered calico, checked gingham or plain chambray for this (you can finish it in a few hours) and trim with bright ricrac braid.

* * *

Pattern No. 8755 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 2⅞ yards of 35-inch material. 8 yards braid or bias binding. Send order to:

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Our Patience

How patiently you hear him groan, how glad the case is not your own.

Miserable with backache?

WHEN kidneys function badly and you suffer a nagging backache, with dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination and getting up at night; when you feel tired, nervous, all upset . . . use Doan's Pills.

Doan's are especially for poorly working kidneys. Millions of boxes are used every year. They are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

United Features WNU Service

CAMPAIGN WEAKNESSES

WASHINGTON. — You certainly have to hand it to the old master in the White House for his ability to keep the show going all by himself and to conduct a brilliant political campaign without even seeming to know that one is going on.

He is doing it in scintillating fashion. He is getting away with it. He isn't even being seriously challenged by what should be his opposition. Maybe Mr. Willkie is just winding up, but he is taking a painfully long time about it.

Public enthusiasm is a fickle jade. Mr. Willkie's performance in taking the nomination away from the professionals at Philadelphia was as spectacular a show as Mr. Roosevelt's getting the naval and air bases. It captivated the country, but, as the President knows so well, a popular figure has got to keep the glass balls dancing.

Mr. Willkie, himself, apparently relies more on Orrin Root's amateur Willkie clubs than on the Republican party organizations in the several states. That is a mistake that Mr. Roosevelt never made. He had all kinds of amateur clubs, too, Businessmen's Roosevelt for President clubs, the Good Neighbor league and as many others as could be thrown together.

These don't have to putter around depending on emergency organization and manufactured enthusiasm. They depend on dough and, Hatch act or no Hatch act, money still talks. Mr. Roosevelt has 10 billions to spend. Yet, with all that intricate pattern of decentralized regional organization, Mr. Roosevelt never neglected the good old Democratic political organization. On the contrary, he relied on it, rewarded it, reorganized it, and built it up to a greater strength and on a wider range than any Democratic organization had ever known before. Mr. Willkie may have been nominated in spite of the professionals, but he certainly cannot be elected without them.

He can't be elected without making election issues either. The ammunition is there by the ton—caissons bursting with it. But no shell is worth its cost without a gun to shoot it. I always thought the President was wrong in condemning "Yes-But" men in off-term debate of issues but you can't get anywhere in a political campaign if all you have learned to say is "Yes-But." You have got to learn to say "No Sir!" and make it emphatic and convincing enough to be heard and carry conviction.

I didn't expect that any candidate or any party would ever again make the terrific blunders of the Alf Landon campaign, but so far this Republican campaign looks enough like it to be its twin.

* * *

The high command of both the political armies appear reasonably confident and tranquil, but the great general staff of each is in a dither.

For the Democrats, the loss of Jim Farley on the eve of the battle of the third term was some such catastrophe as would be the loss of Hitler to the Nazis before a decision in the Battle of Britain. Mr. Flynn, make no mistake about it, is a very able man with a better basic brain, I think, than his great predecessor.

But Mr. Flynn's field command has been restricted to the Battle of the Bronx and this great American terrain is a very different matter. Even on his own ground, Mr. Flynn will have to wait until the great boss - buster, Tom Dewey, gets through with him.

Mr. Flynn's Bronx empire was just a little imitation, competition Tammany. I don't know what bones are buried in that realm—but maybe Mr. Dewey does.

On the Republican side, campaign manager Joe Martin is as active as a night prowling tom-cat on a tin roof dodging missiles and talking back, but that is in congress—not the campaign. The purely political general staff is therefore, leaderless and accordingly disorganized. There isn't even a speech-factory.

There is no strategy board of elder statesmen—or rather, seasoned politicians. Mr. Willkie fascinates everybody who sees him or hears him talk extemporaneously either on a chair or platform, but there are 130,000,000 people in this country and he can't see them all.

There is the radio, but he is not coached to click there and in spite of the wailing of several such speech experts as Haines Falconer that he has a natural equipment with which he could promptly be made the greatest radio orator of our time, a combination of diffidence and rugged individualism prevents that. A great opportunity seems to be trembling in the balance.

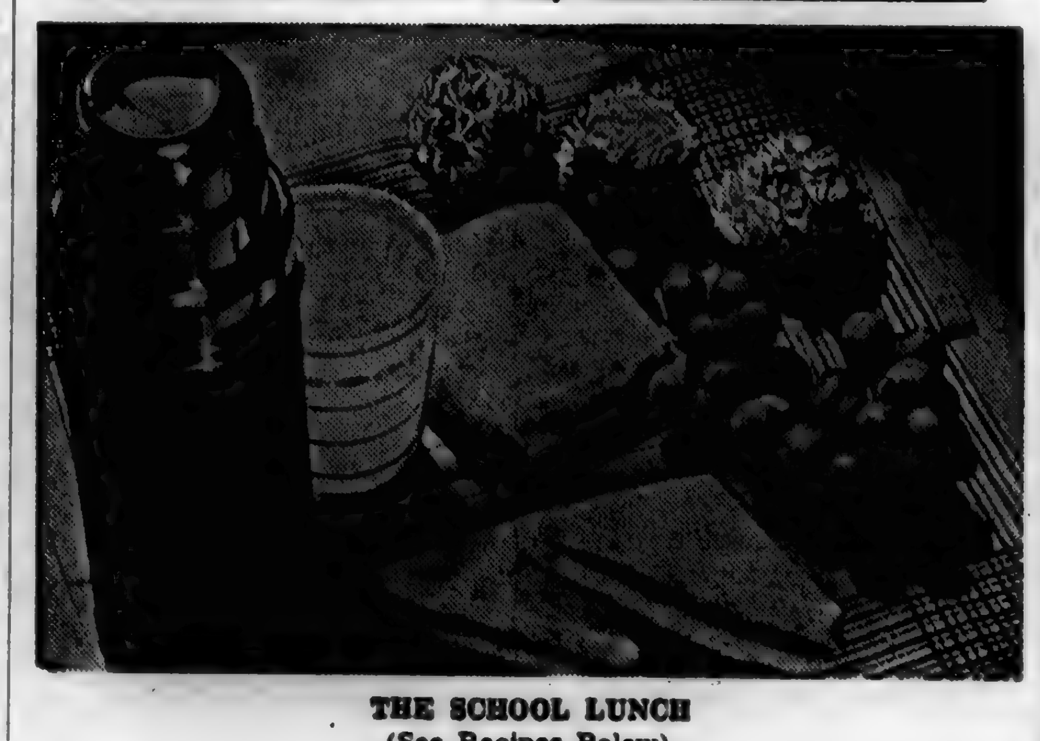
WASHINGTON.—Senator Pepper wants the President to have the power to "suspend all statutes" in preparing for defense and, imagining that he is Patrick Henry, shouts: "If this be dictatorship, make the most of it." It happens to be Patrick Henry in reverse.

Senator Josh Lee wants the President to have power to take the newspapers and radio for "propaganda"—in other words, to suppress truth and tell lies to the American people. In short, they say, we must become Nazis to fight Hitler.

Household News By Eleanor Howe



THE SCHOOL LUNCH
(See Recipes Below)

Whether the children carry their lunch to school or dash home at noon for a hurried meal, autumn school bells bring a major problem to the menu planner. For the midday repast must give plenty of nourishment in a form that can be quickly and easily eaten—and, in the case of carry-away lunches, easily packed as well.

Fruit, cookies, sandwiches and milk in some form constitute standbys for box lunches as well as the school child's home lunch. Cocoa, cream soups, custards and simple puddings help with the milk quota at the home lunch. Cocoa, or a milk shake, as well as plain milk, can be carried with the school lunch in a vacuum bottle. For the box lunch, sandwiches ought to be carefully wrapped so that they will be fresh and appetizing. Chopped meat moistened with a little butter or mayonnaise, hard-cooked egg delicately seasoned, cream cheese, jams and jellies, all make tempting fillings.

Semi-liquid foods may be put into small glass jars with tightly fitting covers. Supply paper cups for the beverage; and as a novelty, put in a paper straw, especially when you pack chocolate malt or iced cocoa. The sandwiches and softer foods should be placed on top to prevent mashing.

Brightly colored lunch boxes are popular, because they are not only easier to pack, and well-ventilated, but are attractive to carry. Literally speaking, you can pack everything in them from "soup to nuts." The lunch boxes should be kept immaculately clean by careful scalding each day.

You may like to use this menu some day when you have plenty of meat loaf left over from the Sunday dinner:

Meat Loaf Sandwiches
Deviled Egg Olives
Custard
Chocolate Milk

Or you might use a menu similar to this for colder weather:

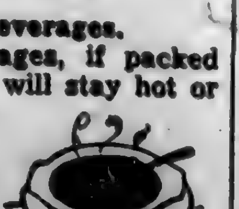
Cream of Tomato Soup
Peanut Butter and Orange Marmalade Sandwiches
Fruit Tapioca
Cookie

There is always an extra corner into which you can tuck a surprise. To the smaller children this will be a delight. It may be a few nuts, or a few pieces of good candy, or it may be the little candy bridge favor you received yesterday. A packed lunch can become as tiresome to eat as it is to pack. Even you will be thinking of the little surprise you can find to put into it, and thus make this task more of a pleasure to you.

So get a lunch box that will be large enough to hold all the necessary equipment, but will not be too heavy to carry, and begin making your plans for the school lunch. Some of these suggestions may aid you in your plans for the school year:

Soups and Beverages.

Soups and beverages, if packed in thermos bottles, will stay hot or cold, as the case may be. The cream soups are the most nutritious, for they contain not only milk but vegetables as well. Try cream of tomato, cream of pea, cream of spinach and cream of asparagus.



There is quite a wide choice of beverages. For warmer weather you may like to give the children pineapple juice, grape juice, orange juice, milk or chocolate malt. When the weather becomes cooler, hot chocolate or cocoa are welcome beverages.

Sandwiches.

Bread for sandwiches should be cut in thin slices, with the butter and filling spread way out to the edges. The butter is easier to spread if creamed first; and the sandwiches should be cut into convenient sizes for eating. Vary the kinds of breads that you use for sandwiches: plain or white, whole wheat, rye, brown bread, peanut butter bread, orange bread, nut bread, cornbread, raisin bread, and rolls.

> Why not plan a little different party for your friends? Have a harvest home party, where your guests can gather for singing, games, and dancing.
>
> At the end of August, or the middle of September, many of the countries of Europe finished up the harvest season with the harvest festival. There the workers of the fields feasted, danced, and sang, as guests of the mansion. Wreaths, fashioned of grain, flowers, nuts and corn were hung on the walls, to remain until the following year.
>
> Miss Howe will tell you about a harvest party in her column next week which will contain many attractive suggestions.

For filling you may like to use these suggestions:

Chicken, with chopped celery and mayonnaise.

Cream cheese on raisin bread.

Chopped dates, nuts and orange juice.

Ground cooked veal, raw carrots and celery, with salad dressing.

Orange marmalade and peanut butter.

Cottage cheese, chopped olives and mayonnaise.

Hard cooked egg, chopped celery and mayonnaise.

Meat loaf, sliced thin.

Bacon, mayonnaise and lettuce.

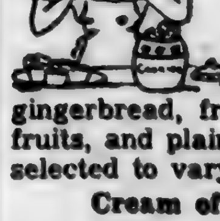
Spiced Blanc Mange.

2 cups milk
2½ tablespoons cornstarch
⅓ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ cup nut meats (broken)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Scald 1½ cups of milk. Mix all dry ingredients together and add the remaining ½ cup cold milk. Combine well. Add hot milk to the cornstarch mixture slowly. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Cook 5 minutes. Remove from flame, add nut meats and extract. Turn into a wet mold and chill. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

Desserts.

With the problem of packing desserts solved, there is a much wider choice than ever before. Rice pudding, small tarts, custards, oatmeal cookies, brownies, cup cakes, tapioca, cooked fruit, dates, figs, gingerbread, fresh or stewed dried fruits, and plain cakes are all to be selected to vary the school lunch.



Cream of Tomato Soup.

2 cups canned tomatoes
2 slices onion
¼ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk

Heat tomatoes with onion, soda, sugar, salt and pepper. Rub through sieve; reheat. Place butter in top of double boiler and melt. Add flour and mix thoroughly. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Pour tomato mixture slowly into white sauce. Mix thoroughly, and serve.

Better Baking.

Wouldn't you like some good yummy chocolate nut gingerbread or some of those melt-in-your-mouth meringue cookies right about now? Or how about the delicious sounding lemon sunny silver pie? Shall I stop, or have I made you hungry enough to want to rush right out into your kitchen and whip up a batch of cookies, or one of those suggested above? You may have these tested recipes of Miss Howe if you will write, enclosing 10 cents in coin, to Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, and ask for her cook book, "Better Baking." You will like them all, for they have been tried in her own test kitchen.

THERE were two of these old bent-wood chairs—both with cane seats gone and a badly scarred varnish finish. "Get them out of my sight!" their owner said, "I can't stand the thought of wood bent and forced into unnatural curves." In the end she did get them out of sight and used them too. The trick was done with slip covers made, as shown here.

The one you see in the sketch became a side chair for the living room dressed in richly colored cretonne in soft red and blue-green tones with deep wine bindings. The legs of the chair were sandpapered and stained mahogany to tone in with the cover. The cane seat was inexpensively repaired with a ready made seat of plywood reshaped to fit by first cutting a paper pattern to fit the seat of the chair and then using the pattern as a guide as indicated here. Next week I will show you how the other one of these old chairs was used.

Local Treasure Hunters Suffer Rude Awakening

Three times Rawlinson had dreamt that concealed somewhere in his flat was a quantity of valuable silver. The dream could no longer go unheeded.

That night he and Mrs. Rawlinson sought a hollow place in the walls. At last they hit upon it, and after some manipulation with chisel and hammer, dislodged several bricks. There, hidden on the other side, lay—the valuable silver.

Just as they were gloating over their find, there came a furious ring, and their neighbor bounded in.

"What the deuce do you mean by breaking up my dining-room cupboard?" he gasped.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as fidgeting, finicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts.

Many mothers don't realize how easy it is to "catch" this dreadful infection and how many children have it. If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Drive out those ugly, crawling things before they can grow and cause serious distress.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study and has been used by millions for over a century. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain santonin. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VER-MI-FUGE at any drug store.

The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON & ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington, D. C.

AIR BASES

Cabled reaction from Tokyo indicated that the Japanese were suspicious that something more than appeared on the surface was behind Cordell Hull's warning against the invasion of French Indo-China.

In this, they were right. There was.

Nobody in the navy department is shouting it from the housetops, but the U. S. fleet—or at least most of it—will now remain in the Pacific.

Previously it was considered necessary to bring the fleet from Hawaii and California in order to station most of it around Panama and the Caribbean. This would have made it impossible to keep a watchful eye on Japanese operations in the direction of the Malays and the Dutch East Indies—all-important sources of American tin and rubber.

Probably it will still be necessary to bring a few ships to the Atlantic side of the canal. But the island base deal with Great Britain has now made it possible to police most of the Caribbean and the Atlantic seaboard by air instead of by sea.

• • •

NAVAL NOTES

At first the chief improvement to the new U. S. bases on British islands will be airports. Not only are they needed immediately, but also are cheapest and quickest to construct. Naval bases, which mean oil tanks and repair facilities, take time to build and may never be constructed to any great extent. The U. S. navy will take advantage of British naval facilities for the time being.

Significant was the fact that many of the over-age destroyers being sold to England were fitted out with cables to neutralize magnetic mines even before the deal was published by the President. In other words, there had been no real doubt for a week or so before the announcement that the deal would be closed.

Negotiations for naval bases by no means are terminated. What the navy wants more than anything else is a good base in Brazilian waters, and if possible one in Uruguay. Informal conversations regarding a Brazilian base have been going on for some time.

• • •

U. S. REARMAMENT DRIVE

The bottleneck of American rearmament is factory expansion.

In order to produce more planes, guns and tanks, new factories are necessary. And part of the delay has resulted from a wrangle over how taxes shall be paid on these new plant expansions.

In fairness to industry, it should be noted that many of its leaders have gone ahead and financed their own plant expansion without waiting to see what the tax picture would be. In fact some industrialists were far-sighted enough to begin more than a year ago. Companies which did this include:

New York Shipbuilding, Newport News Shipbuilding, Bethlehem Shipbuilding, Bath Iron Works, Federal Shipbuilding, Midvale Steel, Carnegie-Illinois Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Bausch and Lomb, General Electric, Ford Instrument company, Edo Aircraft, Grumman Aircraft, Brewster Aeronautical, Eclipse Aviation and Walter Kidde.

Probably the list takes in many others. And because of their far-sightedness, these firms not only are reaping good profits for themselves but also doing a service for the government. For instance, the Elco company of Bayonne, N. J., put up an $800,000 plant extension about a year ago in order to manufacture motor-torpedo ("mosquito") boats. As a result, it is now turning over to the navy one new, and badly needed, mosquito boat each week.

However, among many other manufacturers there has been backing and filling over factory expansion and how the new plants will be taxed and financed. There is no question but this dickering has definitely slowed up the defense program.

Powder Shortage Serious.

Powder is the bottleneck of national defense. Without it not a shot can be fired, not even a revolver. And today's powder shortage is most serious.

It is to avoid these shortages in the future, not only in regard to powder, but also other essentials of modern warfare that the government is anxious to build some of its own plants, or at least obtain a lien on them.

This also would solve the tax problem, because industry would have no need to ask for early amortization on its emergency expenditures.

Government Arms Plants.

There are three general plans: One is the arsenal, completely owned and operated by the government, such as the Frankford arsenal in Philadelphia.

Two is the factory completely owned and operated by private industry. This was the practice employed during the World war.

Three is a compromise system whereby the government buys the ground and erects the factory, then lets the private manufacturer step in and operate the plant for a management fee.

Washington Digest

Armament Manufacturers Realize Plant Expansion Carries Risks

Reduced Military Appropriations Would Spell Ruin; U. S. Foreign Policy Unparalleled; German War Claims Appear Unsound.

By CARTER FIELD

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON.—It is fairly simple for the government to commandeer any existing plant which it may deem necessary for the national defense program and the owners of which are unwilling to co-operate. But it is a bit difficult for the government to commandeer a plant for which the blueprints have not even been drawn.

Yet the ONLY fact behind the amazing public misconception of this whole picture of the alleged bogging down of the national defense program, which is blamed on greedy would-be war profiteers, concerns PROPOSED plants, not EXISTING plants.

And the truth even about that is that there is very little delaying on the part of concerns which the government wants to take war contracts. Dozens of big concerns are risking the shirts of their stockholders by constructing new plants for the manufacture of airplane engines, airplane propellers and what-not without knowing what the prices will be, without knowing what profits they will be allowed, and at the risk of having stark and idle plants on their hands two or three years hence.

Right now there seems to be danger. The public is aroused to it, and is behind the appropriating of billions for national defense. War rages in Europe, and there is eager demand for all sorts of war supplies. But who can tell what the picture will be even next summer, much less three years from now?

Disarmament Might Follow Peace in Europe

For example, there might be not only peace, but the sort of disarmament agreement for which the statesmen of the early 1920's were striving, a situation in which no nation would build another fighting ship or fighting plane, a tank or a big gun, for a considerable period of years.

At the moment this seems far-fetched, but consider the arguments which those who will be advocating this course will have, should there be peace a couple of years from now. Every nation in the world will be so deeply in debt that there will be serious doubt that they can ever pay the interest on it! A moment's thought about the present British debt and the rate at which it is being increased will show that this is not a totally impossible picture.

Taxation will be grinding, not only in Europe, but in the United States, whether we get into the war or not. For we are rapidly reaching a total of debt which will require heavy taxation merely to pay the government's annual interest bill.

Expansion of Plants Requires Real Nerve

So beyond any question, when peace does come, there is going to be a tremendous demand on the part of the taxpayers to cut down on military appropriations, if this can be done safely, and it will appeal to a number of statesmen then, as it did in 1921, to bring about disarmament by treaties.

Boiled down, that is why manufacturers OUGHT to be worried about amortization. And that is why the public should really be appreciating the nerve of those companies which are building new plants because the government wants them to do it, without waiting to find out about profits, and whether the tax collectors will leave them anything with which to pay for the new plants. Put another way, without knowing whether they will ever get back 10 cents on the dollar of their new investments.

Incidentally, President Roosevelt is NOT responsible for these attacks on business. But certain senators and representatives have been showing either very poor logic, or rather contemptible politics.

U. S. Foreign Policy Is Unique in History

There may be some parallel in history for the course now being followed by the United States government, and the open expressions of so many nonofficial American speakers, and editors, but researchers seem unable to find it.

For example, the various moves which have been made in defiance of neutrality, moves which very obviously have the approval of a considerable majority—some of the polls estimate it as more than 60 per cent—of the American people, and yet which run absolutely counter to the supposed desire of a very large majority of the people to keep out of war.

Putting it bluntly, and undiplomatically, it would appear that nothing this country may do is likely either to get it into the war or keep it out. That decision, it would appear from all the known facts, will be made for us, not by us. It will be made by Adolf Hitler.

To put it another way, this country has already done so many things obviously hostile to Germany, and designed to aid her enemies, that if there were any purpose to be served, Hitler might feel himself justified in declaring war against the United States.

On the other hand, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg never did the slightest thing to irritate the Germans, yet they were crushed without warning and in violation of the most solemn treaty promises.

So it would seem that Hitler decides what countries he will fight. The other countries either fight or do not fight, as he determines.

Unneutral Acts Have Approval of Majority

All of which would seem to make the arguments of the isolationists rather technical. We are committing acts which in other times would be branded as acts of war. For example, the original idea of a "neutrality patrol," which justified the recommissioning of the World war destroyers. For example, the repeal of the arms embargo while a war was actually in progress. For example, the more recent virtual alliance with Canada, which is at war with Germany.

And this is topped off with the delivery to the British of the 50 destroyers, with guns and ammunition aboard, which has long been predicted in these dispatches. Consider also the fact that a joint British and American committee will select the precise sites for the new military and air bases in British possessions!

And all this in the midst of a presidential campaign, with the candidates of both major parties actually approving the results accomplished—even if the opposition objects to the manner in which they are done—and with minorities in both parties very unhappy, but unable politically to do anything.

German War Claims Require Discounting

Nearly every news commentator is constantly telling the public that there is no way of being sure what is happening in Europe behind the veil of censorship. Naturally there is no denying the truth of this frequently repeated statement, but there are certain things which simply MUST be so.

The main point is, as this is written, that the Nazis have not yet conquered Britain. No censorship could hide that, if it were already an accomplished fact.

It is a matter of simple arithmetic, now that so much time has elapsed since the heavy air fighting over Britain began, that the German claims simply could not have been anything like accurate because their exaggeration is obvious.

This does not mean that the British are winning. Certainly the British censorship prevents our getting an accurate picture of that. For example, it may well be that the Nazi bombing of Britain is succeeding in destroying British airplane and munitions works. We do not know. We only know that the British contend that so far the bombings have not accomplished anything in slowing down the British war production.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons several weeks ago that British airplane production, plus what they were bringing in, was now equal to German airplane production. He did not deny that the Germans still had great superiority in number of fighting and bombing planes, but predicted that this superiority would decline from then on.

This of course will depend on several factors. One is whether the German raiders are able to destroy British airplane plants. Another is whether submarines, mines and German planes can curb British imports of airplanes.

As long as the British can keep on fighting in the air, it is obvious that the Germans are not accomplishing their real objective.

Just recently there was a remarkable story from Britain. American newspaper men, from the cliffs in the vicinity of Dover, saw and reported an attack by British bombing planes on German gun emplacements between Boulogne and Calais. The amazing part of this story is that the German guns ceased firing, apparently so as not to have their flashes make targets for the British bombers, and resumed firing when the British planes left.

A little study of that picture will make one very dubious indeed about the German claims to date!

ARMAMENT EXPANSION

Armament manufacturers who undertake plant expansion without government amortization are exposing themselves to great risks, according to Carter Field. Peace in Europe, followed by a demand for disarmament, would bring them ruin, he points out. Field believes that America's foreign policy is unparalleled in history. Experts in Washington believe that German war claims should be discounted.

They were enroute to Cleveland, O., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Orley Woodring and when about half way there, a rear tire blew out, the driver lost control of the car and it rolled over several times. They gave up their trip and returned home.

GILLIE ASSURES WILLKIE OF BIG DISTRICT VOTE

Assurances that Indiana and the Fourth Congressional District will return heavy majorities for Wendell L. Willkie, Hoosier candidate for President, in the November election, have been extended to Mr. Willkie by Congressman George W. Gillie.

The assurances were contained in an exchange of correspondence between Candidate Willkie and Congressman Gillie, made public this week during Mr. Willkie's Western campaign tour.

Willkie's letter to Congressman Gillie follows:

"My dear George:

"I think you know without my saying so that it would please my heart very much if we could pile up a very heavy majority in Indiana this Fall. I, for my part, also want to be of any assistance I possibly can in your campaign for re-election.

"If you have any suggestions on the situation may I hear from you? I expect to leave Thursday on my Western trip. If you can write me by that time, address me here (in Rushville,) if not, to my New York office, which will forward your reply.

"Cordially yours,
"Wendell L. Willkie."

Congressman Gillie's reply follows:

"Dear Wendell:

"Thank you for your gracious letter of recent date, offering your assistance in my campaign for re-election and expressing the hope—which I reflect most heartily—that we pile up a heavy majority in Indiana this Fall.

"There is no doubt whatever in my mind that you will receive an overwhelming vote of confidence and affection from your fellow Hoosiers on November 5th. Enthusiasm over your candidacy is especially strong in my Congressional District, which returned a heavy majority for the Republican ticket two years ago. There is every indication that this majority will be increased in 1940 for the team of Willkie, Willis, Hillis, and Gillie.

"This letter will reach you during your swing through the West. Please accept my good wishes for a successful tour, and my warm assurances of esteem and confidence in your ability to lead the crusade for a return of sane, wholesome, Constitutional Government to America.

"Loyally and Faithfully,
"George W. Gillie."

The small person is kept mighty busy these days shooting arrows and keeping her bow in tune with the times. All of our marriage license bureaus report a marked increase in business right now. An Italian newspaper nastily remarks that this recent rush to marry might well illustrate the bravery of American men, their willingness to brave the dangers of marriage, "particularly to American women." But here we "can take it." So they won't have to fight, eh? Well why shouldn't we become very sentimental at this time when sentiment seems to be at a premium in Europe. DEKALB COUNTY FAIR TO BE ABANDONED

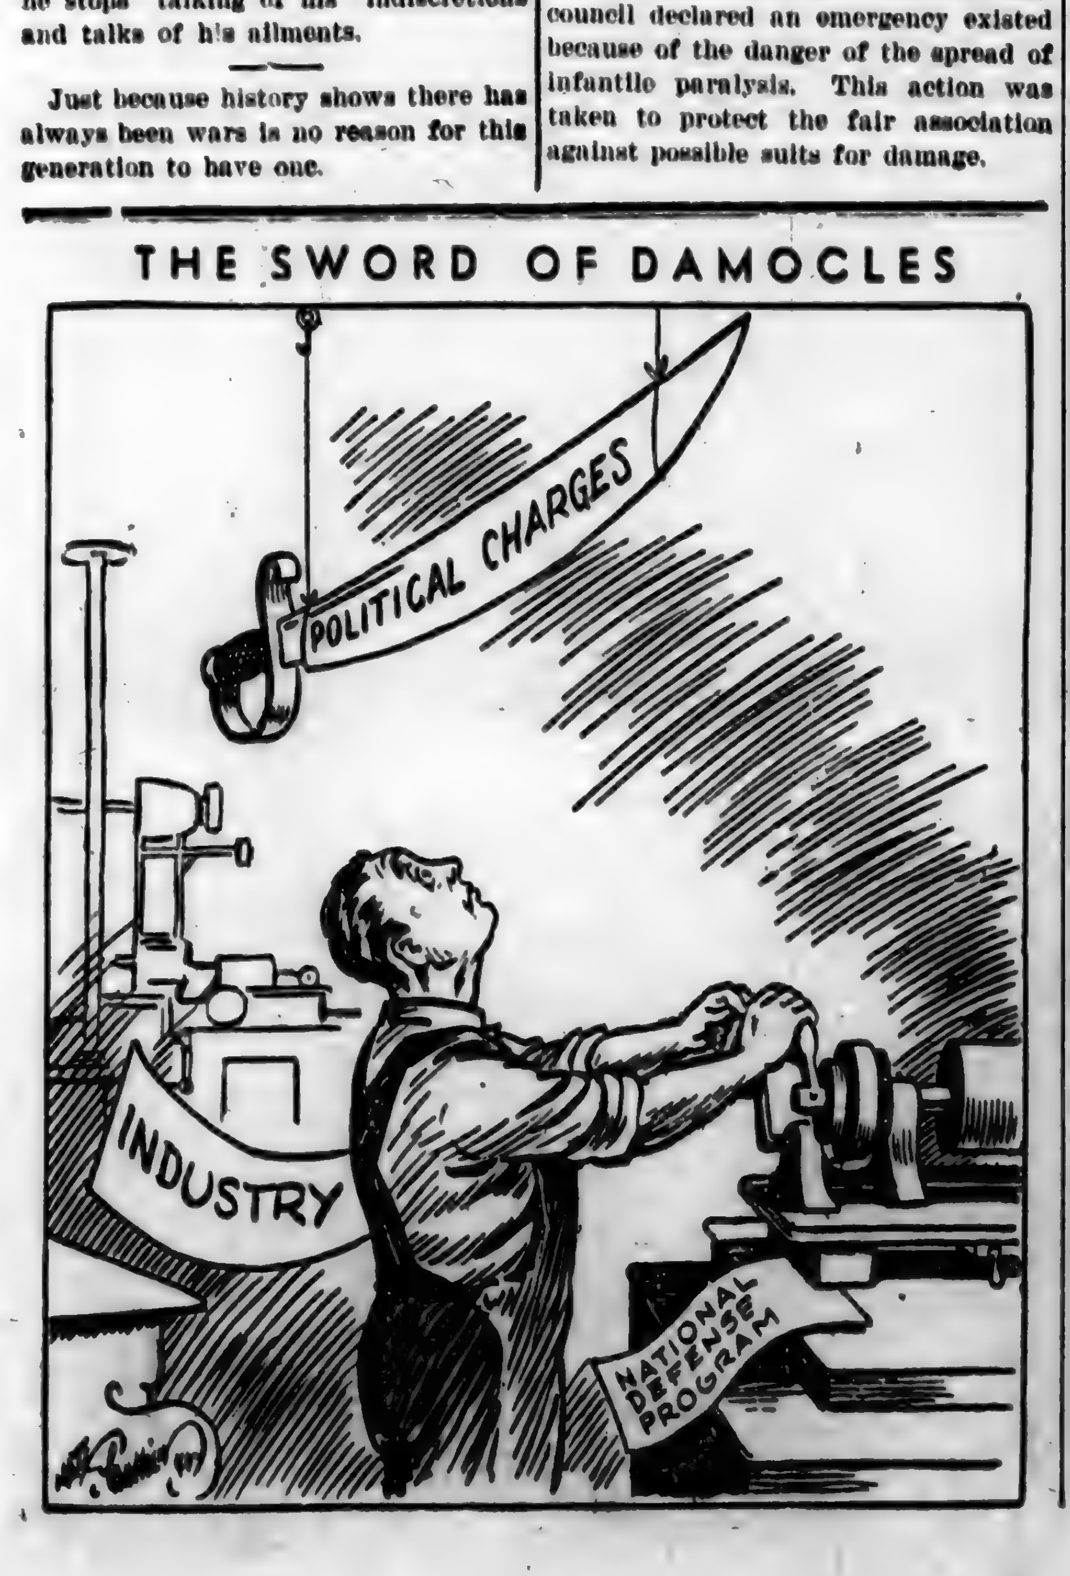
By action taken by the directors of the DeKalb County Fair Association Monday night, the fall fair scheduled for Sept. 30 to Oct. 5, was abandoned in Auburn for 1940.

The decision was made in a closed meeting of the Auburn city council and the fair board, in conjunction with the regular council meeting, following the presentation of a petition signed by 200 individuals and a number of organizations asking that the fair be canceled this year because of the possible danger of infantile paralysis. The fair board voted 17 to 4 to abandon the fair after the city council declared an emergency existed because of the danger of the spread of infantile paralysis. This action was taken to protect the fair association against possible suits for damage.

THE SWORD OF DAMOCLES



AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Receipts of veals for last week's auction showed an increase of 47 head over last week with more than average numbers of sheep and cattle in the offering. The unsettled condition of hog prices in all markets during the past week sharply reduced the numbers of hogs on sale. Hogs in a weight range of 170 to 200, $6.30 to $6.80, 140 to 160, $5.25 to $6.00. Fat sows were taken freely at $5.75 to $5.90 with some large thin lots at $4.00 to $4.25. Boars $2.00 to $2.60.

Several select veals sold from $13.30 to $13.60. This looked out of line in comparison with $11.50 as the top in our nearest competitive market but Detroit buyers assure us they will be back for what ever the offering is next week. There were a few calf sales below $10.50. Good lambs, $8.80 to $9.10. Fat ewes, $3.00. Breeding bucks up to $16.00 per head. In the cattle pens fair quality butcher heifers $8.00 to $8.30. Thin dairy steers $5.75 down. Bulls $5.30 to $6.00. Fat cows $5.30 to $6.40. Canners $3.00 to $3.75.

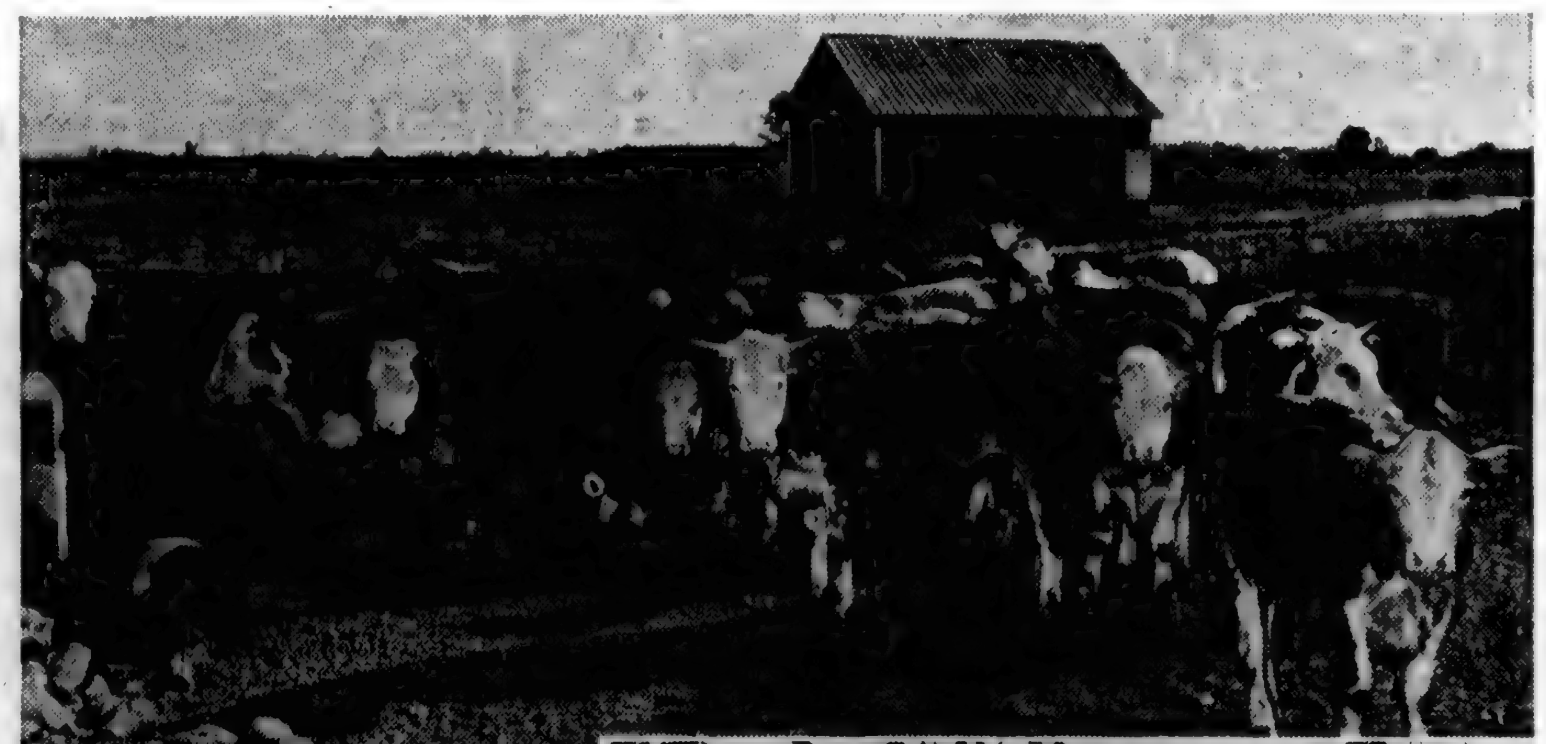
WENDELL WILLKIE PRACTICAL FARMER

Republican Nominee for President Raises Hogs and Feeder Steers in Indiana.



By WHEELER McMILLEN
Editor-in-Chief, Farm Journal and Farmer's Wife

During the past two months, national interest has focused on five farms lying in a three-mile semi-circle just south of Rushville, Indiana, typical of thousands of cornbelt farms. Living on and working them are five shrewd Indiana farmers, German and Scotch-Irish extraction. They were purchased, individually, by Wendell Willkie, but only after careful inspection by Mr. Willkie and analysis of the soils by agricultural scientists.

The farms were purchased by Mr. Willkie with his savings long before he had any notion of entering national politics. They are operated on a self-maintenance pattern with hogs and feeder steers as the prinicpal sources of revenue. Mr. Willkie and the five tenant-managers share profits on a 50-50 basis. Each farm has made a profit since Mr. Willkie took it over.

The names of the tenants who share partnership with Mr. Willkie are Joseph Kramer, Jesse Bell, Louis Berkemeier, Charles Brown and Harold Moore. All of the farms are signed up with AAA. Miss Mary Sleeth, of Rushville, an old friend of Mrs. Willkie, acts as a sort of local overseer for the farms. She also looks after one of her own.

No Show Places Here

None of the farms is a show place or "fancy" in any respect. Soon after purchasing each place, Mr. Willkie directed that the houses be put in good repair and well painted. Kitchens were modernized and electricity brought in from the local REA lines. The barns and other business buildings were put in order. Each farm has its own vegetable garden, chicken yard and fruit orchard.

Typical of the Willkie system of farming is the Louis Berkemeier place, 398 acres of woodlot and pasture running along Mud Creek, and purchased by the candidate in 1934. This summer it grew 10 acres of barley, 85 acres of corn and 60 acres of wheat to support its 80 Herefords and 200 hogs.

Farmers' Welfare First

The Kramer place, a mile and a half up the road from the Berkemeier's, has a flock of 50 sheep. They are not only a source of cash income. They free Joe Kramer from the task of keeping fence lines cleaned, and furnish Christine Kramer with a source of material for the blankets and carpets she has woven during the past three years.

Wendell Willkie's idea seems to be that the farmer who makes the best living as well as the surest profit is the farmer with a low overhead. By this, he does not believe that wages should be peeled to 1890 levels nor that farmers should starve their families and themselves in order to build up a bank account. To the contrary, he insists that the operator's own bodily welfare come before other considerations. The trim homes, vegetable gardens, fruit trees and chicken yards on each Willkie farm are proof to that end.

He does vigorously oppose the farm practice of selling on a wholesale market and buying extensively on a retail market, especially when it comes to the matter of materials that can be grown at home. That belief shakes down to the rule that lies behind the success of the five farms:—a balanced ratio of livestock and home-grown feed.

The whole plan for operation of the farms seems to be characteristic of their owner. Generous consideration for the fact that his associates in their management are entitled to live well was one of his first thoughts. He laid down the basic principles of operation — selecting those that successful farmers had found to be profitable—and then trusted the men he had selected to carry the program out day by day.

Encourages 4-H Clubs

Not the least of Mr. Willkie's interests as he goes around the farms on his frequent visits are the children of his farm partners. He encourages them to have animals of their own and is a hearty supporter of 4-H club activities.

"Faith in farm land as a sound business investment," according to Miss Sleeth, is apparently the real reason Wendell Willkie invested his savings in Indiana farms; that, and a desire to keep his roots in the soil. Mr. Willkie also wanted his son, Philip, a Princeton student, to have the experience of actual farm work.

"Mr. Willkie," explains Louis Berkemeier, "says we can have just as many steers and hogs as we please so long as we grow enough stuff right here on the place to feed them the year 'round. He says that's the way to make money in farming . . . grow as much stuff as the land will stand without running away and then sell what you can't use yourself. Well, sir, you know that was right down our road. That's the way I was brought up and it's never been known to fail as long as a man takes proper care of his land. That's why we've made a profit out here for the last six years."

Because of the control of corn acreage and the drought suffered in most localities, the farmers are losing considerable of their year's income, because at the best, the corn crop is only about half of 1939.

Merritt A. Butler has filed suit in the DeKalb Circuit Court against C. R. Baumgartner and F. W. Silberg on a judgment of $3,763 entered of record in 1930. Atkinson & Sanders represent the plaintiff.

Ted Strouse and family will leave St. Joe by October first for Camden, Michigan, where he will engage in the wholesale pickle and canned goods business. He has been associated here with his brother, William Strouse, for several years and is now able to launch out into business for himself. We wish them success in their new field.

Thieves broke into the Garrett high school Sunday night and stole fifteen typewriters valued at $1,200. The theft was discovered Monday morning by the janitor, Carl Sartor, who immediately notified Chief of Police Oscar F. Fitch. No clues as to the identity of the robbers have yet been found. Entrance to the typewriting room was secured by smashing in a window.

The Hoosier duck hunting season of 1940, which opens October 16, will be 15 days longer than in previous years, according to Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the department of conservation. The season closes December 14. The hunting day also has been lengthened Simmons said. Ducks, geese, brant and coot can be taken between sunrise and 4 P. M. whereas in former years the day was from 7 A. M. to 4 P. M. The bag limit of 10 ducks was not changed.

Six million ballots will be printed for Indiana voters at the general election November 5, according to the state printing board which late Monday awarded a contract for the work to the Bookwalter-Ball-Greathouse Printing Company of Indianapolis for $5,270. Two million ballots each will be printed for the national and state tickets and three constitutional amendments. The printing board bought ballots wide enough to provide for six parties. The deadline for filing a ticket is October 5.

Judge Harry H. Hilgemann in Fort Wayne Tuesday dissolved the restraining order in the suit of the Grace Construction Co. against the DeKalb County commissioners. The order prevented the county from maintaining a barricade at the Woodlawn cemetery road, which route the company desired to use to haul materials needed in the repaving of Road 427. The county and the company came to an agreement Monday by which the company has the use of another county road located a half mile east of the cemetary road.

REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS AID DEFENSE

McNary and Martin Blocked Adjournment Effort Before Program Was Complete.

PREVENTED LONG DELAY

Two Leaders Paved Way for Needed Action Providing Arms.

New Deal efforts again to force an adjournment of Congress recall to mind that last June President Roosevelt brought pressure to send the national legislative body home. He declared he could see no good reason why Congress should not adjourn "except for the no doubt laudable purpose of making speeches."

This move was fought and blocked by House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., and Senate Leader Charles L. McNary, now the Republican nominee for Vice-President. With other Republicans in Congress they believed it was the duty of Congress to be on the job in such critical times.

To the far-sighted statesmanship of these two Republican leaders now can go much of the credit for the legislation setting in motion the long delayed national defense machinery. Had Congress adjourned in June when Mr. Roosevelt wanted to get rid of the legislators, there would have been a further delay of months in getting national defense preparations going and the country would be in a far more difficult situation.

For since that time Congress has enacted most of the legislation authorizing and appropriating money for the war ships, tanks, guns, and airplanes which Mr. Roosevelt now boasts are "on order." In addition Congress enacted the Conscription Act and the bill authorizing the President to mobilize the National Guard. It also passed the Alien Registration law and a bill taxing excess profits and liberalizing certain laws necessary for the expansion of industry.

Martin and McNary remain opposed to the adjournment of Congress because they believe the legislators, under our system of representative, republican government, should stay on the job when there is business to be done. They do not believe in "one man government" here any more than they approve of it in Europe.

For instance, the two Republican leaders contend that Congress should complete passage by the Senate of legislation amending the National Labor Relations Act, already adopted by the House. This, they assert, would be a real contribution to economic recovery at home. The New Dealers, however, want to end the Congressional session in order to carry on their political campaigns. Their attitude is that recovery and national defense can wait until next year—and that is what they have been saying for seven years.

YOUNG COUPLE ARE MARRIED BY RICHARD L. KEY

At the Church of Christ parsonage in St. Joe Saturday afternoon, occurred the marriage of Ray C. Cobler, 28, of Jackson Township, young farmer living two miles west of Concord, and son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cobler, to Miss Vivian Murphy, 27, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Murphy, of Concord Township.

The bride wore an apline green ensemble with corsage of pink roses. The young couple will remain with the groom's parents at the present time, where he is engaged in farming.

The young folks are well and favorably known in their communities and have the best wishes of a wide circle of friends.

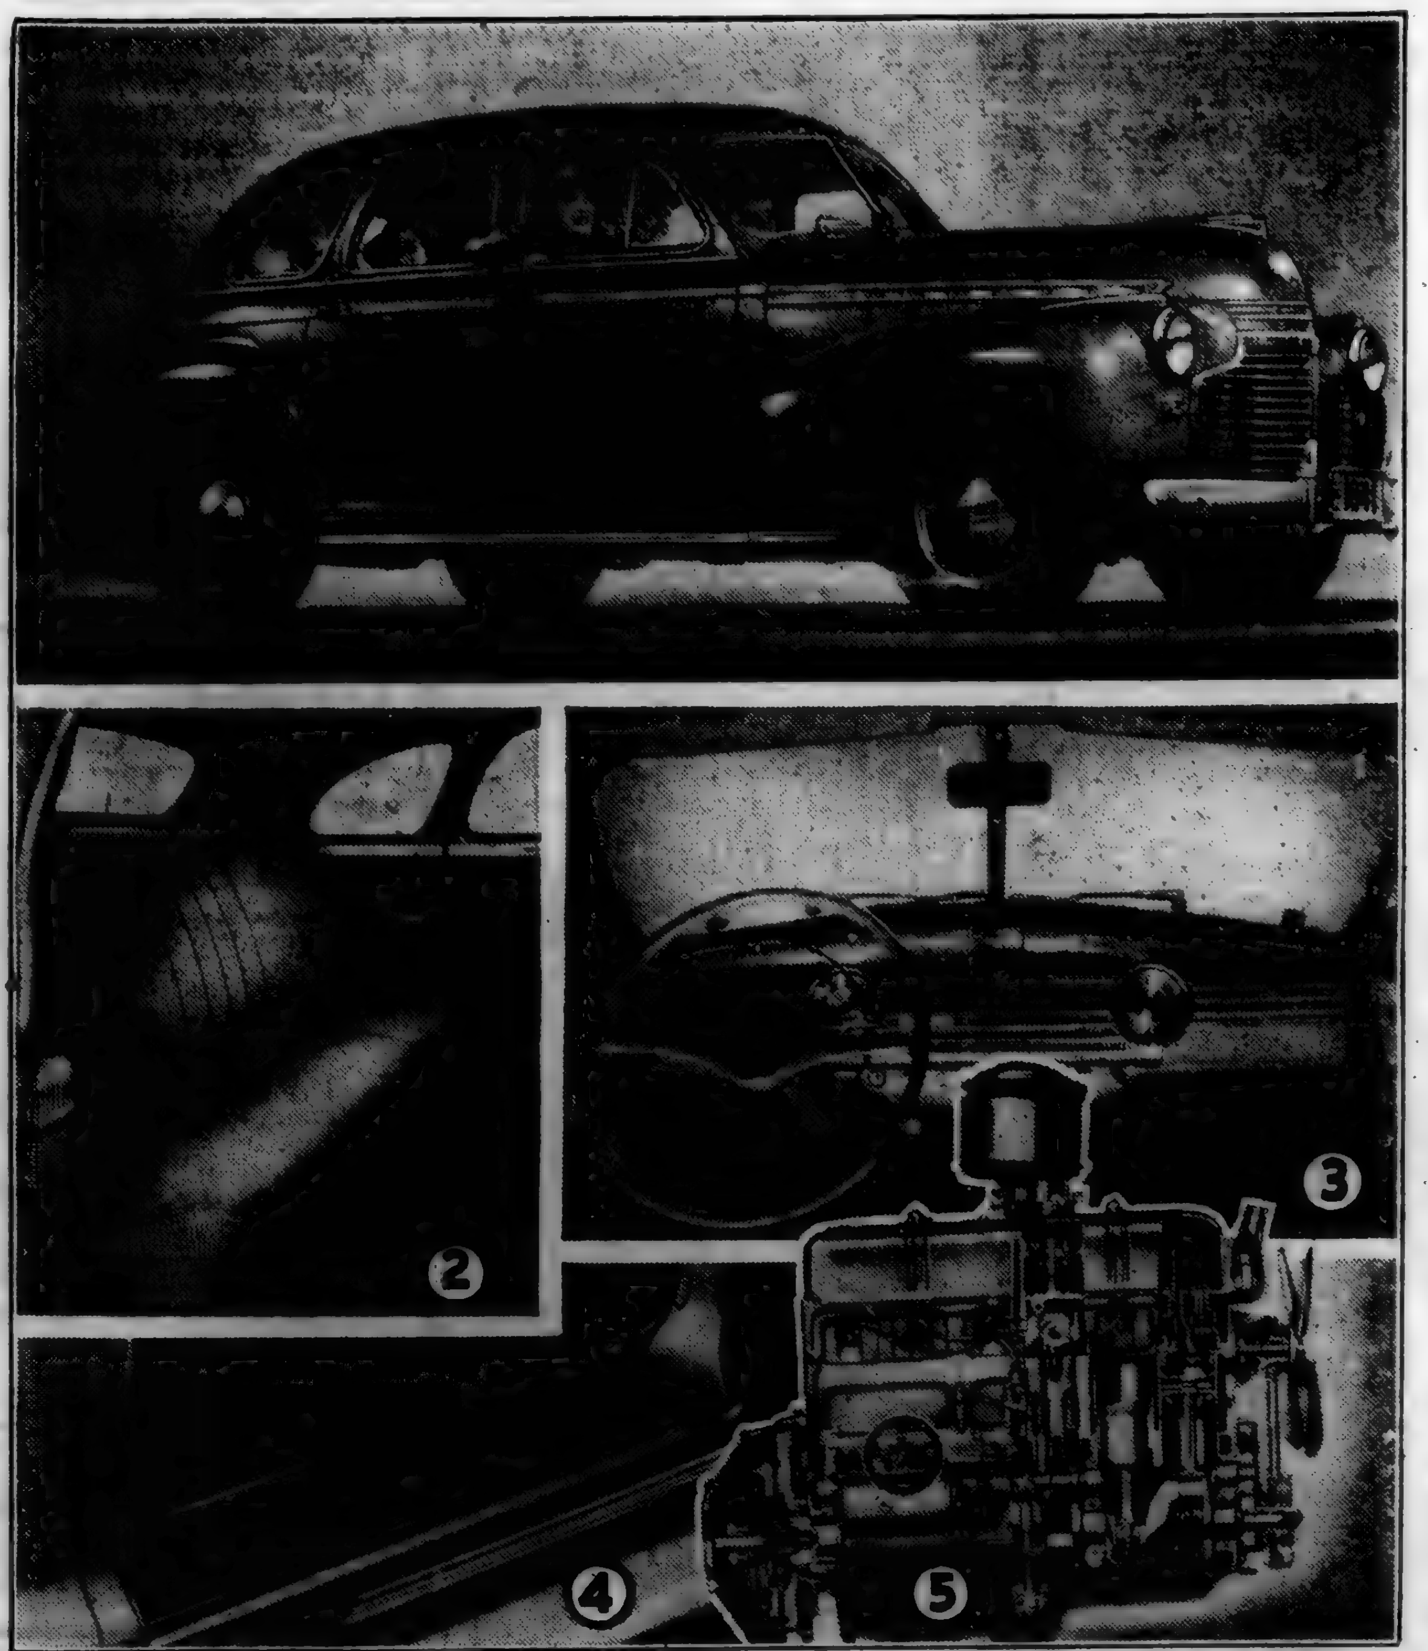
Beauty Reaches All-Time High in New '41 Chevrolet



Completely new styling joins with numerous mechanical improvements to make the new 1941 Chevrolet, now on display at all dealers', a worthy successor to the cars which have earned first place in public favor year after year. The greater size and roominess of the new models, as well as their sleek new beauty, are apparent in the Special De Luxe Sport Sedan, shown above.

At (2) is shown the spacious interior of the same model's rear compartment, and at (3) is its front compartment, showing two-spoke steering wheel with horn-blowing ring, new sliding-type sun visors, and smartly re-styled dash.

One of the major changes is substitution of concealed safety-steps (4) for the running boards of other years, an improvement adding to the car's beauty without sacrifice of the safety and convenience which running boards provide. At (5) is the six-cylinder Chevrolet valve-in-head engine for 1941, in which many refinements have been made. Horsepower is increased from 85 to 90 without affecting [illegible]; and cooling, lubrication and carburetion are [illegible] circle is the new switch which reverses the ignition [illegible] each time the starter is operated, [illegible] the life of distributor points.

TALLYHO, HUNTSMEN

Hunters around St. Joe will no doubt welcome the lifting of the 45 days of hunting migratory birds, to the new 60 day law. And with this goes permission of shooting at sunrise instead of having to wait until 7 A. M. The idea is to keep the annual kill below the annual production and in the case of waterfowl the favorable conditions warrant this change. In the case of woodcocks, there is a shorter season and the bag is more limited on geese and doves. There isn't a true sportsman any place who will not respect the regulations placed on all game but most hunters anticipate an increase in their bag due to the new limitation on migratory birds.

IS HE FOOLING?

There is oftimes a question in the minds of The News readers with all current talk on artillery, what has happened to the importance of the horse in the present battle? There were days in other attacks, when the horse played an important role in the fray, but today the mechanized armament has put the horse back in the stable, which should be pleasing to the horse! We just learned that Hitler is reported to be assembling large bodies of horse cavalry as part of his expeditionary force to Britain. He must have an idea that he is going to find the British other places than on the battlefront if he expects to use horses to attack. For although a horse has played a notable part in past wars, a successful plan of battle today does not rely on the cavalry.

SOMETHING WRONG

Here is a problem of our own that needs a bit of correcting. It didn't take a New York judge to let us know that our present system of marriage and divorce is a disgrace to our intelligence. There are too many state laws that vary with each other to give a fair deal to all cases that come into the courts. One state recognizes husband and wife while in another they may become bigamists. One state hands out divorces at the drop of a hat while another makes the obtaining of a divorce so difficult that in extreme cases where divorce might be condoned it becomes necessary to perjur oneself to obtain freedom. Whatever may be our personal feelings in Indianaa, regarding divorce, we are certain that there should be a more uniform set of laws and more joint action between all states before we can elevate our marriage laws and divorce suits.

WOMEN IN DEFENSE

Women will be entering the field of production in the defense industries if all of these orders placed by the government will mean the increase in business that it indicates. Many men will be returning to the pay-roll after too long a rest. but there will be numerous places that will also be filled by our women. Certain jobs seem to be particularly fitted for women as inspection of machine parts, testing electrical equipment, light instruments and very delicate instruments to be assembled, loading shells if need be. Women should have special training in jobs especially fitted for their skill. But all work should take into consideration a woman's physique. Our women, if the need arises, can have her place in our defense industry, as well as the Englishwoman who has proven herself a glory to her country, a pillar of courage to her family.

TRYING TO PLEASE

It doesn't take long for a fellow who is in the newspaper business to know how quickly the public wants a change in its reading. The task of giving a new story a punch is our business. The job of using an old story with a new angle is also in our line. But today it is difficult to keep the papers of the country alive with different news to satisfy all the reading public with a complete change in each edition. Someone cries, "war, war, war, that is all we read about." Another says he is sick and tired of all this political stuff, can't we find something different to write about? Therefore we try to hit upon other subjects that will give our readers respite from the constant thought of t he changing map of Europe, the altering destinies of nations. The political angle is a subject of national importance and its effect upon our lives is too critical for us to abandon it entirely. The campaigning of politicians is another one of the rights of Americans. We must carry along with politics or be like an ostrich and stick our head in the sand until the storm passes—then look what we have missed!

We shall do our very best to keep the pages of our paper alive to other topics of interest, to give the public here in St. Joe and in all communities like ours, something else to discuss over the family round-table. But even so, let a group of lively-minded citizens gather in one spot for more than ten minutes, no matter how tired they are of war and politics, dollars to doughnuts they will be discussing both subjects before they disband.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

After three days of intensive discussion, the Senate passed the Second Revenue Bill of 1940, more commonly known as the excess profits measure. Due to various trimmings that were appended by the upper body, the bill will have to be gone over in conference and shaken down to a form which is satisfactory to Congress, considered as a whole. The view is spreading that no matter what is done, the effect on business cannot be entirely satisfactory, and that after a year's test, extensive changes or an entirely new law will be in order.

In addition to cutting a liberal slice from the excess profits of corporations, an increase of 3.1 per cent in normal profits is proposed. Provisions too intricate to be traced out here, are intended to speed up national defense. A person having an annual income of a million dollars may be called upon to face a levy of 880 thousand dollars, a matter which of course brings the tax business right home to every man's door.

With the affixing of the President's signature to the draft bill there ensued a flood of questions about exemptions and other details, which would tax the resources of the traditional Philadelphia lawyer. Some points, however, were disposed of promptly. For instance, military officials lost little time in making it public, in substance, that a man not up to the physical standard of the regular army, might be entirely satisfactory for the draft. A five footer will do, and 107 pounds will be heavy enough.

With almost three hundred vessels idle in the ports of the United States, all Europe is short on shipping. Italy, though not heading the list numerically, perhaps feels the pressure most. England has nearly a round hundred craft swinging at anchor here, and Norway, essentially a maritime country, has three quarters as many. The Germans need not worry on that score. Two boats floating quietly so far from home, will not be missed.

Here and there in American havens are about a hundred vessels that have come down from the days of the World War Shipping Board. The lobster pots of the ship keepers hang from the rusty sides. The general atmosphere is that of peace, but the sincerity is likely to be soon broken. England is dickering for thirty of them at jewelry prices, and the President is said to have the transaction under consideration. England, having a widely scattered empire, may well make every effort to keep her lines of ocean communication intact. In the old days, many travellers preferred running the risk of having an Arabian spear run through them, rather than make the long voyage around the toe of Africa. The overland route no longer is practical. For eighty years, the Suez Canal has provided a convenient short cut between the Atlantic and Indian Oceans. The Italian movement toward the hundride mile ditch is based on something more than a mere desire to acquire African territory.

No doubt military and naval experts are entirely competent to pass upon

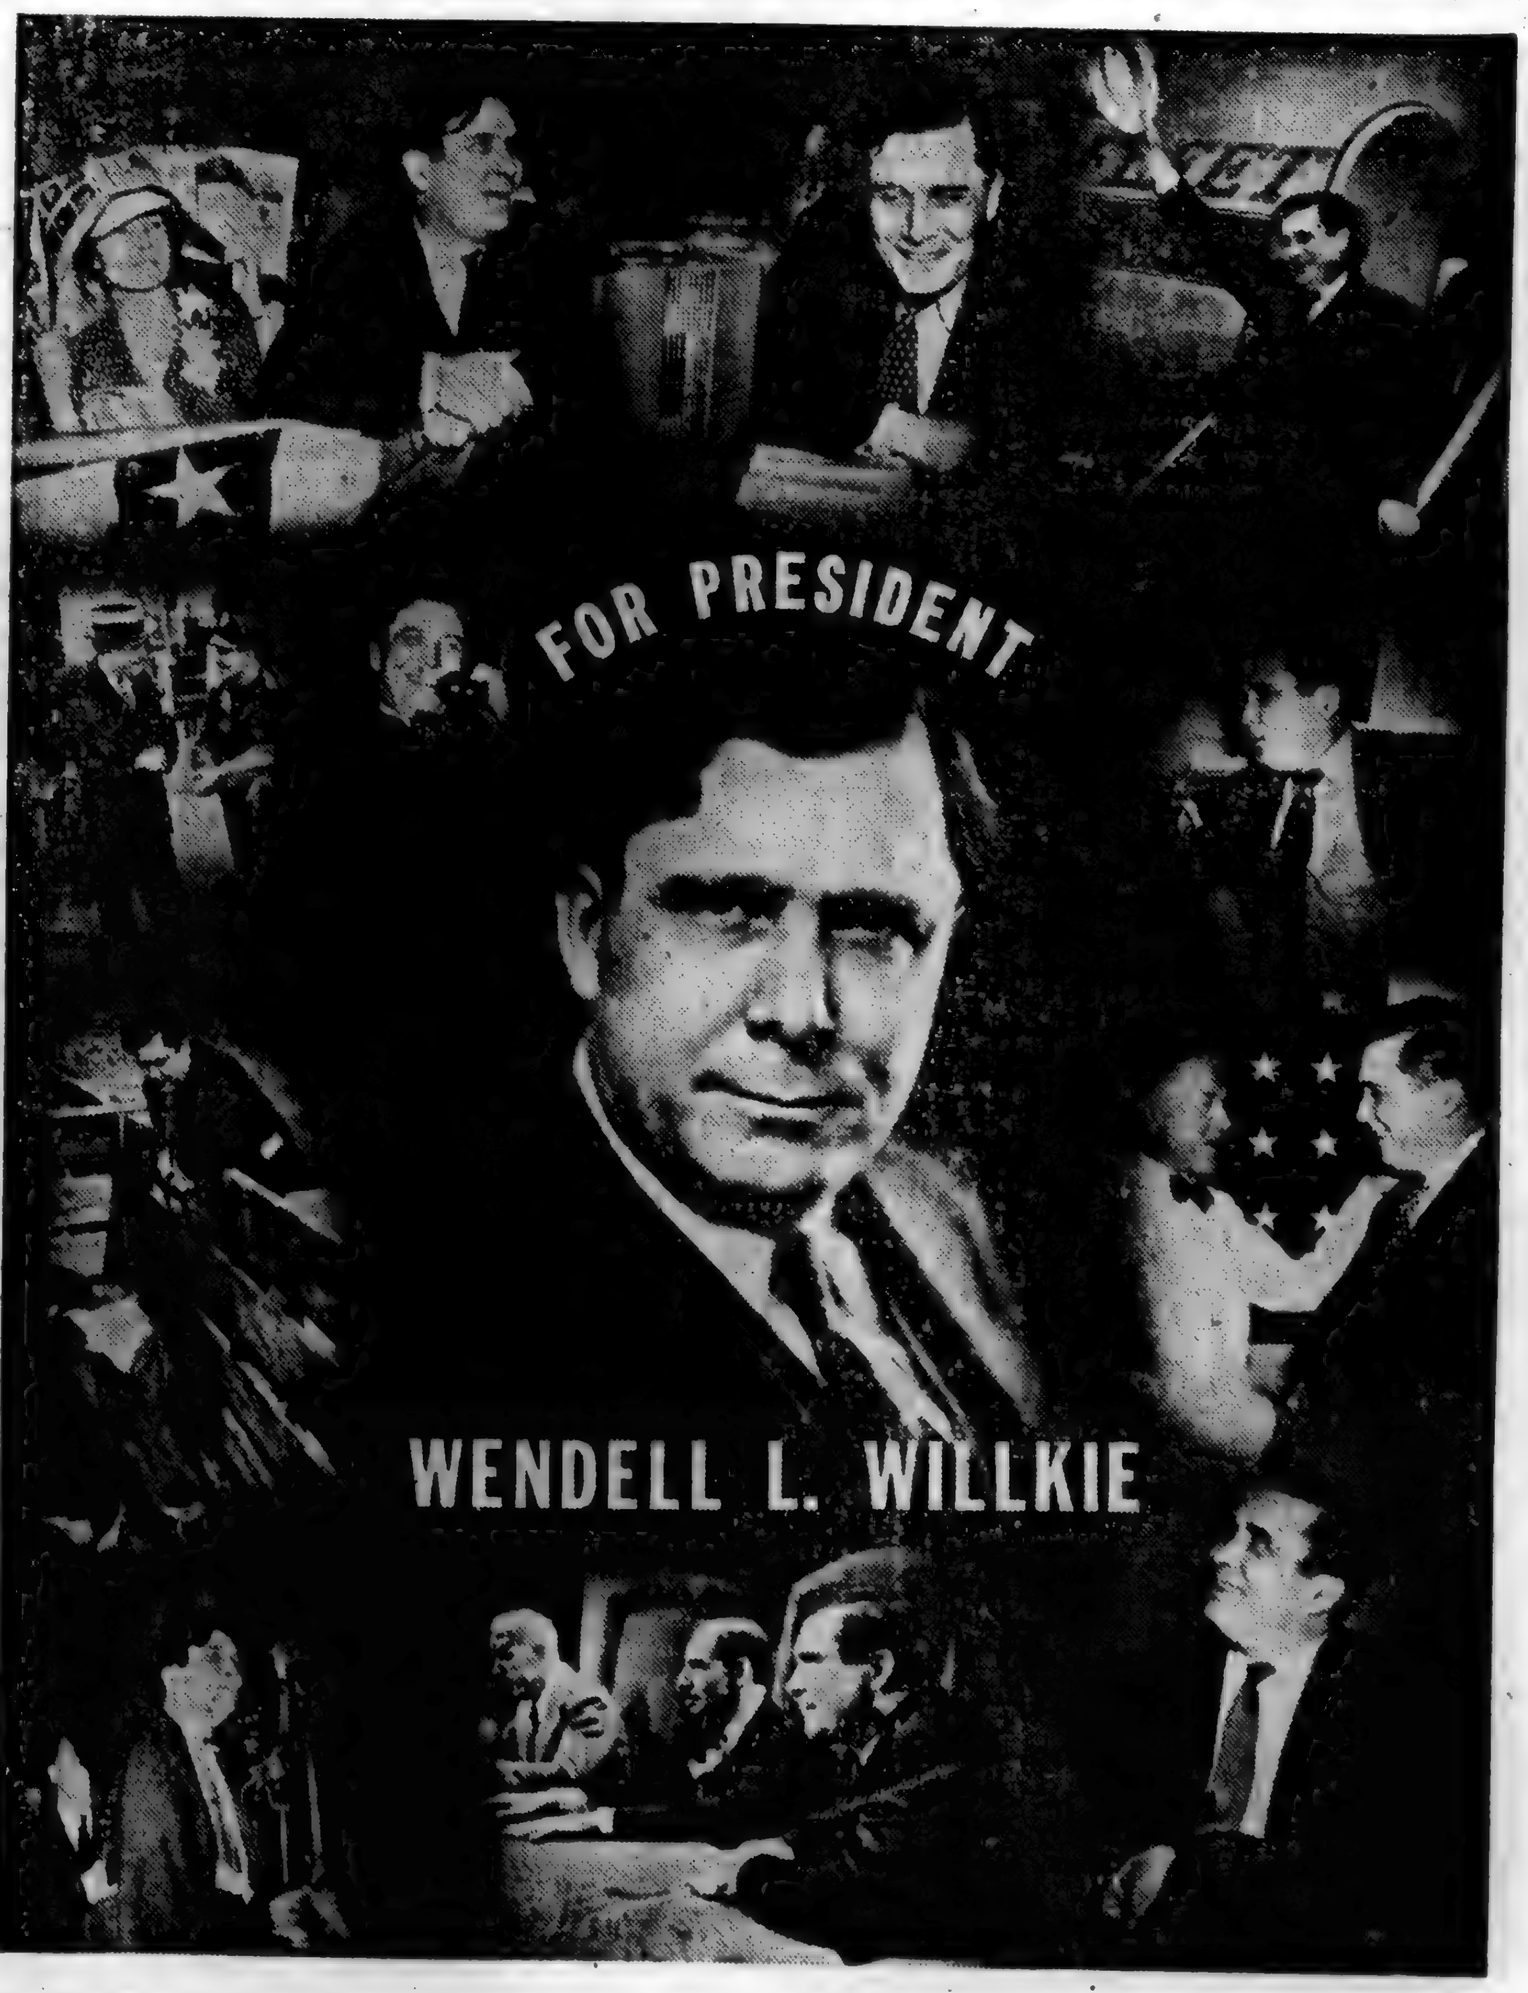
WENDELL WILLKIE MAN OF ACTION

Republican Candidate for President, Like Thomas Jefferson, Has Wide Interests.



In the two and one-half months since his unprecedented and spectacular nomination for the Presidency, by the Republican National Convention, Wendell Willkie has demonstrated to the country his dynamic personality and driving energy as well as his quick and clear mind.

Few men have ever been nominated for the Presidency who have as wide and universal an interest in many fields of endeavor as Wendell Willkie. In that respect he has been compared to Thomas Jefferson who was as well versed in architecture as he was in the law—knew as much about farming as he did about political philosophy.

Born 48 years ago in the small town of Elwood, Indiana, Wendell Willkie was educated for the law. But before he received his degree in that profession, he taught history in the high school at Coffeyville, Kansas; drove a bakery wagon; worked as a barker for a tent hotel in Aberdeen, South Dakota, as a field hand in harvesting wheat in Oklahoma and as a laborer in California. He has labored in steel mills and sugar fields.

Once embarked on the practice of law, Wendell Willkie defended labor unions with his father; enlisted in the army the day this country declared war on Germany in 1917; became a lawyer for a rubber company; and finally went to New York, first as counsel for Commonwealth and Southern Corporation and then, when the sick company needed resuscitation, as its president. Even critical New Dealers always have paid tribute to Willkie's candor, honesty and ability.

Nurtured in a home filled with books, Wendell Willkie throughout his life has been a constant reader of books—all kinds of books. He reads rapidly and, with a photographic-like mind, retains what he has read. He demonstrated his rich background of information on the "Information Please" programs on the air and in motion pictures. He is a qualified authority on English Constitutional history and writes much better than many professional writers. Had he not been a great lawyer, he would have been an outstanding newspaperman.

Though Willkie has sat among the great and learned, he has never lost his touch with his Indiana origin. Though he likes books, he likes people more. He is as much at home in conversation with a truck driver or farm laborer as he is with an industrial tycoon or college President. Typical of the man is the fact that his faith in American agriculture is so great that he placed the savings from his salary in Indiana farm land. Operating these farms on a 50-50 basis with tenants, Willkie now knows as much about farming as he does about law.

Indeed, like the Roman of old, Willkie might say "nothing human is foreign to me." But that thought would never occur to Willkie because he believes that when a man commences to compare himself to a Cicero or Napoleon, people had better look out for him.

what should or should not get into the papers about defense details, but the average reader feels just a little uneasy when he sees page after page of magazine pictures, with accompanying text, relating to fortifications, guns, and other structures upon which we may have to rely if a pinch comes. Probably Europe knows all about these things anyhow, but why run the risk?

While in a fault finding mood, it may be questioned whether the popular "poll" or straw vote accomplishes a good end. Nothing succeeds like success, either existing or promised. Unfortunately, there is a type of mind that prefes to be on what has the appearance of the winning side. Discouragement in the heart often overcomes sound judgment in the head. The desire to dip into the future is natural enough, but as a mass and organized effort, it may be worse than a waste of time.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Receipts of livestock for last week's auction were as follows: Sheep 105 head, hogs 11, milk cows 1, veals 72, including 13 deacon calves, 2 slaughter bulls, 25 young cattle, mostly to go back to the country, and 9 slaughter cattle. Prices were as follows: Hogs 200 to 240, $6.40 to $6.00, 250 to 350, $5.70 to $6.10. Fat sows $5.10 to $5.55 mostly $5.25. Slaughter boars $1.80 to $2.70. Select lambs up to $9.10, bulk at $8.50 to $8.80. Veals made a sparing top of $13.00 with most sales from $12.00 to $12.75. Slaughter bulls $5.50 to $6.60. Slaughter cows, best $5.65 to $5.85. Common mostly $5.00 to $5.50. Good cutter cows $4.40 to $4.50.

Wallace Wrong Again!

Democratic Vice-Presidential Candidate Henry Wallace in his Acceptance speech asserted that during the seven years that President Roosevelt has been in office farm incomes "have been more than doubled." Like so many New Deal statements, that one simply is not true.

Figures supplied by the United States Agricultural Department show that cash income from farm marketings in 1933, the year in which Mr. Roosevelt became President, totaled $5,278,000,000 and that in 1939, the last full year for which we have a report, they were $7,625,000,000. This is an increase, to be sure, but it is NOT MORE THAN DOUBLE.

Of course, it is never fair to compare one year against another unless account is taken of all circumstances. A fair basis of comparison is that of the full seven years of the New Deal and the seven previous years. What does that show in the case of farm income?

Cash farm income for the seven Republican years preceding the New Deal—including the worst years of the depression—averaged $9,046,000,000 a year. The average annual total for the New Deal seven-year period was $7,247,000,000. Annual average income per farm for the 1926-32 period was $1,432 compared with $1,062 for the 1933-39 period. Average annual income per farm person for the Republican period was $298 compared with $228 for the New Deal years. The figures for the New Deal years include benefit payments from the Federal Government.

It is no wonder Henry Wallace devoted most of his speech to the foreign situation!

SELECTIVE SERVICE PLANS BEING RUSHED TO COMPLETION

Selection of local selective service boards and government appeal agents is virtually completed, Governor M. Clifford Townsend announced Saturday.

The Governor's Selection Committee met Wednesday to finish the job of selecting three board members for each county or each 30,000 of the state population, and one governmental appeal agent for each board.

The selection committee, composed of Alex Gordon, legislative repersentative of the Railroad Brotherhoods, Anson Thomas, legislative representative of the Indiana Farm Bureau, C. A. Jackson, executive vice president of the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce, and Raymond R. Townsley, former state commander of the American Legion, has been at work for more than a week.

At the request of Governor Townsend, county clerks submitted six names for each selective service board.

The Selection Committee decided in order to eliminate politics from the selection, that in counties where the clerk was Republican, two Republicans and one Democrat would be chosen. This will be balanced by the appointment of the governmental appeal agent from the minority party in the county.

According to selective service regulations, it is the duty of the governmental appeal agent to represent the government on each local board and to see that the selective principle is properly applied.

"The Selection Committee has based its selections on three principles," Governor Townsend said, "first competence, second, ability to serve, and third, representative of the major interests of the community.

"A general survey of counties now completed reveals that business and professional men, farmers and representatives of organized labor are being adequately represented. Careful attention has been given by county clerks to religious, social and nationality groups within the community."

Counties where local boards have already been completed include: LaGrange, Noble, DeKalb, Whitley, Allen, Huntington, Wells, Adams, Jay, Blackford, Grant, Tipton, Howard, Miami, Fulton, Cass, Carroll, White, Benton, Newton, Jasper, Montgomery, Boone, Hendricks, Wayne, Henry, Hancock, Rush, Shelby, Johnson, Bartholomew, Jennings, Jackson, Monroe, Lawrence, Orange, Crawford, Perry, Dubois, Martin, Daviess, Greene, Owen, Sullivan, Knox, Vanderburgh, Floyd and Switzerland.

Appointments will be made by the President on the recommendations submitted by Governor Townsend.

To Observe Religious Education Week Sept. 29 to Oct. 6, 1940

DeKalb County Council of Christian Education, Children's Division urges the promotion of at least one of the following suggestions from each group:

I. IN THE COMMUNITY:

1. Community Census—Number of children enrolled in Sunday School and number not enrolled.
2. Religious Education Exhibit—Posters or hand work of children in the Church School.

II. IN THE LOCAL CHURCH:

1. "Rally Day."
2. A plan of visitation—Parents to Visit Children's Department.
3. A Parent's Evening.
4. Promotion Service in the Sunday School.
5. A Consecration of Officers and Teachers for the year.
6. A Sunday morning service of worship—Children participating.

III. IN THE HOME:

Family evening in the home. A time of fellowship among the members of the family.

1. Home Dedication.
2. Establishment of movements as regular attendance at Sunday School and Church.
3. Music or Story Evening.
4. The presentation of at least one Children's Bible Story or Devotional or Missionary Book for Children's Library by PARENTS.

The full purpose of Religious Education Week will be realized only as it results in definite forward steps for better religious education in Community, Church and Home. From the very beginning, therefore, the committee responsible for promoting Religious Education Week, should be mindful of the needs in Community, Church and Home. This approach to the program of Religious Education Week suggests that careful consideration will need to be given to the needs of each situation. It impresses the fact that no READY-MADE-PROGRAM can be provided to fit every Community, Church or Home. It is only in the light of the local needs that the forward steps can be selected and program elements determind.

May we have your cooperation in this observance and may our every evort prove a fruitful experience for Your SCHOOL and CHURCH.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Auxiliary Unit Number 283 meets on every second and fourth Tuesday night of each month at 7:30 o'clock in the Legion rooms of the K. of P. Hall in St. Joe.

Preamble

FOR GOD AND COUNTRY, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association during the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, Freedom and Democracy; to participate in and contribute to the accomplishment of the aims and purposes of The American Legion; to consecrate and sanctify our association by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary Member

Membership in the Auxiliary is limited to women who have direct personal connection with World War service through a member of their immediate family who served with the armed forces during the war, or through their own service with the armed forces. By the payment of dues in the local Unit a woman becomes a member in the State and National Organization.

Three Classes of Women Eligible

A. Mothers, wives, sisters or daughters of members of The American Legion.

B. Mothers, wives, sisters or daughters of men and women who were in the military or naval service of the United States between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, and who died in line of duty or honorable discharge.

C. Women who of their own right are eligible to membership in The American Legion.

This is the time of year we must get our membership up to our quota. The Auxiliary has a splendid program for the year 1940-'41, along with a fine list of officers to lead in this program.

VOLUNTEERS TO ENLIST UNDER GILLIE BANNER

Plans for a district-wide oragnization of "Gillie Volunteers," to promote the re-election of Congressman George W. Gillie, were being formulated this week by friends of the Congressman in the Fourth District.

Several thousand Gillie supporters, in every section of the District, are expected to enlist as volunteers under the banner of Congressman Gillie, who has been unable to conduct his usual active campaign, due to the extended session of Congress.

Leaders of the Volunteer movement, who are establishing headquarters in Fort Wayne, revealed that the purpose of the organization will be "to look after the interests of Congressman Gillie, who has so faithfully and conscientiously attended to the interests of his constituents in Washington."

Volunteer pledge cards, windshield stickers and campaign literature are being printed and will be sent out next week to several friends of Congressman Gillie, who will be invited to enlist the support of at least three of their neighbors.

Cards and literature may be obtained by writing to: Headquarters, the Gillie Volunteers, 421 Standard Building, Fort Wayne. They also will be available through Republican precinct committeemen.

Volunteers will not be organized into clubs, as they were in Congressman Gillie's successful campaign of 1938, but will operate independently in their home and neighborhoods, among friends and associates.

Congressman Gillie, who was elected to Congress two years ago by one of the largest majorities in the history of the District, has indicated that he does not intend to establish a formal campaign organization.

He has stated that he believes Congress should remain in session "so long as there is any danger of our involvement in the European War, or any emergency in our national defense."

MARK A HALF CENTURY OF MARRIED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Kees celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Sunday, September 22, 1940 at the home of their son, Leon, in St. Joe. They have been residents of St. Joe most of their adult life. Mr. Kees was employed by the Standard Oil Co. for nearly thirty years, retiring at the age of 65 years. Mrs. Kees was a teacher in the public schools. Their entire religious activities have been with the Church of Christ.

Sunday at twelve thirty, Mr. and Mrs. Kees were met at their car by a photographer from Auburn, and greeted by dinner guests, her sister, Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, and husband, their minister, Mr. Richard L. Key and family, their niece, Mrs. Minerva Sines, of Garrett, and their son and family.

The table was set with crystal, silver, white china, garden flowers and a huge golden wedding cake marked their anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Kees received many beautiful cards, telegrams, floral pieces and gifts. They both possess a charming personality and the entire community appreciate their associations. Guests at open house were:

Mr. and Mrs. George Klopfenstein, of Spencerville; Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, of Hicksville, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. William Chorpenning, Robert and Marion Rink, and Mrs. Joe Grover, of Auburn; Mrs. Perry Sines, and Mr. Edward McCann, of Garrett; Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Grover, of Albion; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Devitt, Moores; Mrs. I. Maggert, Miss Laurabelle Maggert, Mr. William Maggert and Miss Varner, of Butler; Charles Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni, Mrs. Anna Hursey, and Nelda Kees, of St. Joe.

PUBLIC ASSISTANCE RECORD FOR AUGUST

Public assistance statistics for the month of August released today by the state welfare department show that 1,399 cases were opened and 1,146 were closed by state and county departments of public welfare. Total number of public assistance cases at the end of August was 80,992.

The welfare department announced that 768 old age assistance cases, 350 aid to dependent children cases and 28 blind assistance cases were closed during August. In 314 cases, assistance was withdrawn because the recipient or some responsive relative became abel to support, or because other income was made available.

In August, 66,466 persons received an average of $17.91 each in old age assistance payments. An average of $28.27 was paid to 17,386 aid to dependent children cases and an average of $20.39 was paid 2,404 blind assistance recipients during August, the welfare department announced.

Public assistance cases opened during August included 960 old age assistance, 417 aid to dependent children and 22 blind assistance cases. Total amount of public assistance paid out in August by the welfare department was $1,730,766.70. Of this total 48.9 per cent was paid with federal funds, 31.2 per cent with state funds and 19.9 per cent from county funds.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES SIZE PLAN POPULAR

It is evident that Hoosier parents are interested in the New Sizing Plan for Children's Clothes as portrayed by the Home Economics Extension Exhibit of Purdue University at the recent Indiana State Fair. In a period of four days 820 persons signed, indicating a desire for more information on the new sizing plan. Mothers and fathers are not the only ones interested as many who signed indicated they were grandmothers, aunts, and uncles. Thirty-five persons signed from out of the state and represented neighboring states of Illinois and Ohio to more distant states of West Virginia, Tennessee, Missouri, Louisiana, and Connecticut.

Manufacturers of children's clothes, wholesale and retail merchants, buyers of children's clothes, teachers and other professional workers were vitally interested and expressed a hope that the new plan would soon be out into effect.

According to the new proposed plan, based on the study conducted by the "Bureau of Home Economics," children's clothes and patterns will be purchased by measurement rather than by the present inaccurate age size. All one will need to know is the height and hip measurement of the child. Clothes may be ordered by mail, or sent to far away nephews, nieces, or grandchildren with assurance of a correct fit. Mothers will greatly appreciate not having to take small children on tiresome shopping trips.

With the present system merchants are burdened by the heavy cost of returning children's clothes. It is estimated that the annual cost to the merchant is $10,000,000—a sum worthy of consideration.

Buying by measurement rather than by age is a practical and sensible method. Mothers are asking, why hasn't this been done before and when will it be possible to buy clothes made according to the new sizes? The new sizing plan is not yet in wide use but some of the leading manufacturers are working on the idea so that results may be expected soon. In the meantime, it is now possible to find children's clothes labeled with length of garment and chest measurement—a step in the direction of the new sizing plan.

McNARY OFFERS SOUND PROGRESSIVE IDEAS

Senator Charles L. McNary, the Republican nominee for Vice President, demonstrated in his Acceptance Speech that he remains a symbol of the pioneering West, believing in progressive but sound ideas of government.

The Oregonian gave the New Deal credit for trying—but, as he pointed out so forcefully, it has failed to achieve its objectives because of a lack of capacity to govern and because of its "political and economic heresies which have deflected us from our course."

Speaking of the farm problem, Senator McNary asserted that "the prosperity of agriculture should be the first charge on the attention of any administration." Those who have followed his career as a battler for the farmer during the last 23 years in the Senate know that Charles McNary speaks with sincerity on that subject.

"The New Deal has administered the farm problem for more than seven years," Senator McNary asserted. "What is the present state of the American farmer, who, with his dependents, makes up a quarter of our population? In the year 1939 his share of the national income was the lowest since statistics have been kept."

Senator McNary strongly advocates preserving the American market for the American farmer, believing it is "far and away the greatest market" and the "only one we can hope to control."

Indirect Taxes

The Northwestern National Life Insurance Company finds that families with a monthly income of $80 pay an average of $116.04 a year in indirect or so-called hidden taxes. This is about 12 per cent of the average income. Who said only the big fellows pay taxes?

CHAIRMEN SEE VICTORY AHEAD

Morris, Bobbitt Impressed By Prospects for G.O.P. Success In Counties.

INDIANAPOLIS — Comments by Ernest M. Morris, of South Bend, Republican national committeeman for Indiana, and Arch N. Bobbitt, Republican State Committee Chairman, on reports made by county G.O.P. chairmen throughout the state in a meeting here, reflect the happy, victory-confident attitude that characterized the meeting.

"The biggest thing that is happening to the chairmen," said Mr. Bobbitt, "is the help they are going to get from the Democrats who are indicating their votes will be anti-New Deal this fall. We lost the 1938 election by such a small margin that the county chairmen can't see how we possibly could lose this one. In one county alone, known desertions from the New Deal ranks are enough to change the whole complexion of the last election."

"Certainty of success lies in the wonderful reports brought in by the Republican vice-chairmen," Mr. Morris observed. "Thousands of women in this state are fed up on meager wages and short term jobs. It is they who have had to meet the bills with meager and uncertain pay envelopes. . . . When women start changing things they really change them. Watch the women's vote this fall."

FRIENDS RALLY TO SUPPORT OF GONG. GILLIE

The volunteer movement to keep Congressman George W. Gillie in the House of Representatives gained headway this week as leaders announced that "Gillie Volunteers" are being recruited, in every county in the Fourth District, at a rate of several hundred a day.

The movement has been organized by friends of Congressman Gillie, to promote his candidacy for re-election November 5th. It was started after it appeared likely that the Congressman would be unable to campaign in his own behalf due to the extended session of Congress.

Several thousand pledge cards are being mailed to supporters of the Fourth District Congressman, who in turn are being asked to solicit the support of their friends. The pledge reads as follows:

"Believing that in George W. Gillie the Fourth District has a Congressman of proven honesty, exceptional courage and sound judgment—whose devotion to duty and faith in the American way of life are beyond question—I pledge my unqualified support of his candidacy for re-election."

Leaders of the movement pointed out that Congressman Gillie has been unselfish and patriotic in urging that Congress remain in session during the political campaign, to prevent involvement of the United States in the European War.

"Congressman Gillie has volunteered his services in Washington for the duration of the crisis," they declared. "The least that his friends in Indiana can do is to volunteer their services in behalf of his candidacy for re-election.

"We have a good Congressman—A Congressman we can all be proud of. Let's keep him!"

Pledge cards and other Gillie campaign literature may be obtained by writing to: Headquarters, the Gillie Volunteers, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

PARTY AND SHOWER GIVEN NEWLYWEDS

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cobler, of Jackson Township, were the guests of honor at a party Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Fisher west of Concord on the Shilling road. Nearly forty neighbors presented the newlyweds with a shower of miscellaneous gifts.

The gifts were arranged on the dining room table, which was centered with a tiny replica of an altar with the miniature bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Cobler received many lovely gifts.

At the close of the social evening refreshments of various kinds of sandwiches, ice cream, cake, mints and coffee were served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cobler of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Baker and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Swander and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Springer, Mr. and Mrs. Wagner and children, Mrs. Martin Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mitchener and children, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shilling, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stemen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Murphy, parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. John Cobler, parents of the groom, the host and hostess, and the honor guests.

Mrs. Cobler, who for the past four years has been working at Fort Wayne, was also given a beautiful linen shower by her many friends at that place.

CONCORD HOME BUREAU

Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick was hostess to the ladies of Home Bureau for September meeting. A short business session was held. $1.00 was voted to Salvation Army. They also voted to accept an invitation to the Central Sugar Company at Decatur, October 9.

Roll call responses, styles. Project lesson was given by Minnie Ulm and Mabel Weikel. A talk on construction of dresses, and display of pockets and zipper. A debate, resolved a scolding, ambitious wife is more help to the farmer than a lazy good natured one. Affirmative, Fern Draggo and Mary Krise. Negative, Gertrude Borthwick and Laura Washler, each side claimed victory and was very amusing.

County President, Ida K. Miller, was present and talked on different projects in her usual pleasing manner. Josephine Kees, Katie Storer, Katherine Haller, had charge of the entertainment, they conducted different contests which added to the afternoon's enjoyment. Vada Wyatt gave a short comic story. The hostess, assisted by her committee served tasty refreshments. The October meeting will be with Mrs. Clara Sible.

POSTERS ARE PLACED

Posters provided by the Messenger Corporation for The Rural-Go-To-Church Movement were placed in all of the rural churches of DeKalb County on last Sunday. Following this placing of the posters in the churches the township chairmen placed them in the various schools and strategic business places throughout the county. The heart of the poster is W. E. Sallman's painting of the head of Christ. This painting is in color and underneath are the words with which the Christ would challenge the loyalty of today, "I am the way, the truth, and the life."

By this poster each passer-by will be invited to be in church next Sunday. On this next Sunday, October Sixth, each one of the churches of DeKalb County will take part in a World-Wide Observance of the Holy Communion. Each Christian is ask to be in their place of worship on that day and to fellowship with their brethren around the world in the Sacrament which keeps fresh in the heart the Atonement of God on Calvary for a sinning world. Locally Rev. Richard Key of Concord Township and Rev. Frank Stevenson for Spencer Township are pushing the campaign to make October an outstanding month in the experience of the people of this community.

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

Mr. Allen Haller was host to the members of the Freshman Class of St. Joe High School at a campfire party held at his home last Friday evening. An exciting scavenger hunt, which ended in a tie, furnished the chief entertainment for the evening. This was followed by a weiner bake after which salad and dessert was served.

Besides the members of the class, guests present were Mrs. Florence Husted, Mr. Dale Wicoff, Miss Lucille Leffel, Mr. Leslie Wilbern, and the Feshman sponsor, Miss Avonelle Kohler.

The last base ball game of the 1940 season was played with Ashley H. S. on the Waterolo diamond, the ball field at Ashley being under water. Though the local boys played heads-up ball, the score at the close of the game was 9-8 in favor of Ashley. After trailing most of the game, St. Joe tied the score in the seventh, sending the game into extra innings. St. Joe scored one run in their half of the eighth, only to have Ashley bring in two men, winning the game.

POOR DEAR EDGAR, a three act comedy was selected by the Juniors as their class play. Try-outs will begin this week. Miss Lucille Leffel will direct the play.

About thirty boys appeared in the gym Monday evening for the first basketball practice of the season.

RELIGION TO BE BUT TO THE FORE

It is to be noted that men of prominence, writers, teachers, business men, law-enforcement leaders and leaders in all fields, political and social, have been urging that a spiritual recrudescence is the most needed thing in America. Babson, the forecaster of business conditions, has long urged this thought. Hoover, head of the F. B. I., has said again and again that the church, the Bible School and religious homes are the only final cure for the crime wave, especially among the young people. The same thought has been presented in the secular papers and magazines from all sections, as well as in religious journals.

The thought of the promoters of the North American Christian Convention is that it is high time to make a practical move along this line. Their purpose aims at a restoration of the faith, zeal and fire that marked the early Christian church.

To that end they are calling on the ten thousand Christian churches and the seven thousand ministers of the brotherhood of the disciples to assemble at Indianapolis, October 9-13, for a great mass meeting, to set a backfire against the forces that have devitalized the Christian energies, and sterilized the power of the message of the Bible.

They are convinced that a far overemphasis has been put on thoughts of war, politics and a desire for physical social-betterment to the obscuration of the fact that after all, the spiritual morale of a people is the surest mark of vitality that will cause them to survive individually and as a nation. A godless nation quickly becomes a helpless nation. This is the thought that the North American Christian Convention proposes to stress from first to last.

P. H. Welshimer, president of the convention, reports that replies from every state indicate a most unusually enthusiastic response and an unprecedented attendance.

CAMPAIGN TOUR OPENS AT ST. JOE, OCTOBER 7

A series of free motion picture Shows will be given in DeKalb County next week, beginning at St. Joe on Monday evening, Oct. 7. The motion pictures will be shown in the high school auditorium starting at 7:30 o'clock. The St. Joe high school band will furnish music playing on the down town street at 7:00 and then marching to the gym where several pieces will be played at the opening of the program.

The other dates are as follows:

Butler high school auditorium Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, so as to be through in time for the drawing. The Butler high school band will play.

Waterloo town hall Wednesday evening at 7:30, when the high school band will furnish the music.

Auburn Thursday at 3 P. M., matinee in Republican headquarters and and Fairfield community hall at 7:30 in the evening.

The films include a one-reel picture entitled, "The Truth About Taxes." Another reel is entitled "Willkie and McNary Know Their Farming." In addition to these reels there will be a picture of Ray Willis, Republican candidate for United States Senator, presenting him as a small town editor and how he lives in his own home. It will show him at work in his office, where he writes editorials for his newspaper and his association with people of his home town.

Glenn R. Hillis, Kokomo lawyer and candidate for governor, will be shown visiting his farm, meeting people in his own community in the transaction of business and many interesting features of his everyday life.

The film "The Truth About Taxes" takes as its theme President Roosevelt's 1932 declaration that "taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who albors" and undertakes to demonstrate that exeryone is being taxed to pay for the reckless spending, bureaucracy and waste of the New Deal. "Willkie-McNary Know Their Farming" shows Wendell Willkie and Senator McNary visiting their respective farms in Indiana and Oregon.

As a climax to the motion pictures as above outlined there will be a comedy reel that will be entertaining to all ages, and the public is invited to attend any or all of these showings.

Other meetings that have been scheduled by the DeKalb County Central Committee for DeKalb County will be as follows:

Dr. C. T. Malan, of Terre Haute, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction at Butler on the evening of October 18.

Richard T. James, of Portland, candidate for auditor of state, at Garrett in the city hall on the evening of October 19th.

Mrs. Clarence Benadum, of Muncie, will address a woman's meeting at Auburn on the evening of Oct. 25 at the court house at 8 o'clock.

James Tucker, secretary of state, and a candidate for re-election, will be the speaker at torch light rally at the assembly room in the court house at Auburn on Monday night, October 30. The Tucker meeting will be made a county-wide rally.

Max Dressel and Clare Coburn were really successful fishermen Sunday. When they returned from Crooked Lake they had a 6-pound pike, and were the boys proud.

YOUNG FOLKS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warstler, who were recently married at the Ivan Hollinger home, figured in a serious auto accident Sunday, near Kimmell, being struck in the center by a car coming from a side road. The Warstler car was shoved into the ditch, upsetting and landing in a corn field. The car was a wreck and Mrs. Warstler was badly bruised so that she is in bed and the physician calliny. The young couple are making their home at Hollinger's.

Reelect SENATOR MINTON in 1940

Another example of New Deal "efficiency" is being provided Indiana voters in an inexpensive (to him) campaign procedure on the part of United States Senator Sherman Minton. In franked mail (which means the postal department handles it at the taxpayers' expense) and on the letterheads provided by the United States government, there appears an imprinted appeal for re-election carried on correspondence to the folks "back home." No information has been obtained as to whether one of the letters went to "Dear General St. Clair." A reproduction of one of the imprints appears above. The imprint says, "Re-elect Sherman Minton in 1940."

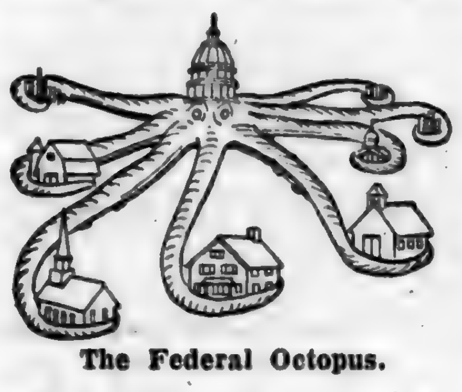
WENDELL WILLKIE Says:

"The time has now come to re assert the principles of a limited federal government, because if this trend is not stopped the people will lose the powers that the Constitution gave them. They will lose them to an all-powerful central government."



The Federal Octopus.

There are some folks in St. Joe who want to know if they will be helping themselves when they set out to help the other fellow.

It looks as though the consumer of coal has to do about as much digging to get it as the miner.

It often happens that a woman without a heart manages to marry a man without a head.

Why is it that a liar always expects the truth from the other fellow?

Now you can decide whether to eat a breakfast food that champions eat, or stick to your bacon and eggs.

Some people find it easy to follow the crowd, if the crowd happens to be going the wrong way.

When a fellow says he is "going to let you in on something," be sure you know where the exit sign hangs before you listen.

You won't find many folks in this community today who believe you can get something for nothing.

They may be going back a bit in style but you don't see anybody dusting off the old family album and putting it in the living room.

Sunday used to be a day of rest and today you rest the other six to be ready for Sunday.

There would be a lot of folks mad, if one driver could hear what the other driver said about him.

We wonder if a man has ever lived who could be president and do everything that would be right to all the people.

With all the war propaganda and the tall amount of lying going on over there, it is going to be hard to write new history books.

A BIT UNUSUAL

It looked as though Sweden was going to call off the national election due to the present crises but finally decided that because of the war situation the election should be held. There is an interesting note we might remember, here in the United States, concerning the Swedish election which their statesmen and politicians felt was needed at this time. Eliminated harassing and haranguing, shouts and abuses, mud-slinging and violent demonstrations during the campaign, for this was to be a "gentlemen's bout" and the issues must be brought before the people in orderly and helpful fashion. The sides must give constructive suggestions, intelligent reasons and have objectives to offer to the voter. They asked that this election be a demonstration of proper and respectful procedure. Not a bad idea for us to try it sometime here in our country.

WALKING TICKETS

A subscriber speaks of a city that is considering issuing tickets to pedestrians who violate the traffic laws. He thought it wasn't such a bad idea for the problem of the law-violating pedestrian has figured in many an accident. Perhaps we do not stress the need of the observance of the pedestrian as much as we write of the carelessness of the motorist. We rely on the law to punish the driver and too often the walker who figured in the story gets by! They complain of jaywalkers in the cities and towns where traffic isn't so heavy it doesn't seem to be such a problem. One motorist said there were more pedestrians violating traffic light laws than auto drivers. Perhaps he is right. Even though the city fathers of St. Joe don't hand out tickets for walkers who disobey the laws we can at least try to satisfy the complaint of the motorist.

SO ALL MAY KNOW

You can't blame a man for being sceptical about politics being able to pull strings when it comes to choosing and selecting among many individuals. In has been hinted that this would be true in the conscription listings in October. We are glad to learn from the source at Washington, that the entire draft proceedings will be done in the open with every sort of publicity given the lists of draftees. Names will be posted at registering quarters in home town newspapers. Any person who wishes to challenge a decision or to question any selection may be free to do so. They promise no favoritism or political strings and this will be possible due to the publicity thrown on each name. Here in this county we welcome open tactics and the basis of equality.

THE MACHINE AGE—MORE JOBS

The machine age started on the day one of our ancestors picked up a club to kill an animal for his dinner. Up to that time he had always used his hands. Then, through a fortunate and perhaps accidental use of his brain powers, he found himself in possession of a new tool—a club—which made the business of acquiring a living ten-fold easier.

With this as a start, man kept adding to his collection of tools. Some made his work easier, some made his pleasure more enjoyable, some increased his prowess in battle. Wars and famines and bad government interfered with progress, but gradually men were able to put their brains to more and more work and their muscles to less and less.

When Watt discovered the steam engine a little more than one hundred and fifty years ago, a whole new set of tools was made possible. Men were able to make familiar goods in larger quantities and they also found it possible to make a lot of things they never had before—luxuries they called them. although they are common enough now.

All of this didn't take place without a lot of argument. Whenever one machine was set up to do the work of two men, the extra man figured that someone was trying to do him out of a living. What he didn't realize was that when the rest of the people found out that goods were easier to get and could be had for lower prices, he would get a job running a machine himself, making more goods to meet the demand.

We had scarcely learned to use the tools that steam had made possible when electricity came along. Man had a new servant, a new substitute for his muscles. Jobs were multiplied, new high standards of living were established and industry thrived. All because we found ourselves able to make more things for more people in less time and at lower prices.

The demand for more luxuries, more convieniences and more comforts will never cease. Before we shall be able to make all the goods the world wants and needs, we shall have to have many more machines and many more persons to run them. As Charles F. Kettering of General Motors phrases it, "The world isn't finished—at least not in America. So long as we continue to hold fast to the American system of industry that has brought us so many benefits we can look for more developments, better developments and NEW developments that will mean lasting benefits for all."

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

Congress of late has busied itself mostly with useful but not spectacular affairs, and has done nothing startling. It would be unreasonable to expect that body to put on a continuous performance of high pressure legislation.

One of its more important actions consisted in the House approval of a bill carrying an appropriation of a billion and a half in the interest of defense in general and perfection of the conscription program in particular. It is expected that July will see a million and a half of the rank and file, and about seventy-five thousand officers, in the field for training.

Other matters that merit notice include the passage of the Ramspeck bill by the Senate. Under its terms, more than two hundred thousand government employees will be made subject to the Civil Service, through non-competitive examination. Thus they will enter a quiet haven where political storms never beat, and tenure of a job is reasonably certain, so long as they behave themselves and their services are needed.

A minor note, but of consequence nonetheless, is that the House has appropriated funds for the extension of the work of the Dies committee. It may be observed that money might be spent in a far less profitable way than in finding out who wants the country to be communized or Hitlerized, and when, and where and how.

A junk dealer's yard presents a picturesque appearance, but it may become an eyesore to the neighborhood. Tinkers and home mechanics find it a convenient mart. So far as junk is concerned, the Japanese just now are not interested in it, viewed relatively to local color, civic virtue or mending the kitchen stove. Doctor Necessity has prescribed iron as something needed in the national life blood of Japan, and his instructions are not to be treated lightly. Thus it comes about that when President Roosevelt closed the supply source of the badly needed medicine, the Asiatic patient showed signs of a relapse.

The proposal to stop the trans-Pacific flow of metal scrap is not new. When the matter was last up for consideration, the commodity was plentiful, and the attitude was, that since there was a good supply both in the United States and elsewhere, there was no reason why we should not be polite to a junk minded customer. The war in Europe has practically put an end to scrap exports to Japan, saving from the United States. Uncle Sam at present is in a position to give tangible expression to his sympathy for both England and China.

With few exceptions, newspaper readers were pleased to note the picking up of a boat from the torpedoed City of Bernares, with its human cargo of forty-five. The British report is that part of them "seemed to be in a rather bad way," which appears likely in view of nine days of hunger and thirst, at the mercy of the sea. We should not, however, content ourselves with a joke about the way the English express themselves. That the survivors should have been described merely as being "in a rather bad way," indicates the desire of Britain neither to parade her woes nor magnify her troubles.

Many a motorist has seen New England ponds filled with floating logs, in places where there was no sign of a lumber industry. They are dismal relics of a tornado which scourged the region two years ago. A kindly government put the timber in merchantable form and stored it in the logical and customary way.

When reference is made to national defense, one naturally thinks of air bases, ships capable of being cleared quickly for action, long guns with their noses pointed skyward, and soldiers aplenty. The logs would be likely to be forgotten by the civilian, yet the military authorities see potentialities in them, and have bought ten million dollars worth.

Almost anything has a value for defense, broadly considered. It's handy to have a friend when the hurricane strikes. Make a second inspection before throwing away something that looks as though it were no good. Such is the week day sermon which can be preached with the logs as a text.

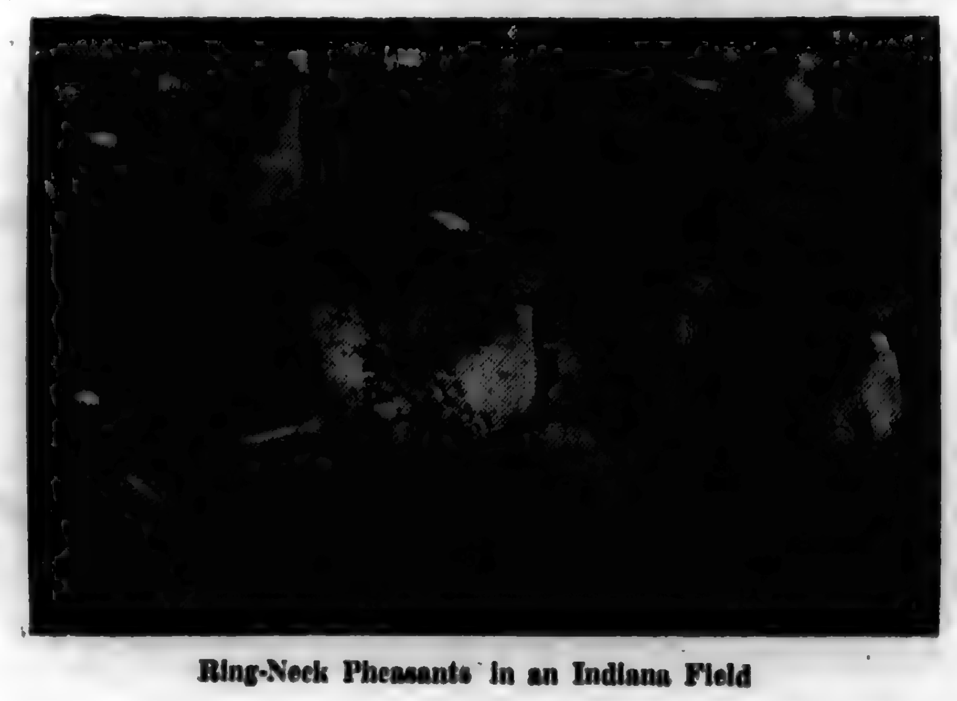
Nine Days of Pheasant Hunting In Store for Indiana Sportsmen



Ring-Neck Pheasants in an Indiana Field

Nine days of pheasant hunting for Hoosier sportsmen with a bag limit permitting the taking of one hen bird, has been announced by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation. This is the longest open season on pheasants that Indiana has had and the first time that the taking of hen pheasants has been permitted.

While the established open season is from November 10 to 20—both dates inclusive—Indiana statutes prohibit hunting with firearms on Sunday, eliminating Sunday, November 10 and November 17 from the open season for all but bow-and-arrow hunting. The open season includes one holiday, Armistice Day on November 11, and one weekend this year, giving more sportsmen an opportunity to participate in pheasant hunting. The open season on quail, rabbits and Hungarian partridge also begins November 10.

Adding three days to the open season on pheasants and changing the bag limit from two cock birds a day and to two pheasants one of which may be a hen was due to an investigation by the Division of Fish and Game which indicated that pheasants were sufficiently well established in Indiana to permit the longer shooting period and amending the bag limit to include one hen pheasant. The changes were approved by the State Conservation Advisory Committee and have been officially promulgated as provided by the Acts of the General Assembly.

The official proclamation sets out November 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 as the open season, establishes a daily bag limit of "two birds, one of which may be a hen," and a possessnion limit of "four birds, two of which may be hens."

Pheasant hunting, developed in Indiana by the Division of Fish and Game to supplement the quail hunting, has become a major field sport for Hoosiers and is attracting many sportsmen from other states. The work of the conservation clubs in operating electric brooders and rearing both quail and pheasants for liberation, supplements the stocking done by the Department of Conservation and has contributed much to the annual improvement of Indiana's hunting.

STATE-WIDE RALLY AT FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

Gerald L. K. Smith, national chairman of the "Committee of 1,000,000," will be the principal speaker at a state-wide rally of the Committee to be held at Fort Wayne in the Shrine Theatre, 411 W. Berry, on Monday night, October 7, at 8 P. M.

Mr. Smith is the nationally-known radio crusader. He has been especially active in supporting the Dies committee and in fighting Nazism and Communism.

Recently he filed a petition with the United States Senate supporting the opinions of the Committee. These petitions were presented by United States Senator Arthur Vandenberg and contain 1,200,000 names.

Some recent thieving has been going on in this community. Mrs. George Tustison reports losing three dresses and a suede jacket containing $3.50 was taken from the Ned Shull car parked at the barn, and he was working in the field. No trace has been found.

Indiana has been allotted tentatively $6,997,000 for airport construction and expansion in a projected $521,000,000 civil airport program over the next few years, as announced by the Civil Aeronautics board. Auburn will receive an allotment of $10,000 from this fund.

Quarterly gasoline taxes totaling $7,393,885.01 were distributed Tuesday to Hoosier cities and counties as their share of the state's income from gasoline sales during the past quarter, Frank G. Thompson, state auditor, announced at Indianapolis. He said the distribution would be the last this year. The money increases the total distribution for the past four quarters to $33,651,687.95, he said.

Alfred E. Smith, in addressing the Democrats-for-Willkie Club in Brookly, last week said: "I know it requires courage and fortitude for you to stand out against the colossus of the new deal. We Democrats who believe in the principles of Jefferson, Cleveland and Wilson typifies these fundamentals and that the whole feature of our American system of democracy is in danger."

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Miss Audrey J. Farver, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Farver of Auburn, to Robert W. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith of Fort Wayne. The wedding took place October 7, 1939, at the First Methodist Church at Centerville, Indiana, with Rev. I. L. Pusey officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Moore of Decatur, attended the couple. Mrs. Smith graduated from Spencerville high school in 1936 and Mr. Smith graduated from the Huntertown high school in 1932.

Sale of marriage licenses at Fort Wayne, which reached a new all-time high for August last month with 211 permits to marry issued, slumped in September after the passage of the peace-time conscription law. Sale of licenses continued heavy the first part of September but dropped off sharply after the draft act became a law, only 184 permits being issued for the month ending Monday. Many couples frankly admitted that they were speeding up their marriage plans in the hope that the bridegroom would not be taken in the draft because he was a married man.

An average of 51 accidents per day on the ten thousand miles of state highways, including state maintained routes through cities and towns, was recorded during July and August when traffic volume is at a peak, T. A. Dicus, chairman of the State Highway Commission stated. One of the interesting features of the study was the fact that 1,082 of the accidents, approximately one-third of the total occurred on the 400 miles of highway routes which were maintained through cities of over 3,500 population. On state highways outside this group of cities there was an average of one accident to 4.6 miles of road during the two months against an average of two and one-half accidents per mile of city streets.

The B. & O. will begin next week painting the Bear Creek and St. Joe River bridges.

A total of 1060 pheasants were released in DeKalb County by the Conservation clubs, all raised from baby chicks furnished by the state.

Mrs. Loretta Hull and F. B. Leighty and wife attended the Hillsdale Fair, Friday and called on relatives there and in the Floyd Frank home near Montgomery.

Wheat sowing over the county has been going on and in some places it is reported that some of the early sown wheat is up and making good growth. Farmers are well along with their fall work. Corn cutting has progressed well and corn husking will be started in the near future.

Overflow crowds attended the dinner and rally of the Democrats of the county at Auburn, Monday evening, when Gov. M. Clifford Townsend was the headline speaker, makng a plea for the return of the New Deal power in November. Having spoken in DeKalb County several times on farm bueran matters, he drew a wide circle of farmer attendance.

Mrs. H. G. Hursh and Mr. M. H. Andress accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt and daughter, Carroll Sue, to Hudson, Michigan, Saturday, where they took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller. In the afternoon Mrs. Miller went to Detroit with her guests where they all remained over Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Furnish.

Funeral services for Mrs. Latha Mildred Goldsmith, 29, former resident of St. Joe, who died Wednesday night of last week of carcinoma at her home in Alvarado in Steuben County, were held Friday at the Kinsey funeral home in St. Joe. Rev. Frank Stevenson officiated and burial was made in the St. Joe K. of P. Cemetery. Surviving are her husband, William Goldsmith; her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Dermott, of Kalamazoo, Michigan, and one brother, Howard Dermott, of Detroit.

Women's Republican clubs have been organized in all sections of DeKalb County, Mrs. Mabel Lyons, vice chairman of the DeKalb County central committee, announced Tuesday. There are five culbs in all, each being organized under the supervision of Mrs. Lyons. Mrs. Princess Rectenwall, of Spencerville, is the president of the Women's Republican club of Spencer, Concord and Newville Townships which was the last of the five clubs to be instituted. Other officers are Mrs. Lora Leighty, of Concord Township, vice president; Mrs. Audrey Wade, of Spencer Township, secretary, and Mrs. Blen Moore, of Newville Township, treasurer. Officers were elected last Saturday at meeting at the Spencerville town hall. The next meeting will be held Monday October 7, at St. Joe in the gym.

A GAME

Have a girl in the party dressed in every piece of clothing she can possibly don. Add a hat, an umbrella, scarf, jewelry, furs, overshoes, veil, gloves, etc., to what clothing she already has on. Have her walk in front of the guests a few times then leave the room. Give each guest a pencil and paper and have him list as many things as he can remember her as wearing. Give a prize for the most correct list.

'NO WAR' IS WILLKIE PLEDGE TO NATION

Addressing an audience of his fellow townsmen at Rushville, Indiana, Wendell Willkie made the following unequivocal declaration:

"I shall never lead the United States into any European war.

"I believe completely that the United States should help Great Britain short of war, but when I say short of war, I mean SHORT OF WAR."

Commenting on the charge of Henry A. Wallace that the Republican Party is "the party of appeasement," Mr. Willkie said:

"If appeasement means working out compromises with dictators; if Mr. Wallace intended to apply that to the Republican Party, he was 100 percent wrong, because if I am elected President of the United States there will be no appeasement with any dictator.

"But if Wallace meant to say the Republican Party is the party of peace, then he spoke the truth, because I shall never lead the United States into any European war."

REPUBLICAN STATE CANDIDATES SAY:

GLEN R. HILLIS:

Public servants in my administration must always keep in mind that public service and political honesty must be restored and political expediency eliminated.

The political bosses who are responsible for the rackets in Indiana government are still in control and will remain in control if the New Deal party continues in power.

If Mr. McNutt saw useless boards and commissions in 1932 but found none to eliminate when he entered office, what would he see in 1940 when the boards and commissions established in his own and his successor's administrations have grown from 78 to more than 100?

RAYMOND E. WILLIS:

There is no inevitable immortality upon which human liberty, even in this country can confidently rely.

The extent of our drift (toward dictatorship) in seven years has been such as to challenge our patriotic resolution to see that with all possible promptness the drift shall be stopped.

JAMES M. TUCKER:

Instead of the economical administration promised by the Little New Dealers, the taxpayers in Indiana have been burdened by an ever-increasing tax bill and governmental cost.

Mr. Schricker has given lip service to good government in an attempt to exonerate himself from the rackets of the Statehouse Gang, but his actions prove him a member of the Two Per Cent Club crowd.

CHARLES M. DAWSON:

Taxation is not a partisan question; it is an economic problem. Any taxes collected above and beyond the amount necessary to carry on an effective government mean governmental exploitation.

RICHARD T. JAMES:

Mr. Schricker now declares that he wants to remove the "injustices" from the Gross Income Tax Act, but for seven long years he never lifted a single finger to carry out the promise he now makes.

YOU CAN GET ALONG WITHOUT ELECTRICITY AND WITHOUT ADVERTISING... BUT WHY TRY?

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Lay returned Sunday to their home at Washington, D. C., after a month's vacation spent with Mr. and Mrs. Lew Washler and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carpenter entertained Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Ernst and son and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ernst and son of Wauseon, Ohio, it being Mrs. Carpenter's birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Elwood Hart, who is recovering from an attack of Strep throat, and her son, Jack, are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Poper, near Braybrook's Corners.

Our prayer and praise service, brot to us by our pastor, Richard Key, Sunday evening was no disappointment to those that are seeking a fuller life of church service. Those that assisted him and his wife in the musical and song service, were his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Key, of Cincinnati Bible Seminary, his wife is a talented musician, as is also our pastor's wife. His brother brought the evening message which was an inspiration, and knowledge that God is captain of the young.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

176 hogs, 97 sheep, 84 calves and 26 head of cattle on sale last Thursday. We seemed to have an over supply of buyers for slaughter stock this week which made sales active at sellers prices. However there was an over supply of sows with litters which sold lower than a week ago.

Hogs 220 to 250, $6.30 to $6.45. Fat sows, $5.00 to $5.90. Stags, $3.90 to $4.20. Boars, $2.00 to $2.60. Veals, selects $13.40 to $13.70. First class calves $13.00 to $13.40. Light thin slaughter calves $8.00 to $10.25. Top lambs were taken by Mr. Landel for the Detroit market at $8.80 with a few sales at $8.60 to $8.70. Slaughter ewes mostly $2.75 to $3.00. Bucks are in good demand to back to the country. Common heifers $6.00 to $6.70. Fat cows, $6.00 to $6.40. Common cutter cows $4.00 to $5.00. Butcher bulls (light) $5.35 to $6.40.

WOMEN ENLIST IN VOTE DRIVE FOR WILLKIE

Twenty years ago American women were preparing for their first vote in a presidential election.

Miss Martin

In Detroit, two thousand women voters from 40 states, representative of 3,000 clubs under the banner of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs, gave testimonial to their 1940 political preparedness, and their enthusiasm for the 1940 magnetic Republican standard-bearer, Wendell Willkie.

With Miss Marion E. Martin, women's division director, Republican National Committee as their leader, Republican women workers were lined up for an intensive October "doorstep drive" to carry the plea for Republican Party candidates to every household in the country.

"Get every vote in the ballot box" is the rallying slogan, adopted by over one million workers in the "Women for Willkie" campaign.

In that Detroit meeting was the nucleus of the great army of workers, none of whose names evinced more interest and acclaim than a group of five distinguished wives—Mrs. Wendell Willkie, Mrs. Charles L. McNary, Mrs. Robert A. Taft, Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg and Mrs. Frank Gannett.

Cost of New Deal

At the assessed valuation, it would take all the property of Illinois, Indiana and two-thirds of Wisconsin—farms, buildings, mines, crops, railroads, utilities, automobiles, stocks, everything that has value—to have paid the cost of the New Deal government for 1939.

Little Left

Out of each dollar earned in America, 54c is spent for food, shelter and clothing. Taxes, either hidden, direct or both, take another 27c. The remaining you may spend for church contributions, recreation, or what you will. In 1910 taxes took only 5c of each dollar.

SPENCERVILLE

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday School for September 29 was 47, collection $3.90; Lutheran attendance 60, collection $3.50.

Mrs. Lucy Beams, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Coburn were Sunday guests of Mrs. Miller and daughter, Charlotte.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1940 NUMBER 41

SPENCERVILLE PASTOR PROPOSES TEN YEAR PLAN

"I come to Sunday School this morning and shall be here every first and third Sunday of at least the next seven months—not to relieve anyone of any present responsibilities, but rather to increase the participation of all members of this congregation in its share of the Lord's work in the world." With these words of explanation Pastor Stevenson began his challenge to the sixty-five men, women, and young people assembled for the first of the regularly scheduled Combination Services in the Spencerville Lutheran Church, a challenge to "grow up" in the next ten years.

Continuing, Pastor Stevenson said, "I come to you with the backing of the local Church Council to challenge you to "spread your wings and fly." You represent a congregation more than ninety years old. Make this a new beginning. Match the stride of each new mission church—be self supporting and still growing in ten years. We have some definite aims and goals, and also an outline of how to make them attainments.

First let us look at the general aims and goals:

1. Active auxiliaries for each age group—men, women, young people, and children (1943)
2. A Bible in every home and family worship in every Christian home 1945)
3. 100 active members willing to meet a $1000.00 per year budget (1947)
4. Re-dedication of church building remodeled with proper appointments (1949)
5. Debt free, church-supper free, and marching forward together in 1950 (ten (10) families giving 10% of their respective incomes to the Church)

Now let's see how all this can be done in ten short years:

1. Regular attendance of each member every Sunday.
2. Improve our Sunday School so that all classes foster and prepare for the open confession of Christ.
3. Become more community conscious and make the community more Church conscious by the use of billboards, visitations, and pieces of mail.
4. Organize a regular Home Visitation corp of at least ten per cent of the confirmed membership.
5. Draft, solicit, or hire a director of music.

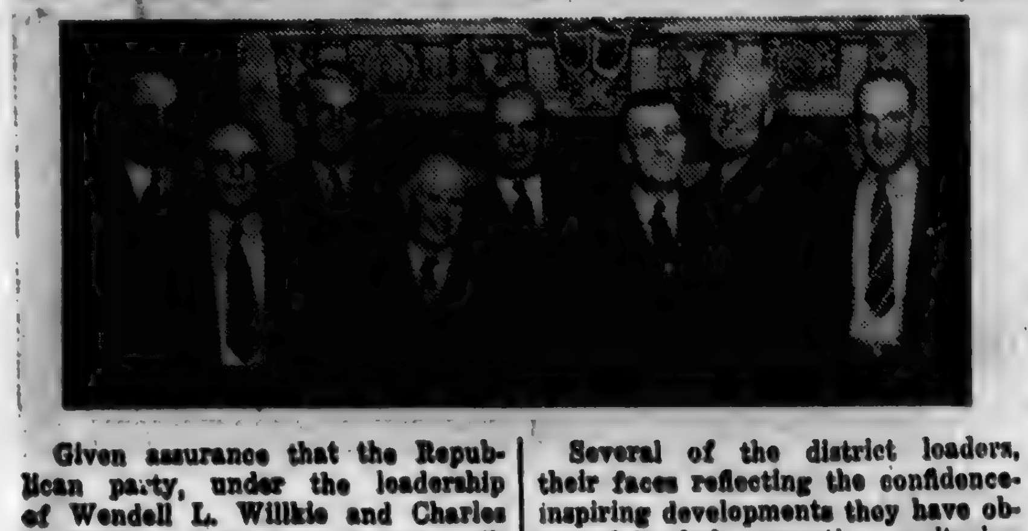
What is needed right away?

1. Ten persons willing to give one (1) hour per week for the work of the church.
2. Ten persons willing to give 25c per month for postal publicity.
3. Ten families receiving and reading "THE LUTHERAN."
4. Ten per cent increase in our Sunday School enrollment and attendance.
5. Ten per cent increase in our active church membership.

Remember, this is a ten year plan so there will be many details to be worked out and much work to be done as we go along—but I come to you this morning confident that all this can be done if YOU WANT TO DO IT. Whether these plans succeed or fail will not depend on the man standing up here but rather upon each one of you sitting back there.

We are not starting on some easy pleasure cruise along some sunny coast. We are heading straight across a storm-swept sea on a ten year voyage. We are the volunteer crew of a Ship that needs more than wind to make Her go. Each and every one of us must man an oar and PULL, PULL, PULL! !"

G.O.P. Farm Leaders Sense Victory



Given assurance that the Republican party, under the leadership of Wendell L. Willkie and Charles L. McNary, both farm owners, will institute a progressive farm program looking toward expansion of the farmers' domestic market and making improvements in existing farm legislation, the "tillers of the soil" throughout Indiana are flocking in steadily growing numbers to support of the entire Republican state and national ticket, district Republican farm leaders in the state have advised Charles Mann, chairman of the G.O.P. State Committee Farm Division.

Several of the district leaders, their faces reflecting the confidence-inspiring developments they have observed in their respective territories, are shown here with Mr. Mann. In the first row, left to right, are Lon Ewing, Kokomo, Fifth district; Glen Dillingham, Bourbon, Second district, and Mr. Mann, whose home is in Marion county. Second row, Orville Plummer, Wilkinson, Eleventh district; Thomas Lindley, Westfield, Sixth district; Robert Braderick, Farmland, Tenth district; Vern Sparks, Ashley, Fourth district, and Hoyt Moore, Marion county, Twelfth district.

OUR SCHOOL NOTES IN GENERAL

At a meeting of the Senior Class held recently, the members voted to have the Cron Studios at Fort Wayne make their class pictures. The class will go to Fort Wayne on October 23 to "look at the birdie."

Tryouts for Poor Dear Edgar, the Junior Class play, have been completed and the following cast selected: Miggs, Dorothy Maurer; Coky, Dick Reed; Betty, Cordelia Deiderick; Ed, Maurice Hurni; Cholora, Dorothy Hook; Buggins Bates, Rose Ayers; Dean Thomas, Franklin Sechler; Miss Forepaugh, Virginia Wells; Edgar, Paul Kitchen; Arabella Smith, Mary Hanes; Diana, Josephine McCann; Skoozie, George Argubright.

The Senior softball team emerged the class champions in the last game of the inter-class tournament played on the school diamond last Thursday. They shut out the Freshman team by a score of 28-0 after previously winning games from both the Sophomores and Juniors.

In the first of the noon hour tournament games, the Juniors lost to the Seniors by a score of 4-3. Then the Freshman eliminated the Junior-Hi team 10-9, and the Seniors defeated the Sophomores 7-4, leaving the Seniors to win over the Freshmen in the final playoff.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS

The St. Joe C. E. met at the Christian Church Thursday, October 3, for their social meeting.

Those present were as follows: Paul Crothers, Frances Reidenbach, Jean Hurni, Myra Keesler, Donna Mae Washler, Gladys Stewart, Dorothy Stewart, Candace Loftus, James Crothers, Russel Walter, LeRoy Laub, Roger Laub, Nelda Kees, Maxine Woodcox, Maurice Woodcox, Max Maurer, Ralph Lanum, Wayne Bowser, Wilbur Akey, Jackie Shuff, Rosemary Yeiser, Mary Ellen Rude, Marilyn Zonker, Harold Wilmot, Patricia Maxwell, Leora Wilmot, Patricia Fluke, Mary Moore and Carol Reed.

After the business meeting nearly all joined the dart baseball game. Ralph Lanum and Leroy Laub chose sides. LeRoy's side won with the score of 3 to 2.

Refreshments were served consisting of cocoa and cake, which all enjoyed.

All young people are invited to attend. Our goal for this week is sixty. Everyone come and bring a friend.

Myra Keesler, Secretay.

ST. JOE HATCHERY SOLD TO HICKSVILLE FIRM

A deal was completed Monday whereby the Gerig & Son Chickeries, of Hicksville, purchased the St. Joe Hatchery, to take effect October 15th. Some changes will be made in the plant and other equipment installed for the manufacture of poultry and stock feeds. Watch the St. Joe News for announcement of the opening day. Aaron Holman, now employed at the Hicksville plant, will move his family to St. Joe and be in charge of the business here.

THE LAND OF THE OLD MESQUITE

Oh, I walk the streets with a lonesome tread,
As I think of that good old land,—
The great South-west, which I love the best,
With its regions of brush and sand.
The autos pass me on either side;
The sand grinds beneath my feet;
And I think once more of those days of yore
In the Land of the Old Mesquite.

I hear the cry of the hunting-owl
In the distance—weird and dim;
And I hear the clack of a coyote-pack
High up on the canyon's rim;
The distant cry of a desert lynx
Has music that's strangely sweet;
For it takes me back to that endless track
That runs through the Old Mesquite.

Oh, Iv'e watched the buzzards on frozen wing,
As they soared through the cloudless sky;
And I've seen the Rattler's deadly coil
As under the rocks they lie.
And the Centipedes, with their two-score legs,
Or the Scorpion's lightning-feet!
For every breath is Life and Death
In the Land of the Old Mesquite.

Oh, sing me a good old lullaby
Of those days that can ne'er come back;
And let me lie 'neath the sun-lit sky,
And hark to the Coyote-pack!
Lay me out on a Cactus-bed,
With a Rattler at my feet;
For I long to rest in the Far South-west—
The Land of the Old Mesquite!

LADIES LITERARY CLUB VISIT AUBURN RUBBER CORPORATION

The Ladies Literary Club of St. Joe made a tour of inspection through the Auburn Rubber Corporation on Wednesday evening, October second. The members and their husbands, who were able to go, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Leighty and then drove to Auburn to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Quance. Here to their great surprise they found that due to the factory running at full capacity only haf of the members could go on the tour at one time. Mr. and Mrs. Quance very graciously opened their home to the club and so while the first group went inspecting, under the guidance of Mr. Quance. Mrs. Quance entertained the remaining members. Later she entertained the first group while the second group went inspecting. Here, too they made the acquaintance of Sandra and Fred,Jr. Quance.

Those interested saw rubber mixed, pressed into large sheets, the sheets rolled individually, and then cut into lengths suitable for pressing. In the press room they saw how these lengths were put into moulds, steam heat applied and later come out as heels, soles, wheels and various types of toys. They saw wheels trimmed, labeled and packed; soles put on separate cards with buffer and tubes of cement, which were filled from a large container of cement. Saw where employees broke the large sheets of toys apart and machines that die cut each one.

Continued on to the paint shop and saw toys dipped in paint and hung on large drying racks. Later sent down the lines to be touched up and finished; inspected and packed for shipment. Sears Roebuck and Company buys a large amount of Rubber Construction Sets which they saw boxed, sealed and packed into large cartons.

After all had returned to the Quance home they were given the privilege of asking questions about the factory, and then each one was presented a Rubber Soldier as a souvenir.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Quance for a very lovely and profitable evening.

Club Secretary.

SPENCERVILLE BOY WAS WED SATURDAY

In a six o'clock ceremony Saturday at the Auburn Methodist parsonage, Miss Margaret Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Maggie Lewis of 353 West Nineteenth Street, Auburn, and Paul Weidner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weidner, of Spencerville, were married. Rev. Claude Garrison read the vows, using the double ring ceremony.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clair Timberlain, brother-in-law and sister of the groom. Others who were present for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schenher.

For her wedding dress the bride chose a brown crepe frock of street length, with gold buckles at the throat and waistline and bullet pleating at the throat and pockets. Her small brown hat had mink trimming and her other accessories were brown. She wore a shoulder corsage of various shades of yellow pompoms.

Mrs. Timberlain was attired in dubonnet street-length dress, with buttons the full length of the front and bracelet lenth sleeves. Her accessories were in black. The matron of honor's corsage was of white pompoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Weidner will make their home at the Capen apartments. Both are graduates of Auburn high school, the bride with the class of 1927 and the groom in 1929. The bride is secretary to the credit manager at the Messenger Corporation and the groom is an employe of the Auburn Rubber Corporation. The bride is an inactive member of Chi Eta chapter of Sigma Beta sorority.

Sunday noon Mr. and Mrs. Henry Markle, of Spencerville, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, entertained in their honor at a family dinner. Those present were Mrs. Maggie Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Timberlain and Glenn Lewis, of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. John Weidner, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edger Hoffman, and Barbara, Jean and Marjorie Longbrake, of Spencerville, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Murray and Miss Della Yontz, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Albright, of Fremont, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ewing, of Edon, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Partee and Master Henry Markle.

SERVICE TO HONOR MR. AND MRS. J. N. SCHOLES

The public is invited to attend the cande llight service at the Coburntown Church Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock, honoring the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes, which took place on Novembe 7th. Richard L. Key, the pastor, will have full charge of the program.

STASSEN RALLY THURSDAY WILL HONOR GILLIE

Fourth District Republicans will stage a rousing homecoming celebration for Congressman George W. Gillie, candidate for re-election, in Fort Wayne on Thursday evening, at a major campaign rally to be addressed by Governor Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota.

A large number of Republicans from this section of DeKalb County are planning to travel to Fort Wayne for the rally, expected to be one of the largest to be held in Indiana this Fall.

The rally will mark the opening of the re-election campaign of Congressman Gillie, who has remained on the job in Washington, and will be one of the few campaign appearances of the young Minnesota Governor.

The event will be held at the Shrine Auditorium, and will begin at 7:30 o'clock with an informal reception in honor of Congressman Gillie. The meeting itself will begin at 8 o'clock sharp, and will be presided over by Dan C. Flanagan, Allen County Chairman.

Tribute to Congressman Gillie, and to his splendid record of service as a first-term member of Congress, will be paid at the rally. He will respond briefly.

The main address will be delivered by Governor Stassen, keynoter of the Republican National Convention and close personal adviser to Wendell L. Willkie, Repubican presidential nominee, who will discuss the issues of the campaign.

Governor Stassen is the youngest Governor in the United States and is known as a dynamic speaker. His appearance in Indiana is being sponsored by the Fourth District Young Republican Organization.

A capacity audience of 3,000 persons is anticipated.

Decision to turn the rally into a homecoming for Congressman Gillie was made at the last moment, when it was learned that he would be able to return from Washington for the affair. Said chairman Flanagan:

We believe we have the best Congressman in the United States and we want to voice our appreciation by making his homecoming the largest rally in Indiana during the 1940 campaign. An invitation to participate is extended to every Republican in the Fourth District.

TO REGISTER OCTOBER 16 FOR MILITARY SERVICE

Completion of the organization for registration in DeKalb County Wednesday, Oct. 16, under the selective service law was announced Friday by Mrs. Carrie Weaver, county clerk.

All county clerks in Indiana were assigned the task of making the detailed arrangements for the registration and Mrs. Weaver secured the assistance of the Ameican Legion posts in the county. The Legion is giving similar aid throughout the state.

All men who have reached the age of 21 and have not reached the age of 36 must register, excepting reserve officers, members of the army reserve, membes of the National Guard and members of congress. The number expected to register in DeKalb County is approximately 2,000. Each is asked to determine the precinct that he lives in before visiting a registration place. Hours of registration will be 7 A. M. to 9 P. M.

The list of registration places and registrars of interest to News readers are as follows:

G.O.P. Harmony Shown By Support For Hillis

INDIANAPOLIS — Unity of the Republican party in Indiana and lack of harmony in the state's Little New Deal ranks are made evident by the type of support received by the G.O.P. nominee for Governor, Glen R. Hillis, as against that given the Democratic gubernatorial candidate by those who were his competitors, James M. Tucker, Republican nominee for re-election to the office of Secretary of State, is pointing out in his campaign speeches this week.

"The men who were in the state convention race for the Republican nomination for Governor, as rivals of Glen Hillis, have been stumping the state for weeks in behalf of Hillis and the entire Republican ticket," Mr. Tucker said. "William Jenner, Judge James A. Emmert, George Jeffrey, Clarence Benadum—all are actively campaigning for the success of Hillis and the Republican party. But where are David Lewis and Earl Peters, the men whom Henry Schricker defeated for the Democratic nomination? So far, there has been no announcement of any speeches by them in Schricker's behalf?"

NO THIRD TERM

In Congressional Record,
Oct. 3, 1940

MR. GILLIE. During the week-end recess of the House, I went back home to Indiana and while there, I saw and talked with many friends of both political parties. I found every one was distressed over the same matter. No, it was not over the conscription. It was over the danger to our democratic institutions should there be a president who obtains a third term. We all feel that such a procedure would mark the beginning of a breakdown of our very form of government. Both men and women of both parties expressed bitter opposition to a third term for the president.

Our forefathers did not work out the fundamental principles on which this country was founded without long and serious consideration and debate. Our forefathers were far-seeing, and they knew that if they should throw off the yoke of England where the rulers received their power through inheritance, and established a new form of government, a democracy, where the rulers would derive their powers from the consent of the governed,—they knew that there must be a limit to the time that a president could hold office. Thomas Jefferson even suggested that the Constitution be amended to limit a presidential term. He felt that this was necessary to continue our free form of government. If a man is elected for four years, and can be reelected for another four years, and no other limit is set, then he would become so accustomed to the feel of power in his hands that he would seek another re-election, and another, and another, and the government would descend to one of inherited officials. The presidency would no longer be an elected but an inherited office. When that time comes, then our form of government would on longer be in existence. We would no longer be a democracy.

This limit of time to a term of office is one powerful safeguard that our forefathers built around this country. If that safeguard is broken down, then we descend to a monarchy, a dictatorship, a totalitarian government, and imperceptably we shall have changed our form of government that has been so strong and has stood the tests of a century and a half, through periods of wars and rumors of wars, and through the long decades of peace when this country had a chance to grow and develop in strength and become the greatest nation of the world.

Re-eligibility makes a president an officer for life.

Thomas Jefferson accomplished many things that distinguished him among the founding fathers, but he did three things that made him immortal. He wrote the Declaration of Independence; he sponsored the American Bill of Rights,—his correspondence shows that he deserves credit for that; he founded the Democratic Party which was called the Republican Party to the day of his death; and he undertook to impress the character of tradition upon the precedent that George Washington had established against a third term. On this point, Mr. Jefferson said:

"The example of four presidents voluntarily retiring at the end of their eighth year and the progress of public opinion that the principle is salutary have given it in practice the force of precedent and usage; insomuch, that, shoull a president consent to be a candidate for a third election, I trust he would be rejected on this demonstration of ambitious views."

Some one has properly said that every dictator from Julius Caesar to Hitler has shattered tradition to sieze power. Should Mr. Roosevelt continue to labor under the illusion that he is the only human being in the United States fit to be President, he might seek 3 time a third term. Did Mr. Roosevelt renounce a fourth term in his speech of acceptance? In the light of that speech, he could not renounce a tenth term or an nth term, so long as he flatters himself that he is more indispensible to the integrity and perpetuity of our free institutions than the men who founded them.

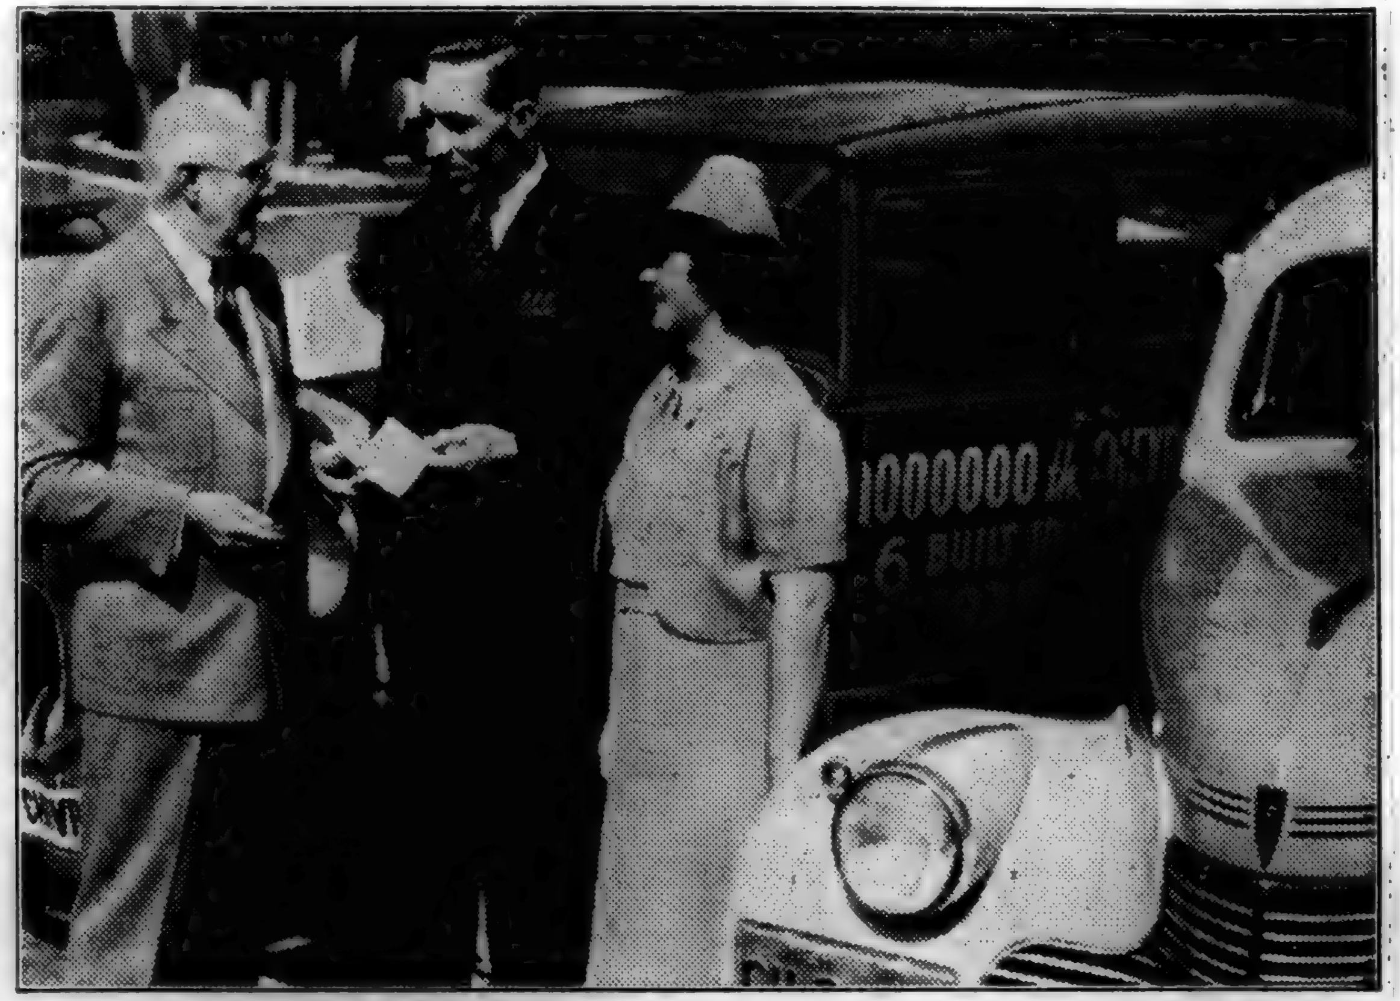
Our people have awakened to the dangers facing our beloved country, should this bulwark be broken down. WE MUST HAVE NO THIRD TERM.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

With a view to raising a billion dollars additional revenue and with an avowed purpose of preventing the creation of millionaires as an incident of war, Congress has passed the war profits tax bill. Notwithstanding majority approval, there was grumbling and uneasiness, even among some of those whose votes aided in stepping the bill along to the President.

It was faintly praised by some who would not give whole-hearted approval. Others of the same mind saw no occasion to be too precise as to details, alleging that the bill was merely an attempt to accomplish something by a method of trial and error, and that, the program never would reach the stage of practical operation. The White House attitude is awaited with interest.

"Milestone Car" Presented to Contest Winners



Presentation of Chevrolet's "Milestone Car"—the 1,000,000th 1940 model produced by the industry's leader—was made at the New York World's Fair last week to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weinert (shown here), of Iron Mountain, Mich., owners of the millionth Chevrolet six-cylinder model, built in 1929. The Weinerts were winners of a nation-wide contest conducted by Chevrolet to locate No. 1,000,000. As guests of Chevrolet, the Michigan couple drove to New York, arriving at the Fair with more than 110,000 miles on their '29 car, which Weinert had purchased as a used car, at a price of $25. M. E. Coyle (left), general manager of Chevrolet, presented the new 1940 Special De Luxe model to the Weinerts. Chevrolet's production of a million units this year maintains a seven-year record of a million a year average, with the 1,000,000th 1940 car following No. 900,000 by exactly one month. The well-traveled 1929 model has been returned to Detroit, where it will be placed on display.

The excess profits tax bill represented almost the last item on the "must" calendar. The remaining imperative legislation can be disposed of within a week, it is said. That, however, does not mean adjournment at an early date, since members of the Senate and House are not inclined to disregard the general view that with events thronging in so fast and so furiously, it will be a good thing to have the capitol filled with law makers rather than tourists.

Aid to Britain continues to be a topic for hot debate, the expressed views being various. An outspoken Senator would have aid continued, even to the extent of sending soldiers, especially if either of the American continents is attacked. The more radical of the middle grounders would not withhold a substantial cash loan, a suggestion to which the President is reported to be definitely opposed.

Italian newspapers outgerman Germany and declare aid to England by the United States to be an act of war. In some respects, Italy reminds one of an infirm spectator who, having a seat remote from the ringside, roars advice to the strong men who are taking the beating.

The Nazis do not approve of American aid to England, and are likely to continue to be of that mind. They will be slow in following Italy's suggestion to "make something out of it." England has done pretty well without help from the United States that is worth mention. To goad this country into a real participation in the scrimmage, is the last thing that so clever a man as Mr. Hitler would do.

Shakespeare has several references to England as being safe because she is "sea walled," "sea girt," and so on. At the beginning of the war, most persons were inclined to think that such claims were good Sixteenth Century stage stuff, calculated to get an actor a round of applause, but not of much value so far as military tactics are concerned, especially in view of what airplanes can do.

The fact remains that tanks cannot cross a stretch of water twenty miles wide. For a month, bomb dropping planes have come and gone. Current report has it that the field of conflict will be shifted to Africa. The German air activity is said to have been carried on in part with a view to breaking down English morale. Hitler appears to have been stopped for the first time in his career as an invading pest. The effect on German morale may not be good.

Having read over the foregoing, it seems that perhaps the impression is given that England and the United States are bound together by a tie no strand of which should be severed. Such is by no means the case. Congress has just discovered on the statute books, and has repealed, an ancient statute which gives residents of the District of Columbia a right of appeal to the King in certain instances.

The wires were kept busy, a few days ago, in an effort to locate a Senator who had left Washington. He had

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

There is no danger in feeding silage made from sorghum which has been frosted before cutting.

This was the word received today by County Agricultural Agent C. E. Baker from Purdue University specialists, who reported numerous inquiries, following a recent frost, on the safety of feeding silage made from frosted sorghum to cattle.

Besides assuring no danger involved, the specialists pointed out such silage will be more valuable for feed than if it had been cut in a much more immature stage and put in the silo before the frost. Excess sorghum that may remain after the silo is filled may be cut and shocked and then later fed safely as bundle fodder.

Farmers were advised not to feed or pasture freshly frosted sorghum nor feed frosted sudan grass while these crops are in a wilted condition. However, it was said that both will be safe to feed after they have dried.

In fields where sorghums are already cut for silage or sudan grass has been pastured, Purdue agronomists said a new growth may be expected from the stubble. Farmers were warned not to turn animals on this new growth as there is a real danger of it being fatal when pastured due to the formation of poisonous substances in the plant tissues.

Sorghum that may have been frosted only in the upper leaves and which is too immature for silage may be left longer in the field even at the risk of additional frosts in order to secure higher feeding value thru more maturity.

The forage or silage sorghums do not make the best silage of highest feeding value until the grain has reached the hard dough stage.

The use of too late varieties by many farmers, followed in turn by a cold wet spring and protracted drouth has made all the sorghums later in maturity than normally. The Purdue Agronomy department has warned against the use of these late sorghums and now has enough experimental work and demonstrations in progress to advise farmers of each region of the state in regard to varieties that will reach a good silage stage before frost.

AUTO STRUCK BY B. & O. ENGINE SATURDAY

An accident occurred at the Lothamer crossing east of St. Joe Saturday afternoon at Road 101, in which Mr. Henry Schoolmaster, of Lansing, Michigan, figured which might have cost his life.

Mr. Schoolmaster was going north to the Alton Cemetery, to visit the grave of his wife, and W. P. A. men were working near the B. & O., and he gave his attention to them, not seeing the approaching train. When he crossed the west bound track, he was struck by a double header, traveling at a slow rate of speed because of running light.

His car was struck in the front half, and was completely demolished, swinging it around and lodging it on the east bound track.

Mr. Schoolmaster was taken from the scene of the wreck with only a broken left leg. He was rushed to the home of Mrs. Mattie Hart, where he was visiting and the doctor called. At the time of getting this information the injury was causing no pain, and there was no swelling, which the physician stated is very unusual, and in fact, he is not suffering in any way. He will be taken home the last of this week to his children.

The car was brought to St. Joe by the Yeiser wrecking crew Saturday and was beyond repair.

Mr. Schoolmaster was not driving in strange territory as he had crossed the track many times, but had just forgotten to be cautious. He was driving carefully due to the men working, and the light engines did not make much noise.

FARLEY'S DAUGHTER WEARS WILLKIE BUTTON

From Harold Helfer's column in the Birmingham Post of one day last week we pluck the following:

"Well, folks, you'll never believe this but—

"'Do you know what kind of a button Betty Farley, daughter of James A. Farley, the ex-Postmaster General and ex-Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, wore when she visited Miss Mae Harris last week?

"A Willkie-for-President button, so help me!"

And we'll bet Jim didn't give his daughter any spanking for that when she got back home, either.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1940 NUMBER 42

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT MAKES PUBLIC STATEMENT

DeKalb County Highway Supervisor Wayne T. Van Auken Submits his Report for the Third Quarter, 1940

During this quarter we have removed all of our 742 miles of Right of Way and some of the more weedy portions have been mowed the third time. Calculating on a basis of 1½ trips per mile on each side of the highway this totals 4,452 miles of travel for our County owned and hired mowers, possibly 80% of this was accomplished with our own men and equipment. Visualize if you can mowing a swath five feet wide from Auburn to Los Angeles California and back to Chicago and you will have some conception of the magnitude of the job of keeping your 742 miles of County roads in DeKalb County mowed.

We have finished the paving on the Auburn and Ashley road and with the exception of some signs and minor details that highway is completed, 4¾ miles of fine Bituminous construction with wide shoulders. We have paved the Highway from Altona to the DeKalb County line a total of 2 miles with the same material and are at the present time engaged in surfacing with the same type of construction the Highway known as the County Farm road from the Auburn and Ashley road to Feaglers Corners a distance of 2.4 miles. We have given the 2¾ miles west from Norris Chapel Church a seal coat of Rapid Curing Asphalt and gravel, which completes this project for the year.

We have co-operated fully with the Federal Works Administration, keeping approximately 110 men at work, and have submitted a new County wide project for the improvement of several miles of roads to employ 93 men for at least I year or longer. This project has been in the hands of the proper W.P.A. authorities for some time and we are ready and willing to carry out the County's share, as sponsors, any time the project is approved by them.

Our snow removal equipment is being reconditioned in preparation for winter and we have purchased and have on hand a car load of Calcium Chloride to be used if and when we have ice to combat.

Our large trucks have been given a complete reconditioning and are in excellent mechanical condition, ready to hook on the snow plows at any time.

We have repaired 9 bridges some of which have been widened, and as far as is possible with our limited funds for bridge construction have the bridges in the County in fair condition, although in the near future due to changing traffic condition and greater loads DeKalb County, in common with most of the counties of the State, must build a lot of new and better bridges.

All our gravel roads have been maintained in as good a condition as was possible during the last quarter, which was a period of very limited rainfall, making it very difficult to maintain gravel roads.

Several miles of gravel roads have been re-surfaced and weak spots repaired especially in the North East and North West part of the County.

Due to the cool weather and approaching winter season no more new road building will be attempted this season, although we expect to re-surface a lot of miles of existing gravel roads yet in 1940.

The Right of Way has practically all been purchased for the State, and on or before January 1, 1941 the Waterloo, Hamilton road will become a part of the State system. This item alone has taken about $4,000.00 from our funds.

Our financial statement below needs no explanation.

Total Receipts for this year	$118,553.74
Expenditures to date	88,479.88
Cash Balance on Hand	$ 30,073.86

DeKALB COUNTY'S TAX INCOME FROM RAILROADS

Steam railroads will pay $112,849.44 in property taxes this year in DeKalb county, according to figures made public by the Associated Railways of Indiana, representing Class I railroads operating in the state. This sum, the association said, is equal to 18.4 per cent of all property and poll taxes to be paid in the county, and to 20.2 per cent of the total taxes in the governmental units in which the railroads operate.

In the rural units of the county containing railroad property—the townships outside cities and towns—railroad taxes amount to 32.6 per cent of the total taxes levied in those units.

Railroad taxes to be paid in the county were allocated as follows: For public schools, $45,488.94; for roads and streets, $6,941.55; for public welfare and poor relief, $18,620.97; for all other purposes, $41,797.98.

TWO REPUBLICAN RALLIES THIS WEEK END

Two Republican state candidates will speak in DeKalb county this week. Dr. C. T. Malan, of Terre Haute, a noted educator will speak on the issues of the campaign at the Republican headquarters in Butler on Friday evening. The meeting will be opened at 7:30 o'clock with music and the introduction of county candidates.

Dr. Malan is one of the most able speakers in the state. He will deliver an address that will be of special interest to every school teacher in the county. People who have heard Dr. Malan pronounce him to be an exceptional platform speaker and well worth hearing.

On Saturday evening, Richard T. James, Republican candidate for auditor of state, will be the speaker at a rally held in the city hall at Garrett. Mr. James is a forceful speaker and will present the issues of the campaign in a manner that will be interesting to all voters.

TRI-TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU

The Tri-Township Farm Bureau held its regular monthly meeting at the St. Joe Gymnasium, October 8. A good crowd was present. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Ira Hook, and was opened by singing several songs. Devotions were conducted by Rev. Wassenich of the Hicksville Christian Church. Mrs. Frank Baltz was elected as pianist for the coming year. It was voted to give $5.00 to the Salvation Army.

The program was in charge of S. & E. Leader, Mrs. Elva Hook. Mrs. Katherine Haller read a poem written by James Whitcomb Riley, entitled, "Thoughts for a Discouraged Farmer." Another of his poems "The Other Fellow," was also read. The group was entertained with music by Abbie Grabill and "his old time Fiddlers." With the Farm Bureau Membership Drive in view, a debate was conducted which proved very interesting. The question was, Be it Resolved: "Every farmer should be a member of the Farm Bureau:" The affirmatives were Brooks Trenary and John Washler, and the negatives were Mrs. Fred Hart and Harold Yoder. The audience voted that the affirmatives won. Harold Yoder then gave an interesting talk on "Flour Production."

The meeting was adjourned, after which a Pancake Supper was served in the Home Economics Room.

CULTURE CLUB STARTS YEAR'S PROGRAM

The first meeting of the Culture Club was held last Wednesday night at the home of the president, Mrs. Lula Armstrong, who called the meeting to order with greetings and words of welcome.

The executive committee started the program with a couple of peppy choruses. "To Market, To Market," was presented by Mrs. Troas Carpenter, as the butcher, Mrs. Helen Schondelmayer as Mrs. New Bride, and Mrs. Lucille Lyon as Mrs. McCarty. The New Bride ordered something of everything but at last took home a pint of oysters.

The Preview of "Our movies face their greatest crisis" and ended by Pa (Mrs. Carpenter,) Ma (Mrs. Pluma Hamilton,) and Little Mary (Mrs. Ethel Wineland) having to be ushered out all because they didn't sell ice cream cones at the theatre.

Mrs. Neva Hursh conducted a contest, Mrs. Dessie Hurni winning. Going Hollywood was conducted for the members of the club. Mrs. Sally Gerig and Mrs. Wineland gave the test and Mrs. Lyon took the picture under glare lights. Mrs. Sible won by finishing a verse of rhyme and Alice Reidenbach was winner on the alphabet word contest.

The hostess served banquet roll ice cream, cresties and coffee with after dinner mints in holders.

60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY HONORED BY CHURCH

Because of the fact that but few couples live to celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary, the entire Coburn's Corners community rallied Sunday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes, who on October 10, 1940, had reached this milestone in their life.

About 200 cards, letters and remembrances of every kind was received during the week at the Scholes home, all of which were greatly appreciated by them.

The church service was arranged in the absence of the pastor, but he returned in time to officiate, and it was an impressive service.

In the course of Mr. Scholes' remarks he stated that he began his preparations for the ministry in 1893 and that during these years he had been instrumental in erecting several church buildings, and that during these years of his ministry that he had served all classes of humanity, ministering to their spiritual needs at all hours of the day and night, and that gladly, with the thought of helping an individual in need.

During conversation with Mr. Sholes he stated that he had performed 50 double weddings, and that he had 5 funerals in one day, which he stated was his record day.

To honor this couple in rhyme, Mrs. Fred Hart submits the following:

It was sixty years ago today
Our lives were joined as one.
We started forth on life's highway
The race of life to run.

We shared our sorrows and our joys
In many kinds of weather.
But still in sunshine or in rain
We've always been together.

The greatest pleasure of our life
Was bringing souls to Christ,
Who was willing to die, upon the cross
For sin, to pay the price.

His love has led us all the way,
Our faith in Him grows strong.
And we shall trust Him every day
If life be short or long.

Life has not been a path of ease
As youth might wish it to be.
For we have struggled hard and long
To reach this goal, you see.

And we'll travel on with faith in God
Until all time shall cease.
To enter at last The Eternal Home
And rest with Christ in peace.

May the memory of sixty years
Bring pleasure and delight,
Like diamonds in a jewel case
Shining clear and bright.

May the memory of deeds well done
And friendships by the score.
Bring gladness to your heart and home—
What can one wish for more.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS PLANNED BY SALVATION ARMY

The local committee in St. Joe appointed to solicit and receive funds for the Salvation Army Annual Home Service Appeal is headed by Mrs. Harvey Hull as Chairman and M. E. Storer as Treasurer. The members of the local citizens committee sponsoring the campaign is as follows: Mrs. K. L. Scholes, Mrs. F. R. Bowman, Mrs. Willard Hurni, Mrs. Clayton Chorpenning, Mrs. Arthur Lyon, Mrs. S. Armstrong, Mrs. Nora Blue and Leslie Wilbern. During the next few days solicitation will be made in St Joe and all money will be turned over to the Treasurer,, M. E. Storer, at the Post Office locally. Every one is asked to give as generously as possible to reimburse the Army for services rendered through its homes and hospitals for unfortunate unmarried mothers, its transient work, prison and parole work and other institutions that are available to the people of this community, regardless of race, color or creed. Only one annual appeal for funds is made by the Salvation Army through local citizens committees and contributors may give with confidence knowing that they will not be called upon for another year. It is hoped by the committee that a generous response will be had this year as the funds are greatly needed during these stressing times when the Salvation Army is taxed to capacity. Any person who is not reached by a member of the committee is invited to make their contribution at the Post Office where they will receive an official receipt from the treasurer.

SKATING CLUB OPENING

Tickets are available for the St. Joe skating club at 10c by applying to Miss Elsie Hall. First party, Tuesday, Oct. 22. Transportation arranged for. 42t1P.

The regular meeting of the Townsend Club will be held at the Town Hall, Thursday evening at 7:30, and all members who can possibly attend are urged to make a special effort. A number of visitors are expected from Butler.

GOVERNOR TOWNSEND APPOINTS COUNTY DRAFT BOARD

Governor M. Clifford Townsend today announced the names of 488 Indiana citizens recommended to President Roosevelt for appointment to Indiana's 152 local selective service boards.

Appointment will be made direct by the President from Governor Townsend's recommendations. Members of the board will serve without pay and will be responsible for selecting those persons who are to remain at home to fill necessary obs or support dependents, and those who will be classified as available for military service.

Board members recommended by the Governor for DeKalb County are:

Harry M. Messenger, 730 N. Main St., Auburn.
Herbert Joseph Jordan, Garrett.
William Potter, Butler.

Task of selecting the members of the important local boards was begun in Indiana several weeks before the passage of the Selective Service law. All county clerks were requested to supply lists of private citizens representing the various political and economic interests of the county to a special advisory committee appointed by the Governor.

The lists were carefully checked over to make sure that final recommendations to the President represented the highest type of citizen eligible to perform this service in each community.

Under the Selective Service regulation prescribed by the President, there will be at least one local board for each county of the state.

ROOSEVELT-WALLACE CLUB

L. F. Tombow, of Butler, was elected president of the DeKalb County Roosevelt and Wallace Club, which was organized at a meeting in the assembly room of the court house in Auburn.

The purpose of the club is to urge the support of the Democratic national ticket, as well as working for state and local candidates. Capt. W. D. Stump, candidate for Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, was the principal speaker. Merritt Sechler has been named as chairman in Concord Township.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY

Frank Corbett, democratic candidate for Congress will address a democrat rally at the Spencerville hall on Thursday evening, this week. The county candidates will be present to meet the voters personally. This is the first rally in this part of DeKalb county.

Mrs. Prudie Congdon returned to her home in Elkhart Saturday after a week's visit with Mrs. C. C. Woodcox and Mrs. Harry Kees and other friends.

"Bible afternoon' will be observed Friday by the Concord Township Home Bureau. Bible verses will provide responses to roll call and the committee is composed of Harriett Johnson, Vada Wyatt, Harriett Draggoo, Maud Jenkins, and Gertrude Borthwick. Election of officers is slated. Clara Sible will be hostess, assisted by Mable Weikel and Cora Fetters.

Wendell Willkie says:

I am not interested in the support of anybody who stands for any form of prejudice as to anybody's race or religion, or who is in support of any foreign economic or political philosophy in this country.

The true liberal is as much opposed to excessive concentration of powers in the hands of government as to excessive concentration in the hands of business. In other words, he maintains his freedom against all comers.

Unfortunately, because government rarely relinquishes a power which it has once obtained, the emergency character of depression measures was shortly disregarded: the government embarked upon vast continuing spendlend programs designed not to promote private enterprise but to promote direct financial and economic activity by the government.

WASHINGTON CURRENT COMMENT

There is practically nothing of major honsequenhe before Congress that has a chance of receiving definite action consequence before Congress that has before the Presidential votes are cast. In deference to the general desire that Congress remain in session, that body nominally, and to an extent practically, is ready for action, yet leaders were embarrassed recently by the necessity for over Sunday adjournment, due to lack of quorum.

The fall of the year is the most pleasant season in and about Washington. The call of field and forest has been answered by some legislators. Others are busy with fence mending at home. Really although the pressure of events is such as to justify keeping Representatives and Senators within reach, there seems to be no cogent reason for having them stand around, making work where work does not normally exist.

Should the privilege of taking a little relaxation become an abuse, the annals suggest an effective way of putting an end to it. Under similar conditions years ago, stopping the pay—of Congressmen not actually on the job, produced a good attendance.

The Holy Scriptures have a character called Ichabod, a name which is said to mean "The glory has departed." General Petain is quoted as calling for a "new order' and an adaptation to French needs of the principles being worked out by Germany. The millions whose memories stretch back over a quarter century, look sadly at poor old Ichabod Petain.

Sympathy for General Petain, and a knowledge of German methods, prompt the charitable supposition that he may be talking with a pistol at his back, but firearms did not frighten him in 1917. In any event, "the glory has departed." The venerable warrior is passing on and out, lacking the martyr's honor. It is to be hoped that history yet to be written will establish the fact that, at least, he did not make his exit clothed in the apostate's shame.

The Burma road offers about the only passage by which supplies can find their way to China, and England desires to keep it open. That wish, however, is tempered by sound diplomacy and good judgment. England cannot afford at this time to take on Japan as an added belligerent opponent, especially in view of the threat of Germany and Italy that pressure for an open road will result in their aid to Japan. It cannot be said that, up to this time, Britain has bitten off more than she can chew, but with Japan in arms against her, it is certain that she would have an uncomfortably large mouthful.

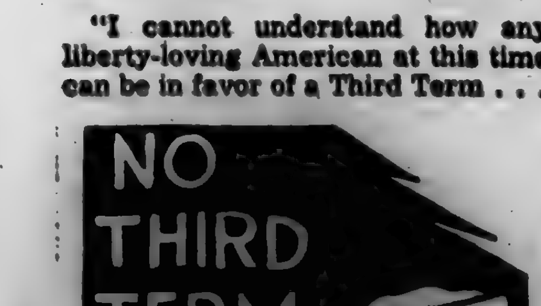
As to the tense relations between the United States and Nippon, they seem to have relaxed somewhat. The cooler Japanese heads decry jingo talk about war with Uncle Sam. His nephews likewise have no urge to enter a trans-Pacific conflict. It may be that a proposed movement of American troops to Hawaii, coupled with plans to better the defences of Alaska, have prodded the Japanese into a safer and saner line of thinking.

There are sixty-five men who can recall the time when an attempt to decorate one of Washington's largest hotels with the flag of the Confederacy would have resulted in busy firing squads, and perhaps in the destruction of the building. Those sixty-five are the surviving Confederate veterans lately assembled for reunion in the capital city. Maybe the day will come when Germans and Italians can conduct themselves in a similar way in London. Yet few would be willing to have their pay checks held up until that occurs.

Down through the ages, money experts have had difficulty in fixing upon a satisfactory standard of value and medium of exchange. So far as international trade at present is concerned, it seems as though the airplane might answer the purpose. A trade balance of a hundred thousand planes this way would be easy to set down, but shopping would be inconvenient, and safe deposit boxes would have to be large.

WENDELL WILLKIE Says:

"I cannot understand how any liberty-loving American at this time can be in favor of a Third Term . . .



when every leader who ever lived in the history of this republic, for whom the people have had reverence, has said to you it is a very dangerous thing to do. And if ever that Third Term precedent should be lived up to, it is now."

MRS. BOWER ADDRESSED REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S CLUB

On Monday evening the Tri Township Woman's Republican club met in the Community Hall at Spencerville. Meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall, followed by singing America. Special music was given by Evelyn and LaVon Kline. Mrs. Mabel Lyons, county vice chairman, was introduced who in turn introduced Mrs. Dr. Clark, who is chairman of the Auburn club, both making a few remarks. Two very clever campaign songs were used during the evening, having been composed by Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick.

Mrs. E. L. Bower, of Auburn, was the speaker of the evening, who gave a very interesting and instructive message on the method of approaching the independent voter. Mrs. Bower has a pleasing personality and the ladies all appreciate her interest in the club in this community.

A short business session was held followed by singing of "God Bless America."

The ladies of Spencer Township served delicious cookies and coffee. Several of the gentlemen were guests for the refreshments. Next Monday night the Tri-Township club is invited to meet with the Auburn club, to be held in the Smart Theatre, at which time pictures of the meeting at Elwood will be shown. In two weeks on Monday evening, the club will again meet at St. Joe, place to be announced later.

EDITORS AND CONGRESSMEN PRAISE GILLIE

Congressman George W. Gillie's reelection campaign was well under way this week as endorsements of his candidacy and praise of his record in Congress poured in from several sources.

From Washington came the announcement that the Fourth District Congressman has been endorsed for reelection by the Good Government National Committee, representing independent voters of the country.

"Of the many new members of Congress there are a few who, like cream, have risen to the top," a committee statement said. "One of these is Congressman Gillie, of Indiana, who in two years has earned recognition as an able and conscientious legislator.

"His voting record shows him favoring worthy measures, such as the Hatch Clean Politics Bill, the Walter-Logan Bill, and all necessary national defense appropriations. We of the Good Goverment Committee feel that Congressman Gillie is needed in Washington to keep the lamp of Democracy burning in his Fourth District and the United States."

Congressman Gillie's candidacy also has the endorsement of Republican editors of Northeastern Indiana who, at a recent meeting in Fort Wayne, praised his record and urged his reelection to Congress. Editors joining in the endorsement included:

Foster W. Reddick, Columbia City; Richard Prichett, Albion; Edward Leichty, Berne; Edward and Henry Willis, Angola; Richard Taggart, Wolcottville; Donald Robbins, Cromwell; Leland K. Thompson, Ligonier; Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, and Herbert C. Willis, Waterloo.

Forsaking his own homecoming to remain at his desk in Washington, Congressman Gillie last week addressed an overflow Republican rally in Fort Wayne over a public address system attached to a special telephone wire. Explaining his absence, he said:

"I must keep my promise to stay here as long as necessary and oppose every effort to adjourn so long as trouble—the world over—is brewing."

Speaking just before Gov. Harold E. Stassen, Dr. Gillie predicted that November 5th will be a glorious Thanksgiving Day for supporters of Willkie, Willis, Hillis, and the Republican ticket.

Several messages of praise from Congressmen and National Party leaders were read at the rally. One of these, from Rep. Joseph W. Martin House minority leader and national Republican chairman, stated:

"More stalwart Americans of the calibre of George W. Gillie are needed in Washington."

" IN STEP WITH WILLKIE "

Tune: "The Man With The Mandolin"

Rat A Tat Tat Tat, Rat A Tat Tum,
Get in step with the big bass drum.
Rat A Tat Tat Tat, Rat A Tat Tum,
Here comes a man who will make things hum.

Rat A Tat Tat Tat, Join our band,
March with the man who will save our Land.
Rat A Tat Tat Tat, Sure as fate,
You'll love the man from the Hoosier State.

No one will top him; Nothing can stop him;
With him leading, we'll win.
Out with the New Deal, It was a big steal—
We'll put Willkie in.

Rat A Tat Tat Tat, Rat A Tat Tay,
Let's get back to a safer way.
Rat A Tat Tat Tat, Hoosiers say,
"Here's our gift to the U. S. A."

—Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick.

The entertainers featured a number of rare birds from all parts of the world as well as a trained Rhesus monkey from Africa. Besides describing the habits of the various animals and putting the monkey through his tricks, the entertainers gave a demonstration of what can be accomplished with pets through kindness, and a short talk on the care of pets and their preliminary training.

SPENCERVILLE RESIDENT DROWNS IN ST. JOE RIVER

Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Walter funeral home at Spencerville for Merritt Webb, about 56, drowning victim whose body was discovered in the St. Joe river Sunday afternoon four and one-half days after he was last seen. Rev. Frank Stevenson officiated and burial followed in the White City cemetery at Spencerville.

Mr. Webb, a bachelor, lived alone in a small house on the banks of the river north of the covered bridge near Spencerville. He was seen in Spencerville Tuesday night at a late hour. It is believed that on his way home, as he was walking along the river bank, he slipped in the clay and fell into the river. The shoes which he wore when found were those which made footprints along the water's edge.

Some people who were fishing found the body Sunday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock floating in shallow water about 1,000 feet downstream from where he fell into the water. Coronor John R. Clark stated that the condition of the body indicated that it had been in the water for several days. Mr. and Mrs. John Koch of Spencerville, the victim's brother-in-law and sister, had been to his house Sunday and had found that Mr. Webb was missing. The body was found shortly afterwards.

Coroner Clark stated that his verdict will be death by accidental drowwning.

The survivers are the father, John Webb of Butler; a brother, Herbert Webb of LaOtto, and two sisters, Mrs. Koch and Mrs. Francis Webb of Fort Wayne.

$500,000 FOR LUTHERAN WORLD ACTION

Lutherans in America are called upon to sacrifice personal comforts to aid Lutheran refugees and missions.

"The war in Europe has become a religious war", declared Pastor Stevenson last Sunday as he presented a strong apepal for cooperation in the plans for LUTHERAN WORLD ACTION.

"Some of us have believed all along that the Devil had a hand in the mess in Europe but now we are beginning to see that he is running the whole show!

"Lutherans in conquered countries and Lutheran leaders in Germany herself are being ground under the heel of persecution. . . The future of the Lutheran Church—and therefore, of the whole Protestant faith in the world,—hangs by slender thread of Christian compassion for the brethren.

"God has placed a great responsibility upon the Lutherans in America who alone are free to defend and maintain the vast spiritual empire planted around the world by Lutherans of all lands.

"We are on the spot! We are on the spot before other churches; we are on the spot before the enemies of evangelical Christianity; we are on the spot before God and before our own conscience. If we lack the spirituality, the energy, the will power, the compassion of Christ for the needy of the world,—if we fail to accept this challenge, it will be a positive sign of inner decay and decline.

"I call upon you today before your Lord and Saviour to learn anew the meaning of the word "sacrifice",—to produce action befitting your profesed compassion. Then, and only then, shall we be able to face those who are watching to see what we will do in the pinch and say, 'THE CHURCH CARES'.

"There is no way to tell how many times we shall need to give until this crisis has passed and as Christians we dare place no limit on our giving. This we do know, that 2,000 missionaries originally sent from European countries and the 800,000 fellow Lutherans to whom they are ministering, are now standing, along with thousands of Lutheran refugees, at the door of the Lutheran churches in America asking each of the 2,300,000 Lutherans for one good meal. 'Give ye them to eat.' "

VOL. LV (55 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1940 NUMBER 43

Rehoboth Church to Observe One Hundredth Anniversary

The Rehoboth Methodist Church, five miles west of St. Joe, will celebrate its one hundredth anniversary October 27th, as announced by the pastor, C. Ben Hershberger, today. Homecoming and Rally Day are also being observed along with the rest of the program.

The Rehoboth Church has a very interesting history. The class was organized in 1840 at the cabin home of Samuel Tarney Sr. with sixteen charter members. Services were held in the log cabin homes of the early settlers, with special meetings being held in groves or in the large log barns of the early pioneers. Later the Bear Creek Church was built about one and one-half miles east of the site of the present Church. Due to the difficulty in finding a location for the Church, it was named from the Bible story of Rehoboth. The Church was dedicated in 1891. This Bear Creek Class was the first Methodist Protestant Church in Indiana north of the Wabash River. The first pastor was Lewis Hicklin, a missionary circuit rider from the Ohio Conference.

The Rehoboth Church remained a Methodist Protestant Church until 1939 when the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and the Methodist Protestant Church united to form the Methodist Church.

The program will begin with Sunday School at 9:30 A. M., Harold E. Yoder, superintendent. The morning worship service will be conducted by The Chicago Gospel Team, a group of nine Young People from the Moody Bible Institute. They will bring the messages in song, duets, trios, and quartets, and by word. This is their first visit to this part of Indiana. Some of them constitute a part of the radio staff of WMBI. At noon a basket dinner will be served at the Jackson Center Community Hall.

The afternoon session will begin at 2:00 P. M. A complete history of the Church will be read by Rufus E. Strong and the special music will be furnished by the local church quartet and the Chicago Gospel Team. The afternoon speaker will be Rev. Glen C. Hershberger, of Portland, Indiana, and father of the present pastor, Rev. G. Ben Hershberger.

Revival Services will open in the evening at 7:30 P. M. and will be conducted by the pastor of the Church. The Sunday night service will be in charge of The Chicago Gospel Team and the evangelistic sermon will be delivered by one of the group. During the following two weeks the sermons will be delivered by the pastor. Meetings will begin promptly at 7:30 P. M. each evening.

Illustrated Chalk Talks will be given each evening and it is urged that each person has a Bible with them. Over twenty-five choruses will be learned by the congregation during this period. Special music will be featured each evening by the members of the congregation and others. Everyone is extended a special invitation to attend this Anniversary and these Evangelistic Services.

CORBETT ADDRESSES RALLY AT SPENCERVILLE

Frank Corbett, of Fort Wayne, the Democratic party's nominee for candidate for Congress from the Fourth District, was the principal speaker at a Democratic rally Thursday night at the community hall at Spencerville. The hall was crowded to capacity for the event.

Brief talks were also given by Capt. W. D. Stump, candidate for judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, and Edward K. Mayfield, state representative candidate. Mrs. John McCullough, of Auburn, president of DeKalb County Women's Democratic Club, presided and introduced Mrs. Paul Dean, of Spencerville, secretary of the club, and Miss Margaret Kelley, of Jackson Township, treasurer.

The Waterloo high school band furnished music and specialty numbers included vocal selections by the four Warstler children and a reading by Mrs. Pauline Salomon of Fort Wayne, vice chairman of the Allen County Democratic central committee. Cider and doughnuts were served at the close of the evening.

200 ATTEND ST. JOE LIONS CHARTER NIGHT

Among notable events was the St. Joe Lions Club Charter night on Monday evening at the High School Gymnasium.

About two hundred Lions and Lionesses were present from this zone and Hicksville, Ohio.

The Parent-Teacher Association provided the banquet and it was served by twenty high school girls and boys. The tables were beautifully decorated under the supervision of Earl Kinsey, and much credit is due the general chaiman, Dale Wicoff.
